TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1856.

THE DECLARATION.

Sneers at the Declaration of Independence, are becoming almost common, since the publication of Mr. Choate's letter to his brethren, the ———. The idea of "all men being born free and equal, and possessed of certain inalienable rights," was not in his view a sober truth, but was incorporated for effect, in a stormy revolutionary period! Mrs. Stowe, in her new novel, "Dred," where she forcibly delineates society in the slave States generally, gives us a conversation in illustration. A Virginia planter had been lamenting the state of the lower white class, ignorant, shiftless—"they want care, they want governing,— then there would be a handsome, gentlemanly, orderly state of society—the upper classes ought to be condescending, to be sure." "Then you are no Republican," said Clayton. "Bless you, yes I am! I believe in the equality of gentlemen, and the equal right of well bred people! That's my idea of a Republic."

To show that though this is a novel, it is no fancy picture, we copy from the Richmond Enquirer, these items:

The line of defence, however, is changed. The South now maintains that slavery is right, natural and necessary, and does not depend upon differences of complexion. The laws of the Slave States justify the holding of white men in bondage!

Free society, in the long run, is an impracticable form of society; it is every where starving, demoralized and insurrectionary. We repeat, then, that policy and humanity alike forbid the extension of the evils of free society to new people and coming generations."

Next, from the S. C. Standard:

Slavery is the natural and normal condition of the laboring man, whether white or black.

The general evil of northern free society is, that it is burthened with a servile class of mechanics and laborers, unfit for self government, and clothed with the attributes and powers of citizens.

Next, from the South-Side (Va.) Democrat.

We have got to hating everything with the prefix free, from free negroes down and up through the whole catalogue—free favors, free labor, free society, free will, free thinking, free children, and free schools—all belong to the same damnable isms. But the most of all these abominations, is the modern system of free schools. The New England system of free schools has been the curse and prolific source of the infidelities and treason that has marred her cities into Sodoms and Gomorrahs. We abominate the system because the schools are free.

Lastly, from the Muscogee, Alabama, Herald:

Free society! we sicken of the name.—What is it but a conglomeration of greasy Mechanics, filthy Operatives, small fisted Farmers, and moon struck theorists? All the northern and especially the New England States are devoid of society fitted for well bred gentlemen. The prevailing class one meets with, is that of mechanics struggling to be genteel, and small farmers who do their own drudgery; and yet who are hardly fit for association with a southern gentleman's body servant. This is your free society which the northern hordes are endeavoring to extend into Kansas.

LIGHTNING. — The lightning, in the shower of Saturday afternoon, at West Newbury, Mass., struck the meeting-house in the upper Parish, that is undergoing repairs, in which were about twenty-five workmen at the time, tearing some shingles from the roof, and knocking down one of the men, a carpenter, named Short, of Newburyport, and rendering him senseless.

Mr. S. was standing at the time, by a window, filing a saw, and when the lightning struck he was thrown six feet from the spot, and that portion of his body below the saw, particularly, was paralyzed, and one of his shoes having iron nails in it, considerably torn. It was full two hours, with constant rubbing, and the application of cold water, before he was brought to himself; and six hours after he was scarcely able to walk.

THE GLASS IN PROVIDENCE.—The Providence Tribune says that intemperance prevails in that city now more than at any previous period in its history.

We think this statement so doubtful as to need confirmation or proof.

BOOKSELLERS.—The Boston Journal says of the 108 booksellers in New York, that signified their Presidential preferences last week, by declaring 96 for Fremont to 12 for all others, that, they were from eighteen different States, including Kentucky and Missouri. If that be so, says the Newburyport Herald, it is the most singular vote recorded this year, not excepting the Maine election.

We presume it is correct.

Correspondence of the Chronicle.

GREAT FALLS, Sept. 21.

FIRE.—A large building on the Berwick side of the river opposite this village, was burned this morning at about 5 o'clock. It belonged to Mr. Ricker, a tanner, and was occupied for grinding and storing bark. It had a new steam engine in it. The fire department from both sides of the river were promptly on hand, and did good service in confining the fire to the building and boiler house. It was insured in Haverhill.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE FAIR.—Preparations are in progress at Concord, for the Annual Exhibition by the farmers and mechanics of this State, which is to take place on the 7th, 8th and 9th days of October. From various parts of the State it is reported that the prospect for a good show, is quite as good as in former years. The address will be given by Hon. George P. Marsh, of Vermont. The Concord Brass Band have been engaged, and other attractions will ensure a large attendance.

☞ On Wednesday one of Mr. Parmelee's Charlestown omnibus teams ran away. The driver stepped into a store; the horses took fright and ran at a furious rate, scattering the crowd of pedestrians right and left in great fright. The bus was dashed against a tree, and its top broken clean off from the body. The team kept on, ran afoul of a wagon and broke the shafts. The distance run was nearly a mile, through crowded streets, but no person was injured. The damage to the bus is upwards of $100.

BAD REPORT OF A SISTER CITY.—The Lawrence (Mass.) Sentinel gives the following account of the morals of that city:

On every street, and at almost every corner, are the haunts of vice and the congregation of the abandoned. Courtesans march up and down the sidewalks, arrayed in all the costly apparel of the day, enticing and alluring the young and inexperienced. Rowdies and villains loaf about billiard and bowling saloons, by day, and gather about gambling tables at night.—Groggeries of every description abound.—Dancing parties, where the depraved of both sexes meet, the thief and the rowdy, are continued from earliest January to latest December. The morals of this Massachusetts city never before were at so low an ebb as they are now.

☞ Arrison, the infernal machine assassin, has been returned to Cincinnati for trial, on account of a decision that he cannot be tried out of that county. This is said to be equivalent to an acquittal, as there is no prospect that a Cincinnati jury will convict him.

☞ "The Medical World" is the title of a new weekly publication in Boston, edited by J. V. C. Smith, and sold by James French, 78 Washington street.

REMOVAL AND APPOINTMENT.—Thomas C. Shoemaker, receiver of public moneys in Kansas, has been removed by President Pierce, and William Bridle appointed in his place. A "Kansas man" writing to the New York Evening Post, states "that Mr. Shoemaker was the only Free State office holder in the territory." He was a democrat from Illinois, and as a friend of Judge Douglas, was appointed as receiver of public moneys by the present administration.

Rev. F. A. Sheerer of Iowa City in a letter to the New York Observer, complains of Mr. O. S. Fowler, the phrenologist, as a humbug, inasmuch as at a late public phrenological examination of the head, Fowler represented him as stubborn, avaricious, &c. He says that Fowler on learning that he was a Presbyterian minister, apologized, &c.; but on the next day he made the matter worse, by stating to the Baptist minister that he would yet develope those traits of character.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21.—A shocking affair occurred last night at Lomesberger Hill, at the eastern extremity of Baltimore. Two Italian organ men were found secreted in the ice house of Col. J. Mayberry Turner, by Turner and a neighbor named Thomas Wollen. Supposing the designs of the Italians to be robbery, Turner treated them accordingly, when one of the Italians drew a dirk, and stabbed him and Wollen in the left breast, the instrument entering their lungs, and producing, probably, fatal wounds. Another friend of Turner was also stabbed in the arm, producing a serious wound. Intense excitement prevailed among the residents, and it was difficult to prevent them from lynching the perpetrators on the spot. Both men have been sent to jail. It is supposed the Italians merely went into the house for lodging.—Turner and Wollen are not expected to survive.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Steamboat Accident—Loss of Life.—The South Branch Ferry Boat came in collision with a schooner today and capsized. She was filled with passengers, ten of whom were drowned.

MRS. HALL AND MISS NIGHTINGALE.—We have received the Seventh Annual Report of the New England Female Medical College. From it we learn that the past year has been one of greater prosperity than any preceding. Such is the manifest propriety and even urgency, of introducing women into the medical profession, not only as healers of the sick, but as the instructors of their sex in the art of preserving health, that the object is receiving a general voice of approval throughout the country. Already the efforts made in this matter, have attracted the attention of English Journals. Mrs. S. C. Hall of London, one of the most accomplished female authors in England, has written and published an interesting article upon this subject, from which we take the following extract:

"However the public may complain of ministerial mismanagement, there was no want of management or judgment in sending forth Miss Nightingale and her faithful friends and followers to the rescue of our poor soldiers from disease and death. Whether Mr. Gladstone committed "mistakes" or not, it is not my business to inquire; but surely that was not a blunder which sent so many messengers of mercy to the East. When so much good has been done by women comparatively unprepared for such a task, what might not be expected from women educated to cure as well as nurse, more particularly their own sex and children, whose early years are especially under their dominion? Yet how few mothers know aught of the wonderful and beautiful structure of their children's bodies, or of their mental and spiritual organization! In all that concerns this important branch of female education, I cannot but think that woman has been kept not only weaker, but more ignorant, than nature intended her to be.

The most fastidious must admit, that it is better for one woman to acquire the knowledge that is necessary to investigate and cure the diseases of hundreds of her own sex, than for those hundreds to be treated for those diseases by medical men. I have known several instances of females sinking into early graves because they persisted in refusing to communicate their sufferings to a physician. I cannot feel that a study and knowledge of the wonderful and beautiful structure which the ALLWISE created as a temple for the SOUL, during its earthly pilgrimage, can do otherwise than elevate and enrich the mind. Those who would attach ideas of impurity to such study and such knowledge must indeed be deeply steeped in "trespasses." But if a movement were made to enable women of steadfast and comprehensive minds to study the art of healing, so as to minister to the cure of those diseases more particularly incidental to their own sex and children; while others, having less desire of knowledge, or perhaps less nerve, were rendered competent as NURSES, to aid the physician's skill by their continual care, a new field would be expanded for women; new and higher interests would be created for them. Numbers, who degenerate for want of an object (denied by circumstances) to lavish their care and affection upon, would become elevated by the consciousness of utility, and the power of providing for themselves; the ranks of tattlers and toadies would greatly diminish; and without the necessity of nunnery vows, or the "Look at my dress of penitence and prayer," we should find our homes still more consecrated by intelligent and actively useful friends."

A BLESSING TO ALL.

Dyer's Healing Embrocation is such and no mistake. We warrant it superior to any other medicine of the kind, and it has worked miraculously in the cure of disease, and thousands upon thousands will testify to these facts.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED.—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to "send under bare poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Rockville Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuTh&S 6m.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ Dr. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronized than any other ever established in this country. It is the same Richardson's Bitters which has restored so many invalids to health throughout New England during the past thirty years.

N. B.—Beware of imitations called Sherry Wine Bitters. The genuine have a fac simile of my signature upon the outer envelope. For sale by druggists everywhere, and at my office, No. 51 Hanover St., Boston. au8 6m

THE VOTE IN MAINE.—The total vote in Maine at the last election, with the exception of two small plantations, in Penobscot, is 121,106. Hamlin has 69,481; Wells 44,966; Patten 6,659. Hamlin's majority 17,856. To the House 125 Republicans and 26 Democrats and Straight Whigs are elected.

WESTCHESTER, PA., Sept. 20.—Political.—John M. Read, hitherto a prominent Democrat of Philadelphia, was to address a Fremont club at this place this evening, in reply to the speech of Hon. Howell Cobb, delivered last evening.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it; if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Billiousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "toed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along;" before they are all gone?

PRINTING CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

Printers, Editors and Publishers throughout the United States, and particularly the Sons of Portsmouth or of New Hampshire, engaged in any of the various branches pertaining to the Printing Art; and all others interested; are cordially invited to attend the Centennial Celebration of the Introduction of the Art of Printing in New Hampshire, which will be held at Portsmouth, N. H. on Monday Oct. 6, 1856.

Societies or Companies wishing to join in the procession, should immediately address H. F. Wendell, Esq., Portsmouth, N. H., Chief Marshal of the Day.

Editors everywhere are requested to copy this notice, and call attention to the Celebration.

EDWARD N. FULLER,
SAMUEL GRAY,
Com. on Invitations.

Ports., Sept. 19, '56.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

The following Societies and Companies, with others, have been invited to attend the Centennial Celebration in this city, on the 6th of October.

Military.—Manchester Veterans. A new military Company calling itself the "Centennial Guards," is being organized for the occasion.

The Fire Department of Portsmouth.

Masonic.—Grand Lodge of New Hampshire; DeWitt Clinton Encampment, No. 2; Washington Chapter, No. 3; Ineffable Grand Lodge of Perfection, No. 1; St. John's Lodge, No. 1; St. Andrew's Lodges, No. 56.

I. O. of O. F.—Strawberry Bank Encampment; Piscataqua Lodge, No. 6;—New Hampshire Lodge, No. 17.

Literary and Charitable Societies.—New Hampshire Historical Society; Portsmouth Mercantile Library Association; Young Men's Christian Association; Mechanic Association; Boston Franklin Typographical Society; Printers' Union.

The Public Schools of Portsmouth.

Editors and Printers in New Hampshire; Editors, Printers and Publishers in New England; Editors in New York, and other States.

Sons of Portsmouth and New Hampshire, engaged in the various branches connected with the Art of Printing.

The Governor of New Hampshire; Distinguished gentlemen from all parts of the Union.

☞ St. John's and St. Andrew's Lodges of Masons held special meetings on Monday evening, and voted to accept the invitation of the Committee of Arrangements to participate in the coming Centennial Celebration of the introduction of Printing into this State. They also voted to procure a Band of Music, and a joint committee was appointed to procure subscriptions to defray the expense. The committee consists of Messrs. John Knowlton, N. K. Raynes and Oliver P. Fernald, of St. John's Lodge, and Joseph Parry, Wm. H. Sise, and Herman Remick, of St. Andrew's Lodge.

We also understand that Piscataqua and New Hampshire Lodges, I. O. of O. F., have also accepted similar invitations: and appointed a committee to procure subscriptions for a band of music.

The Mechanics' Association approved of the celebration, and will undoubtedly join in the festivities.

THE REGATTA.—At the meeting of the Regatta Committee, on Monday evening, it was decided to offer prizes as follows:

For sail boats, 1st prize,		$50 00
" " 2d	"	25 00
" row boats, 1st	"	25 00
" " 2d	"	15 00
" " 3d	"	10 00

It was voted to start a subscription paper for the purpose of obtaining the necessary funds, and a committee will call upon our citizens for this purpose. The greatest interest seems to be manifested in this feature of the Celebration, numerous boat owners having signified their intention to compete for the prizes.

☞ The "Tremulo Attachment" is a new invention of Prof. Louis, a Boston musician, to increase the value of the Melodeon. It is very highly spoken of; and must have the effect to greatly increase the popularity of the Melodeon as a church and parlor instrument.

Prof. Louis will exhibit his improved instrument at Mr. Pearson's Music Hall, Exchange Block, for a few days and evenings; and invites the attention of all interested.

☞ A large and handsome Union Flag, bearing the names of Fremont & Dayton, has been raised during the past week at Hill Farm in Newington. On one side the flag, has the motto No more Slave States—on the other, Kansas must be free.

Why is a young lady dancing, like a horse in a canter? Because she's a gallhopping (galloping.)

THE CITY MISSION.—It is known to our citizens generally that the operations of the city mission have been suspended for a few months. During that time the Board of Directors have been earnestly inquiring for a suitable person to act as their missionary. They have at length secured the services of Rev. N. Medbery—a gentleman who comes to them with the highest recommendations, and in whom they have the fullest confidence as eminently fitted for his work. He is now upon the ground and has already entered upon his duties. The Board of Directors bespeak for him the confidence, sympathy and cooperation of all the friends of the mission, and of every one who desires the temporal, moral, and spiritual elevation of the poor in the midst of us. His residence is at 64 Islington street, where he will be happy to meet any who may wish to see him in reference to his work. His office will be in the City Rooms, where he will be found between the hours of 10 and 12 every week-day.

WILLIAM LAMSON.
Per order of the Board of Directors.

ROCKINGHAM FAIR AT EXETER.

FAIR AND CATTLE SHOW AT EXETER, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 24th and 25th.—Grand procession of Town Teams on Wednesday, at 10 o'clock. Drawing Match and Trial of Working Oxen on Wednesday at 3. Plowing Match on Thursday at 9 1-2 o'clock. Address by Allen J. Dodge of Hamilton, Mass., at 11 on Thursday. Exhibition of Fruit, Vegetables, Butter Cheese, Bread, Family and Ornamental Needle work, in the New Town Hall.

Among the Premiums offered are three, (of $3, $2, $1,) to women over twenty years of age, or married—for the best three grades of home-made wheaten Bread, made with yeast, and baked on the day before the Exhibition, not less than two pounds; and also three similar premiums for the best three grades of Bread, made by girls under 20, and unmarried. Full statements of the whole process of making and baking will be required.

To be awarded the highest of these premiums, ought to be worth more to a woman, than a dowry of ten thousand dollars.

The Exeter News Letter well says:—"Portsmouth is not an agricultural town, but it has as deep and as real an interest in the successful prosecution of agricultural labor, as other commercial cities: and although the people of this city, have not in past years encouraged the Rockingham Fair by their attendance or their contributions, we hope they will come, this year, and see what the county to which they belong is doing; and not only so, but afford their fellow citizens such practical aid, as will add, in other respects, to the interest of the occasion."

☞ An extra train on the P. & C. Railroad, will leave the depot in this city on Wednesday and Thursday mornings, at 6 o'clock, to accommodate those wishing to attend the Fair at Exeter.

E. K. SMART's Free Press, at Belfast, Maine, thus discourses to its readers since election:

"The causes of our defeat may be summed up in three words—Kansas—Brooks—Herbert. * * * The conflicts and bloodshed in Kansas, would before this have marshalled a million of people in arms had they been between two nations. It is not then to be wondered at that these conflicts should have operated upon the minds of our opponents more especially as they were dishonestly charged upon the democratic party. The beating of Sumner, and the killing of Keating, have been charged to the account of the democracy dishonestly, and unfairly. But these things have had great influence—and we wish to say here that if the south expects her friends at the north to sustain themselves, her public men must act with that discretion, which will deprive demagogues in our midst, of the power of making capital out of their conduct. The people of Missouri and of the south must not permit their citizens to make a mockery of the doctrine of popular sovereignty."

FIRE AT SOUTH NEWMARKET.—A fire broke out about 8 o'clock last Friday evening, in the barn of Mary A. Hilton. The barn with 15 tons of hay, with a shed, was destroyed. The house was saved only by extra efforts of the citizens and persons from the neighboring towns. Insurance on the barn, $100; on the shed $25, and on the hay $25, at the Rockingham Farmers' Office, Exeter. Cause of the fire unknown.

FIRE AT NEWMARKET.—On Monday night Sept. 15th, a new barn, the property of Mr. Daniel D. Perkins, was burned. Two valuable hoeses, 25 tons of hay, his carriages, and $200 worth of harnesses, were destroyed. Insured for $525 in the Rockingham Farmers' Office. Cause of the fire unknown.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT SCITUATE.—Thomas M. Vinal, of Scituate, Mass. aged 19, while gunning on Thursday forenoon, was shot by the accidental discharge of his gun, the charge passing through his body, killing him instantly. His father was absent from town to attend the funeral of a relative. His wife and the mother of the young man died very suddenly just a fortnight ago.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20.—Kansas.—The steamer Polar Star from Kansas 15th inst., reports that Capt. Robinson, with a company of 52 pro-slavery men, attacked a free state force at Grasshopper Falls on the 15th, killing two of their men, and capturing their provisions, ammunition and horses. The next day Col. Harvy, with 200 free soilers, attacked Robinson, who had fortified himself in a log house at Hickory Point.

After fighting two hours and lossing 12 men, and having several wounded, Col. Harvy proposed an armistice of 30 days, which was accepted. Capt. Robinson lost three men killed, and had many wounded. Leavenworth was deserted. Gov. Geary was at Lecompton.

Some of this sounds like bogus coin.—When we bear the next account we can tell better how it is.

LAWRENCE SURROUNDED BY 2800 MISSOURIANS.—LAWRENCE, SEPT. 15.—(Correspondence.)—Twenty-eight hundred men, mostly Missourians, reached Franklin yesterday, destined to attack Lawrence. Owing to our reliance upon Gov. Geary somewhat for protection, our force is mostly in the country. About 500 remain, preparing to fight in our fortifications. Our advance guards came into collision last night, and three of the enemy are reported killed. None of our men are injured.

Just then orders came from the Governor forbidding the approach of the pro-slavery forces. They then fell back and camped at Franklin. 400 troops arrived here last night for the protection of Lawrence.

This morning the Governor disbanded the pro slavery forces in person, under Gen. Reed, member elect to the next Missouri Legislature. They are no longer a territorial militia. Many of them swear they will have blood, in spite of the Governor. Our citizens have enrolled as his militia. A collision is feared.

Col. Harvey's regiment fought at Hartford yesterday, and won, killing three, and wounding many. Five of Harvey's men were wounded. His whole force were taken prisoners by the dragoons, while returning.

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning.

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

NEGRO STAMPEDE IN KENTUCKY.— Five slaves made their escape into Ohio, from Jamestown, Ky., Monday night.

The Louisville Courier of Monday, says: "On Sunday night, Aug. 31st, there was a stampede of negroes in Hopkins county,—Eight of Col. Wm. Bradley's negroes, one of Mr. Earl's. A widow lady named Mitchell lost several, and it is reported that Gen. White also lost several. They had not been captured at latest dates. A negro belonging to Joel Fort of Tennessee, who belonged to this gang, or was attempting to join it, was captured.

It seems that the underground railroad is doing a great business in Hopkins and Henderson counties.

DEATH OF AN ARTIST.—Seth Cheney, an artist of distinction, died at Manchester, Conn., on Wednesday. His age was about 55. Mr. Cheney's drawings in crayon are said to be among the most desirable of their kind. It was remarkable that he would never draw the likeness of any one for whom he had not a personal respect. His circumstances did not compel him to depend solely on his art for a livelihood, and when importuned to allow any distinguished man of defective morals, whom other artists might be proud to paint, to sit to him for a likeness, he steadily refused. He would not consent to copy traits of sensuality and dissimulation in the countenance of any man, whatever his station or influence.

AYER'S Cathartic Pills,

(SUGAR COATED,)

ARE MADE TO

CLEANSE THE BLOOD AND CURE THE SICK

Invalids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and judge of their Virtues.

FOR THE CURE OF

PITTSBURG, PA., May 1, 1854.

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once. If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PREBLE,
Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, D. C., 7 Feb., 1856.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them.

Fraternally yours, ALONZO BALL, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Relax, and Worms.

POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 16, 1855.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick, and pining away for months. Went off to be doctored at great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here.

GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.

Indigestion and Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1855.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Erysipelas, Scrofula, King's Evil, Tetter, Tumors, and Salt Rheum.

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her. ASA MORGRIDGE

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawlett, of the Methodist Episc. Church.

PULASKI HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 6, 1856.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until, by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, BATON ROUGE, LA., 5 Dec., 1855.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured by your Pills of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

For Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an excellent remedy.

For Costiveness or Constipation, and as a Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual.

Fits, Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Deafness, and Partial Blindness, have been cured by the alterative action of these Pills.

Most of the pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, INFLUENZA, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, IN CIPIENT CONSUMPTION,

and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities say where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtle and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should have it in store against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the CHERRY PECTORAL saves more lives by the consumptions it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the incurable canker that, fastened on the vitals, eats your life away. All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as they know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them it is still made the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY.

No. 76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others), will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof by him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantage for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full documents of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and successes. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them the rights and favorable consideration of the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

A Safe and Responsible Insurance Co.

Am't of Property Insured, $3,000,000.00

Amount of Premium Notes to meet Losses, $200,000.00

THIS Company continues to insure the most kinds of Real and Personal Property, on the Mutual principle, against Loss and damage by fire and lightning. The Charter of said Company expressly provides—

"That all Property, whether Real or Personal, shall be divided into four separate and distinct Classes; and each Class shall be liable for its own losses. Not each for the other, as in the old combination Companies."

THE FIRST CLASS, OR FARMERS' COMPANY, Insures Dwelling Houses, Barns, and Out Buildings, and their contents, when situated at a distance of not less than four rods from other buildings, for a term not less than six years. The Farmers can readily see the advantages of insuring in a Class or Company by themselves, where they are not subject to the risk of property more hazardous than their own. The assessment on five hundred dollars of property insured in this Class, for a period of 5½ years, is only one dollar and thirty-eight cents. Farmers will do well to insure in this Company, as it is much the cheapest Company in Maine.

THE SECOND CLASS, OR VILLAGE COMPANY, Insures Dwelling Houses, Barns, and Out Buildings, and their Contents, in Towns and Villages in the country, when situated at a less distance than four rods from any other Class of Property:—for a term not exceeding six years. This Class, while in its infancy, met with heavy losses, and assessed its members severely, as is most ever the case with all New Companies. It has now recovered from that shock, is firmly and permanently established, constantly receiving large accessions to its members, and has added a large amount to its capital. Its aim is onward, and will hereafter be a very cheap Company

THE THIRD CLASS, OR MERCHANTS' COMPANY, Insures Stores, Merchandize, Public Houses, Churches, School Houses, Academies, Saddle, Harness and Trunk Makers' Shops, Bridges, and other descriptions of Property not insurable in other Classes, for a term not exceeding three years. The assessment in this Class for the past year has been less than stock rates by some 50 per cent.

This Company has done an active and highly successful business for the past four years. Its business is rapidly increasing and is extending to every town in Maine. It is emphatically a Scott Company.—Combining all the advantages of town and local companies, and free from their sectional and local disadvantages, in combining a sufficient capital to sustain a considerable loss. It is conducted with the most rigid economy, adjusts its losses liberally and promptly, and is confidently recommended to the favorable consideration of the Property holders of Maine. Byeonvine indemnity to the insured, and ably and liberally managed by its officers. THE subscriber having been appointed Agent for the above named Company, will receive applications for Insurance of Real or Personal Estate. The risks are divided into Three Classes, viz: 1st, or Farm Class; 2d, or Village Class; 3d, or Union Class. The average assessment in the Farm Class from April 1850 (the time of the Classification) to Jan. 1856, has been less than ½ of 1 per cent. annually on the amount insured. In the Village Class for the same the average yearly assessment has been less than 1 10 of 1 per cent. on the amount insured. In the 3d, or Union Class, from Oct. 1846 to Jan 1856, the yearly average of assessments has been less than 1-5 of 1 per cent. on the amount insured.

CHILSON'S NEW CONE FURNACE.

HAVING been appointed Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Furnace, for Portsmouth and vicinity, we beg to call the especial attention of those in want of Furnaces for warming buildings to a careful examination of an invention that must commend itself to every intelligent mind.—Especially do we invite those having first-class dwellings, who have hitherto been prejudiced against the use of the common Hot Air Furnaces, for their extravagant waste of fuel, insufficient heating power, and scorching, dry, unhealthy heat from the red hot iron pots, and escape of poisonous gases through the joints of the frail heaters. Chilson's NEW CONE FURNACE overcomes all of these objections, and secures a saving of at least FIFTY PER CENT, in fuel over the common Furnaces. This is accomplished by retaining the smoke and gases in a cluster of cones over the fire, each cone serving as a retort in bringing the rays of heat and light to a focus at their tops, not unlike the action of the Sun on a sun-glass. By this the formerly wasted smoke and gases are made to warm the house. No one should fail of seeing this invention before deciding on their heating apparatus. There are sizes adapted to all classes of buildings. We give our especial attention to the putting up of these Furnaces on Mr. Chilson's new plan of setting them, and under his directions. We also sell Chilson's TRIO PORTABLE FURNACES and TRIO STOVES, embracing the same principle as the Cone Furnaces; also, Cooking Ranges, Stoves, Registers, Ventilators, &c.

E. A. STEVENS,
Sept. 15. 46 Market street.

WE would respectfully inform the citizens of Portsmouth that we have appointed MR. E. A. STEVENS our Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Cone Furnace in Portsmouth and vicinity, to whom we would recommend all in want of a Furnace, FAR SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER MODE OF WARMING IN THIS OR ANY OTHER COUNTRY.

THE PEASANTS' FEAST.

An article in the Courrier des Etats Unis, giving an account of the festivities which took place in Moscow, in honor of the coronation of the late Emperor Nicholas, describes in the following manner a feast given by the Emperor to a great number of peasants:

The Champ des Demoiselles is at Moscow what the Champ de Mars is at Paris. The Emperor Nicholas had caused to be spread on this immense field a gigantic table where 4000 covers brought together 4000 Russian peasants, from thirty to forty leagues around. Seats rising all about the Champ des Demoiselles received the spectators of this feast, the Roman proportions of which, and its prodigious abundance, reminded the spectators of those repasts which are still called, even at this day, feasts of Lucullus.

The Emperor enjoyed the formidable appetite of his unaccustomed guests, and when dinner was over, he cried out:

"My children, take everything away, it is all your own."

And the Czar pointed to the remains of the feast, the plate, the silver covers.

At first there was among the Russian peasants a moment of stupor caused by the intoxication of the good cheer, and the sudden joy they felt. But this moment lasted no longer than a flash of lightning, and they all fell upon the table, tumbling over each other, with cries and gestures, impossible to describe. No spectacle could equal the savage originality of this authorized pillage, and when not a vestige of the repast was left, the peasants rushed toward the seats covered with red cloth:—"Everything is ours," they cried, as they begged the spectators to rise that they might take take the cloth on which they were seated. It was an odd mixture of respect for the elevated classes, and eagerness to take away everything they could. There was in their unheard of scenes order in disorder, almost modesty, even in the brutal rapidity with which each one attempted to increase his booty. In a very few minutes the seats offered nothing more than the pine boards of which they were made, deprived of all ornament, and the air resounded with cries of joy and triumph.

In the cottages of many of the Russian peasants, at this day may be seen a silver cover, a cup, a piece of red cloth, etc., carefully treasured like holy relics. These objects are the pride of their owners, who never fail to say to the strangers who visit them:

"We took part in the feast that our great Emperor Nicholas gave to his children, as he calls us,"—and those guests, more grateful than partakers of common feasts, would die with hunger before they would sell them.

The writer in the Courrier adds: The reign of the Emperor Nicholas lasted thirty years, and his union with the mother of the august Alexander Second, forty years. This union passed without a shadow, and the Emperor Nicholas on his death-bed replied to the Empress who asked as she embraced him, "Do you love me as of old?" "Do I love you? When we met for the first time, my heart said to me, 'Here is the guardian angel of your life;' and the prophecy of my heart has been fulfilled."

Never was there seen a more united family, and the Emperor Alexander Second inherits this family affection.

The Emperor Alexander Second is thirty-eight years old. He is nearly as large as his father, his carriage noble, his hair chesnut, his countenance soft and agreeable.

The graceful companion he has chosen is endowed with a firm and enlightened mind. Both of them love France and the French. Our fashions, our customs reign at Moscow as they do at St. Petersburg.

From the Boston Transcript.

NIGHT AND SLEEP.

The beautiful Gate of Sleep is barred,
O Angel within. [R. M. R.

O moon-crowned Night, pallid and sad!
Is there no soothing balm,
No soft, delicious calm
To make the mourner glad?
O sovereign Sleep,
Press thy mild kisses now
Upon my fevered brow!
Seal with thy lips these eyes,
Drown in thy joy these sighs—
Must I thus watch and weep?

I list thy voice, bright spirit of my dream!
Within its garden-bed the dew-drunk flower
Has pined for thee through the long midnight hour:
Come from thy covert by the dancing stream,
The fairies are abroad and scorn thy power;
On every leaf their tiny lamps are seen.
The moon has flung her jewelled treasure free
Forth to the white-lipped, ever murmuring sea,
And treads a path of light in silver sheen;
Waiting until the ocean-dweller, Morn,
Has from his briny halls her jewelshorne,
Must I still watch for thee?

Twin sisters, Night and Sleep,
Enfold me in your arms!
There, safe from all that harms,
My tired soul would Joy's full harvest reap:
Must I still longer watch, still longer weep?

Portsmouth, N. H. W. F. B. JACKSON.

A YOUNG LADY SHOT.—A young lady, about sixteen years of age, was shot and disfigured for life, on Fremont street, between Columbia street and Elbow lane, upon the sidewalk. A rowdy stepped from the ranks of the Calithumpian Club and deliberately discharged a horse pistol on a direct line with her face, the powder from which all lodged upon her cheeks. She presented an awful sight. She was immediately taken to her residence, on South Paca street, where she was attended by a physician. It is feared that she will lose the sight of both eyes.—Baltimore Democrat, Sept. 15th.

Hon. Ephraim Marsh of New Jersey, who presided over the convention which nominated Mr. Fillmore, in February last, has formally given in his adhesion to Mr. Fremont, upon the ground that the contest lies entirely between the latter and Mr. Buchanan, and that he is unwilling to become a party to the extension of slavery.

The New York Herald states that General Purviance, late Democratic Auditor General of Pennsylvania, has taken the stump in Butler county for Fremont. Gen. Purviance was a member of the Cincinnati Convention which nominated Buchanan, and was Chairman of the committee on its permanent organization.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEM. 24. 1856.

SEPARATION. — A good natured letter writer from Boston to the Newburyport Herald, says:

Has the dissolution epidemic reached you yet? Here, it rages with fearful violence. Nearly five decades have I lived; and on the eve of every Presidential election within my remembrance, have we been assured of a speedy dissolution, and yet it has never come. Those patriotic men who serve their bleeding country in the Custom Houses, and as tide-waiters, are usually among the first attacked with this disorder. Yea! even Collectors and heads of Departments have been know to undergo the pangs. Heaven send some ministering angel to mitigate the sufferings and calm the forebodings of these worthy martyrs. For myself "I fear no evil." I consider the arrival of Father Miller's millenium quite as probable an event as that of the dissolution of the Union, — Mr. Josiah Quincy, Wm. Loyd Garrison and Preston S. Brooks to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Buchanan men say that separation will speedily ensue if they are defeated.—The Fillmore men are similarly exercised, while the Republicans are sure the earth will cease to revolve if their John and wife are beaten.* Brother Brooks, from the neighboring empire of South Carolina, announces his determination in case of defeat, to march to Washington to seize the keys of the Treasury—and he will do it. The host he will lead will seem like an "army with banners," but will they come with the bristling bayonet, and swaying the glittering sabre? No! let who will be elected—Fillmore, Buchanan, Fremont, or the Adversary himself—their strong right arms will wield nothing more potent than petitions for office.

*If any such thing has been said in any Republican paper, we would like to see it quoted. We have seen nothing of the kind in that quarter. We have seen the Republican papers say that the election of Mr. Buchanan would extend slavery,—but not in any case that it would dissolve the Union.

Hon. Lawrence M. Keitt, who assisted Brooks in the assault upon Sumner, has been delivering a political address in Lynchburg, Va., in the course of which he took occasion to give vent to his hatred and spite against Ohio and Massachusetts. The Lynchburg Virginian says:

"Col. Keitt's bitterest venom was directed at Massachusetts, and he gave us to understand, too, that he had a special aversion to the pork grease of Ohio, as well as the codfish of the Bay State. The Massachusetts man he said, who emptied the tea into Boston harbor, first filled his pockets. The Massachusetts regiment in the Mexican war had to be guarded by two others, to prevent them from plundering the baggage wagons. In 1812 the people of Massachusetts permitted their brethren to be slaughtered on the shores of Canada, without sending them help. Then, he said, in allusion to Mr. Burlingame, the citizens of that State were not as much disposed to go to Canada to fight as now. Finally he exclaimed, "God help me, I want nothing more to do with Massachusetts except on the battle field." Referring to the possibility of Fremont's election, he declared that the man who, in that contingency, would not go for a dissolution of the Union, was a traitor and a coward."

THE COLLINS STEAMERS.—We learn, says the New York Journal of Commerce, that since the government has decided to reduce the pay to the Collins line, on account of the mail contract, the Company has resolved to reduce their rate of speed, thereby avoiding an increased ratio of wear and tear, diminishing the consumption of fuel, and lessening the size of the crews,—arguing that if the government cannot afford to pay for great speed, private individuals cannot afford to do it. The greater economy of the new arrangement is apparent from the fact that the average consumption of coal per day at high speed, is eighty five tons; at low speed, fifty-five tons. This is a difference equal to $4000 per voyage, and it is calculated that the saving in wear and tear of machinery will equal this amount; so that the total saving on twenty-six round trips, as required by the contract, will exceed $500,000 per annum, or more than compensate for the loss of pay. It is claimed that there is nothing in the contract binding as to speed, but simply that the vessels "shall be built for high speed."

THE LIGHTNING, during the storm of Saturday afternoon, struck Mr. Wm. Goddard of Providence while on board a sail boat in the harbor, as he was standing by the mast, tearing his clothes and boot on one side, and lacerating his body. He will recover. It also struck Mr. A. H. Manchester, at his foundry in Providence, but did not seriously injure him. The Woonsocket Baptist Church was struck, but not much damaged.

E. A. Rollins, Esq., has resigned his office as Cashier of the Somersworth Bank, and is about to resume the practice of law at Great Falls.

THE BOAT RACE, which took place on Saturday afternoon, in Charles River, between the New York and St. John boat clubs, was an exciting affair. The Boston Saturday Evening Gazette states that the race was for $800, of which $250 a side were put up four months ago—the balance on Friday. The boats used upon the occasion were two of the prettiest specimens of water craft that have ever appeared on the river. The course run was over the track laid out by the city government, which has become the established scene for exhibitions of that kind.

The New York boat bears the name of "James Mackay," in honor of her builder, and was manned by James Elliott, Jr., coxswain, Thomas Dorr, Stephen Roberts, Charles Wetherell and William Souther. She is 42 feet long, 2 feet 4 inches wide, 9 inches deep, and weighs less than 150 pounds. The St. John boat is the "Neptune," which won the race here last year. She was manned by Edward Welch, John Lambert, John Morris and Dennis Morris. She weighs about 400 pounds and is about 4 feet shorter than the "Mackay." The race was well contested, and although the heavy rain which set in at its commencement thinned out the spectators, a large crowd remained of earnest sympathizers with the parties or lovers of the sport.—The river was covered with boats, the most of which remained throughout the rain.—At about 3 o'clock the boats started, the St. John boat taking the lead and keeping it, making the first turn around the goal—1 1-2 mile—in 19:30 minutes. The New Yorker came in a wide distance behind. The second time round was made in 22:30 minutes by the St. John boat, the New Yorker coming in about three minutes behind her. The triumph was acceded to have been fairly won, both parties doing themselves much credit as skilful oarsmen. Much money changed hands by betting among outside parties.

CONFUSION OF TERMS.—A clerical correspondent of a respectable religious paper, says, of a woman whose decease he records:

"She had enjoyed uninterruptedly good health for many years, and had the prospect of enjoying the same blessing for many years to come."

And of another:—

"She had enjoyed uninterruptedly poor health for many years, and had no prospect for enjoying any better for years to come."

The words of the latter sentence really convey no meaning at all! But the writer no doubt means that the woman suffered sickness many years,—only he does not like the simple and direct style, but uses a clumsy, inelegant antithesis instead.

ACCIDENTALLY POISONED TO DEATH.—On Tuesday last, says the Boston Times, an aged maiden lady, named Elizabeth Gale, residing at No. 24 Green street, was taken ill, and some medicine was left for her by a physician, which she applied to her eyes, mistaking it for a wash that she had been using, and which was contained in a phial of similar appearance. The medicine, or poison, caused her death in about fifteen minutes. The deceased was one of two sisters who occupied the house together.

A PRIZE FIGHT PREVENTED.—For some time past an "affair's in the pugilistic world has been on the carpet, the principals being one "Scotty" of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a man named Murphy, who is said to belong in Portland. The preliminaries being all settled, on Saturday forenoon last, these parties, with a body guard of friends, repaired to the woods near Spot Pond, in Woburn, where a ring was made and everything furnished as usual at these exhibitions. Just as the parties had stripped for the fight a body of police made their appearance on the ground, and a general stampede of the "fancy" took place. The police succeeded in arresting one of the chief backers of the fight, when his friends rushed to the rescue and a general and miscellaneous encounter ensued, in which the arrested party was rescued. Several shots are said to have been fired, and it is reported that two of the officers are wounded, though not seriously. The ruffians all escaped, but no exertions will be spared to bring them to justice.—Boston Chronicle.

These are the same pugilists, who proposed to exhibit themselves in this city—but very happily did not appear.

INSTALLATION.—The Rev. Edward Hale of Worcester will be installed pastor of the South Congregational Church in Boston, on Wednesday, October 1st. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Professor Huntington, former pastor of the society. The right hand of fellowship will be given by the Rev. T. Starr King.

The Memphis Evening News relates that a negro fireman, employed on the Somerville (Tenn.) Railroad, stole the locomotive, Saturday morning, and taking on seven or eight other negroes, ran away with it to within 12 miles of that city, when they left it and took to the woods.

FLOUR MILL BURNT.—On Monday noon a fire was discovered in the large brick building known as the East Boston Steam Flour Mills, and before the flames were extinguished the greater part of the large edifice, with much valuable machinery and stock, was destroyed.

The fire was first noticed bursting out of the roof at the centre of the east side of the building. The flames spread very rapidly, and a large portion of the upper story of the building was soon enveloped in flames. From the centre building the fire spread rapidly to each wing, and soon the entire roof was nearly destroyed, and the fire was raging in the third, fourth, and fifth stories, until the whole building was nearly destroyed.

The building is of brick, five stories high, and filled with grain and flour, much of which must be consumed or badly damaged. The fire caught by friction in the smut mill, and some machinery is ruined, but the valuable steam engine is uninjured.

The loss will probably be from $50,000 to $75,000, and the property is amply insured.

SAD ACCIDENT.—At noon Saturday, while the Boston Light Artillery were employed to fire a salute of five hundred guns, on the Common, in honor of the nomination of Millard Fillmore for President, a melancholy accident occurred. The company had their six pieces on the ground, and were firing very rapidly, when, unfortunatly, the person whose duty it was to "thumb the vent" of one of the pieces removed his thumb while Mr. Sullivan W. Cutting was in the act of ramming the cartridge. The consequence was a premature explosion of the charge, which shattered both of Mr. Cutting's hands, so that it is feared that two or three fingers and a portion of each hand will have to be amputated. Mr. Cutting was also severely burnt in the face and on the arms. A litter was immediately procured from the Second Station House, and the wounded man was coveyed to the Massachusetts General Hospital for treatment. Mr. Cutting is a truckman, and has a family dependent upon him for support. We understand that a subscription paper is in circulation in his behalf.—Boston Courier, Monday.

The subscription is right and praiseworthy; the salute, ill-timed, useless, and absurd.

☞ At Lynn, Friday, a foot race of five miles, was won by Patrick Buckley, in 28 minutes and 38 seconds. The renowned Grindell was to run 20 miles in two hours, but gave out on the fourteenth mile, he then being behind time. This failure is attributed to a blow which he received on one of his legs from John E. Taylor, who raised a row just before Grindell started to run.

☞ Benjamin Franklin, printer, was a member of the Pennsylvanian Society for the Abolition of Slavery, which was formed soon after the Revolution. He was the first Secretary of the Society, choosen at its formation. The same society still lives; and Passmore Williamson is the Secretary, or was, at the time when Judge Kane put him in prison illegally, on a charge of constructive contempt.

A BLESSING TO ALL.

Dyer's Healing Embrocation is such and no mistake. We warrant it superior to any other medicine of the kind, and it has worked miraculously in the cure of disease, and thousands upon thousands will testify to these facts.

OH! THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. aw27 TuThs 8 6m.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—Six pacces to the front, is the word to every body and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it: if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "cured the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

PRINTING CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

Printers, Editors and Publishers throughout the United States, and particularly the Sons of Portsmouth or of New Hampshire, engaged in any of the various branches pertaining to the Printing Art; and all others interested; are cordially invited to attend the Centennial Celebration of the Introduction of the Art of Prin'ing in New Hampshire, which will be held at Portsmouth, N. H. on Monday Oct. 6, 1856.

Societies or Companies wishing to join in the procession, should immediately address H. F. Wendell, Esq., Portsmouth, N. H., Chief Marshal of the Day.

Editors everywhere are requested to copy this notice, and call attention to the Celebration.

EDWARD N. FULLER,
SAMUEL GRAY,
Com. on Invitations.

Ports., Sept. 19, '56.

☞ The Celebration promises to eclipse everything we have had in Portsmouth for years—and will doubtless vie in interest with our great "Sons" reception. The invitations meet a hearty response from all quarters—and arrangements are progressing finely.

Our favorite Portsmouth poet has written an Ode which will be sung at the delivery of the Oration—and which is worth a fifty mile ride to hear. There will also be a splendid Poem read at that time.

There will without doubt be a Regatta—and there is nothing to prevent having a grand one. We have plenty of row and sail boats, and as good fellows to man them as there are on the coast.

In addition to the Societies we announced to join in the Procession, the Mechanics' Association have also voted to walk.—And the Mercantile Association we have no doubt, will also appear, unless their ranks are too much thinned by the other societes.

The "Manchester Veterans" have accepted the invitation to be present, and will appear in full numbers, with the Manchester Brass Band—probably upwards of an hundred in all. The Veterans are pronounced the finest military company in the United States.

The firemen have not yet decided, we believe; but we hear hints of a prize to be offered the best-playing tub on that occasion, which would bring them all out.

The people generally are much interested in the matter,—and wish the Aldermen to aid it by the appropriation asked.

☞ There are some people whose personal and party prejudices so completely cover their vision, as to render it impossible for them to see "any good" in an opponent, or one who happens to differ from them in social or political matters. We have seen such in the various walks of life—and always pity them. They are forever looking on the dark side, if there be one; or making something dark, if there is not—and generally succeed in being pretty wretched. Nothing suits them, and so they suit nobody—they live among blessings, yet never allow themselves to enjoy them. Bigots in religion, intolerant in politics, fault-finding in social life,—they live unloved, and unwept. We would rather choose another course, even at the expense of individuality or personal preferences; and parade something to the public good.

FAIR AND CATTLE SHOW AT EXETER, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 24th and 25th.—Grand procession of Town Teams on Wednesday, at 10 o'clock. Drawing Match and Trial of Working Oxen on Wednesday at 3. Plowing Match on Thursday at 9 1-2 o'clock. Address by Hon J. Dodge of Hamilton, Mass., at 11 on Thursday. Exhibition of Fruit, Vegetables, Butter Cheese, Bread, Family and Ornamental Needle work, in the New Town Hall.

☞ An extra train on the P. & C. Railroad, will leave the depot in this city on Wednesday and Thursday mornings, at 6 o'clock, to accommodate those wishing to attend the Fair at Exeter.

☞ The "Tremolo Attachment" of St. Louis, is a pleasant and valuable addition to the Melodeon, by which the instrument is made capable of a much greater variety of expression than otherwise.—This addition can be made to any good Melodeon without injury or defacement, and at a very moderate expense.

We have listened with much pleasure to St. Louis's performance, and examined the instrument. He will be happy to exhibit it to any ladies or gentlemen who may call on him at Mr. Pearson's Music Store, Exchange Buildings, this day and evening.

☞ On account of the storm, the launch of the ship from the Portsmouth Ship Co.'s Yard, Noble's Island, will be postponed until this morning to Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

☞ President Pierce is announced to visit Concord, N. H., on the 2d day of October; and the New Hampshire Patriot says the Mayor and other citizens have called a meeting to take proper measures for his reception.

The meeting was held on Monday evening. One despatch says:

A large meeting of the Democratic citizens of Concord was held this evening, at Depot Hall, and the preliminary arrangements made for the reception of the President at his proposed visit, on the 2d of October next. The reception will be worthy of the distinguished character of the visitor and the people of the Granite State.

Another despatch says:

A large meeting of citizens to-night adopted a resolution, 4 to 1, that it is inexpedient to tender President Pierce a public reception.

We suppose there must have been two meetings,— or else two votes taken in the same assembly, at different times.

We don't see that any officer or man, who helps honor the powers that be—who renders to Cæsar the respect due Cæsar's position—compromises his individual opinions, or adopts any policy not his own.

☞ The Boston Telegraph says that the citizens of Concord voted, by a majority of four to one, not to give the President a public reception. The Democrats held a meeting afterwards and made preliminary arrangements for a reception. The Boston Post says that the President will come in a steamer from Washington to Portsmouth.

THE POTATO ROT.—We learn that the "rot" has made its appearance in this vicinity; in Greenland, and the adjoining towns. On low, moist lands there is a loss of the whole crop. We learn that one farmer in an adjoining town has concluded not to dig a patch of over two acres; thinking the result would not pay for the labor expended.

The late heavy rains have been a serious injury to the crop. Early potatoes, consequently, escaped the rot; and also those planted on high, gravelly ground. c.

☞ We learn that the new Steam Ferry Boat, for the Piscataqua Ferry, is completed, and awaiting the building of proper landing places on either shore.

KANSAS RUMORS.—St Louis papers of the 18th, give the following intelligence of the movements of pro-slavery troops, previous to the attack on Lawrence, as telegraphed to-day:

The Lexington Express of the 13th says: We have little or no news worth relating, and especially little that is encouraging to the South.

Gen. Reid, a reliable and intrepid officer, from his camp on Indian Creek, proceeded to Cedar Creek, and on Thursday morning last proceeded thence, it it is supposed, to co-operate with Gen. Richardson, who is Commander-in-Chief of the territorial militia. Reid is supposed to have with him about 600 men, and, at his conjunction with Richardson, it is supposed the combined forces will immediately proceed to Lawrence. Whether a collision has followed this movement it is impossible to say, as a large body of United States troops are understood to be in the neighborhood of Lecompton and Lawrence.

Major Vertch, an officer under Gen. Reid, writes subsequently as follows from the camp at Shawnee Mission: "The Army of Law and Order is again on the march to Lawrence, numbering by the muster rolls of yesterday 536 men, and two pieces of artillery."

We hear contradictory reports concerning the views of the Governor (Geary.)

One is, that he is favorable to our cause, and is determined to use all his influence for the arrest of Lane, while others report him as secretly sympathizing with the free state party, in all its enormities. His views, however, do not affect our movements. We shall go to Lawrence, regardless of Geary's views or those of Gen. Smith, commanding the United States forces at Leavenworth.

FROM WASHINGTON.—The Washington correspondent of the Times says that the Cabinet is busily engaged in discussing steps to be taken in regard to the Panama massacre of April last; that the report of the Commissioner is unexpectedly strong against the authorities of Panama, and establishes either their complicity in the massacre, or their utter inefficiency in preserving the peace of the Isthmus. It is intimated that Mr. Corwin recommends measures of retaliation, and prodeedings to secure the future safety of transit across the isthmus; that a portion of the members of the Cabinet are in favor of the most decided measures; and that the President is only restrained by the most conservative members, from sending a fleet to take possession of the port of Panama.

☞ Barnard McCann, who was arrested in Portland on the 14th inst., on a charge of inflicting blows upon the porson of his wife which caused her death, has been committed to take his trial at the Supreme Court in November.

☞ The New York dog pound was closed on Saturday, the appropriation being exhausted. 76 dogs were received on the last day, and 309 during the week. The number of dogs received from June 25th to Sept. 13th, was 5,345, of which were drowned 4,807, and redeemed 544.

DAISY'S NECKLACE; and What came of It. (A Literary Episode.) By T. B. Aldrich. New York: Derby and Jackson. pp. 230.

This little book is more than it seems—more than it pretends. It is really a novel of pith, pathos, and power. It is poetry in prose, the work of a genial and generous soul. The characters are only sketched; but we see and know them all, as we do scriptural characters; and the moral lessons, he never needs to draw them; they draw themselves out of the story.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

QUEBEC, 23d. — The Canadian screw steamer Indian, with 4 days later news from Liverpool, arrived here this forenoon.

The Liverpool cotton market continues firm, with average sales.

Breadstuffs were dull, and prices had receded on flour from 1 to 2s, wheat 3a4d, and on corn 1s.

Provisions quiet.

Manchester advices still favorable.

The weather has been favorable, and the prospects of the later crops fair.

The London money market is still unchanged. Consols closed at 94 3-8.

State Temperance Convention.

A Convention of the friends of Temperance will be held in Keene, at the Town Hall, on Thursday, Oct. 8th, at 10 o'clock A. M.

Hon. Neal Dow, and other distinguished speakers, are engaged to be present.

It is very desirable that a large gathering of the friends of the cause should assemble, as matters of especial importance are to be presented for consideration and action.

Will not the friends of prohibition devote one day to the claims of Humanity and Temperance?

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning.

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIDGEFIELD, MASS., 29th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M.D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

BROTHER AYER: I will gladly certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chief diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M.D.

AMOS LEE, ESQ., MONTERRY, TA., writes, 31 Jan., 1856: "I had a bellous Influenza, which confined me in-door six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicine are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MARLBOROUGH, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing many cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., ACRISE, MONROE CO., IOWA writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Scarce no human aid can reach but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: It is with much pleasure I inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which she could procure gave her much relief. She was entirely failing, until Dr. Stroup, of this city, whose we have written for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. It places his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBY'S

Consumption, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best American chemists in the world, and its cures all around us speak the high merits of its virtues.— Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. These penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their name to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, yet others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Costiveness, Indigestion, Morbid Inactivity of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Eruptions and Cutaneous Diseases which require an emetic Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Practical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell, Mass

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents, superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.— The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey on Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.— Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY,

Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,

Commissioner of Patents.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well-known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

CHILSON'S NEW CONE FURNACE.

HAVING been appointed Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Furnace, for Portsmouth and vicinity, we beg to call the especial attention of those in want of Furnaces for warming building, to a careful examination of an Invention that must commend itself to every intelligent mind.—Especially do we invite those having first class dwellings, who have hitherto been prejudiced against the use of the common Hot Air Furnaces, for their extravagant waste of fuel, insufficient heating power, and scorching, dry, unhealthy heat from the red hot iron pots, and escape of poisonous gases through the joints of the frail heaters. Chilson's NEW CONE FURNACE overcomes all of these objections, and secures a saving of at least FIFTY PER CENT. in fuel over the common Furnaces. This is accomplished by retaining the smoke and gases in a cluster of cones over the fire, each cone serving as a retort in bringing the rays of heat and light to a focus at their tops, not unlike the action of the sun on a sun-glass. By this the formerly wasted smoke and gases are made to warm the house. No one should fail of seeing this invention before deciding on their heating apparatus. There are sizes adapted to all classes of buildings. We give our especial attention to the putting up of these Furnaces on Mr. Chilson's new plan of setting them, and under his directions. We also sell Chilson's TWO PORTABLE FURNACES and TWO STOVES, embracing the same principle as the Cone Furnace; also, Cooking Ranges, Stoves, Registers, Ventilators, &c.

E. A. STEVENS,

Sept. 15. 46 Market street.

WE would respectfully inform the citizens of Portsmouth that we have appointed MR. E. A. STEVENS our Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Cone Furnace in Portsmouth and vicinity, to whom we would recommend all in want of a Furnace, PAR SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER MODE OF WARMING IN THIS OR ANY OTHER COUNTRY.

THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE IN ENGLAND.—The Temperance movement in England is of some ten years standing. But, compared with its success in this country, it has, as yet, made small progress. There has been much battling to accomplish what does exist. Opponents of the wisest, wealthiest, and most influential sort have stood in the way. Men from the pulpit and the press, from the Parliament and the Court, from the mansion and the hut, have arrayed themselves against it. The law of the land, the interests of the government revenue, the profits of the barley-grower, and the malt-maker, and the ale-seller, have all cried out against it. The habits, customs, tastes and fancies of all classes of the community have opposed it. These things, which have been growing up and coming to maturity for the space of hundreds of years, constitute a battery which has never been raised before the temperance assaults in this country. This country is comparatively young, and it is easier moulded than the old one. It is not so jealous of innovations upon any of its customs or usages. It is the pliant sapling, which the woodman may bend as he pleases, and not the old centennarian oak, which requires a succession of digging, axing, &c., to get it up, root and branch—the youth who is capable of remodeling his habits, and not the veteran of threescore and ten, who must be entirely renewed before he can be reformed.—Woodstock (Vt.) Standard.

STATISTICS OF MASSACHUSETTS INDUSTRY.—It appears, from statistics collected and compiled by authority of the Massachusetts Legislature, that the agricultural productions of that State are valued at $38,134,800.

The value of boots and shoes manufactured in Massachusetts in 1855, approaches that of agricultural productions, being estimated at $37,489,923.

The productive value of cotton manufactures for the same year was less than that of the boot and shoe manufacture, being $26,140,583.

The value of all the products of industry in Massachusetts is estimated at the enormous sum of $350,000,000.

There has been an immense increase of the productive energy of the State within the last nine years. In 1837, the productive industry of the State was estimated at $86,282,616; in 1845 at $184,749,457.—Now it is $850,000,000.

"How do you do, Mr. Smith?"
"Do what?"
"How do you find yourself?"
"I never lose myself."
"How do you feel?"
"Pretty smooth I guess—feel of me and see."
"Good morning, Mr. Smith."
"It's rather a bad one—wet and nasty."

PURELY ENGLISH.—The following political paragraph is from the Montreal Advertiser:

"We are indebted to a gentleman from Portland for a copy of the Advertiser, which contains returns from the principal towns and counties in the State of Maine, giving the Democratic ticket an immense majority over the whole State, and electing Mr. Hamiltin Governor, six members of Congress, and a majority of both branches of the Legislature. This is a sure sign of that State going for Fremont."

Mrs. H. B. Stowe and daughters left Glasgow on the 23d ult., by the Lochgoil steamer, en route for Inverary—Mrs. Stowe is on a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Argyle, and the rest of the party to sojourn either at Lochgoil Head, or some other Highland watering-place.

The Manchester American tells a story of a lady in that city whose dress was stepped upon by a partner in the dance. The skirt was torn, and a whalebone thrust into the circle in a very unseemly manner. The lady coolly took hold of it, drew it from her skirt, walked to the door, threw it out, and took her place in the cotillon just in time to "forward and back." Although it "collapsed," she did not. She would walk up to the cannon's mouth, or the altar, without fear or trembling.

Passengers in brig Planet, at Salem, from Africa, Mrs. Charles B. Stevens and child, of Newburyport.—Mrs. S. sailed with her husband, who is Captain of the barque S. W. Porter of Salem, and after reaching the coast of Africa, sailing up several rivers, and becoming acquainted with the sable nations, to escape the sickly season she has returned alone with a child, over a trackless sea of 4000 miles, and arrived safely at home.

A SUGGESTIVE FACT.—The only decoration on Beacon street, Boston, on the 17th, bore the motto, "Time is money." We conclude that the remainder of the inhabitants of that street, acting out the principle of that motto, is the cause of their not spending any time in decorating their residences, and doing honor to Franklin.—Boston Journal.

DROWNED.—A Mr. Dennis, of Woburn, was drowned in Charlestown, on Saturday evening, while trying to rescue another man, who had fallen overboard. The accident happened on the Maine Railroad, at the depot of which Mr. Dennis had been waiting to take the cars for Malden. His body was recovered Sunday forenoon. Mr. D. leaves a large family.

M. De Lamartine, who for some time has been in Macon, France, where he is suffering from rheumatism, has received from the Emperor of Brazil one hundred thousand francs as payment of five thousand subscriptions to the Familiar Course of Literature of the illustrious and hard working author.

We understand that Mr. Hamlin, Governor elect of Maine, ex-Governor Morrill, and Jas. G. Blane of the Kennebec Journal, are about to proceed to Pennsylvania, where they will take the stump for Fremont.

At the horse exhibition in Galesburg, Illinois, on the 13th, Miss Prudence Swift took the first prize for equestrianism, a gold watch and coffee urn worth $150.—Five other young ladies received the other premiums.

It is said that Mr. Marshall and Bowen & McNamee have compromised their difficulty about the Broadway Theatre, the walls of which Bowen & McNamee had undermined.

Morning Chronicle.

THURSDAY, SEPTEM. 25, 1856.

Correspondence of the Chronicle.

LETTER FROM KANSAS.

LEAVENWORTH CITY, Sept. 7.

Dear Friend:—The events of last week have been startling and alarming. It would be impossible for me to give in detail the occurrences, even in this city. Last Monday morning a troop of rangers began to search the houses of the Free State men for arms, &c. Most of the Free State men submitted, and delivered up their arms.—At the house of Mr. William Phillips, a bloody tragedy occurred. Mr. Phillips (who had been tarred and feathered about a year ago, and afterwards taken over into Missouri, and sold for one cent) refused to admit the party into his house. On their attempting to force their way into his dwelling, he stepped out on the balcony over the front door, and shot one man dead. The fire was returned, and Mr. Phillips was killed. Many shots were exchanged. Several were wounded on both sides.—one man (Phillips's brother) dangerously. His arm has been amputated. It is thought he cannot long survive.

There was considerable firing during the day. On Tuesday morning, the Free State men wore ordered on board a boat bound down the river. Many, however, escaped to the Fort; where there are now upwards of two hundred persons. On Tuesday night several buildings were burned, and considerable property destroyed.

On Wednesday an order was issued by the pro-slavery men, for every man to join the "City Guards"—turn out to "protect" Leavenworth, or leave the city. Consequently nearly every man "toted" a gun and pistol about with him. A string of Major's and Russell's wagons were drawn up all around the outside of the city, to serve as a barricade. The cry was, "Lane is certainly coming,"—knowing ones prophesied in twelve or twenty-four hours—but he did not.

The stores and business houses have been closed for a week. Several groceries and commission houses, where goods for Lawrence were supposed to be deposited, have been broken open, and the goods carted to a general store house, for the use of the "faithful."

Very many stocks of goods have been shipped away. All the women, nearly, have left. An air of desolation reigns around.

Company after company of the ruffians who went out to attack Lawrence, have returned and left for other "parts." The parties which surrounded Lane, a short time ago, have retreated and disbanded.

Gen Lane certainly now has the advantage in the territory south of the Kansas River. Whether the Missourians will raise another army or not, remains to be seen. What will be the next move? The future will disclose. No man can now tell. Rupell, Jones, Lecompt, and others, who have been leaders, have left the territory.

I have written to the builders, ordering them not to forward the steam saw-mill from Illinois, as I would not risk having it brought into the territory at this time. I hope the times will improve. I feel that this state of things will not always last;—but really I feel very "blue," for it is not pleasant to be nearly out of money, and while the territory is distracted, no prospect of earning any, or improving our condition. I am troubled to know what to do. If we only knew how things would turn in this beautiful but afflicted country, we could soon determine. Sometimes I think it is ruinous personally to remain here, and then again I "hate" to leave, for if Freedom is secured to its soil, there will be great chances here and much encouragement for any young man of energy and enterprise. In haste, F. H. B.

☞ Lieut. Walton, of the British navy, has prepared a mixture of sawdust and catoutche, under the name of kamplucticon, as a lining for the interior of war vessels. The inventor claims that, from its elasticity, and it will immediately collapse when penetrated by a ball, and thus prevent the entrance of water. It also deadens concussions, and by its buoyancy, will keep a vessel afloat, though it should be riddled with shot.

Messrs. Fillmore, Breckinridge, Slidell, Keitt, and Brooks, all prophesy distinctly that if Fremont is elected the Union will be desolved, because several of the States will stand no such nonsense as a constitutional majority, resolving to keep slavery where it is. But, on the other hand, Bates, Houston, and Botts prophesy distinctly that nothing of the sort will take place in the event now supposed to be nearly certain. Col. Fremont, also a Southern man, concurs in this prophesy, and will take care that his prediction shall be fulfilled.—Boston Chron.

LAW OF THE STREET.

Not a little misapprehension exists, as to what rights individuals have in the highways—what are the rights and privileges of the public—and the powers and duties of city and town officers, in regard to streets and roads. And yet no class of questions in law, has been more frequently or more equitably decided in the courts of England and the United States. A little attention to two or three principles, will make the whole matter plain to a reasoning and reflective mind.

The statutes and decisions in New England, give Selectmen ample power to lay out highways, and make their towns liable to individuals, for the value of the land taken, and also for the damage, if any, done to the remainder of the land by cutting the road through.

The highway thus laid out, becomes the property of the public, for travel only.—Not for sale, not for building, not for cultivation, not for obstruction. And the town or city officers are bound, as guardians of the public weal, to have this highway in order for safe and convenient travel—and here their power stops.

The city charter of Portsmouth, gives, to be sure, many powers to its city council, in relation to grading streets, to trees and fruit in the streets, to posts, awnings and fixtures, and to obstructions and travel therein. But all these powers, as expressed in the charter, must not be repugnant to the Constitution or laws of New Hampshire, but must be in conformity therewith.

Under this authority, they may give to A, the liberty to set out a tree, or an awning post before his own door, but they may not give him liberty to set either of them before B's door, unless the latter shall agree to it. Nor have they themselves the right, as town officers, to plant either of them, or anything else before the door of A or B, unless the public travel, health or welfare demand it. Of this demand, they are the judges, legally appointed. But if they judge wrong, A or B can carry them up to the Courts, and obtain his remedy.

No man may haul a house through the streets without their consent. This is right. But when they give liberty for for such a hauling—what then? May Jehu Sampson hitch on all the bulls of Bashan to a house 30 feet wide, and drag it through a 30 foot street, sweeping away door steps, breaking down trees, and scraping off blinds, shutters, and cornices?—By no means. The house is not a carriage—house hauling is not a usual and proper use of the highway. For every damage sustained by this extraordinary movement, the householder who suffers, has his remedy on the man who hauled the house, on the owner of it, on the aldermen or selectmen who gave him an illegal liberty—and last, but not least, on the city itself, which, in its corporate capacity, is clearly liable for the damage.

IN A FIX.—The Mobile Register, of the 9th inst. says:—The supply of ice, we grieve to learn, is so reduced in this city that we are threatened with an entire stoppage in the supply to-morrow or next day, if an arrival, now twenty one days out, shall not come to hand meanwhile. Ice is now a second bread. It is no longer a luxury, but, bread-like, an article of primary necessity. Imagination can scarcely compass the troubles of an ice deficiency, for the article enters into every want of our nature, from the meat and drink of the strong and hearty to the medicine and necessities of the sick. Then speed the good ship to her port in safety, for nothing else can keep us from constantly getting into hot water.

We understand Brooks and others mean to let the Union slide, when Fremont and Jessie go to the White House. When this happens, query, whether the Mobile people will import their ice from Livepool or Jamaica?

THE NUNS TO BE LOOKED AFTER.—The Risorgimento has the following from Rome:

Our Secretary of State has addressed a private circular to all the delegates of the provinces, calling upon them to exercise the greatest vigilance over the nuns that come from abroad, and especially the Dames du Sacre Cœur, because some of them, under pretence of affording civil and religious instruction, spread seditious doctrines among the young ladies entrusted to their care. The delegates are further instructed to inquire after the Countess C., of Bologne, a lady belonging to that religious body, and, in case of her being discovered, to arrest her.

Among the Free State men recently imprisioned at Lecompton, Kansas, two or three were found who had been seized and retained for several months, against whom no charges or indictments could be found. They had been thrust into prison by the border ruffians and kept there. The authorities appeared to be particularly well pleased to get rid of all the prisioners, and though some of them were charged with "unbailable" crimes, they were released upon the sureties of men without one cent of property.—N. P. Herald.

CONCORD AND THE PRESIDENT.—We have already mentioned the meeting of citizens of Concord, on Monday evening, at which a resolution was adopted declaring it "to be inexpedient to tender to President Pierce a public reception by the citizens of Concord." After the adjournment of this general meeting, the Democrats and Republicans held party meetings. The former voted to give Gen. Pierce a reception themselves, and the latter passed some very severe comments upon the President. We copy the closing paragraphs. After a recapitulation of the official acts of the administration, the following sentences occur:

And whereas, as citizens of the great Republic of America, we feel deeply injured and humiliated by such a prostitution of the highest office of our country to abusive and partizan purposes, and such an encouragement of men like Brooks and Douglas to assail the inhabitants of the Northern States by personal violence or political fraud: and whereas the public messages and official conduct of Franklin Pierce lead us to believe that he sympathizes far more with the pro-slavery oligarchy, whether at the South, in Washington, or in Kansas, than he does with the lovers of freedom—with Preston S. Brooks more than with Charles Sumner, with Atchison and Stringfellow more than Pomeroy and Robinson, and with Shannon more than with Reeder;

And whereas we are anxious that, should Franklin Pierce visit Concord as announced, he may receive no personal abuse—such as the slave power visits upon the friends of liberty—and no official neglect which a decent respect for ourselves does not absolutely impose upon us:

Resolved, That the most fitting mode in which the inhabitants of Concord can receive Franklin Pierce among them, is solemn, mournful silence.

THE PRESIDENT.—The Newburyport Herald well says, "the reception of President Pierce, the next month, is a matter of course. If it is not due to the man, it certainly is to the office which he holds, and therefore there should be no opposition to it from friends or foes, at any point of the route he may travel; and there certainly will not be any opposition from the thoughtful and respectable portion of the people.

"We regret to see, however, that a meeting of the citizens of Concord, N. H., have refused to tender the President a reception. The despatch, conveying the information, says it was a large meeting so refusing. If it was, it must have been either a large meeting of fanatics or rowdies, or a large meeting of Democrats who were desirous of carrying New Hampshire for Buchanan, and did it to make political capital. However it was done, it will be to the advantage of the administration in the popular vote."

GEN. NYE tells a good story of Col. Fremont and some South Carolina secessionists. The General with the South Carolina friends were calling upon Col. Fremont, and the conversation ran upon the election, when one of the chivalry said: "Mr Fremont if you are elected, we will secede." Col. Fremont instantly replied: "I hope you will make arrangements to leave the State behind you."

Edward Fuller of Redfield, Me., died on the 26th ult., at the age of 74 years. He had been a member of the Legislature both before and after the separation of Maine from Massachusetts, and also of the Executive Council of Maine.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to "cud under bare poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Rockville Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuThs&S 6m.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along."—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it: if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "toed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

LOCAL.

☞ The Celebration is progressing finely. The "Veterans," with a band, are coming, 130 strong—a procession of themselves.

A mechanic tells the Committee that an Industrial department in the Procession would be well filied, were the idea broached aright.

The editors and printers everywhere speak well of the matter, and will be on hand in good numbers.

"A. L." has written a fine Ode to be sung with the Oration; "T. B. A." has sent as fine a Ode, to be sung; and Fields, Shillaber and all the Portsmouth boys will not be backward.

To carry the affair through creditably, the committee needs the $500 appropriation asked for by two or three hundred voters, of all parties—many of them large tax-payers,—and the first that were applied to. Everybody who saw the petition, signed it, with hardly an exception. The people, we believe, ten to one, would vote for it. Does anybody believe the City Council of Boston or Manchester would refuse it? or that it would not be a good investment?

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION:

IS IT A PARTISAN AFFAIR?

We have devoted much space to this matter, for several days—as we deem it a matter of importance to Portsmouth and the State. We have this morning given a public-spirited correspondent more room than we could well spare, to discuss the matter of the appropriation for this object.

We had, however, hardly imagined it possible for us to be called upon to answer any opposition to the movement—so cordial and liberal had been the general response to the committee's call for aid of every description. But the Ballot of Tuesday contains a bitter attack on the Celebration, and attempts to cast ridicule upon the whole matter, and all connected therewith. We should never have noticed the ill-tempered and discourteous article, but for the request of several friends of the celebration—who fear it may have some effect with the readers of that paper.

Personally, we care nothing about the charges made in the Ballot—and we have been, perhaps, as desirous of forwarding the celebration as any one. As a member of the Committee of Arrangements, we deny the statements made by the Ballot—and assure our readers they must have foundation chiefly in the personal feelings of the writer.

The idea of such a Centennial Celebration, of the anniversary of the introduction of the first Printing Press into New Hampshire, was broached two or three years ago; and we then considered it a good one—as did many of the editors in this, and some in other States, of all parties. In fact, party was not thought of in the work—and we guess never had been, till the Ballot suggested it.

As the anniversary approached, the New Hampshire Historical Society voted to favor such a celebration, and appointed a committee to confer on the subject with any other which might be appointed.

Then the printers in Manchester, thinking, doubtless, that we in Portsmouth were to do nothing, held a public meeting—inviting all editors and publishers in New Hampshire—and appointed a committee to confer with the Portsmouth printers.—They thus really started the Celebration—for as members of the craft, we could not relish the idea that Manchester should glorify an event which occurred in Portsmouth long before Manchester was on the map. So we, the Chronicle, suggested a public meeting of printers and citizens interested—and all were invited. At this meeting were representatives of all the printing offices in the city, except the Ballot. Mayor Jenness was elected to the Chair. Remarks were offered by Messrs. Peabody, C. W. Brewster, T. H. Miller, R. Morrison, S. Gray, and others; and a Committee chosen on the spot, from those present—namely: E. N. Fuller, I. Goodwin, C. W. Brewster, R. Morrison, F. W. Miller, and S. Gray; and on motion of C. W. Brewster, Esq., Mayor Jenness was added, and invited to be chairman.

We don't see that any of these arrangements exhibit any partisan feeling or intention. Let us see—of the seven names on the committee, four (Messrs. Goodwin, Brewster, Gray and Miller) will hardly be claimed as "men of the Gazette party," we take it—while the other three, (Messrs. Jenness, Fuller, and Morrison) doubtless are.

The change of time for the Celebration, was made solely to give time to procure an orator and an oration. It would have originally been appointed about the middle of October, but for the various political meetings always held previous to election.

We make these statements from personal knowledge, and vouch for their entire accuracy. There has not been, and is not now, any appearance of a partisan feeling in the matter.

The Ballot finds fault with the Committee, and all their arrangements—in fact, with everything. Had the editor been present at the meetings publicly called, we presume he would have been put on the Committee. This is not the first celebration here the Ballot has spoken illy of—the Masonic Committee were not at all complimented by it, though they got up a fine show a year or two since.

As to the efficiency of the Committee—we leave them to speak and act for themselves—as we believe they will show themselves amply able to do. If we are not mistaken, they will get up a creditable celebration.

As to the Chief Marshal, H. F. Wendell, Esq., we will simply state for the information of those abroad, that no procession needs a better. He was offered the head of the great "Sons" procession, and lead off the Masons procession, since.

Some of "our solid citizens" have taken notice of the matter, and subscribed from $10 to $50, a score or two of them; and others will do the same when applied to.

We have written much more than we designed to, and will just say in conclusion, that there is no partisan feeling among the Committee—and that the statements of the Ballot are in our opinion, drawn wholly from the private feelings and prejudices of the editor of that paper.

For the Chronicle.

ECONOMY.

Messrs. Editors:—Economy is a commendable virtue, and should ever be practiced. So far as our present city government have judiciously economized, they have the thanks of the people. Extravagance, and a loose system of expenditures always lead to debt, and involve cities, as well as individuals, in embarrassment.—But there may be a degree of economy which is ill-timed and really extravagant in its nature and results. An expenditure of a $1000 for a certain purpose, may be an extravagance; while for some other purpose, the failure to expend the same amount may show a lack of true economy. And it seems to me, also, that if I were an Alderman or a Councilman, I should be governed somewhat by what I deemed to be the wishes of the people in regard to any particular appropriation.

Unless there had been a very general public assent to the large municipal expenditure for the celebration of the Fourth of July, 1853, no member of the City Council could have justified his vote in its favor. But whoever heard a lisp of opposition to that expenditure, and who does not now look back upon it as a most judicious, aye, and profitable investment to the city. The people were then in favor of the most liberal action on the part of their public officers, and in passing the appropriation, the members of the Council felt that they were merely the medium through which the public acted, and that the responsibility was with the citizens.

Thus, if I had a vote to give in deciding the present question, I should cast it in favor of the small appropriation asked for, on the ground that there is comparatively no public opposition to the petition, or rather, that the public voice is nearly unanimous in its favor. This fact is plain and palpable to every one who walks the streets, and knows anything about public opinion, despite the attempt of a city paper to persuade the people that it is a partisan affair. That the people are interested in this celebration, is shown by the very liberal subscriptions raised by our citizens, to defray the expenses. The names of the subscribers and petitioners for the object, at once dispel the insinuation that it is a partisan affair, and render the individual who made that insinuation unworthy of further notice.

The number of our holidays is acknowledge to be too few, and we need not at present fear an occasional addition to the regular calendear; neither need the city fathers hesitate to pass the appropriation asked for, on the ground that some of the various trades may demand a similar appropriation. This is not the glorification of a trade, or a newspaper; of a political party, or a clique; it is the celebration of a prominent historical event,—an event more important in its bearing on the destiny of the State, and more closely connected with its literature, than perhaps any other. It is a celebration approved and called for by the N.H. Historical Society, by the editorial fraternity throughout the State, and warmly praised by the press, and literary men generally throughout New England.

If the expediency of the appropriation is generally granted; if the public are in favor of it; I come to the question of expense, and find that the man who is taxed $100, (upon the present ratio of taxation) would pay about $1,12 towards the celebration, if the $500 appropriation is passed. The proportion of the appropriation upon each poll would amount to about two cents. Can any one discover what amount the editor who so savagely opposes the project on the ground that he is determined not to be taxed to aid it, would have to pay as his share?

The argument that such celebrations are generally a good investment to a city like ours, is worthy of notice; but as it has occurred to every one's mind, I need not urge it here. For one, Messrs. Editors, I am in favor of the proposed appropriation, and trust that the Aldermen will reconsider their action, pass the bill, and give us the Celebration as creditably as possible.

CATTE SHOW AT EXETER.

The great rains of Monday and Tuesday, extending through Tuesday night, with the overcast morning of Wednesday, did not aid the procession and street show.—Nevertheless, and in spite of the mud, a large gathering of Rockingham farmers, took place at Exeter on Wednesday forenoon.

Three town teams, viz. Exeter with 28 yoke of oxen, Kensigton with 24, and Hampton with 15, fell into line, and were joined by a formidable array of pedler's carts belonging to Getchell & Son of Exeter, 7 in number, each loaded with a full variety of wares and merchandise.—A band of good music, 12 pieces, occupied another carriage, and discoursed elegant and stirring strains,—and the whole were escorted by a nondescript fantastic company called Cattle Guards.

On the fair ground, the pens for Horses and Colts, Heifers, Cows, Steers, and Working Cattle, were well occupied. No sheep were seen. But Geese, Turkies, and Fowls of various kiuds, abounded, and most of them were very fine.

The show in the new Town Hall, of fruits, vegetables, work, &c., was better than in former years, and the place being so much better, this was a pleasant part of the fair.

The Exhibition continues to-day.

FAIR AND CATTLE SHOW AT EXETER, Thursday, Sept. 25th.—Plowing Match this day at 9 1-2 o'clock. Address by Allen J. Dodge of Hamilton, Mass., at 11 o'clock. Exhibition of Fruit, Vegetables, Butter Cheese, Bread, Family and Ornamental Needle work, in the New Town Hall.

☞ An extra train on the P. & C. Railroad, will leave the depot in this city this morning, at 6 o'clock, to accommodate those wishing to attend the Fair.

PRINTING CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

Printers, Editors and Publishers throughout the United States, and particularly the Sons of Portsmouth or of New Hampshire, engaged in any of the various branches pertaining to the Printing Art; and all others interested; are cordially invited to attend the Centennial Celebration of the Introduction of the Art of Printing in New Hampshire, which will be held at Portsmouth, N. H. on Monday Oct. 6, 1856.

Societies or Companies wishing to join in the procession, should immediately address H. F. Wendell, Esq., Portsmouth, N. H., Chief Marshal of the Day.

Editors everywhere are requested to copy this notice, and call attention to the Celebration.

EDWARD N. FULLER,
SAMUEL GRAY,
Com. on Invitations.

Ports., Sept. 19, '56.

☞ A fine white oak ship of 1200 tons, intended for general freighting business, will be launched from the yard of the Portsmouth Ship Building Co., on Noble's Island, this (Thursday) morning, at about 9 o'clock. She is built after a superior model, combining large carrying with good sailing qualities. She is not yet named, being for sale.

☞ We advise all who wish to be informed respecting the theory and theology of the Spiritualists, to go and hear Rev. Mr. Ambler's last lecture, at the Temple, this evening. He is said to be a fine orator, and excellent scholar; and well entertains an audience. "Examine first, and then"———.

☞ The "Tremolo Attachment" of Prof. Louis, is a pleasant and valuable addition to the Melodeon, by which the instrument is made capable of a much greater variety of expression than otherwise.—The addition can be made to any good Melodeon without injury or defacement, and at a very moderate expense.

We have listened with much pleasure to Prof. Louis's performance, and examined the instrument. He will be happy to exhibit it to any ladies or gentlemen who may call on him at Mr. Pearson's Music Hall, Exchange Buildings, this day and evening.

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and mechanical matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY,

Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

TREMONT MILLS.

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Cocoas, Spices, &c.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.

(Sign of the Chinaman grinding coffee,)

141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give consumers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1.00
5 lb. Oolong "	1.75	5 lb. Java "	90
5 lb. Y. Hyson "	2.25	8 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the Genuine Article. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warrented to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well-known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

CHILSON'S NEW CONE FURNACE.

HAVING been appointed Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Furnace, for Portsmouth and vicinity, we beg to call the especial attention of those in want of Furnaces for warming buildings, to a careful examination of an Invention that must commend itself to every intelligent mind.—Especially do we invite those having first class dwellings, who have hitherto been prejudiced against the use of the common Hot Air Furnaces, for their extravagant waste of fuel, insufficient heating power, and scorching, dry, unhealthy heat from the red hot iron pots, and escape of poisonous gases through the joints of the iron heaters. Chilson's NEW CONE FURNACE overcomes all of these objections, and secures a saving of at least FIFTY PER CENT. in fuel over the common Furnaces. This is accomplished by retaining the smoke and gases in a cluster of cones over the fire, each cone serving as a retort in bringing the rays of heat and light to a focus at their tops, not unlike the action of the sun on a sun-glass By this the formerly wasted smoke and gases are made to warm the house. No one should fail of seeing this invention before deciding on their heating apparatus. There are sizes adapted to all classes of buildings. We give our especial attention to the putting up of these Furnaces on Mr. Chilson's new plan of setting them, and under his directions. We also sell Chilson's TWO FOR TABLE FURNACES and TWO STOVES, embracing the same principle as the Cone Furnaces; also, Cooking Ranges, Stoves, Registers, Ventilators, &c.

E. A. STEVENS,
Sept. 15. 46 Market street.

WE would respectfully inform the citizens of Portsmouth that we have appointed MR. E. A. STEVENS our Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Cone Furnace in Portsmouth and vicinity, to whom we would recommend all in want of a Furnace, FAR SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER MODE OF WARMING IN THIS OR ANY OTHER COUNTRY.

THE EAST BOSTON REGATTA.—A regatta came off at East Boston on the 17th, in the presence of a large assemblage of spectators, with the following result: 1st—For scull boats pulled by one man, with one pair of sculls; distance two miles, purse $15. This was won by the "Stephen Roberts," rowed by Thomas Dasey; time, 16:12. 2d—For working boats 28 feet or under, pulled by two men with two oars; distance four miles; purse $25.—Won by the "Medford," built by Vallerly; time 39:17. 3d—For two-oared gigs pulled by two men with two oars; purse $25; distance four miles. Won by the "Billow," built by Vallerly; time, 35:10. 4th—For four-oared gigs pulled by four men; purse $35; distance six miles. Won by the "Eagle," built in St. John; time, 38:41.—Boston Courier.

A LEGAL TECHNICALITY.—At York, Eng. Assizes, John Spencer and Mary Ann Davison were tried for setting fire to a number of "line stacks" at Podlington, the property of Mr. Robert Deniston. The prisoners could not obtain work at Mr. Deniston's mill, and therefore they set fire to his stacks, inflicting damage to the extent of no less than £11,000 only £8,000 of which is covered by insurance. "Line" is undressed flax, with the seed in it. A legal question arose whether the statute applied to this—was it "straw" was it "grain?" The jury pronounced a verdict of "Guilty," and found that the property destroyed was "grain;" the seed when crushed is used for cattle, and when converted into flour men employ it to make linseed-tea. Mr. Baron Bramwell still reserved the point as to "grain" for the decision of the Court of Criminal Appeal.

DESTITUTION IN LARGE CITIES.—There are occasionally, sad cases of destitution in large cities. In London, the first of the present month, a man named George Hawthorn, who had a sick wife and four children, was called upon by an importunate creditor who threatened to imprison him if he did not pay up. The unfortunate man was soon found in a water butt in the rear of the house, having drowned himself. It appeared that he had in vain tried to obtain work, and had been in a very distressed state of mind, his children not having had food for two days. In the pocket of the deceased was found a letter threatening him with legal proceedings if he did not pay a demand against him.

PRIZE FIGHT AND FATAL RESULT.—On Thursday the steamboat T. C. Clark left Brooklyn about 1 o'clock in the morning, with some 400 or 500 rowdies on board and two notorious prize fighters. Their names were Charles Lynch and Andy Kelly. The party landed at the Palisades opposite Yonkers, when the fight took place. It lasted two hours and fifteen minutes, and at the close of the 84th round Lynch was declared the victor, Kelly having slipt and fallen so heavily as to be unable to "come up to time." Lynch was dreadfully beaten. Kelly has died, having received severe internal injuries; The fight was for $300—$150 a side.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVALS. — The brig Planet, just arrived from Africa, brought to Salem, several monster snakes—anacondas; one eighteen feet long, and another thirty-five feet in length. These snakes when at liberty, are ravenous and dangerous, and will seize animals of large size, and after crushing them so as to break all their bones, will swallow them whole. The crew of the Planet report that the largest of these snakes had devoured a woman and a child before it was taken. On Saturday they were preparing to feed it with a good sized dog.

HON. MIKE WALSH has just returned from his peregrinations through the Emperor Alexander's dominion. He had visited most of the important places in Russia, such as St. Petersburg, Moscow, &c., and was present at the capture of Sebastopol. He astonished the drowsy Turks at Constantinople and gained admission as far into the grand Seraglio as was deemed prudent, hob-nobbed with Mehemit Ali, and sympathized with Gen. Canrobert on his departure from the Crimea. In short he has seen the Elephant, and made investments in the European and Asiatic cities to a considererable amount, if not more, and is now home to enjoy his otium cum dig.—New York News.

TOM THUMB AND BARNUM.—A private letter from Paris says that M. Vattemare has received a letter from Barnum, in which the latter asks V.'s advice about the project of his bringing Tom Thumb to Europe again on a speculation, whether his autobiography has not injured any such speculation, &c. Vattemare replied that on the contrary, he had now more reputation than ever, so much so that he would, perhaps, make more money to allow Tom Thumb to exhibit him.—New York Times.

ALARMED, BUT NOT DROWNED.—On Monday evening about 10 o'clock, some of the citizens of Newburyport were alarmed by an outcry of murder; and, following the sound, were quickly led to Patch's wharf, where in the darkness and rain, they discovered a man who gave his name as William Woodward, of Needham, in the dock and partly under the wharf, holding himself above the water by a rope attached to a vessel. He appeared to be perfectly sober, but could give no good reason for being on the wharf or in the dock.

A NEW FIELD PIECE. — The Dresden Journal says:

A great subject of conversation in the military circles of Berlin, is a new kind of small field piece, capable of carrying 1000 yards, and which is mounted on wheels, and so light that it can be drawn and manœuvered br a single man. It is said that pieces of this description are to be given to the infantry, and as a commencement each battalion of the guard is to be provide with two.

CROSHED TO DEATH.—On Tuesday evening a man named James Borron, a cooper, residing in Endicott street, in attempting to jump from the East Boston Ferry boat to the slip, on the Commercial street side, fell overboard and was crushed between the boat and slip, and killed instantly. He is said to have been inioxicated at the time. He was about 34 years old, and leaves a wife and three children.

FRIDAY, SEPTEM. 26. 1856.

A Political Reception.—The Concord, N. H., Patriot confirms the accounts previously given, of the great and stormy opposition to a public reception of President Pierce in Concord. The Patriot says:

A meeting of the citizens of Concord, called without distinction of party, and by prominent citizens of both parties, was held on the 22d instant, "to make appropriate arrangements for the reception of the President of the United States," on the the occasion of his contemplated visit to New Hampshire, on Thursday, the second day of October next. At this meeting, by the preconcerted arrangements of our political opponents, its purposes were entirely defeated. At the close of that meeting, the Democratic citizens organized, voted unanimously to give the President a public reception, and appointed the undersigned committee to make all the necessary arrangements. As this reception, by the deliberate action of our political opponents, and against the wishes of the Democracy of Concord, has thus been made to assume a political character, we respectfully invite the people of New Hampshire to co-operate with us in rendering the occasion such an one as shall be worthy of the high office of President of the United States, of Gen. Pierce, and of the citizens of this State.

The extract shows the extreme unpopularity of the President, in his own place of residence, where, shortly after his election, a meeting of almost any description, in honor of him, as President, would have been unanimous.

It is, if we understand the Patriot, now to be a political partizan ovation.

The Independent Democrat speaks of an article in the Boston Times, relating to this matter, as showing that the reception was to be a mere contrivance for making political capital. The Independent Democrat says:

To cap the climax, the Boston Times, owned and edited by Gen. Peaslee and his Boston Custom House clique, came out on Monday morning, with a grand flourishe of a leader, a column long, containing the "Call," glorifying President Pierce, and pointing to this as evidence of the "reaction" that is going on all over the country in favor of the measures of the Administration! Says the Times, "We are pleased that the President will make a visit to his old home," "where his foul-mouthed and mendacious assailants are pouring out torrents of vituperation" "to meet his defamers, and, although it is not expected that he will enter into a discussion of the political topics of the day, his fellow-citizens will have an opportunity of taking him by the hand and assuring him that their faith in and reliance upon his patriotism have never been shaken for a moment"—and that "the opinion of men whose good opinion is worth having, is unequivocally in favor of the President, and, we had almost said in favor of the measures of his administration, with scarcely a single exception"!

It is not strange that the citizens of Concord were not in ecstacies to accept such an invitation. It is not strange that the Times, which was distributed throughout the city, as a means to drum out the "faithful," should have also called out, as it did, the great body of our citizens. At the hour appointed, 7 o'clock, Depot Hall was nearly filled with men who—at least five sixths of them—were not willing to take Franklin Pierce by the hand and "assure him that their faith in his patriotism had never been shaken," and that they were "unequivocally in favor of the measures of his administration. * * * *

When it is seen that the reception was sought for the purpose of endorsing "the measures of his administration," we believe the honorable men of the Buchanan party will feel, that without stultifying themselves and sinking their self-respect, the people of Concord could do no otherwise than as they did.

The meeting passed the following resolve, by an immense majority:

Resolved, That it is inexpedient for us as citizens of Concord, to make any arrangements for giving President Pierce a public reception at this time.

President Pierce's Visit.—We learn from the N. H. Patriot, that the President will arrive in Concord on Thursday, Oct. 2d, at 11 o'clock, at which time and place his public reception will take place, and that arrangements will be made for extra trains on all the railroads to Concord, at half fare.

Dr. Sheldon's Case.—Dr. Sheldon appears in a communication in Zion's Advocate, announcing that he and his Church do not recognize the Council that endeavored to strip the Christian name from him. They regard the Council as ex parte, and those who called it as seceders. He closes his communication by saying:

"We entertain very little doubt, that when all the facts connected with the calling and the doings of this Council, and with the proceedings of those separating members by whom they were called, shall be known, all candid Baptists will pronounce them a nullity."

A hotel has just been erected in St. Paul, Minnesota, which, with its furniture, cost $150,000. So says the Pioneer. It is called the Fuller House.

REV. MR. NUTE.

The following letter from Rev. Mr. Nute has just been received by the Rev. Doct. Miles, Secretary of the American Unitarian Association, and published in the Boston Transcript, in accordance with the wishes of the writer. Its contents will be perused with painful interest by a wide circle of readers. The postscript is worthy of special attention at this time, by those engaged in collecting and forwarding garments for the destitute in the territory:

Lawrence, Kansas, Sept. 11.

Rev. Dr. Miles—Dear Friend: I am yet alive, to the disappointment of friends and foes, and once more out of the hands of the latter. But I have had a hard time of it. Two weeks of harassing captivity, with wearing exposures, have nearly broken me down in health. A few days will, I hope, set me up again, when I will try to give a full account of that fortnight's experience, and make public some of the facts which I have learned thereby of the plans and doings of the enemies to Freedom and to God.

An account of our capture and treatment for the first 24 hours, has probably been given you by those of the party who were bound East, and who were permitted to go down the river.

After that time, we endured brutality that will hardly seem credible to those who live among civilized people. I think it will b difficult to find a parallel to this case in all the annals of civil war, taking all the circumstances into account—the brutal murder of our brother—the heartless conduct toward the distressed widow—the cool open murder of the young man who attended us—the mockery of proclaiming us free to go to our friends, and the insulting and violent re-arrest on the levee, planned so as to leave the widow without any protection—our confinement in a close, crowded, filthy dungeon, after the tenth day of our imprisonment, when I was too ill to stand up, with other cruel deceits and blood-thirsty threats, so that on three occasions I had every reason to suppose that my last hour had come. But I have no heart or strength to finish the sentence now, or to give you anything more than a hint of what I have passed through since I last wrote you. It will be painful for me to go back to the beginning and give the history of the affair, and it is no mere personal consideration which can force me to undertake it.

And what is it all to the whole sum of outrage and barbarity that have been inflicted upon the people, and all over this territory during the present month? Let no one talk of the exaggerations of these outrages any longer. No one can over estimate the distress which has followed them. There is much of it that can never be made public—the butcheries of men of which there were no witnesses but God and the cowardly perpetrators—the sleepless terror of the defenceless women and children, whose neighbors have been murdered or driven from burning homes, and those yet more unhappy ones whose husbands and fathers have gone out to be heard from no more, or the tidings of whose savage butchery has come back to them.

It is estimated that over sixty families have been turned out of home. Many of these have had their all destroyed or plundered. Of the number killed we have as yet no definite estimate. Six persons with whom I am personally acquainted,—and three of them intimate and dear friends,—have been butchered.

But we have again conquered, though at a terrible cost. If it seal the final victory of our cause, it will be an ample satisfaction to us who have suffered only in our persons and in the spoiling of our goods, and the best consolation to those who have lost their friends in the contest.

Will it not be a crying shame to the confessors to Freedom and Right in the States, if this work of blood and rapine is not stopped, and that speedily.

Yours, yet in good hope,

E. Nute, Jr.

P. S. Unless aid is sent out there must be much distress here during the coming winter.

Warm clothing, blanket and other bedding will be needed by many from whom everything of the kind has been plundered.

E. N.

The Pottsville, Penn. Journal announces that a Union Electoral Ticket will be formed in that State in the course of a short time, which will enable every opponent of the Cincinnati Platform and the extension of Slavery, to vote for it without any sacrifice of principle on any other question he may now or has heretofore advocated. The ticket will be formed and published in time for the Presidential election.

The New York Herald predicts that the election in Pennsylvania next month will be as astounding as was the result in Maine. It thinks that the importation of southern politicians there will tend to that end; and that the democrats will lose thereby we have not a doubt. The public mind north is not in a fit state to receive such speeches as they make; and they can not speak in any State now without injury to the cause they would advance.—Newburyport Herald.

Personal.—We regret to learn from the New York Mirror of the continued and increasing illness of John G. Saxe. The stroke of paralysis which afflicted him during the last winter, seems to have terminated in a complete prostration.

Chloroform in Poisoning.—The Rochester Democrat records a case where chloroform was successfully used in a case of poisoning. The patient had taken by mistake four grains of strychnine, and two large emetics administered failed to produce vomiting. Violent spasms set in, and the jaws becoming firmly locked, his mouth could not be opened to administer remedies. Chloroform was then administered, which stopped the spasms in about ten minutes, when another powerful emetic was given. It was found necessary to keep the patient constantly under the influence of the æmesthetic, else the spasms would return. In ten minutes after the third emetic was taken, vomiting was produced. The patient was kept under the influence of chloroform until the next morning, the system throwing off the poison in the meantime, and he was thus rescued from the jaws of death.

A Drunken Fury.—The Boston Transcript says that on Tuesday night, officer Charles C. Boothby, of the 4th police station, was called to remove an intoxicated hackman named John Cook, from a passageway leading from Osborn place, where he was creating great disturbance by making loud outcries. Boothby entered the passageway, which was very dark, when Cook rushed upon him and stabbed him in the leg with a common jack-knife. The wound was inflicted on the outside of the leg, a little above the knee, and was nearly three inches in length, penetrating to the bone.

Cook, who is a stout, muscular fellow, and a perfect tiger when in liquor, was finally arrested with great difficulty, and put in confinement. He was brought before the Police Court on Thursday forenoon, when his counsel waived an examination, and the case was held for the action of the next Grand Jury—the defendant being committed in default of bail in the sum of $5000.

New York.—The New York Evening Post gives an estimate of the present standing of political parties in that State, as follows:

Fremont 217,900, Fillmore 139,400, Buchanan 140,800. For the city and county of New York the estimate allows to Fremont 18,000, Fillmore 22,000, Buchanan 30,000. The Post thinks Fremont will gain and the others lose between this and election.

The receipts of grain at New York, by the North River boats and barges, on Monday, amounted to 180,000 bushels of wheat, and 151,000 bushels of corn.

The receipts of wheat at Chicago are now about 80,000 bushels per day, and the total receipts of all kinds of grain amount to one million bushels per week.

A STANDARD MEDICINE.

Dyer's Healing Embrocation has a reputation unlike that of any other medicine. It takes precedence of any other used or recommended for the purposes, and whenever introduced into a family, no persuasion would induce them to be without it. Reader, if you have never used it, and have unfortunately become cut, wounded or bruised, or are suffering from pain, either external or internal, try Dyer's Healing Embrocation at once, and you will ever after keep it on hand.

☞ Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative is said to be the only sure cure for baldness and gray hair. It removes all scurf, dandruff and scrofulus eruptions from the scalp, and in a few days restores gray hair to its original color and beauty. This preparation contains no coloring matter, but resuscitates the hair by invigorating and restoring perfect health to the scalp, thus imparting new life and vigor to the roots, and by them causing healthy fluid to flow into each separate hair.—[Louisville Times.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED.—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to "cud under bare poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Rockville Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before known as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. s27 1uTh&S 6m.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—Six paces to the front, is the word to every body and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it: if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "toed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone!

LOCAL.

☞ We are pleased to find that but a very few readers agree with the Ballot, in its unjustifiable attack upon the grand Celebration to be held here in a few days. Every reasonable man, not pitiably warped and blinded by partizan bitterness, must see the falsity of the charges made. Every member of the Committee of Arrangements (for a list of which see advertisement) pronounces the article absurd.

Meantime, the arrangements progress as well as could be wished. Dr. Peabody, long connected with the literature of the country, and now editor of the leading Review, will deliver the Oration.

B. P. Shillaber, the printer-poet, will read a Poem.

T. B. Aldrich, and Albert Laighton, have written Odes to be sung. And J. T. Fields, J. G. Adams, and a host of others not less illustrious, will be heard from, either at the Oration, or at the Dinner.

☞ Col. William Beals, the great American Decorator, who arranged the magnificent Decorations and brilliant Designs of the Franklin Celebration at Boston, will visit this city to-day to make arrangements for public and private decorations for the Centennial Celebration. As Mr. Beals has a very large amount of material on table for this purpose, he is prepared to give the city a brilliant appearance at a comparatively small expense. The following is the contemplated route of the procession furnished us by Maj. H. F. Wendell, Chief Marshal:

Form on Market sq., pass through Congress, Middle, Summer, Austin, Cabot, Islington, Congress, Vaughan, Deer, Market, Daniel, Chapel, State, Chestnut, to the Temple.

After the services at the Temple, the procession will pass up Chestnut and State, through Middle, Court, Pleasant, Water and State streets to Market Square.

The entire route will doubtless be handsomely decorated.

☞ In the Board of Aldermen, Thursday evening, T. L. Tullock and others, applied for Jefferson Hall, on the evening of Nov. 3d, for a political meeting. Granted.

No action was taken on the special appropriation bill. The two-thirds required to pass it, were not present.

Business and Pleasure.—The Newburyport Herald has an article relative to the Agricultural Fair to be held in that city, Oct, 1st and 2d, for which great arrangements are being made; and the remarks are so entirely applicable to our Centennial Celebration that we adopt them:

The preparations are proceeding beyond our expectations. There is even a liberality in subscribing for the expenses that we had not thought to see. Thousands of strangers from the country will be in this city, and many will take that occasion to buy and sell, or make arrangements to, in the future. There are tides in the affairs of men—there are tides in trade; and it would be worth while for our merchants to inquire, whether they are prepared to reap its advantages. Will they give notice by the circulars or shop bills in the surrounding villages, or by advertisements in the papers, that every person may know beforehand where to obtain a hat, bonnet, shawl or carpet, cheapest—where flour and corn, sugar or shoes can be had best? People will consider these things before they start from home; in the crowd it will be too late.

We are desirous that strangers should be accommodated, and that our citizens should make the most of the matter. There are very many who have so long hidden themselves from the world, that even their neighbors have forgotten that they are in trade; and when we see their signs, we doubt whether they do not bear the names of dead men, and were forgotten to be removed by those who settled their estates.—A little brushing up would hurt nobody—and if they can be found, and present fresh goods at low prices, it will benefit them, not for a day, but for all time to come. There is no reason why the people in this county, and in New Hampshire, neighbors to us, should go to Boston, when they want a barrel of flour, a case of shoes, a hogshead of molasses, a piece of cloth, a ream of paper, or a new book, more now than fifty years ago; and they will not do it, if our traders make it for their interest—as they can do, and should do—to come here.

☞ On and after Monday, Sept. 29th, Trains on the Eastern Railroad will leave this city for Boston, at 7.15 and 11.15 A. M.,—and 5 P. M.

Leave Boston for Portsmouth at 7.30 A. M., 2.30, and 5 P. M.

ROCKINGHAM FAIR.—EXETER.

SECOND DAY.

The attendance was large during Thursday forenoon. Seventy-four pens had been constructed on the grounds, and nearly all of them were filled with fine-looking stock.

The Address was delivered by Hon. A. W. Dodge, of Hamilton, Mass.; was about an hour and a half in length, and a very instructive and entertaining discourse on Agriculture generally. About noon the plowing match came off. A large crowd attended this part of the proceedings.—Fourteen persons entered for the five Premiums which were to be awarded.

In the afternoon the award of the Premiums was announced. John C. Evans of South Hampton took the first Premium, $20, for plowing.

We had expected a larger display from Portsmouth; but an examination shows that two entries of animals and one entry of needle work comprises all that your city contributes. However, the excellence of what was sent, is shown by the fact that the three articles took Premiums—viz. a Cow and Calf, from the farm of Mark H. Wentworth, Esq.; a Family Horse, owned and entered by Frank W. Miller, and Needlework, made and entered by Miss Mary Flanders.

The scantiness of the display from the only city in the county, was a subject of frequent remark;—and the question was often asked, "Why does not Portsmouth take a greater interest in the Fair?"

Yours, x.

J. W. Moses would call the attention of his friends, customers, and the Public in general to the fact, that he has in his store, at No. 8 Market street, a good assortment of Broadcloths, Pilot and Beaver Cloths, plain and fancy Doeskins and Cassimeres, Black and fancy Velvets, plain and figured Satins and Grenadin Vestings, &c., which he will make to order or sell either with or without cutting or making, at fair prices.

He has a large assortment of furnishing Goods, consisting of Shirts, Collars, Cravats, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs, Under-Shirts and Drawers, &c., &c.

All Garments made by him warranted to be as good as can be had in this city. The above are new Goods, having been selected with care from large Stocks in Boston, and just received. September 26. is3w

LATER FROM EUROPE.

Halifax, Sept. 24.—The Royal Mail steamship, Capt Lang, from Liverpool 9 A. M. on Saturday, 13th, arrived at this port about noon to-day.

Great Britain.—There is no political news.

The crimping system at Quebec is attracting attention from those interested.

The London Post, government organ, recommends the Hudson Bay territory as a seat of convict establishments.

France.—Rumors are current that an exchange of colonies is negotiating between France and England—France to give up her factories on the main land of India in exchange for the Island of Mauritius.

It is also reported that France wishes to purchase from Denmark a strip of the coast of Iceland for fishing stations.

The Moniteur says that on the 8th, it being the anniversary of the capture of Sevastopol, the Emperor invited the 35th Regiment of the line, which is stationed at Biarritty, to dinner. The privates and subaltern officers were entertained in front of the barracks by the Emperor; and the Empress, who carried in her arms the Imperial Prince, came suddenly among them. The officers afterwards dined with their majesties.

Germany.—Frederick, Regent of Baden, who has been exercising the government, in consequence of the mental imbecility of his elder brother, has assumed the sovereignty on his own account, as Grand Duke, preparatory to his marriage with the Princess of Prussia.

Turkey.—Kars was formally restored by the Russians to the Turks Sept. 6. The principal part of the ceremony consisted of dinner and champagne given by the Russians.

Russia.—London papers contain additional accounts of the coronation of the Czar.

It is reported that the Czar is about to effect a full understanding in religious matters with the Pope.

A new edict removes all quarantine restrictions from Bessarabia, Black Sea, and Sea of Azof, until the close of navigation the present year.

India.—The annual report of the trade of Calcutta, as compared with the previous year, shows an improvement.

The sugar crop in Mauritius is unprecedentedly large, amounting to 125,000 tons. Cholera had ceased.

China.—The Chinese insurgents took possession of Tang Yang July 6, which brings them close to Souchow, the capital of the province, and the outlet of commerce from Shanghae.

The imperial fleet of 40 sail is blockaded near Nankin.

Telegraphic reports say that the American house of Wetmore & Co. has failed, but advices in London throw doubt on the statement.

The export of tea was 4,280,000 pounds, and of silk 2100 bales.

Australia.—Melbourne advices of June 14th are at Liverpool.

The balance of trade continued in favor of the Colony.

Agriculture and domestic manufactures were largely extending.

The mines continued productive.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 22.—Schuyler Colfax was mobbed at a gathering in Sour-aborn, Marshal County, where he was discussing political matters with Judge Stuart. The attack was made by a party of Irishmen upon a wagon load of women and children, proceeding to the meeting, and the melee soon became general.

One of the mob was shot dead.

A party of Irishmen pursued Mr. Suffel, a Republican, into the house of Rev. Mr. James, and there murdered him, cutting him to pieces with axes.

Other parties were clubbed, women maltreated, and Mr. Colfax himself assaulted and his life threatned, but he managed to escape.

The mob afterward took possession of the town, the citizens fleeing for their lives.

Steamer Burnt—100 Lives Lost.—Milwaukie, Sept. 25.—The steamer Niagara was burnt last evening, near Fort Washington, Lake Michigan. One hundred lives lost. Hon. John B. Marcy is supposed to be among the lost. Capt. Miller was saved.

New York, Sept. 25.—The Herald has advices from British Honduras to the 27th August. The British Colony of the Bay Islands had virtually ceased to exist, and the Mosquito King had been informed by the officers of her Brittanic Majesty's ship Cossack of the termination of the English Protectorate, and consequently the end of his rule. The Islands would be transferred to the Republic of Honduras.

Great Struggle.—The Philadelphia Enquirer says, "the Old Line Whigs are preparing for the great struggle."

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BREMEN, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. The constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purposes now put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, if I could not procure any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and all the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTROSE, IA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL, by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we cannot do without them. You, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., ALBION, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to these the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid of physicians gave her much relief. She was steadily declining, until Dr. STRONG, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues. — Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win an unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:—

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Piles arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgic and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability.

R. H. EDDY.

Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in a suring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1.00
5 lb Oolong "	1.75	5 lb Java "	.90
5 lb Y. Hyson "	2.25	8 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warrented to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well-known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Costiveness &c.

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

CHILSON'S NEW CONE FURNACE.

HAVING been appointed Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Furnace, for Portsmouth and vicinity, we beg to call the especial attention of those in want of Furnaces for warming buildings, to a careful examination of an Invention that must commend itself to every intelligent mind.—Especially do we invite those having first class dwellings, who have hitherto been precluded against the use of the common Hot Air Furnaces, for their extravagant waste of fuel, insufficient heating power, and scorching, dry, unhealthy heat from the red hot iron pots, and escape of poisonous gases through the joints of the fire pot, Chilson's NEW CONE FURNACE overcomes all of these objections, and secures a saving of at least FIFTY PER CENT. in fuel over the common Furnaces. This is accomplished by retaining the smoke and gases in a cluster of cones over the fire, each cone serving as a reflector to bring the rays of heat and flame to a focus at their tops, not unlike the effect of the sun on a sun-glass. By this the formerly wasted smoke and gases are made to warm the house. No one should fail of seeing this invention before deciding on their heating apparatus. There are sizes adapted to all classes of buildings. We give our especial attention to the putting up of these Furnaces on Mr. Chilson's new plan of setting them, and under his directions. We also sell Chilson's TRIO PORTABLE FURNACES and TRIO STOVES, embracing the same principle as the Cone Furnaces; also, Cooking Ranges, Stoves, Registers, Ventilators, &c.

E. A. STEVENS,

Sept. 15. 46 Market street.

WE would respectfully inform the citizens of Portsmouth that we have appointed MR. E. A. DEATH OF MR. A. S. THORNTON,
OF MANCHESTER, ENGLAND.

By the Arabia, we have tidings of the death of Mr. A. S. Thornton, long and well known, and much respected by all the dry goods importers in our Atlantic cities, as the senior partner in the house of Thornton, Firth & Co.

On Saturday, the 23d of August, a party occupying three carriages, left the residence of Mr. James McLaren, Whalley Range, near Manchester, for a drive. In one of them, a light four wheeled "drag," (a carryall without a top) were Mr. Thornton, two gentleman, and two children. On their return, near Altrincham, the horse, a high spirited animal, ran, and becoming wholly unmanageable, dashed the vehicle against the window of a corner house. All in the carriage were thrown out. Mr. Thornton seemed to have been thrown against the wall. When found, he was lying on the flags, his skull fractured, and his legs were so entangled in the "lock," or front part of the vehicle on which the wheels turn, that it was only with great difficulty that they could be released. He was insensible, and never recovered consciousness, expiring between six and seven o'clock on Sunday morning.

Mr. Thornton was born in Temple, N. H., in 1800. At 17 he entered the service of the late Eliphalet Kimball, in Salem, Mass. Mr. Kimball removed to Boston in 1824, and Mr. Thornton succeeded to his business, under the firm of Thornton & Torrey. From Salem he removed to the city of New York, where, under the firm of Thornton & Hodges, he yielded to the pressure of the commercial crisis in 1829. About 1830 he went to England, resolved to attempt a commission business in Manchester, with a single order of £1000, for his old friends, Kimball, Jewett & Co. By untiring industry and an integrity which commanded the confidence of all, Mr. Thornton steadily advanced until his house had become one of the largest of the large commission houses in Manchester.

Commercial prosperity did not render him insensible to the necessities of the less favored of fortune. With increasing ability, his benefactions both here and there, increased. The writer has been his almoner to the extent of many thousands of dollars. The poor in Manchester had reason to bless him. A missionary among them, to relieve the wants of body and soul, was supported for years by Mr. Thornton, and the late Mr. Street, then of the firm of Crafts & Street.

Few men have done greater honor to an ordinary New England village education than Mr. Thornton. J. W. K.

ELDER THURSTON.—Some time ago the papers had a statement that Elder Thurston formerly of Lowell, Mass., had been fined $100 in California, for robbery, &c. His friends have published evidence showing that the charge resulted from Mr. T.'s efforts as a reformer and peace-maker, and that his action was merely a constructive offence. The public at once contributed money to pay his fine; and resolutions approving his course were passed by the Sons of Temperance. Having inserted the original staement, we also give room to this correction.—Lowell News.

SINGULAR DEATH.—Capt. Benjamin Watts of Howard county, Mo., while walking in his park, in which he kept a number of elk and deer, was attacked by one of the former and killed, receiving some twelve or thirteen wounds from the horns of the savage animal, and having his clothes nearly all torn off. He made a vigorous defence, but was in a secluded spot, where no assistance could reach him. The elk was found with his horns stained with blood, and shot.

WILLIAM FRANKLIN.

Little seems to be known by the public, of Dr. Benjamin Franklin's only son.—The Newburyport Herald gives the following account of him.

Unlike his father, whose chief claim to veneration is for the invaluable services he rendered his country in her greatest need, the son was, from first to last, a devoted loyalist. Before the Revolutionary War, he held several civil and military offices of importance. At the commencement of the war, he held the office of Governor of New Jersey, which appointment he had received in 1763. When the difficulties between the mother country and the colonies were coming to a crisis, he threw his whole influence in favor of loyalty, and endeavored to prevent the legislative Assembly of New Jersey from sanctioning the proceedings of the General Congress of Philadelphia.—These efforts, however, did but little to stay the tide of popular sentiment in favor of resistance to tyranny, and soon involved him in difficulty. He was deposed from office by the Whigs to give place to William Livingston, and sent a prisoner to Connecticut, where he remained about two years in East Windsor, in the house of Capt. Ebenezer Grant, near where the Theological Seminary now stands. In 1778 he was exchanged and soon after went to England. There he spent the remainder of his life, receiving a pension from the British Government for the losses he had sustained by his fidelity. He died in 1813 at the age of 82.

As might be expected, his opposition to the cause of liberty, so dear to the heart of his father, produced an estrangement between them. For years they had no intercourse. When in 1784 the son wrote to his father, in his reply Dr. Franklin says, "nothing has ever hurt me so much, and affected me with such keen sensations, as to find myself deserted in my old age, by my only son; and not only deserted, but to find him taking up arms against me in a cause wherein my good fame, fortune, and life were all at stake." In his will, also, he alludes to the part his son had acted. After making him some bequests, he adds, "The part he acted against me in the late war, which is of public notoriety, will account for my leaving him no more of an estate he endeavored to deprive me of." The patriotism of the father stands forth all the brighter when contrasted with the desertion of the son.

A large Fremont meeting was held at Philadelphia on Monday evening, at which a letter was read from Samuel D. Ingham, a member of Jackson's cabinet, repudiating Buchanan and the Cincinnati platform, and ranking himself among the supporters of the "Conqueror of California." David Dudley Field, of New York, made an effective speech.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1856.

PRES. PIERCE'S RECEPTION.

The Boston Courier of Friday morning, discourses as follows on the Reasons why President Pierce should have been received with official honors in Concord.

President Pierce is to visit his home in New Hampshire next week, and the people of Concord are somewhat divided in opinion as to whether he should be received as President or as a partizan. Certainly he should be received as a President, maugre all his shortcomings, his failures and mischances. It is the height of ingratitude in the Free Soilers of Concord to offer any opposition to a public reception of President Pierce at his New Hampshire home, for he made their party what it is in the politics of the State. By his support of the abrogation of the Missouri Compromise, he has lifted them out of obscurity. In consequence of the universal approbation of the compromise measures, which settled the question of slavery agitation for the time, and which Mr. Pierce declared in his inaugural speech should not be troubled in his time with his consent, the Free Soilers were buried so deep in the political earth, that the hand of resurrection could not have reached them, had it not been extended to them by Pierce and Douglas in the Kansas bill; and by their assistance these men were brought to the surface, and were enabled to spread themselves and their doctrines all over the land. The Abolitionists of New Hampshire owe a lasting debt to President Pierce for bringing them out of the darkness into which they had fallen, and they should receive him with shouts of praise, and with loud hosannas, instead of groaning at him, and passing resolutions against him and his measures. Republics are ungrateful. There would not have been a corporal's guard of Free Soilers in Concord at this day had it not been for President Pierce and his friends, and yet this hugely swollen party refuses to recognize its great benefactor as a public man.

WHAT CAN WE BELIEVE?—Can we believe that there is no pro-slavery party in the country, and no body of men who propose to extend slavery? Then Atchison and Buford did not march into Kansas with any purpose of extending slavery:—The pro-slavery laws of the Shawnee Legislature are a myth: The fight in Kansas has been about nothing, both sides being perfectly agreed that it shall be a free State.

But what man in his senses believes, or can believe it?

LETTER OF SENATOR FISH.—The N. Y. Courier and Enquirer publishes a long letter from Senator Fish, giving his reasons for repudiating the Fillmore and supporting the Republican ticket.

In that ticket we find no assault upon a single Whig principle; no danger of an unsafe and belligerent foreign policy; no extreme or violent propositions in regard to slavery where it now exists; but only that resistance to its advance and spread over soil long since made free, which I have ever advocated. In such a crisis, and under such circumstances, my voice must be there. I can, without difficulty, perceive my way clear to that point, and though still a Whig, shall cast my vote for Fremont and Dayton, esteeming such a course the wisest and best remedy for present evils and trusting that the time is not far distant when political organizations will again assume broader and more catholic grounds.

☞ Hon. Humphrey Marshall, of Kentucky, has written a letter, recommending the friends of Buchanan to drop their candidate and go in for Fillmore and Donnelson, as the only hope of the South in the present contest. He says:

"A union upon Buchanan will not, cannot, now accomplish that result. He is too weak in the free States to do anything there with him. I declare that I do not believe he can carry a single free State if Fillmore were dropped to-day. I feel certain he could not."

DAILY INDEPENDENT DEMOCRAT.—The Concord Independent Democrat announces a campaign Daily, of which the first number will be issued next Monday evening, and thereafter every day, except Tuesdays, until after the Presidential election, and including one number containing the final result, with the votes in the several States. Twenty-five cents a copy—in all cases in advance.

MR. GILMORE.—At the citizens' meeting in Concord, Mr. Joseph A. Gilmore said that he was one of the signers of the call. He thought the reception was not to be a political thing, and he would receive the President. He knew the State would go for Fremont anyhow, and General Pierce could not help it.

☞ The Richmond (Va.) Whig says:—"We consider that the result of the election in Maine puts a complete extinguisher upon Buchanan's prospects for the Presidency."

☞ Rev. J. H. Thyng has resigned the pastoral charge of the First Baptist Church in Gilmanton, N. H.

STEAMER NIAGARA.—Some further particulars are received in relation to this vessel, which on the evening of the 24th, on Lake Michigan, took fire four miles from Fort Washington, and was burnt to the water's edge and sunk.

Steamer Traveller went to her assistance, and the following passengers were saved by her; Harvey Ainsworth, Royalton, Vt. J. B. Curtis, Steuben, New York; Henry Locke, do.; Dr. S. H. Allen, Concord, N. H.

Mr. Hugh Kennedy lost his wife and daughter.

Three dead bodies, names unknown, are at Fort Washington—all women. One has a ring marked "Z. D. G."

The Niagara had a very heavy freight, which was all lost. The captain and crew were saved by the propeller Illinois.

Several sailing vessels picked up many passengers.

A second dispatch from Chicago, says:

The Niagara left Collingswood at 2 P. M., on Monday, with between 150 and 175 passengers. Twenty-five left the boat at Sheboygan, where she arrived at 2 P. M., yesterday. When about two hours out from Sheboygan the passengers discovered fire issuing from the engine room, and in a few minutes the whole cabin was on fire.

The wildest consternation followed. The boats were lowered, and all filled, but capsized, except one containing twenty passengers.

Numbers jumped overboard, and were instantly drowned.

The steamer Traveller was 10 miles distant when the fire was discovered, but saved 30 passengers.

The propeller Illinois, bound down, also picked up about 30, and landed them at Sheboygan.

A life boat at Fort Washington rescued 20 persons, whose names have not been received.

George Haley, clerk of the Niagara, is supposed to be lost.

Probably 50 or 60 lives are lost in all.

There was a rumor in the city this afternoon that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

It is stated that immediately after the fire was discovered, a keg of powder exploded, blowing the flames in every direction.

The first engineer was not aboard.

BALLOON ASCENSION.—Among the attractions at the Fair at Newburyport, Oct. 2d and 3d., Mr. Wise and his son, the great Pennsylvania æronauts, will ascend in the magnificent balloon, "Young America," on Friday, the 3d. The ascension will be made from a floating platform, to be built in the middle of Frog Pond, upon the banks of which there will be ample room for 20,000 spectators, who will have the whole operation fully in view. This exhibition is paid for by subscriptions in that city, and will be free to all.

CHURCH BURNED AT JAMAICA PLAIN.—The elegant Church at Jamaica Plain, belonging to the Baptist Society—Rev. Heman Lincoln, Pastor—was totally destroyed by fire on Thursday night—without a doubt the work of an incendiary or incendiaries.

☞ A SOUTHERN OPINION.—The New Orleans Courier of Aug. 23d says:

"Our belief is, or, speaking more candidly, our fear is, that if there should be any election by the people, Fremont will be elected."

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—On Friday of last week, as two ladies, one named Barton, the other her sister, were attempting to cross to Goat Island, Niagara Falls, by means of some planks temporarily placed upon the new bridge, the supports gave way, and they were precipitated from the bridge. Mrs. B. fortunately seized an iron rod connected with the bridge, while her sister, after vain endeavors to sustain herself by grasping Mrs. B.'s dress, was thrown into the raging waters beneath.—The plank fell with her and after several attempts she grasped it. By the mercy of Providence the plank was thrown into the water diagonally with the shore, and the current, which was bearing her so furiously to destruction, drew the lower end of the plank against the bank, when several persons seized it, and after great exertions finally drew her out in a fainting condition. It was a miraculous escape.—Mrs. Barton, after clinging to the rod for some time, was lifted from her dangerous situation by some persons who had rushed to the spot.

THE MOUNT VERNON HOTEL.—It is now suspected that this immense establishment was set on fire by robbers who first murdered the elder Mr. Cain and his daughters, and then carried away their money. The jewelry of the family was found near their charred remains, but not a dollar of gold or silver, of which they must have had a considerable sum. Young Mr. Cain who escaped from the fire, but so badly burned that he died afterwards, alleged that he saw a man in his room.

We learn from Philadelphia that a boat from the ship Ocean Home has been picked up, containing Edward Harvey, the second mate; Frederick Snow, and James Monaghan, seaman, and one passenger unknown.

NEW YORK, 26th.—Geo. Steers, the eminent shipbuilder, was instantly killed yesterday, in consequence of being thrown from his carriage.

MELANCHOLY WARNING TO SNUFF DIPPERS.—Although the habit of snuff dipping has been proven by medical men to be injurious, and in many cases fatal to the human system, yet the practice seems to be followed by females with an avidity that would signify that the habit is graceful, beautiful and delightful. What an infatuation. To look at the pale and swarthy faces of our community, with lips debauched with the pernicious compound one might exclaim in astonishment "why will ye die." Well do we remember, how rosy the cheeks, how bright and sparkling the eyes, and how gay was the step of an esteemed female of our acquaintance, who but half a year ago, seemed the personification of health and beauty, but now lies beneath the cold earth, solely from the use of snuff. While her soul glowed warm with animation, and her heart beat high with hopes of the future, never did she dream that her own hands were doing for her the work of death—that she was stopping up the avenues of life, by clogging her lungs with snuff. The unfortunate young lady referred to, was known and beloved throughout this community, and we mention the facts hoping that others may take warning.

The Wheeling (Virginia) Gazette thus pathetically deals with one of the nastiest vices of Southern life. "Snuff-dipping" consists of rubbing snuff into the gums and around the mouth, with a soft stick broomed up at the end with biting and moisture. This most pernicious form of using tobacco, is confined to the South and to its women. Through the States of Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina and Western Virginia, the practice of snuff dipping is said to be nearly general.—Albany Evening Journal.

MAN DROWNED.—On Monday evening, the mate of the brig Margaret Elizabeth, from Joggins, N. S. with coal, while going down Atlantic Wharf, Portland, for the purpose of getting on board his vessel, stepped into an open space and fell overboard. Two companions with him made every effort to save him, but, when reached, life was extinct, though the body was warm.—The night was very dark, so that it was impossible to see the opening. The mate was returning from an auction sale, where he had purchased a gold watch.—State of Maine.

STATE ELECTIONS.—The only State elections that will take place prior to November are the following: Florida, Oct. 6th; South Carolina, Oct. 13; Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, Oct. 14th. The State election in California, does not occur this year till November 4th day of the Presidential election.

MURDER.—On Tuesday morning, at Assonett, Mass., a woman named Adeline Clark shot Simmons Hathaway, with whom she had been living during several years past, killing him instantly. The parties were in a drunken quarrel at the time, and it is supposed that Hathaway first attacked her with an axe.—Providence Post.

The Utica Herald reports that Alexander Boyce left his house in the town of Niles, Cayuga county, nearly three weeks since, and last Sunday his decaying corpse was found suspended by the neck to a tree in some woods near Moravia. He was forty years old. The suicide was induced by the suspected infidelity of his young wife.

A STANDARD MEDICINE.

Dyer's Healing Embrocation has a reputation unlike that of any other medicine. It takes precedence of any other used or recommended for the purposes, and whenever introduced into a family, no persuasion would induce them to be without it. Reader, if you have never used it, and have unfortunately become cut, wounded or bruised, or are suffering from pain, either external or internal, try Dyer's Healing Embrocation at once, and you will ever after keep it on hand.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED.—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to "read under bare poles," and therefore have not need the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Rockville Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuTh&S 6m

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronized than any other ever established in this country. It is the same Richardson's Bitters which has restored so many invalids to health throughout New England during the past thirty years.

N. B.—Beware of imitations called Sherry Wine Bitters. The genuine have a fac simile of my signature upon the outer envelope. For sale by Druggists everywhere, and at my office, No. 51 Hanover St., Boston. au29 6m

L. J. Brown of Stockbridge, Vt., came to his death in Chicago from blowing out the gas in his chamber at the Massasoit House, instead of shutting it off. He was resuscitated by the physicians and believed to be out of danger, but died a few hours afterwards.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along!"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along."—Six paces to the front, is the word to every body and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it: if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "hoed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

LOCAL.

☞ The volunteer Military Company formed for escort of the Procession, at the Printing Centennial Celebration, we are informed have voted to adopt the name of "City Guards." They will number nearly fifty muskets, will procure a handsome uniform from abroad; and under the drill and command of Col. A. J. Beck, will not fail of doing credit to themselves and the occasion.

It is expected the Continentallers will also join in.

W. H. Y. Hackett, Esq., an old line whig of Portsmouth, N. H., has taken the stump for Buchanan.—Boston Post.

We are informed that the above statement, which appeared in the Post yesterday, is erroneous. Mr. Hackett is still, as he always has been, a whig. He intends to vote for Fremont for President, and this (our informant says) is the intention of nearly all the whigs of Portsmouth.—Boston Adv.

Is not the Post premature in its announcement with regard to Mr. Hackett? Mr. Hackett is a whig, and we do not believe that he will take any ground in opposition to Mr. Fillmore.—Boston Courier.

It is William H. Hackett, Esq., who has taken the stump for Buchanan,—an error easily made.

Wm. H. Y. Hackett, Esq., was a supporter of Taylor & Fillmore,—and is a supporter of Fremont & Dayton.

☞ The lot of land, on the southwest corner of State and Pleasant streets, 56 by 62 feet, was sold at auction on Friday, by H. F. Wendell, Esq., for $1700. We hope that the unsightly and unsafe old rattle-traps of buildings, which have too long encumbered this fine location, will now be removed, whoever may own the property. Something should be done,—indeed, should long ago have been done—to remove such a blemish, from this pleasant part of the city.

FIRE.—A barn belonging to Col. Samuel Snell, of Dover, on the Dover Neck Road, was burnt on Monday evening about 8 o'clock, with its contents, consisting of ten tons of hay. The fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary. A young man named Nath'l Card has been arrested on suspicion of setting it on fire. He is the same person who was tried two or three years ago for burning the barn of John Currier, when the jury acquitted him. He was bound over in the sum of $500.—Dover Enquirer.

The light was so bright in Portsmouth that it was supposed that the fire was on the north side of the cisy. Fire was cried, and the bells were rung before it was found that the fire was seven or eight miles distant.

PORTSMOUTH & CONCORD RAILROAD.—On and after Monday next, the train which has usually left Portsmouth at 6 P. M., will leave at 4.15. The train which has heretofore left Concord for Portsmouth at 5.20 P. M., will leave at 3.30 P. M.

☞ Measures are in progress for a Republican mass meeting at the Union House; Rye Beach, on Wednesday, Oct. 1st.

ORIENTAL GALLANTRY.—The Court Journal gives a long account of the Queen of Oude's visit to England, and relates a somewhat amusing incident which occurred at Alexandria, where the royal party embarked in the Indus:—"The weather rough, and the ship rolled slightly as the Princesses went on board, and being encumbered in their movements by the drapery which enveloped their persons, they lost their footing and fell on the deck of the vessel. More than one of the officers of the ship (of course unacquainted with the rules of etiquette of Oriental society) sprang forward to render assistance, but they were jealously kept back by the eunuchs, and the ladies were left to scramble up again as they best could, a la heathen."

TAY & WEBSTER.—On Saturday evening, upon invitation of R. L. Tay, Esq., proprietor of the Webster Farm, the citizens of Franklin, including the old friends and neighbors of the late Daniel Webster, assembled at that place for the purpose of dedicating a new flag bearing the words "Fremont and Dayton." All hands turned out about the middle of the afternoon and formed a procession, and under escort of a band of music proceeded to the residence of Mr. Tay. The flag was flung to breeze opposite the ancient mansion where Webster spent his boyhood days, amidst the booming of cannon and the shouts of the multitude.

S. P. Hanscom, Clerk of the Kansas Congressional Committee, then made a speech. He alluded in fitting and eloquent terms to the scenes with which he was surrounded, and to the great departed, whose name had made them hallowed.

Mr. Tay, the proprietor of the farm, who has always been a Democrat of the old school, made a short address, thanking his friends and neighbors for their generous response, upon the short notice of only a few hours, and announced his intention to vote for Fremont and Dayton on the 4th of November next. The meeting closed with cheers for Fremont and Jessie.—Boston Jour.

WASHINGTON, 25th.—Kansas.—There is no truth in the staement of letters from Kansas, made on the reported authority of Gen. Smith, that the President has ordered a nolle posequi to be entered in the cases of the free state prisoners.

Recent official advices from Gov. Geary and Gen. Smith have inspired the belief that order will soon be restored in Kansas, while their action, thus far, meets with the cordial approval of the administration.

The Panama Question is still pending before the cabinet, and definite action is anticipated through next week.

The President will leave on Tuesday or Wednesday, going directly through to New Hampshire by railroad, his object being to attend to his long-neglected private affairs. Last night he had a return of the chills.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The suit brought by Passmore Williamson against Judge Kane came up for argument, 24th, at Media, before Judge Haines. Mr. Shephard, the defendant's counsel, discussed the question of protection by the judicial character of jurisdiction of the Court in allowing habeas corpus, and commitment for contempt. The counsel on the other side asked time to prepare a reply. Mr. G. M. Wharton, the defendant's senior counsel, contended that the time for argument had been fixed by plaintiff's counsel, and that nothing had been offered by the defence except such ojections as ought to have been anticipated. The case, however, was finally postponed till the 25th of December.

DONALD MCKAY, ESQ.—We regret to learn that our friend Donald McKay, Esq., the king of ship-builders, has felt obliged to call a meeting of his creditors. This is owing mainly to his being called upon to pay at once a large amount, the result of an award against him in England, where he has lost very largely in connection with those who have purchased parts of his ships. We trust that his suspension is but temporary. At a meeting of his principal creditors it was thought advisable to state publicly that his assets are abundant, and his property is in such a condition that a very short time will be required to liquidate all his liabilities, leaving him ample means to continue his business. We take pleasure in saying that the course pursued by him in this matter is highly creditable to him, and meets the approval of his creditors.—Boston Traveller.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—Kansas.—A letter to the Republican, dated Westport, Sept. 19, says Gov. Geary, at the head of several companies of dragoons, had gone in search of Gen. Lane, with a determination to arrest him, if he is in the territory. He was en route for Nebraska. The pro-slavery party were taking measures to thoroughly organize for the election on the first Monday in October.

A COSTLY ADVERTISEMENT.—The Legislative Assembly of Victoria, Australia, having ordered a list of all the registered voters to be published in the local newspapers, the Melbourne Argus came out on four different days with forty-eight pages of double demy: the charge for the advertisement amounted to £10,200, or in the vicinity of $50,000.

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," run the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

CHEAP AND SAFE LIGHT.
Newell's Patent Safety Lamp & Lamp Feeder.
Warranted to prevent all accidents from the use of Burning Fluid, Patent Oil, Resin Oil, Camphene, and other explosive compounds used for the production of light. This invention is applied to common Fluid, Solar and Camphene Lamps, Lamp Feeders, Fluid Holders, Lanterns.
We respectfully invite the attention of the public to Newell's improved Solar Fluid Lamp, in the argand form, which gives a steady, brilliant flame, the nearest to gas that has ever been produced, the cost of burning being less than one cent an hour.
These Lamps are particularly adapted to Factories, Churches, Hotels, Stores and Parlors. Oil Solars can be altered using the same shade. Common Fluid Lamps can be changed to Safety Fluid Lamps.
Professor Silliman says, "All the so-called burning fluids are explosive whether limpid or colored, and to pretend that they are not so is to deceive the public, but with the protection above named, I should have no hesitation to use it, and I do with entire confidence recommend it to my friends and to others who consult me on the subject, always protesting against its unguarded use which has produced so many distressing and fatal results."
These Lamps have been extensively used in all parts of the United States for more than four years, and there has not the slightest accident occurred with them. They have the sanction of the greatest scientific skill in the country, such as Profs. B. Silliman and J. Robb, Drs. Charles T. Jackson and A. A. Hayes, etc.
We keep constantly on hand the best of Burning Fluids.

The Parlor Sewing Machine.
This new and beautiful machine, designed for every variety of Family Sewing and Tailor's Work, forms each stitch the same as sewing by hand. The superiority of this machine over every other is at once apparent from the fact that it actually sews, making, with matchless precision, the real "life-like" hand stitch in all its changes—running, hemming, over and over, back and quarter back, and side stitching, enabling a person to adapt the stitch to the work or fabric as desired. Every part is perfectly simple and easily understood; no wadding to spool and continually take care of, as on other machines; no peculiar mode of threading the needles; no rewinding spools, but using a single thread, and the needles threading themselves, it at once becomes the lady's ready seamstress at will, and the tailor's substitute for a dozen hands.—With the turn of a single screw, each different stitch is obtained, in which a person with the directions sent soon becomes expert. No bracing, basting, bobbing, chaining, tambering, skipping, pinching, or unravelling, but real ladies' sewing. Every machine is warranted perfect, and finished up in a variety of elegant styles, truly making an ornamental seamstress. Manufactured only by HOWARD & DAVIS, Exhibition and Salesroom, 202 Washington street, Boston.

Diseases Successfully Treated.
REMARKABLE CURES PERFORMED—WORDS OF ADVICE AND OF CAUTION.—Encouraged by the very liberal patronage bestowed upon me by my friends and the public during the past few years, and the extraordinary success which has attended my efforts for the cure of the sick, I am determined not to relax my exertions to further usefulness, but rather to prepare myself for renewed labors in my undertaking
That diseases heretofore considered incurable can be conquered, I have abundant proof in my own experience. To name a few particular cases, I might mention Mrs. P., cured of vomiting blood, after having been given up by her family physicians to die. Mr. T. cured of a violent eruption over his head and parts of the body, and pronounced incurable by one of the best physicians in Norfolk county. Mr. S. cured of consumption.—Mr. B. of liver and kidney complaint. Mrs. T. of cancer in the breast as large as a quart bowl. Mr. B. of secondary symptoms, after having been brought near the grave by a doctor of respectable city practice. Mrs. M. of consumption. Mr. C. of very alarming consumptive symptoms; and I might go on with such cases and fill columns. I will give any one the full name of any of the above if they will apply to me at my office.
HOPE, THEN, IS FOR THE SICK.—I do not make a business of sending medicines to regions, but rely for speedy and permanent cures upon being able to prescribe the medicines myself. Persons can consult by letters and have their medicines sent by express.
ADVICE I am always glad to give freely, and persons calling upon me need not feel under any obligations to take medicines, unless they choose to do so.
WORDS OF CAUTION. This is an age of new things; among much good there is much humbug. Be not over anxious to be experimented upon. For ten years I have found my medicines to be safe and efficacious, and the public may rely that they will do what is promised for them.
I WARRANT A CURE in all curable cases. If a person gives me my intended a fair trial without receiving the promised benefit, and is afterwards cured by some other physician, I will refund all the money paid me.
A full description of my medicines and many certificates of remarkable cures, together with much useful information, can be had by applying at my office. My book sent by mail on the receipt of a postage stamp.
The following is my advertising card:—

IMPORTANT NOTICE!!
GARDNER CHILSON has just completed and patented in America, England and France, his his new invention the

CONE FURNACE,

and asks the special attention of those about erecting or remodelling buildings, as dealers in Hot Air, Steam, or Hot Water Furnaces, and all interested in Steam Power to carefully examine this invention, which entirely changes the principle and character of Hot Air Furnaces, developing another and a new principle, and obviating all former objections to their use.
The practical operation of a number of these Furnaces, erected during the past winter, points out a new discovery in science by which the most wonderful economy in fuel has been attained, and clearly demonstrates that the waste heat lost from chimneys is enough to warm every dwelling in the city. By this invention the heat formerly lost is made to warm the house.
This discovery—simple in it self—is the daily wonder of those who witness its results, and it becomes a matter of surprise, that a plan at once so simple and practical in its operation, should thus far have entirely escaped the notice of scientific men. We believe no one who investigates this principle will be likely to use a furnace constructed on any other principle, and we invite all who would witness its operation to call at the store of CHILSON, GOULD & CO.,
Nos. 99 & 100 Blackstone St., Boston.

Frank Jones' Improved

COOKING STOVE.
THE above cut represents a new and beautiful Cooking Stove which the subscriber offers to the public as the very best in use. Having been at great expense in getting up this new pattern, sparing neither time or exertion to bring out a Stove that shall give perfect satisfaction, we feel confident, after having had so much experience in the Stove business, in offering this as the most convenient, heaviest, and most economical Cooking Stove in the market. FRANK JONES.

CHILSON'S NEW CONE FURNACE.
HAVING been appointed Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Furnace, for Portsmouth and vicinity, we beg to call the especial attention of those in want of Furnaces for warming buildings to a careful examination of an Invention that must commend itself to every intelligent mind.—Especially do we invite those having first-class dwellings, who have hitherto been prejudiced against the use of the common Hot Air Furnaces, for their extravagant waste of fuel, insufficient heating power, and scorching, dry, unhealthy heat from the red hot iron pots, and escape of poisonous gases through the joints of the trail heaters. Chilson's NEW CONE FURNACE overcomes all of these objections, and secures a saving of at least FIFTY PER CENT. in fuel over the common Furnaces. This is accomplished by retaining the smoke and gases in a cluster of cones over the fire, each cone serving as a retort in bringing the rays of heat and light to a focus at their tops, not unlike the action of the sun on a sun-glass. By this the formerly wasted smoke and gases are made to warm the house. No one should fail of seeing this invention before deciding on their heating apparatus. There are numerous defects in classes of buildings. We give our especial attention to the putting up of these Furnaces on Mr. Chilson's new plan of setting them, and under his directions. We also sell Chilson's TRIO PORTABLE FURNACES and TRIO STOVES, embracing the same principle as the Cone Furnaces; also, Cooking Ranges, Stoves, Registers, Ventilators, &c.
E. A. STEVENS,
Sept. 15. 48 Market street.

WE would respectfully inform the citizens of Portsmouth that we have appointed MR. E. A. STEVENS our Agent for the sale of Chilson's New Cone Furnace in Portsmouth and vicinity, to whom we would recommend all in want of a Furnace, FAR SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER MODE OF WARMING IN THIS OR ANY OTHER COUNTRY.

Morning Chronicle.

MONDAY, SEPTEM. 29, 1856.

REV. DR. SHELDON.—We learn from a statement in the Baptist Advocate, that, of the Baptist Church in Bath, where Rev. Dr. Sheldon was lately pastor, about one fourth of the resident members of the church adhere to him, while the three fourths do not agree with him in doctrine, and do not wish him for their pastor. He was requested some time since by the deacons of the church to resign the pastoral charge of the church, but declined doing so. After several movements, at a meeting called for the purpose, July 14, resolutions were passed declaring the belief of the church that the doctrines taught by Dr. Sheldon, in respect to Sin and Redemption, were not in accordance with the views held by the church, and were not scriptural; and that the church ought and thereby did withdraw their fellowship from him. The resolutions passed by a vote of 40 to 14—nearly 3 to 1.

Dr. S. kept on preaching, as before, pleading some informality in the church action. His opponents proposed to call a mutual council—his friends refused—his opponents called one ex parte. This council took action in favor of his opponents, and against the Doctor—which we suppose settles the case that he is no longer of them.

☞ Hon. N. P. Banks addressed an immense assembly, Thursday afternoon, in front of the New York Merchants' Exchange, and was heard with great interest for two hours, in spite of the attempts of a gang of Fillmore rowdies to disturb the meeting. Among other points, Mr. Banks compared the production of wealth in the free States with that in the slave States, and showed the causes of the difference. One reason why the South produces less is, that the leading men are all busy governing us. Mr. Banks proposed that we should partially relieve them by doing our share. Thus relieved, they will pay more attention to agriculture, manufactures, mining, &c.

☞ Respecting the proceedings at the meeting in Concord, which changed the reception of President Pierce from a general to a political party affair, the Statesman says:

The meeting would have passed off in quietness, but for the unusal step taken by Gen. Low, in announcing Col. George for Chairman, against the wishes of the meeting. But for that circumstance, no violations of decorum would have been committed. That step was the turning point, and but for the way it was taken, there would have been none but the most pacific proceedings.

A New York correspondent of the Rochelle Advertiser says—"We have been visiting that 'jungle of literary lions,' Lenox, Mass., and the cottage and home of Mrs. Fanny Kemble, beautifully situated near a natural grove, and commanding a pretty lakelet in a nook between the wooded hills. The lady's eldest daughter is there spending the summer with her mother.—Mrs. Kemble will not permit any one to call her by her married cognomen."

The recent storm on the Mexican Gulf is said to have been one of the most terrible ever known there. An old salt tells the Galveston (Texas) Gazette that he never knew what a real hurricane was before. His vessel bounded about on the waves like a cork. The sea fowl took refuge on the decks; and one man could not hear the voice of another, though lips and ear were brought together. The sea was one mass of foam, and all sounds undistinguishable in a universal roar.

KENTUCKY SURE FOR FILLMORE.—The Louisville Journal of the 15th concludes an article with the following assurance:—

We have received reliable reports from almost every portion of the State, and everywhere our party is gaining. We say confidently to our friends everywhere, be of good cheer, Kentucky is safe for Fillmore and Donelson. We have all the enthusiasm in our ranks. The brag and bluster game of our opponents will not succeed here.

☞ Steamer Governor, from Bath to Boston, Friday, was run into by a schooner, which made a hole into the ladies' cabin and carried away the "Captain's office." No one was hurt. If that "captain's office" should not be brought back, the Boston Chronicle says the Governor will be more popular with those who like anything better than to "walk up" and "settle."

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher "had some words," which resulted in separate beds for the night, during which the lady hung herself by the bedclothes from the chamber window, and was found dead. They lived in Chicago, and Mr. F. who was a teamster, was some what addicted to drink.

☞ The jury summoned at Freetown, Mass., to investigate the circumstances attending the shooting of David S. Hathaway by Mrs. Adeline Clark, have rendered a verdict of wilful and malicious murder against the woman. At the inquest, Mrs. Clark stated that she fired at Hathaway in self-defence, and she also stated that when she shot at him he was so drunk that he could not get up from the floor where he had fallen.

☞ Dr. Nathan H. Dillingham and Amos D. Lewis of Boston, have been arraigned in the Police Court to answer to the charge of producing abortion and death of Miss Frances Patterson, a native of Gardiner, Maine, and a young lady of much personal beauty. She died and was buried, but on account of some suspicions, the body was disinterred, and a post mortem examination was had. They were each held in $5,000 to appear on Tuesday next for examination.

FARM SCHOOL.—The youths of this establishment came up to Boston on Friday, and visited the Franklin Statue. Here they were introduced by Deacon Moses Grant to Mayor Rice, who addressed them about a quarter of an hour. The boys then re-formed into a procession and marched to Faneuil Hall, when they were conducted through the Mechanics' Fair. The little fellows numbered ninety-nine, all appearing healthy and happy.

☞ Col. Wm. Boardman died at his residence in Nashua, on Wednesday last, aged 69 years. He was a prominent and influential citizen, a civil engineer of wide reputation, and many are the monuments of his mechanical skill in various parts of the country. He was buried with Masonic honors.

☞ The steamer Atlantic, from New York for Liverpool, Sept. 27, took out about one million dollars in specie.

The steamship Black Warrior, from New York for Havana, took out about two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in specie, principally silver coin.

☞ The Portsmouth (Va.) Transcript, an independent sheet, "thinks it very probable that North Carolina will fall back on Fillmore," in the Presidential election.

☞ A man in Salem, Mass., has this season raised Sweet Potatoes, which the Register says look "fair, fresh and inviting."

Lamartine, who is suffering from rheumatism, has received from the Emperor of Brazil one hundred thousand francs as a payment of 3000 subscriptions to the Familiar course of Literature.

Beecher (Rev. Rifle B.) said in a stump speech at Hudson, the other day, that if Fremont could not be elected, he preferred the dissolution of the Union.

We have seen the above item in several papers—but it sounds more like Bogus or some other B, than like Beecher. Until we see it in some fair report of his speech, we must suppose somebody lies under a mistake.

The Pulaski Democrat, alluding to the defeat in Maine, says it was "owing to various causes, but principally to a deficiency of Democratic votes."

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.—We learn that the First Congregational church in Nashua, has extended a call to the Rev. Daniel March, of Brooklyn, N. Y., to return and again become their pastor.

☞ The Rev. L. Armsby was dismissed from his pastoral charge of the Congregational Church in Chester, Sept. 23d.

☞ The Strafford Conference of churches (embracing the churches in Strafford, Belknap and Carroll counties) will meet at Barnstead Parade, on the second Tuesday, the 14th of October, at 1 o'clock, P. M., and continue three days.

☞ Sullivan County Conference will meet at Meriden, Tuesday, Oct. 7, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

☞ The Monadnock Association will meet at the house of Rev. Mr. Lyman in Marlboro', Tuesday the 14th of Oct. at 10 o'clock, A. M.

☞ The Union Association will hold their next meeting at the house of Rev. J. McGee, Greenfield, on the 2d Tuesday of October next, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

☞ The Manchester Association will hold its next meeting at the house of Rev T. P. Jarvis, in Manchester, Oct. 14, 1856, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

☞ The next meeting of the Harmony Association is appointed at Conway Corner, at the residence of Rev. Reuben Kimball, the third Tuesday of October, (21st day,) at 11 o'clock, A. M.

STEPHEN MERRILL, Scribe.

KANSAS AFFAIRS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A letter from Lawrence, dated Sept. 15, published in the Tribune, gives the following account of Gen. Lane's movements: When Gen. Lane reached Topeka, on Thursday last, he heard that about 450 ruffians were committing depredations on the Grasshopper, and driving out Free State settlers. Accordingly, with a force of 125 men of Topeka, he marched in the direction of their camp, and discovered them on Friday, in a log stronghold. He saw that nothing but artillery could drive them out, without great loss to the attacking party. He then despatched a messenger to Lawrence for help. About 100 citizens of Lawrence marched immediately, and took with them a six-pounder. They were commanded by Col. Harvey, and instead of going by way of Topeka, they went across the country, to save about 15 miles of travel. In the meantime Gen. Lane retreated from Hickory Point to Pleasant Hill, a distance of ten miles, to wait for reinforcements from Lawrence. While they were eating supper, a man rode into the camp with the Governor's message.

Gen. Lane read it to his men, and told them in all probability the forces at Lawrence were disbanded, and had gone to their homes; that they probably would have no men to send to his assistance, and that probably Geary would clean out that nest of ruffians with the troops, and so save the Free State men the trouble. He said that he would take 50 men, and go on towards Nebraska, and meet the train of emigrants which was on its way to Topeka. The rest could go home and go to work.—While this was being enacted at Pleasant Hill, Col. Harvey and his men were marching to Hickory Point, as he supposed, to Gen. Lane. He found the enemy, however, and a battle ensued. After fighting for some time, a cessation took place. An agreement or treaty was signed by the officers, by which it was agreed that they would return prisoners, horses, &c., on both sides, and the Kickapoos would return home. While our men were marching home, they were all arrested and disarmed by the United States troops, and taken to Lecompton. Dr. Cutter was allowed to go home to Lawrence, to take care of Mr. Baldwin, who was wounded in the battle. He brings the only intelligence we have of the fight. A large train of emigrants is expected from Nebraska this week. Gen. Pomeroy is expected with it.

SINGULAR LARCENY.—The Boston Chronicle gives a rumor that "the petition for an extra session was not withdrawn by the Committee who had charge, but stolen from the Merchants' Exchange. He that steals our purse steals trash, but he that steals our good name along with those of a thousand other patriotic citizens, had better bring it back—and no questions asked."

☞ The New York Tribune Kansas Fund now exceeds $10,000, and is daily increasing. One of the late contributions was $100 from Hon. Charles Sumner.

☞ Naval orders have been received at Norfolk, Va., to fit the sloops-of-war Marion and Dale for sea.

☞ The National Intelligencer drops its neutrality and supports Fillmore, on the basis of the action of the Whig Convention.

A STANDARD MEDICINE.

Dyer's Healing Embrocation has a reputation unlike that of any other medicine. It takes precedence of any other need or recommended for the purposes, and whenever introduced into a family, no persuasion would induce them to be without it. Reader, if you have never used it, and have unfortunately become cut, wounded or bruised, or are suffering from pain, either external or internal, try Dyer's Healing Embrocation at once, and you will ever after keep it on hand.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED.—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of its having soon to "send under barr poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Rockville Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart, of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuTh&S 6m.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronized than any other ever established in this country. It is the same Richardson's Bitters which has restored so many invalids to health throughout New England during the past thirty years.

N. B.—Beware of imitations called Sherry Wine Bitters. The genuine have a fac simile of my signature upon the outer envelope. For sale by Druggists everywhere, and at my office, No. 51 Hanover St., Boston. au28 6m

MUCHACHITA.

Pink orchards spread on either side;
A strip of beach behind us;
A gentle horse that wouldn't shy;
A little maiden—O my eye!
And not a soul to mind us!

A picture! All the saints befriend
That self-same *muchachita!
Her eyes were dark, her voice was sweet,
And she'd the daintiest little feet—
You'll know her—if you meet her!

I took her hand. I wonder why?
Her very silence chid me:
Her drooping eyelids made eclipse
Of two bright orbs—the pouting lips—
She wouldn't?—but why did she?

O, golden time of life for both!
It stretches far behind us;
But oft I see that little maid,
That horse and chaise, that lonely glade,
With not a soul to mind us!

And when I dream of things like these,
And life, when life was sweeter;
I cannot think that Mrs. Snow,
(She weighs 200 lbs, or so!)
Was once mi muchachita!

*Dear little girl.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along."—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it: if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "hoed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

THE CELEBRATION.

Now that the arrangements are nearly completed for the Printing Centennial Celebration, to be held in Portsmouth on Monday next, it is perhaps as good a time as any to square the books.

We have already announced the arrangements as far as completed. The Committee have not deviated from their plan, as first laid down; though a little partisan and personal ill-feeling which has been created and fanned by men who cannot claim Portsmouth as their native place, and who have never done anything to evince any public spirit—may tend somewhat to the injury of the display, and so to the disadvantage of every citizen.

The Procession will be a fine one, with at least two Bands of music, and probably three.

The Regatta arrangements are not completed; and the purses offered will depend upon the liberality of subscriptions made.

The services at the Temple,—the delivery of the Oration, reading of Poem, singing of Odes, music by the Bands, &c.,—will be of the most interesting character.

The dinner will be provided by Col. Wm. S. Hadley,—which is a sufficient warranty for its excellence. It will probably be served in Jefferson Hall—though, as but about three hundred can here be accommodated, those who wish to attend, must provide themselves with tickets in season.

There will be a grand Ball at Congress Hall in the evening—for which the arrangements are nearly completed.

The Committee of arrangements, chosen at a public meeting of the citizens, have spared no effort to secure a Celebration worthy of the occasion, worthy our city's fair fame in such matters, and worthy to greet the many distinguished sons of Portsmouth and others, who will be here. To do this in good shape, will require several hundred dollars. And we have no doubt our public-spirited citizens will readily subscribe, according to their means, a sum sufficient to defray all the expenses incurred by their Committee.

The Committee of Arrangements comprises the following gentlemen; Richard Jenness, E. N. Fuller, C. W. Brewster, Ichabod Goodwin, Frank W. Miller, Robert Morrison, Samuel Gray.

Of these, Charles W. Brewster, Esq., is Treasurer; and Messrs. E. N. Fuller and F. W. Miller Committee to receive subscriptions. This Committee will call upon citizens to-day, to collect the amounts already subscribed, and receive the aid of all others who wish to aid in the enterprise.

☞ At the great Fair, &c., to be held in Newburyport, Oct. 2d and 3d, the Dinner will be served up in a Tent, which will accommodate twelve hundred ladies and gentlemen. Eight hundred tickets are already engaged. Why can't we have some such arrangement, on the 6th, here in Portsmouth? We would rather attend one Dinner, with the accompaniment of the ladies, than a dozen without.

☞ We are pleased to learn that there is a prospect of fine decorations, illuminations, &c., on the day and evening of the Celebration. Mr. Beals will do anything in this line at a low rate; and we hear of various grand displays to be made by individuals.

Since writing the above, we learn that Market street, from the head to Merchants' Row, will be arched and decorated in splendid style, by Col. Beals. Also that Congress Block, the Rockingham House, the Printing Offices, and other buildings, will be decorated. Our citizens have shown commendable public spirit in this matter.

WANTED, forthwith, at the Chronicle office, a good house carpenter—to do a few "odd jobs." As we have already engaged three to come "in a day or two," we should wish any one who would like the chance, to apply sooner than that.

PORTSMOUTH & CONCORD RAILROAD.—On and after Monday next, the train which has usually left Portsmouth at 6 P. M., will leave at 4.15. The train which has heretofore left Concord for Portsmouth at 5.20 P. M., will leave at 3.30 P. M.

☞ On and after Monday, Sept. 29th, Trains on the Eastern Railroad will leave this city for Boston, at 7.15 and 11.15 A. M.,—and 5 P. M.

Leave Boston for Portsmouth at 7.30 A. M., 2.30, and 5 P. M.

THE CELEBRATION NOT PARTISAN.

In addition to what every body knows, who knows anything, about the matter,—we give the following extracts from an article written by C. W. Brewster, Esq., of the Journal, respecting the Centennial Celebration and the Ballot's attack thereon. Mr. Brewster is a member of the Committee of Arrangements, and its Treasurer. He says:

We regret very much to see an intimation in the Ballot that the Celebration is a party affair, because it happens that the New Hampshire Gazette was the first paper issued from the first press in the State. In that circumstance only the old Gazette is connected with the Celebration. We think that Mr. Fowle, the first printer, issued the first Almanac in New Hampshire about that time. If such is the fact, the Celebration can be as well based on the Almanac as on the New Hampshire Gazette—and it would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to decide the political character that Almanac would give to the Celebration.

It is a matter of little consequence, in this connection, what sentiments were first promulgated by the first press—it matters but little whether the head of the paper displayed the "Lion and the Unicorn" or the "Eagle"—whether liberal or opposite religious doctrines were promulgated—or whether that press advocated whig or tory sentiments. It is the event of the introduction of the Press, as a source of light into our State, that is to be commemorated.—And we do it as we would hail the bright beams of the rising sun—without finding fault with, or commending the scorching heat or the withering or genial influences the sun's course may produce.

We have attended the meetings held in this city on the subject, and have seen nothing which has given a political bias to the proceedings.

The selection of the orator and of others who are to take the most prominent parts in the Celebration gives its political bearing, if it has any, altogether in the opposite scale to the Gazette.

The occasion will be one of much interest. It will bring together a class of men whose impressions of Portsmouth will have no small influence on its character abroad; on them the liberal courtesy of our citizens will not be lost.

THIEVES.—We hear of various robberies of fruit, &c., in various parts of our city. Mr. Coburn, of the Rockingham House, advertises a good sized pig, stolen from his sty in a barn. The thieves must have used chloroform or some other appliance to still the porker, or his squealing would have woke the sleepers near.

Mr. Seaver, a poor and hard-working man living in Anthony street, was intending to gather a fine lot of squashes, in his garden, on Saturday; but somebody saved him the trouble, by carrying off all worth picking, on Friday night—probably three or four hundred pounds.

We are also informed that considerable of a heap of onions, which had been pulled in a field near the Creek, were "gathered" a few nights since, by other hands than those which "strewed" them.

And a grape-vine in the centre of the city, was visited by depredators altogether more successful than the fox in the fable—though as to the quality of the fruit, it will be necessary to apply to the thieves, as not enough were left for a sample.

So look out for your vegetables—or you may have them visited by an enemy worse than frost.

☞ Every member of the Mercantile Library Association, is requested to meet this evening at half past 7 o'clock, to hear the report of their commitee on the matter of taking part in the Printing Centennial Celebration.

THE FIREMEN OF PORTSMOUTH.—Messrs. Editors:—It is with feelings of regret that I have learned the decision of some of our Fire Companies, not to accept the invitation of the Committee, to unite in the Procession on the 5th inst. There can be no more attractive feature in any civic procession, than that of a Fire Department like ours—comprising, we believe, upwards of three hundred stalwart men, with their 'machines' and paraphernalia. Is there no way by which they may yet be induced to appear in the procession? J. D.

☞ The Manchester American of Thursday evening says, "As we go to press, we hear a rumor that High Sheriff Rixford, of Merrimack County, is on trial before the Police Court of Concord, for stealing water melons! He has engaged five lawyers to defend him."

☞ Putnam's Monthly for October is received from A. Williams & Co., Boston, through J. H. Foster of this city. The contents are varied and attractive, as usual.

☞ The Newburyport Herald says, as Mr. Ira Worcester was crossing the bridge over the Eastern Railroad, at North Hampton, Friday evening, the horse broke through—breaking the chaise, and cutting the hand, head, and otherwise injuring Mr. W. We understand the bridge has been out of repair for some time, and this will probably lead to to its repair.

A WOMAN FRIGHTENED TO DEATH.—Wednesday morning, a woman named Ann Riley, who kept an apple-stand in the Fourth avenue, was crossing the Harlem Railroad track, at the corner of Twenty-sixth street and Fourth avenue, New York city, while a train of cars was backing into the depot, and by some means she became frightened and fell across the track. The cars were stopped just as the first one touched her, but the woman was taken up and found to be dead. It is supposed that the sudden fright caused a rupture of a blood-vessel.

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Four a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning.

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," run the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

CHEAP AND SAFE LIGHT.
Newell's Patent Safety Lamp & Lamp Feeder.
Warranted to prevent all accidents from the use of Burning Fluid, Patent Oil, Resin Oil, Camphene, and other explosive compounds used for the production of light. This invention is applied to common Fluid, Solar and Camphene Lamps, Lamp Feeders, Fluid Holders, Lanterns.
We respectfully invite the attention of the public to Newell's improved Solar Fluid Lamp, in the argand form, which gives a steady, brilliant flame, the nearest to gas that has ever been produced, the cost of burning being less than one cent an hour.
These Lamps are particularly adapted to Factories, Churches, Hotels, Stores and Parlors. Oil Solars can be altered using the same shade. Common Fluid Lamps can be changed to Safety Fluid Lamps.
Professor Silliman says. "All the so-called burning fluids are explosive whether limpid or colored, and to pretend that they are not so is to deceive the public, but with the protection above named, I should have no hesitation to use it, and I do with entire confidence recommend it to my friends and to others who consult me on the subject, always protesting against its unguarded use which has produced so many distressing and fatal results."
These Lamps have been extensively used in all parts of the United States for more than four years, and there has not the slightest accident occurred with them. They have the sanction of the greatest scientific skill in the country, such as Profs. B. Silliman and J. Robb, Drs. Charles T. Jackson and A. A. Hayes, etc.
We keep constantly on hand the best of Burning Fluids.

The Parlor Sewing Machine.
This new and beautiful machine, designed for every variety of Family Sewing and Tailor's Work, forms each stitch the same as sewing by hand. The superiority of this machine over every other is at once apparent from the fact that it actually sews, making, with matchless precision, the real "life-like" hand stitch in all its changes—running, hemming, over and over, back and quarter back, and side stitching, enabling a person to adapt the stitch to the work or fabric as desired. Every part is perfectly simple and easily understood; no undertread to spool and continually take care of, as on other machines; no peculiar mode of threading the needle; no winding spools, but using a single thread, and the needles threading themselves, if at once becomes the lady's ready seamstress at will, and the tailor's substitute for a dozen hands.—With the turn of a single screw, each different stitch is obtained, in which a person with the directions sent soon becomes expert. No drawing, knotting, looping, gathering, tumbering, skipping, slipping, or unevenness, as in other sewing. Every machine is warranted perfect, and finished up in a variety of elegant styles, truly making an ornamental seamstress. Manufactured only by HOWARD & DAVIS, Exhibition and Salesroom, 202 Washington street, Boston.

Diseases Successfully Treated.
Remarkable Cures Performed—Words of Advice and of Caution.—Encouraged by the very liberal patronage bestowed upon me by my friends and the public, during the past five years, and the extraordinary success which has attended my efforts for the cure of the sick, I am determined not to relax my exertions to further usefulness, but rather to prepare myself for renewed labors in my undertaking
That diseases heretofore considered incurable can be conquered, I have abundant proof in my own experience. To name a few particular cases, I might mention Mrs. P., cured of vomiting blood, after having been given up by her family physician to die. Mr. T. cured of a violent eruption over his head and parts of the body, and pronounced incurable by one of the best physicians in Norfolk county. Mr. S. cured of consumption.—Mr. B. of liver and kidney complaint.—Mrs. T. of cancer in the breast as large as a quart bowl. Mr. B. of secondary symptoms, after having been brought near the grave by other respectable physicians. Miss M. of consumption. Mr. C. of very alarming consumptive symptoms; and I might go on with such cases and fill a column. I will give any one the full name of any of the above if they will apply to me at my office
Hope, then, is for the Sick.—I do not make a business of sending medicines to Agents, but rely for speedy and sure cures upon being able to prescribe the medicines myself. Persons can consult by letters and have their medicines sent by express.
Advice I am always glad to give freely, and persons calling upon me need not feel under any obligations to take medicines, unless they choose to do so.
Words of Caution. This is an age of new things; among much good there is much humbug. Be not over anxious to be experimented upon. For ten years I have found my medicines to be safe and efficacious, and the public may rely that they will do what is promised for them.
I Warrant a Cure in all curable cases. If a person gives my remedies a fair trial without receiving the promised benefit, and is afterwards cured by some other physician, I will refund all the money paid me.
A full description of my medicines and many certificates of remarkable cures, together with much useful information, can be had by applying at my office. My book sent by mail on the receipt of a postage stamp
The following is my advertising card:—
E. D. SPEAR, INDIAN DOCTOR, so much celebrated for his remarkable cures, may be consulted at his office, No. 18 Kneeland street, from 8 A. M. to 2 P. M., upon all diseases and conditions of the human system, free of charge
As usual, Dr. Spear gives special attention to chronic forms of disease, Humors in the blood, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Skin diseases, Urinary difficulties, Abnormal conditions of the Kidneys, Liver and Heart; Rheumatism; all female diseases, especially Prolapsus Uteri, and unnatural suppressions, weaknesses, and debilities
Dr. Spear is now being visited by one thousand patients every month, some of whom travel hundreds of miles to consult him and to obtain his medicines.
Dr. Spear will warrant a cure in every curable case. After giving his remedies a fair trial, if a cure is not effected, he will pay any other physician who will effect a cure, his bill, not exceeding $100. Persons at a distance can consult him by letter, enclosing a stamp to pay the postage.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!!
GARDNER CHILSON has just completed and patented in America, England and France, his new invention the

CONE FURNACE,
and asks the special attention of those about erecting or remodelling buildings, as dealers in Hot Air, Steam, or Hot Water Furnaces, and all interested in Steam Power to carefully examine this invention, which entirely changes the principle and character of Hot Air Furnaces, developing another and a new principle, and obviating all former objections to their use.
The practical operation of a number of these Furnaces, erected during the past winter, points out a new discovery in science by which the most wonderful economy in fuel has been attained, and clearly demonstrates that the waste heat lost from chimneys is enough to warm every dwelling in the city. By this invention the heat formerly lost is made to warm the house
This discovery—simple in it elf is the daily wonder of those who witness its results, and it becomes a matter of surprise, that a plan at once so simple and practical in its operation, should thus far have entirely escaped the notice of scientific men. We believe no one who investigates this principle will be likely to use a furnace constructed on any other principle, and we invite all who would witness its operation to call at the store of CHILSON, GOULD & CO.,
Nos. 99 & 100 Blackstone St., Boston.

BURNS AND HIS HIGHLAND MARY.

The circumstances of the production of the following lines are these:

Mrs. Frances O. Hyzer, of Montpelier, Vt., is sometimes influenced to write both poetry and prose, purporting to emanate from departed spirits. She had one day been reading some of these productions to a lady visitor, who asked her if Robert Burns (the lady's favorite poet) had ever communicated to her. She replied that she had never been conscious of his presence, nor was she familiar with his writings. The lady remarked that she hoped he would sometime make known his presence, and answer a question she had in her mind, which question she did not express. A few days subsequently, Mrs. Hyzer felt impelled by spirit influence to pen the following, which, on being shown to the lady, was found to be an appropriate reply to the query she had in her mind.

Fair lady, that I come to you,
A stranger bard, fu' weel I ken,
For ye've known naught of me save through
The lays I've poured through Scotia's glen;
But when I sneak of gliding Ayr,
O' hawthorn shades and fragrant ferns,
O' Doon, and Highland Mary fair,
Mayhap ye'll think o' Robert Burns.

I am the lad—and why I'm here,
I heard the gude dame when she said
She'd know, in joyous spirit-spheres,
If Burns was wi' his Mary wed.
I sought to tell her o' our joy—
Na muckle impress could I make;
And lady, I have flown to see
If ye'd my message to her take.

Tell her, that when I passed from earth,
My angel lassie, crowned with flowers,
Met me with glowing love-lit torch,
And led me to the nuptial bowers;
That all we'd dreamed o' wedded bliss,
And more, was meted to us there—
And sweeter was my dearie's kiss
Than on the flowery banks of Ayr.

Where love's celestial shadows played,
And rose-buds burst, and seraphs sang,
And myrtle twined our couch to shade,
I clapsed the love I'd mourned sa lang;
And while by angel harps were played,
The bonnie "bridal serenade,"
Though na gown'd priest the kirk rite said,
Burns was wi' Highland Mary wed!

There's na destroying death-frost here,
To nip the hope-buds ere they bloom—
The "bridal tour" is through the spheres,
Eternity the "honey moon."
And now, my lady, if ye'll bear
These words unto the anxious dame,
I think I can ye so reward,
Ye'll ne'er be sorry that I came.

To refute Mr. Buchanan's testimony in favor of Col. Fremont, the Washington Union says:—

"It is evident that Mr. Buchanan, in 1852, labored under the same misapprehension as to the conquest of California which prevailed throughout the country."

This is making Mr. Buchanan a sad blockhead, for he was the Secretary of State who gave Col. Fremont his instructions, superintended the execution of them, and could not have been the victim of misapprehension in the matter without proving himself unfit for his post—much more for a higher one. Does the Union see what it is doing?—Boston Chron.

SUBSTITUTE FOR ROSIN.—Herr Fodor, a chemist, has discovered a new composition to supersede the rosin generally used by violin players. It is applied by means of a camel's hair brush, and remains good during one hundred hours playing, and has no evil effect upon either the strings of the instrument or the hairs of the bow, and is also said to give a clearness to the tone.

BOYS AND GIRLS—The first real affliction that befalls our girls—and it begins almost as soon as life—is education.—There is an artificial training, which, if it was extended at the same time to the boys, would depopulate the country in a short time; and indeed it would seriously check its progress now, but for the foreign influx which gives us a more rugged and hardy class of women, better capable to endure the labors of life and rear children. There is an attempt to give more femininess of body, mind and manners, than nature demands or happiness allows. Our boys run the streets, stretching their young limbs, straining their nerves, and gathering strength and elasticity in the clear air and the bright sun shine. It is worth something to be a boy and live.

But if the girls follow—"O, come in Emily Jane Lucretia Maria, you must not be in the sun and running the streets, burning so black and becoming so rude; and here the poor girl is keep in prison while her brothers scamper off, because it would be indelicate for the child to see the sun. There is the first violation of the law of nature. The plant reared in the shade is short lived, broken down by the first gust of wind; the fishes that are hatched in the Mammoth Cave, where the light comes not, are without eyes; and a tadpole without light will remain a tadpole forever. We dwarf our girls physically and entail upon them lives of suffering, because girls must be in-doors.—Newburyport Herald.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S DAUGHTER.—The princess royal is reported to be remarkable for wit, and her bon mots are said to be of first rate quality. She is not the less remarkable, being a female as well as a princess, for having a will of her own, and of a pretty determined character. Mr. Brown, a medical practitioner in the vicinage of Windsor's meads, is a frequent visitor—a kind o daily survevor of domestic medicine at the palace, and the princess often addressed him thus: "Good morning, Brown," omitting the "Mr." This came to the ears of the royal "ma," who forbade its recurrence, and threatened that on its being repeated she would send Miss Guelph to bed. On Mr. Brown's next visit, and in presence of Victoria, the royal princess saluted him as usual, with, "Good morning, Brown, and Good night, Brown, for I am to be sent to bed, Brown." The queen kept her word.

Disbanding of the Vigilance Committee.—Steamship Illinois left Aspinwall on the 19th inst., and arrived at New York on the 27th, with the California mails of the 5th Sept., $1,867,148 in treasure on freight, and 636 passengers. The steamer Golden Age, Capt. Watkins, left San Francisco at 2 40 P. M. on the 5th instant, with 631 passengers and $2,344,448 in treasure on freight, $479,832 of which was on foreign account.

The markets in San Francisco are quiet. Money easy and plenty at 2a2½ on first class securities. State stocks improving. Flour—Haxall, jobbing sales $15. Whiskey 47½. Turpentine, delivered, $5. Butter, 32c. Clear Pork, half bbls., $19.—Ham $16. Molasses, New Orleans, 60c.

The Alta California of the 5th, in its fortnight's summary, says:

In our last notice we gave a detailed account of the success attending the closing up of the affairs of the Vigilance Committee. That, as was then anticipated, has proved a final end of their labors; they having, after a short time, formally adjourned without day; nor will they be likely to again meet as a body, unless the necessity be forced upon them by some action of their opponents. Since the suspension of the Committee the popular mind has regained its accustomed repose, and affairs flow on in their ordinary channel once more, leaving us no very striking incidents or movements to chronicle at present.

R. W. Bennett, for several years special policeman in the Chinese quarter, Sacramento, was poisoned last Tuesday, in consequence of which he died the following day. How or why the poison was administered is all a mystery.

The Vigilance Committee, before their final adjournment notified Cusick, Thompson and Hennessy, who had previously been warned to leave the State, that they might do so by the steamer of Sept. 5th; after which, if found in the city, they would incur the penalty of death.

John L. Durkee and Charles E. Rand, who, under the direction of the Vigilance Committee, boarded and seized upon some arms which were on board a vessel in the bay of San Pablo, and were intended to be used against the self constituted authorities, have been indicted in the U. S. Court at San Francisco. The Court refused bail, and they were committed to jail, but it is only a farce to try men for such an affair as this for the capital crime of piracy.

A report has reached Aspinwall of a revolt among Walker's troops, 50 of whom refused to do duty. Walker gave them 24 hours to to reconsider, at the expiration of which, still refusing, they were led out and shot.

Pierre Soule had purchased a ranche in Nicaragua for $50.000. He will return to the States in the next steamer.

DURKEE AND RAND.—In our California news to-day, mention is made, that Messrs. John L. Durkee and Charles E. Rand have been committed to prison in San Francisco, on the charge of piracy. This charge is founded on their activity in the Vigilance Committee's service, in which they boarded a small vessel, and took away a lot of arms which were on their way to the law and murder government, to be used against the Vigilance committee. The Alta Californian of the 5th, contains more particulars, and urges the Vigilance committee and the people to provide for the safety of these men, who were really acting in behalf of the whole Vigilance Committee, and of the cause of good order and good government—and against as great a set of scoundrels as ever held office and perverted judgment.

☞ The Portland Advertiser mentions the death and burial of Jacob S. Paine, a music seller of that city. On Sunday his funeral services were attended thereby a large concourse of people. The musical establishment of Mr. Paine had become as famous in Portland, as that of Ditson in Boston, and was the head quarters of all musical persons. At his funeral, the Musical Associations of Portland, together with the Choirs of the several Churches, attended in a body, accompanied by Chandler's Band. The devotional services were performed by Rev. Mr. Moore, of the Union Church. The Band played a beautiful dirge before leaving the house, and also one when his remains were committed to the grave.

☞ On Thursday afternoon, a little boy ten years of age, son of Mr. James Houghton, accidentally slipped into the Boston Reservoir, and before assistance could be rendered he was drowned. He was walking on the bank in company with his sisters when he fell in.

☞ An illiterate person once sent a note to a waggish friend, requesting the loan of his noosepaper, and received in return his friend's marriage certificate.

SAD COINCIDENCE.—Mr. Asa Smith, of Keene, started for Boston on Tuesday last, and was taken ill in the cars. Before reaching the city he became insensible, and was taken to the hospital immediately on the arrival of the cars at the depot, where he received the kindest nursing and the best of medical attention, but only survived until Saturday morning. A medical examination showed an enlargement of the brain, which had been in progress for some time. Mr. Smith was a merchant, of the late firm of Smith & Hodgkin; and what is painfully singular, is the circumstance that but a few weeks since, his partner met a sudden death in the cars, from a disease of the heart, while on his way to transact the same business that Mr. Smith at the time of his attack, was going to complete. Mr. S. was highly esteemed by the business men of Keene, as well as by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

☞ On Tuesday forenoon, Hon. Wm. S. Messervy, Mayor of Salem, while at the new Athenæum building in that city, stepped upon a loose board, which turned and precipitated him upon the floor below, a distance of about ten feet. He caught the joist with his hands, and thus broke the fall, but was rendered senseless for a time, without, however, receiving any permanent injury.

☞ The wife of Mr. Albert Ricker of Portland eloped with a man named Henry Chaffin on Monday last, taking with her $400 of her husband's money. The guilty pair were stopped at Albany, N. Y., by means of the telegraph. Officer Brady proceeded thither for the purpose of bringing them back, for which purpose a requisition was obtained from the Governor of Maine.

Another case occurred on Wednesday; the wife of another Portland citizen started off with a married man belonging also to that city. No names given.

☞ The death of George Steers, the naval constructor and ship builder, occurred in this way. He was alone driving his horse and wagon at Brooklyn, when his horse took fright and ran away. Mr. Steers immediately jumped out of the wagon with a view of stopping the animal, when he was struck by the wagon on the head, and thrown prostrate and senseless to the ground. Mr. Steers was a native of Washington City, and about 35 years old. He modeled the celebrated yacht America, and many other beautiful vessels, but his greatest triumphs, probably, will be the mammoth steamships Adriatic and Niagara, now in the course of construction.

☞ Harper's New Monthly Magazine for October, begins with three beautifully illustrated articles, viz. The Cooking of Men; Wild Life in Oregon; and Passages of Eastern Travel.—The whole No. is uncommonly rich in interest. Agents, A Williams, & Co., Boston; J. F. Shores, Jr., Portsmouth.

Capital punishment, which was abolished in Prussia in 1848, has been recently re-established. The mode of execution is to be by the axe, within prison walls, and in the presence of a certain number of magistrates and officials expressly appointed for the purpose.

☞ Mr. Geo. W. Morgan, the celebrated organist, while walking in a garden in Boston, recently, was bitten by a spider.—The poison of the insect was so severe that it diffused itself all over his system, and he was confined to his room for several days. He is now improving.

☞ A boy by the name of Sullivan, about 16 years of age, while playing around the machinery at the Coddington Factory, Newport, R. I., had his arm caught in the machinery, and it was torn from his body; he lived about three minutes.

☞ Fred. Douglas's paper gives an account of a recent attempt to send a slave from the South to freedom by express. Unfortunately no breathing holes were made in the box, and when the poor fellow arrived in some Northern city, he was stone dead.

"MORAL SCIENCE."—A writer in the Richmond Inquirer having attacked Wayland's Moral Science as an unsafe text book for the South, the Providence Journal thus replies:

The Bible is still suffered in Virginia, and the "sounding and glittering generalities" of the Declaration of Independence are not yet formally and by name excluded. The Old Testament is what saves the Bible. The Virginia conservatives fall back upon that with a refreshing sense of security. The gospels and the epistles they look upon as the inovations of modern radicalism.

FROM CHINA.—Hong Kong, July 2d.—In the Friend of China, we see in the advertising columns a notice of public service of thanksgiving to God for the restoration of peace, to take place on the 4th of July.

The North China Herald contains news of the successes of the rebel forces, and the threatening of the City of Soo Chow, one of the richest cities in all China. Many of the inhabitants were leaving the place under the apprehension that the Nanking rebels were about to invade the low country. The death of one of the Imperial Governors has inspired the rebels of Nanking, with fresh enterprise, and they have broken through the army besieging Nanking, and actually threatening to besiege old Heang Yung, the Imperial General, in his own headquarters. One of the rebel bands, after forcing the passage of Nankin took the town of Lee Shrong on the 9th of June, and still holds it.

Later news states that Heang-Yung has gained a victory over the rebels at Nanking.

Rumors had reached Shanghai to the effect that the imperialists had met with reverses, and that the rebels had taken three cities southwest of Soo Chew.

UNFORTUNATE WHALING CRUISE.—The whaling birg Georgiana, Capt. Buddington, returned to New London on the 24th inst., from a whaling voyage to the northern regions, without any oil. They wintered in Forbishers' Strait in lat. 63 North, being unable to winter in Cumberland Inlet from the quantities of ice. The crew suffered severely from scurvy, and lost 14 men during the winter and spring from that disease, viz:—Jeremiah Ford, Ireland; Downes Gray, England; Cornelius Bosworth, Chas. McMiller, Peter Furguson, Henry I. Luber, James Marten, Henry Slater, New York; James Nicholson, Philadelphia; Charles M. Kelly, Massachusetts; Charles A. Haines, Norwich, Ct.; Henry Morgan, Portland, Me.; Chas. Metcalf, Vermont; Basil Hunt, London, England, The winter was extremely cold; the natives had never known cold so severe, or such quantities of ice in the Inlet. The brig was in the ice four months before getting to a place where they could winter.—In the spring they were threatened with an attack from the natives; and from this cause and the reduction of his crew from disease, Capt. Buddington put away.

MISCREANT ARRESTED.—Jonas Davis, of Waterville, Me., has been arrested for placing obstructions on the track of the Somerset and Kennebec Railroad. He was caught in the act.

☞ The first Russian newspaper was published in 1703, and Peter the Great was its senior editor.

☞ The Republicans of Wheeling, Va., propose to hold a Mass meeting in that city, to be addressed by speakers from Slave States.

☞ On and after October 1st., the proprietors of the Boston Traveller will issue a morning edition of that paper. The evening editions will be issued as heretofore.

☞ The Annual Meeting of the Grand Division of the Vermont Sons of Temperance, is to be held in Castleton, on the second Wednesday of October next.

A STANDARD MEDICINE.

Dyer's Healing Embrocation has a reputation unlike that of any other medicine. It takes precedence of any other used or recommended for the purposes, and whenever introduced into a family, no persuasion would induce them to be without it. Reader, if you have never used it, and have unfortunately become cut, wounded or bruised, or are suffering from pain, either external or internal, try Dyer's Healing Embrocation at once, and you will ever after keep it on hand.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED.—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to "send under bare poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Rockville Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all hope, old before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuTh&S 6m.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronized than any other ever established in this country. It is the same Richardson's Bitters which has restored so many invalids to health throughout New England during the past thirty years.

N. B.—Beware of imitations called Sherry Wine Bitters. The genuine have a fac simile of my signature upon the outer envelope. For sale by Druggists everywhere, and at my office, No. 51 Hanover St., Boston. au8*6m

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU READ.—Mr. Levi Hawley, of Allegany county, Maryland, while in the act of gaping, dislocated his lower jaw, leaving his mouth wide open till the surgeon came.—Rondout Courier.

We have no doubt that this misfortune happened while Mr. Hawley was reading a leader in the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, about the "existence and working power of the Union."—Albany Journal.

The man who thought he could learn to make boots by swallowing sherry cobblers, has just got out a work in which he attempts to prove that by eating hops you will acquire a knowledge of waltzing.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it The smith at his anvil hummers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it: if you wish any person to see anything, show it: if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

If used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "toed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

LOCAL.

☞ In reply to our correspondent, J. D., we will state, that Engine Co. No. 1, "Granite State," has voted to appear in the procession on the 6th October—and we have hopes the entire Fire Department will follow suit.

At a very full special meeting of the Mercantile Library Association, Monday evening, it was voted to procure a banner—and join the procession; to raise an arch in front of their rooms; and to decorate their building. This is as it should be—the Mercantile should lead the van in this matter.

Committee on erection of Arch—F. G. Beal, W. O. Head, W. S. Chase.

On Decorations—F. Fuller, J. H. Thacher, J. C. Brown, W H. Hackett.

To procure Banner—J. P. Payson, C. T. Emery, E. N. Mathes.

Standard Bearers—O. F. Gerrich, J. C. Brown. Assistant do.—J. T. Larrabee, J. B. Knowlton. Marshals—W. O. Head, J. S. Rand.

There seems to be disposition on the part of the members of this society not to be outdone by others, and we have no doubt they will come out in large numbers and make a fine display on the occasion of this their first appearance in public as a society.

Piscataqua Lodge, I. O. of O. F., on Monday evening, voted to walk in the procession—and tender invitation to all brethren of other Lodges to join with them.

The Truckmen are getting up a Cavalcade for the occasion, and thirty have so far agreed to appear.

The Continentallers will also probably come out with full ranks. They have a meeting at Washington Hall, Market st., this evening at 7 1-2 o'clock.

The public schools are also moving in the matter.

☞ The Ballot of Monday evening devotes a couple of columns or so, to blackguarding the Centennial Celebration and all connected therewith. We have no time to waste in explanations or refutations, respecting this matter. If the editor of that paper can make political or personal capital out of opposition to a celebration gotten up solely to notice an event worthy of all notice, and for the public good—why let him enjoy it. As to the personal courtesies extended to us, we don't see anything worth noticing—though the charge of our "favoring this party to-day and another to-morrow," sounds queerly from an editor (of the Messenger) who in one instance at least, sneered at the "American" or anti-catholic idea, as expressed in the Chronicle, before the Messenger was merged in the Ballot for the sake of "patronage."

ROCKINGHAM COURTS—OCTOBER.

Supreme Judicial,	at Portsmouth, 7th.
U. S. Circuit,	at Exeter, 8th.
Probate,	at Exeter, 15th.

☞ A little daughter of Oliver Hanscom, Esq., was run over and seriously injured by a hack, on Monday afternoon.

☞ A correspondent writes us that at a meeting of the legal voters of the town of Somersworth, on Saturday, the 20th inst., to see if they would accept an act constituting them a City—the result of the vote was 119 for, and 368 against the acceptance. So Somersworth is not to be a city yet, by a ballot-box full.

☞ We learn from a correspondent, that Ephraim Ricker, who shot one Rodgers in Berwick, a short time since, while picking apples from a tree, has been tried and sentenced to twenty days' imprisonment in Alfred jail.

The Crops.—The Salem Gazette says that potato rot prevails extensively in some parts of Essex County. In Boxford it is doing much damage, and about Newbury it is still more destructive. With regard to crops in general in that neighborhood, grass is plenty, but has been cured with great difficulty, and much has been left uncut on account of the wetness of the season. There is a fair crop of corn, and the small grains turn out pretty well, but crops of apples are exceedingly small.

The rot made sad havoc with the potatoes in many localities in this town. In many instances whole fields are infected to such an extent as to prove entirely worthless. The rot, we are informed, is mostly confined to the Chenango variety, and prevails extensively on low ground.—Amesbury Villager.

Washington, Sept. 28.—The President's Escort.—On Tuesday morning next, the President's mounted guard will escort Gen. Pierce from the White House to the railroad depot, where he will be received by the staff and company officers of the District Volunteer Regiment, who will accompany him as far as Baltimore. At that place he will be received by the entire brigade of the Maryland militia.

FROM EUROPE.

FOUR DAYS LATER.

New York, Sept. 29th.—The Collins steamship Baltic, Capt. Comstock, from Liverpool, 17th inst., arrived at this port this morning.

The Chartists were being revived in England.

Favorable weather for harvest operations extended throughout the kingdom.

The suspension of Wetmore & Co., Canton, is confirmed. Liabilities upwards of £300,000. Assets ample.

The London Morning Star warns the Southern States of the United States not to dream of annexation to England

The Paris correspondent of the London Times says there is no doubt that a Congress will be held in Paris the coming winter, to settle questions arising out of the Treaty of Paris.

The official account of the affair in Algeria, with the Kabyls, show it to have been very severe, six thousand Kabyls being opposed by only one regiment and a squadron of Chasseurs. After a desperate fight the Kabyls retreated, but returned next day, when they were again beaten.—An expedition against them is resolved upon.

Advices from China state that Dr. Parker, U. S. Commissioner, was at Foo-chow-foo, but had been unable to get an interview with the Viceroy.

Howard Cunningham, an American merchant, was killed at Foo-chow-foo while endeavoring to quell a street row.

Liverpool Breadstuffs Market had been more alive, at an advance of 2 a 3d per bushel on fine Wheat, and at the extreme rates of last week for Flour and Indian Corn. The weather continued favorable, and the bulk of the grain crop in England is now gathered, but in the North of Ireland and Scotland a considerble quantity remains out.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The loss of the Niagara.—It is estimated that the number of lives lost by the burning of the Niagara was 66. The schooner Dan Marble saved 30, the schooner Mary Groves 11, but they have not yet arrived here. The following in addition to those previously reported are known to be saved: M. Deving, Boston; J. Miller, Chicago; E. Lane, J. Collins, D. Lyons, Cornelius Bryer, of Montreal; A. A. McKay, residence unknown.

The following are certainly lost:

Almon Atwood and wife, of Charlotte, Vt.; M. J. Clark, steward, Buffalo; Hon. John E. Macy, of Wisconsin; Henry Ainsworth of Royalton, Vt.; lost his wife, three children, father and sister-in-law. The hull of the Niagara sunk a mile and a half from the shore in seven fathoms of water. She was valued at $70,000.

A son of Mr. Horace Dunlap of Buffalo, New York, who is in Kansas, writes to his father under date of Sept. 18, that he has just been robbed of all he had in the world except the clothing that covers him, and had been a prisoner. His brother Henry is a prisoner at Lecompton, having been captured by the United States troops. He was with Col. Harvey's party when he was taken. He represents himself as having had a good many narrow escapes since he entered the territory.

The California Chronicle records the arrival of 1200 boxes of grapes from Lower California, by the steamer Sea Bird, and remarks that that portion of the State is rapidly becoming one of the best growing grape countries in the world, and will, in all probability, in a few years, rival the Southern portion of France in the quantity and quality of its vines.

Not one of the "Swiss Guards."—A friend tells us that in the town of Garland, in Maine, at the last election he witnessed a scene such as cannot be witnessed again on this continent. An old man named Sawyer, one hundred and one years of age, went to the polls and voted for Hamlin. He had voted for every President since Washington, and now, will if he lives cast his vote for Fremont.—Manchester American.

J. W. Moses would call the attention of his friends, customers, and the Public in general to the fact, that he has in his store, at No. 8 Market street, a good assortment of Broadcloths, Pilot and Beaver Cloths, plain and fancy Doeskins and Cassimeres, Black and fancy Velvets, plain and figured Satins and Grenadin Vestings, &c., which he will make to order or sell either with or without cutting or making, at fair prices.

He has a large assortment of furnishing Goods, consisting of Shirts, Collars, Cravats, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs, Under-Shirts and Drawers, &c., &c.

All Garments made by him warranted to be as good as can be had in this city. The above are new Goods, having been selected with care from large Stocks in Boston, and just received. September 26. is3w

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A Perfumed Breath.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A Beautiful Complexion may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

Shaving Made Easy.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," run the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

CURIOSITY.—We were shown on Saturday evening, two eggs, joined together "butt and tip," the simultaneous production of a common domestic hen. One of the eggs was perfect, with a well formed shell, containing, however, no yolk. The other contained the yolk and evidently all the ingredients of a bona fide egg, encased in a soft shell. Politicians will hasten to chronicle this complete fusion of hards and softs.—Manchester (N. H.) Mirror.

At Shelbyville, Ind., an attempt at wholesale murder was discovered last week. In a well to accommodate a republican mass meeting, a roll of dough was found that contained arsenic enough to poison thousands of men.—

HI YAH!—The Boston Post says it has very consoling political news from Poplin, N. H. There's no such town in the State: perhaps the town alluded to is Fremont!—If so, all right, for we have encouraging accounts of Fremont too!—Lowell Citizen.

INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY.—On Wednesday, the 8th of October next, the Rev. David T. Kimball, of Ipswich, will, by invitation, preach a Sermon on the Fiftieth Anniversary of his Ordination as Pastor of the First Church in that place.

The boy who undertook to ride a horse-radish, is now practising on a saddle of mutton without stirrups.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRINKFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M.D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTGERY, IL., writes, 24 Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., ALBION, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, OF SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:—

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Practical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell, Mass

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof by him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY.

Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in suring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

5 lb Y. Hyson "	2.25	8 lb good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ anh ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections &c.

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

THE LIFE OF FRANKLIN.

A very Brief and very Comprehensive Life of Ben: Franklin, Printer; Done into Quaint Verse, by one of the Types, at the Inauguration of the Franklin Statue, in Boston, September 17th, 1856.

KIND friends, just list to our ditty
Of one whom the world loves to talk about,
Who was born in our tri-mountain city,
And through its streets used to walk about.

In Boston he first saw the light,
'Neath the shade of the Old South steeple,
And his parents, all say, were quite Respectable sort of people.

Old Mr. Franklin, his dad,
Made candles to light all creation;
And naturally destined the lad
To follow the same avocation.

To deal in candles and soaps,
Thus light and cleanness dispensing;—
Our sight to the wisdom opes
Of this way of Franklin's commencing:

Those candles prefigured the mind
To break through the darkness o'ershading;
Those soaps the wisdom refined
To cleanse men of errors pervading.

He was much as other boys are,
And loved to play with the rest of 'em;
In all of their sports took a share, [em.
And wrestled and ran with the best of 'em.

We are told that he stole some stone
To make a wharf to his wishing,
Where Haymarket Square has grown,
The better to do his fishing.

He drew down his father's ire,
On a string, because he made it,
Just as he did heaven's fire
In after years as he bade it.

He read in his bed at night,
And studied summer and winter;
When, seeing his Benny so bright,
His father made him a printer.

He bound him out to his brother,
A churlish fellow, they say;
And one quarrel followed another,
Until Benjamin ran away.

He went to the Quaker city
In a Philadelphia packet,
His mind undimmed and witty,
And a true heart 'neath his jacket.

He printed, and spouted, and throve,
And nobody could but like him
He went overhead in love
With a Read that chanced to strike him.

Then rascally Governor Keith
Sent him on a fool's errand to London,
But in spite of the Governor's teeth,
The boy printer wasn't undone.

For though in a stranger land,
The youngster wasn't scared at it,
But to printing he turned his hand,
And very respectably fared at it.

We'll not say he never was "hard"—
There was some little flaw in his quality;
And he lost his friend Ralph's regard,
And his cash, by a lapse of morality.

He returned and soon became great,—
Got married—was made legislator—
Took very high rank in the state,
And none with the people was greater.

Set a trap for the fires of heaven,
And made the philosophers wonder;
The lightning's power was riven,
And cut were the peals of thunder.

Then "Poor Richard's" maxims he made,
In language both prudent and funny,
And if all his voice had obeyed,
They all would have rolled in money.

In Congress then he was placed,
As England made new demonstrations,
And his name was soon after traced
To that greatest of declarations.

And then when the bond was rent,
And the patriots made resistance,
He over to France was sent,
To ask King Louis' assistance.

His name before him had gone, [him;
And the King was delighted to meet
He even stepped from his throne,
In his earnestness to greet him.

And the Queen frowned not in check,
When this plain republican Mister
Threw his arms about her neck,
And very gallantly kissed her!

Should ever occasion arise
That we are in like situation,
This act of our brother wise
We'll remember for imitation.

When long abroad he had staid,
And had ceased our revolution,
He returned to the nation he'd made,
And helped frame its constitution;

An instrument still revered,
Though some there be who assail it;
Our country has long by it steered,
And to our mast head we nail it.

Young married tradesmen to aid,
He willed 'em a loan of his dollars,
And ordered medals made
For all of our medalsome scholars.

But the great of the world must die,
And Franklin had no immunity;
Though he wished to come back by and by,
Should fate grant opportunity.

And here his wish is allowed,
And here he is with us standing;
His fame and position proud,
Our homage and love commanding.

And now with our bosoms elate
With pride we will not smother,
We join the grateful honors that wait
To crown our "wholesome brother."

The world will cherish his name,
And spread abroad his glory,
When yonder brass that tells his fame
Shall be but a thing of story.

Morning Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1. 1856.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

KNIGHT'S FERRY, Sept. 4th, 1856.

Dear Chronicle:—For so it proves to me, away out on the western border of our glorious Union, and far from the place of my nativity, to meet with a copy of your valuable weekly, which tells of the interest of things ever dear to me, and in gratitude to you for it, I have used the above prefix of endearment. And further, if you will mail it per steamer to me, you shall receive the ore in return for your trouble.

I suppose you are aware of the reformation going on at San Francisco, and no doubt are apprehensive as to the result.—But I will assure you the Vigilance Committee will, and have accomplished everything they have undertaken, and will purify the city of shoulder-strikers and ballot box-stuffers, before they will put a period to their labors.

California in general has suffered immensely from these political evils, and the time has arrived, when freedom of speech, and a free Press must prevail. For the past six years, the State has been visited by thousands of miscreants whose only object was to plunder; and so thorough has been their work, that they have carried things beyond endurance, and the "vox populi" cries out hold! hold! ye workers of iniquity! The inexhaustible resources of our State have become a fixed fact. Instead of temporary residences, we find thousands settling here. Many whose families were at home, are bringing them here for a new home on the Pacific shore. In view of permanent residences, the good people of the State are taking steps to much improve the condition of affairs.

They say that the reign of evil doers has been long enough, and that to open a bright page for the future, they must wipe these defilements from the body politic, and prepare it for sound, healthy action.

In view of our mineral worth to the States, we hope the Eastern and Middle States will, in the coming presidential election, vote for that policy which will most advance the interests of California and Oregon. A continuous line of railroads and telegraph wire, is what we most need to put us on a footing with our sister states. Grant these things to us as far as your suffrages go, and we in return will show you what Young America can do in developing the star State of the West.

Californians of all parties, shades and colors, unite on a railroad President, but I fear the Democracy of the State will be deceived by the cunning and artful resolution passed at the Cincinnati Convention. The democrats are a little too antiquated for the age; their policy is too conservative for a progressive people, and it is only party distinction that keeps them where they are.

Extensive internal improvements, the past proves to be the wisest policy for our National Government to pursue; as by it, unsaleable public lands are brought into market, and the appropriations for roads, railroads, &c., are balanced by the rapid sales of lands that would otherwise be a dead letter. Improvements, instead of leading our Government into bankruptcy, would furnish it with the necessary means of paying the National debt.

The Fremont party claim to be the exponents of this doctrine, but the antecedents of their leader do not argue so much in its favor; but as he is young and fast, it is hoped by many that he will prove equal to the nature and condition of things in general, and the Pacific Railroad in particular.

The Fillmore men are clamorous of the danger of the Union, if the government is to be conducted in future by either party of their opponents; and they promise us that if the Fillmore party is successful, we can have the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, with a wire connecting us with the Eastern slope; and that perfect peace would ensue, and Kansas-Nebraska will lie down lamb-like beside her lioness neighbors, the Missourians. Let the case be even so, for peace and progress should be the prayer of all good citizens. J. E. W. C.

[To be Concluded to-morrow.]

FREMONT MEN IN MISSISSIPPI.—A gentleman, a native of Amesbury, has recently returned from a sojourn in one of the western counties of Mississippi, and he says there are many men in that section who favor the election of Fremont, but they dare not make an organized movement to give force to their sentiments, as the dominant opinion is fiendishly intolerant.

A TRAIN OF CARS THROWN FROM THE TRACK BY A MOOSE.—The Portland Adviser learns that the train of cars for Clark & McCrillis' Lumber Mills, were thrown from the track on Thursday evening, a short distance above Island Pond. On examination to ascertain the cause, it was found that they had run down and run over a noble great Moose, which weighed about 1000 lbs. It was of the male species, and from the track it was evident he had a companion with him who turned off the track a few rods ahead of the point where this one was run down. No damage was sustained by any one, and the engine and train were but slightly injured.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—We are in receipt of private accounts from Kansas to the 20th instant. The Territory was tolerably quiet. The border remained closed against the Free State men going or returning.

Gen. Lane arrived at Nebraska City on the 18th.

The famous "Lone Star" flag of the South Carolinians was received here on Saturday evening.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 29.—A collision occurred on the Michigan Southern Railroad on Saturday afternoon, between a construction and a freight train, near the Albany and Salem crossing. A passenger from New York was killed, but his name is unknown.

PRESIDENT'S TOUR.—In the weekly meeting of the Aldermen of Boston, on Monday evening, an order was passed that the Mayor be requested to extend an invitation to the President of the United States to visit the city of Boston before his return to Washington, and to extend to him the hospitalities of Boston. Aldermen Calrow, Wightman and Cheever were appointed the Committee to make proper arrangements for the reception. The order was passed unanimously.

The President was to arrive at Baltimore on Tuesday, from Washington, by the early train, be received by the military and escorted to the Gilmore House, to take breakfast; thence be escorted to the cars which leave for Philadelphia, at 11 o'clock. A Committee of citizens of Philadelphia to meet him at Wilmington, and escort him to the city of Philadelphia and then wait upon him to the train which leaves for New York at 5 o'clock.

ELECTORAL TICKETS.—The National Intelligencer says that electoral tickets have been formed in all the States for Mr. Buchanan; for Mr. Fillmore in all except Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin, Maine, and New Hampshire; and for Mr. Fremont in all the free States except Pennsylvania; also in Maryland, Kentucky, Virginia, and Missouri. South Carolina appoints electors by legislature.

PLEASANT SUNDAYS.—The succession of pleasant Sundays this season is noteworthy. The Young Men's Christian Association of Boston made arrangements for a series of ten religious meetings on the Common, late in the afternoon of Sundays, during the months of July, August and September.—The meetings were continued ten weeks, without interruption by bad weather. Last Sunday the weather was as fine as upon any previous Sabbath of the year.

There have been in this locality, fourteen consecutive Sabbaths, of good weather, favorable for gathering congregations for public worship.

☞ The New York News—Buchanan—concedes that the Democrats will be defeated in Pennsylvania in October, but contends that 20,000 votes will come back to Buchanan in November!

HON. SAMUEL H. WALLEY. — We, of course, can have no reason to express displeasure at the course this gentleman has seen fit to adopt, although we may give utterance to our disappointment. At the great Whig Convention in Worcester, on the 2d of October last, at which Mr. Walley was nominated for Governor, he said: "I am not one of those who regard it as a sacrifice to serve the Whig party. I am not one of those who are afraid to take part and act with the Whig party. I have always been a Whig, I am a Whig and I will die, if I die possessed of my reason, adhering to those principles which have been the Whig doctrines of this Commonwealth ever since that party had an an existence." Mr. Walley still lives, and, we regret to say, is a Whig no more.—Bunker Hill Aurora.

This is rich. If we understand it, it means that Mr. Walley is no Whig now, because he votes for Fremont and Dayton! Why? Because they were nominated by Republicans. But he would have been a Whig, if he had voted for Fillmore and Donelson! though they were nominated by the South Americans or K. N.'s. Or he might have been a Straight Whig, and voted for Buchanan and Breckenridge, we suppose! Well, party politics are a study.

SNOW STORM.—Between seven and eight last evening there was a slight fall of snow. Rain succeeded in a few minutes, however, and the snow was quickly dissolved. This may be called the first snow storm of the season.—Rochester Union, Sept. 25.

MR. BUFFUM.—Mr. David C. Buffum, recently murdered in Kansas, was a son of Mr. Edward Buffum of Salem. He was educated a Friend, and was a man of peace. As a band of Missourians were passing his house near Lawrence, some of them broke from the ranks and pursued him into a cornfield, where they shot him. He was able to get out of the corn and beckon to a neighbor by whom he was cared for, but died in 24 hours, of his wound. We have heard of no well authenticated case where Free State men have shot unarmed peaceable pro-slavery men on their own farms.—Bos. Chron.

THEATRICAL. — At Fall River, Mass., Bidwell & Marston's Dramatic Company closed on Saturday evening the 27th a season of 52 weeks, (a season unprecedented by any travelling company) and reopened on Monday, the 29th, with Hamlet. They intend to visit Portsmouth soon.

A GREASY MECHANIC.—The New York papers generally speak in high terms of Mr. Banks. The Evening Post has the following first-rate notice. The quotation near the end of the paragraph is made from a recent sneer of a Southern paper against the people of the Free States:

Mr. Banks is a man of about forty years of age, rather below the middle height, of plain exterior, perfectly self-possessed, and having that quiet dignity of manner most befitting a gentleman. His dark hair is already plentifully streaked with gray, and his earnest, intelligent features indicate the man of thought and of purpose. The forehead is broad and high, the eyes clear and steady, and the mouth large and expressive. His style of oratory is easy and emphatic, if not graceful: his flow of language uninterrupted, and a sincerity of manner, natural to him, seems to carry conviction to his hearers. As he stood before the vast audience, which could not have numbered less than twenty-five thousand persons, a self-made man, already occupying one of the most honorable and responsible positions in the gift of the people, he seemed a fit representative of Republican institutions, which do not deny even to "greasy mechanics and filthy operatives" a participation in the highest offices of the Republic.

SUDDEN DEATH IN THE STREET.—The wife of Jas. Smith died suddenly on Warren bridge, Sunday afternoon. She had undertaken to walk to Charlestown, and has been feeble for sometime. Feeling wearied, she sat down upon the bridge, when a rush of blood from some internal organ, filled her mouth and nostrils. She died a few moments afterwards with her head resting in her husband's lap.—Boston Bee.

THE REV. THEODORE PARKER, on Sunday, at the Music Hall, stated at the commencement of the services, that he had designed to read as the study of the morning one of the Epistles of James; but having newly received a letter from his friend in Kansas, Rev. Mr. Nute, he would instead read an epistle from the Apostle Ephraim, a letter from Mr. Nute to Mr. Parker, dated the 14th and 15th inst.; and in response to its suggestions of the necessity of aid, as the congregation passed out of the Hall, contributions were made to the amount of $289. Mr. Parker preached a discourse on the life and character of Franklin.—Boston Courier.

A STANDARD MEDICINE.

Dyer's Healing Embrocation has a reputation unlike that of any other medicine. It takes precedence of any other used or recommended for the purposes, and whenever introduced into a family, no persuasion would induce them to be without it. Reader, if you have never used it, and have unfortunately become cut, wounded or bruised, or are suffering from pain, either external or internal, try Dyer's Healing Embrocation at once, and you will ever after keep it on hand.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to recall under bare poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Rockville Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart, of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuThs 8 6m.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along."—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it. If you wish any person to see anything, show it. If you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "hoed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Monday evening, just as the Railway train came in from Boston, a little girl of 11 years, daughter of Oliver Hanscom, Esq., was in Vaughan street, near the bottom of School street;—and in coming toward School street, was struck down by a carriage which was descending the hill, and which she probably did not see, as her back was towards it.—She died the next day of the injuries received—leaving a blank in the family circle, and reading anew the lesson of the utter uncertainty of human life and prospects.

☞ On the outside, this morning, will be found the rhymes on Ben: Franklin, written by B. P. Shillaber, and printed and circulated in the Procession, at the Franklin Celebration in Boston, Sept. 17.

FIRE DEPARTMENT—PUBLIC MEETING.—Every member of the Fire Department, in favor of appearing in the Procession on the 6th inst., and all persons who wish to volunteer for this service, are requested to meet this (Wednesday) evening, in the vestry under the Temple at 7 1-2 o'clock.

☞ A large and beautiful flag was suspended across the lower end of State street, last week, from the building occupied by Mr. Elisha Tripp. On each side it bears the names of the Republican candidates, with the inscriptions "Free Soil, free speech, free labor, and free men," and "Union for the sake of Liberty."

NAVAL.—The U. S. sloop-of-war Vandalia, from St. Helena, arrived at this port on Monday night, and came up to her moorings on Tuesday morning. Salutes were exchanged between the Ship and Fort Constitution, as the Vandalia entered the harbor,—and between the Ship and the Navy Yard, when the Vandalia reached her anchorage.

THE SHIP CŒUR DE LION.—The clipper ship Cœur de Lion, now lying at Lombard Dock, in San Francisco, (says the Alta Californian,) is one of the finest modelled and finished ships which we have ever seen in this port. In every place she has visited, her fine lines, neat finish, finely proportioned spars, &c., have attracted universal attention, and been the theme of praise by seafaring men, both American and foreign. She is the last ship built by George Raynes, Esq., of Portsmouth, N. H., and considered the best of the splendid fleet constructed by him, among which are the Sea Serpent, Wild Pigeon, Witch of the Wave, and Tinqua. The Cœur de Lion is a medium sized ship, carrying about 2,000 tons California cargo, and has made, with this, three voyages from the Atlantic States to this city, turning out her cargo each time in excellent order. She belongs to W. B. Parrott, Esq., of Boston, is commanded by Capt. Geo. W. Tucker, and comes consigned to Bingham & Reynolds. In a few days Capt. Tucker will take departure for Hong Kong, carrying with him a number of the Flowery Kingdom.

☞ Rev. Mr. Ambler, who delivered three lectures, on Spiritualism, last week in the Temple, is a very pleasant orator, with a good voice and agreeable manner. The lectures are plain, and quite brief—and in the two which we heard, there was little or nothing to which most christians would object.

☞ We have just received a copy of the New Hampshire Gazette, No. 1,—dated Oct. 7, 1856—looking very much like the old paper, of which it is a very fair reprint.

ROCKINGHAM COURTS—OCTOBER.

U. S. Circuit, at Exeter, 8th.
Probate, at Exeter, 15th.

☞ The N. Y. Musical World, in a capital article on the great Crystal Palace Concert, a short time since, says:

There were two elements in this concert which are so foreign to most musical performances, that they greatly enhanced the pleasure of this occasion—air and room.—The lungs and the locomotive continuations had therefore a good time of it, as well as the ears. If there be anything insufferable, it is to sit for three mortal hours on one and the same spot, jammed in, albeit, between the fairest of neighbors and the finest of toilettes. The brightest eyes cannot out-glitter the insufferable gas-flame, which, without being inhabited of a soul, makes itself so impertinently obtrusive. We do say, that under the existing arrangements, for eyes and brains that have been taxed all day, and for bodily powers that have been worked all day, three-hour-sit-still-in-one-place-concerts are a most unmitigated bore—perform who may.

That's a fact.

THE LAST INVASION OF KANSAS.—The border ruffian story of the last attempt to "wipe out" Lawrence is contained in the following despatch. It does not seem to us, says the Boston Chronicle, probable that Atchison, at the head of such an army, along with the blood-thirsty Titus, could have made up his mind to retreat unless he felt sure that Geary was going to enforce the bogus laws.

Dates from the border of the 19th, give particulars of the last days of the Kansas war, and the treaty of peace at Franklin.

The Missourians marched from Westport to attack Lawrence on the 13th. The army consisted of one regiment of foot, and two of mounted men, in all 2400, with 4 pieces of artillery. Gen. Haskell commanded. On the 13th and 14th, they marched 40 miles, reaching Franklin, 3 miles from Lawrence.

When 4 miles from Franklin, the advanced guard was fired on by the picket guard of the Lawrence army, and a man killed. It was intended to attack Lawrence that evening, but it was night when they reached Lawrence, and the attack was postponed till the 15th.

At midnight, however, information came that Col. Cook, with a force of U. S. troops, had taken up a position in front of Lawrence to protect it from the attack.

It was said that Col. Cook had been sent by the Governor to protect Lawrence.

On the 15th, Gov. Geary arrived at Franklin, and had a consultation with the officers of the invading army. He said he was prepared to enforce the laws, and suppress insurrections with the troops under his command. As an evidence of his ability to enforce the laws, he said he had arrested 90 or 100 outlaws, who would be tried by legal authorities.

Atchison, Reed and Titus urged compliance with the Governor's proposal, and it was acceded to, and the attack abandoned.

POLITICAL FUN.—One of the Eastern cotton mills is manufacturing "Fremont and Dayton calicoes." After the 4th of November these calicoes will be better and more extensively known as worsted goods.—Washington Union.

In the celebration at Aurora, Indiana, at the hind end of a wagon from Harrison, four brooms were made to revolve by a crank, above which was the pertinent motto; "A clean sweep!" Over the ladies' car from Harrison was a banner, on which was "We want no old Buck who has no little Dear!"

HON. LEWIS C. LEVIN, INSANE.—We regret to learn that this gentleman, formerly a member of Congress from the first Congressional District, has become totally deranged, and that he has been removed to the Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane, on the West side of the Schuylkill. For some time past Mr. Levin has been laboring under mental aberration, and the worst fears of his friends have now been realized.—Philadelphia Gazette.

☞ Mrs. Clarrissa Woodson, author of the "The Southern Home," and other popular works, died suddenly, on Saturday last, at the residence of her brother, Dr. W. G. Carr, in Albemarle county, Virginia.

HOW TO EAT WISELY.—Dr. Hall, in his Journal, gives the following advice:

Never sit down to a table with an anxious or disturbed mind; better a hundred fold intermit that meal, for there will then be that much more food in the world for hungrier stomachs than yours; and, besides, eating under such circumstances can only, and will always, prolong and aggravate the condition of things.

2. Never sit down to a meal after any intense mental effort, for physical and mental injury are inevitable, and no man has a right to deliberately injure body, mind or estate.

3. Never go to a full table during bodily exhaustion, designated by some as being worn out, tired to death, used up, done over, and the like. The wisest thing you can do under such circumstances, is, to take a cracker and a cup of warm tea, either black or green, and no more. In ten minutes you will feel a degree of refreshment and liveliness which will be pleasantly surprising to you; not of the transient kind which a glass of liquor affords, but permanent; for the tea gives present stimulus and a little strength, and before it subsides, nutriment begins to be drawn from the sugar, and cream and bread, thus allows the body gradually and by safe degrees, to regain its usual vigor. Then in a couple of hours, you may take a full meal, provided it does not bring it later than two hours before sundown; if later, then take nothing for that day in addition to the cracker and tea, and the next day you will feel a freshness and vigor not recently known.

No reader will require to be advised a second time, who will make a trial as above, while it is a fact of no unusual observation, among intelligent physicians, that eating heartily, and under bodily exhaustion, is not unfrequently the cause of alarming and painful illness, and sometimes of sudden death. These things being so, let every family make it a point to assemble around the family board with kindly feelings, with a cheerful humor and a courteous spirit; and let that member of it be sent from it in disgrace who presumes to mar the ought-to-be blest re-union, by sullen silence, or impatient look, or angry tone, or complaining tongue. Eat in thankful gladness, or away with you to the kitchen, you graceless churl, you ungrateful pestilent lout that you are!—There was grand and good philosophy in the old time custom of having a buffoon or music at the dinner table.

THE PARTING.

Kitty! I'd press you to my heart,
But all such pressure you decry;
There's too much cotton, whalebone, lace
'Tween you and I.

I'd only muss the dry goods up,
And make you fret, and pout and frown;
Besides, I might, oh, sad mischance!
Break whalebones down.

Farewell! I'll pray when next we meet,
(And meet we may if fashions change)
At least, that we may come within
Good talking range!

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.
DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should scarcely pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, if I take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Feb. 7, 1856.
BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we have for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.
HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, IA., writes, 31 Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL, by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.
SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., AUBURN, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

AYER, ALPES HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.
DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid she could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. She takes his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.
Yours with gratitude and regard,
ORLANDO SHELEY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues. Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE science of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow diseases, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:—

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Dysepsia, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, Piles arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgic and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,
No. 76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents, superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof by him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters relating to inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessary of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any, persons acting in that capacity who had so much business before the Patent office, and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cts. per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well-known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical in a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians as invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

HARPER ON WINE.

Some persons are in the habit of quoting foreign wine drinking as an argument in favor of the habit: to all such we commend the following from Harper:—

"WINE GROWING COUNTRIES."—"Unhappily, there is an agent far more direct and active in the degradation of France, than either taxation or extravagance. No one who has made a tour of curiosity around the "octroi" walls of Paris, can have failed to make the discovery. Here, for at least three days in the week, he will find from 20,000 to 30,000 of the dissolute of both sexes occupied in drinking and debauchery of the worst kind in temporary liquor shops.

There are upwards of 350,000 licensed retailers of wines and spirits in France, being an increase of 100,000 in twenty years. Were Beelzebub permitted to select an agent for demoralization of humanity, he would not find one better adapted to his purpose than that which is sanctioned by the government of France.

M. Villerme speaking of the cabarets of the quarter Etoques at Lille, says:—I saw in them crowds agitated like the inhabitants of an ant hill. All drank the detestable corn brandy or beer. I can affirm that I have never seen at once so much pollution, misery, and vice, and nowhere under an aspect more hideous and revolting. In Paris it is estimated there are 17,000 habitual drunkards of the most brutal character.

"The Mayor of Pompoil says:—I affirm that the greatest part of the paupers of this town owe their misery to the excess of drinks, particularly brandy. Such evidence should destroy the common delusion, that because light wines are cheap in France, intoxication is rare. Brandies of the most deleterious nature are equally cheap, and more generally used. In the department of the North, there is a dramshop for every sixty-four inhabitants."

The Rev. Dr. Baird, who has resided several years in Paris, and traveled more frequently and extensively through the various countries of the Eastern Continent, than almost any other man living, bears positive testimony corresponding with the above.

He assured the writer of this article that there was in fact more drunkenness in the wine-growing countries of Europe—in France and Germany—than in the United States.

An appetite is formed for stimulus by the use of "light wines," and soon something stronger is demanded. It is not true then, that the use of light wines tends to keep men sober, or prevent drunkenness, but directly the opposite. The impression that France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, Italy, and other wine-growing countries are comparatively free from drunkenness, is entirely erroneous, and must have gained credit from the testimony hasty travelers and superficial observers.

Men who have had the very best opportunity to know the facts, bear decided testimony against such impressions.

R. S. C.

BE CHEREFUL.—If the world were intended for a house of mourning, every flower would have been painted black; every bird would be a crow or a black-bird; everybody would be born a negro; the ocean would be one vast ink pot—a black veil would be drawn over the face of heaven, and an everlasting crape hung around the borders of creation.

Morrang Chronicle.

THUSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1856.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

KNIGHT'S FERRY, Sept. 4th, 1856.

No administration can be deservedly popular, unless it endeavors to be what the common sentiment of a free people requires. It must act untrammelled upon all public measures, and not be influenced by sectional prejudice.

If we are to have anything of importance to us, we want it now; but if niggardly politicians are to be many years in doing what can be done in a single session, we shall despair of ever receiving any benefit in our day. This dromedary mode of doing business, is characteristic of the way Parliament dispenses its benefits; it is too slow to be of any service in this age of electricity and steam. Dromedaries will do to take the place of pack mules in crossing difficult passes in our mountain districts, but on and over the plains we must have the Iron Horse, which annihilates space, and brings us within a few days ride of the central States; and its hourly communication by its second hand, the Telegraph.

The miners of the State are doing well, and some claims are paying very richly.—One in Scorpion Gulch, on the Table Mountain Range, after 13 months labor in tunneling through rock, lava, &c., has struck dirt which yields $50 the pan.—There are many very rich claims on the Stanislaus river, which are yielding fortunes to their owners. There are some dozen tunnel companies boring into the Table Mountain, about 6 miles above this place, on the Stanislaus, and are sanguine of ultimate success, though they must expend a vast amount of labor, and several hundred thousand dollars in the experiment. This is only one of the many thousand localities, in which men are thus working, peradventure drilling through solid rock, under ground several hundred feet, with only Hope to cheer them on;—and now and then we hear that one, after long months of labor has got through.—Then the miners cluster around the washing of the first panful of earth, and as the water separates the gold bearing sand from the mass of gravel and stones, the eager eyes of the bystanders now see the more coarse particles of gold, and as the black sand disappears, the precious metal tells its own tale, of the fortune they have reached.

The facilities for gold-washing have been vastly augmented in this section, as well as in other parts of the Southern mines, by the timely introduction of canals or ditches, by which mining becomes more general; and in fact the rivers are nearly dry in summer from this circumstance alone.—And were they ten times as large, the water would be made available for other grounds, which are sadly in want of the element; for nothing can be done without it. In many places it is used night and day, and in gulches it is used several times over, thus paying canal owners handsomely for its use. For instance, the first water taken from the ditch, sells for $1,50 per square inch, and as it runs down the Gulch, Company No. 2 takes it at a cost of $1,33 per inch; $1,00 for the next; and the next; so that a ten inch stream will yield the water company from $40 to $75 a week, according to the number of claims using the same.

The San Joaquin Ditch Company with a capital of $50,000, are selling water to the amount of $3,000 per week; the company have only just commenced; and hope that the ditch will yield a larger sum.—This is the best kind of property in the State, and investments are well repaid, for miners will and do pay enormous sums for water.

A new company is now being organized, capital to be $100,000, with 8 or 10 miles of ditch and means for indefinite extension. The route is being surveyed, and the books are now open for subscriptions.

Californias' prospects were never finer or more full of promise than at present;—so while amidst her exciting scenes I try to amass the ore, and await the first number of your Chronicle, I remain

Yours, J. E. W. C.

THE COMMON COUNCIL of Worcester, Ms., voted down a resolve to appoint a committee, and appropriate $500 for the reception of the President, by a vote of 11 to 5.

☞ The factory of the Belting and Packing Company, (India Rubber Works) at Sandy Hook, Newtown, Ct., was burned down early Saturday morning. This was the largest establishment of the kind in the country. Loss about $200,000, half of which was in the stock of rubber.

KILLED ON THE RAILROAD TRACK.—Mr. Thomas H. Kelley, a tailor by trade, recently of Norway, was killed on Saturday evening, at North Oxford, says the Portland Advertiser, by being run over by the up train from Portland. His remains were found soon after the occurrence took place, by some of his relatives who were in search of him at the time. A portion of his body was lying inside of the track, and was not much disfigured, but the lower portion, which was outside the track, was much mangled. The affair was not known by any one on board the train, and it is supposed that Kelley either placed himself there on purpose, or that he was so drunk that he could not move, after falling across the track, and that he fell asleep in that situation.

A coroner's jury was summoned on Sunday morning, and after the examination of witnesses, returned a verdict:—"That the said Thomas H. Kelley came to his death by being run over by a train of cars, on the 27th day of Sept. inst., at about 8 o'clock in the evening of said day, while lying on the track in a state of intoxication."

The engineer, fireman and conductor of the train were summoned before the Coroner, which was the first knowledge they had of the transaction.

The deceased leaves a wife and two children.

☞ A Meeting of the National Sunday League was held in St. Martin's Hall, London, and a resolution adopted that the music in the parks of the metropolis, and in the towns of the kingdom, on Sundays, has been productive of great moral good.

☞ The Louisville Journal has discovered a mare's nest. It says that Democrats in Ohio, hopeless of that State are colonizing Kentucky with Jacobin voters, for the purpose of securing the Buchanan electoral ticket in November.

CLERICAL.—Rev. Frederic Hinckley, recently of Hartford, Conn., has received a unanimous invitation to become pastor of the First Unitarian Society in Lowell.

Mr. Edwin M. Wheelock has accepted the invitation to become the pastor of the Unitarian Society in Dover, N. H., but will not be ordained till January.

☞ A Fillmore Whig convention is to be held at Manchester, on Friday evening, to nominate an electoral ticket—in the vain hope to defeat the Fremont Ticket in New Hampshire.

☞ The Boston Advertiser says that in six northerly wards of Boston, ward meetings were held on Tuesday evening, by the Fillmore and Donelson Whigs, to elect delegates to a convention. These meetings varied in attendance from 3 to 6 members—but they chose the delegates!

☞ A lady of Lawrence, writing to her brother in Boston, gives the following account of one of the recent ruffian outrages in Kansas:—

"A man came into Lawrence this morning from Leavenworth. He had been on the road more than a week. He was shot at and hit; he fell as though he was dead; they went to him and felt of his pulse and found he was not quite dead, and then with the largest end of their gun pounded him on the back of his head till they cracked his skull, and then left him for dead. After they left, he crawled away out of sight, and subsisted on green corn and water melons till he finally reached here. This is a positive fact. Dr. Prentiss dressed his wounds. But this treatment is quite mild to what some get."

☞ A correspondent of the New York Tribune at Los Angelos, Cal., says:

"Among the native population, who reside almost entirely in the Southern counties, and who, from their greater numerical force, decide the political complexion of the South, Fremont will be supported with entire unanimity."

STORM.—A violent but short storm, rain, with wind S. E., took place here on Tuesday night, clearing off finely on Wednesday morning. Damage here confined to a few trees and branches. Among the trees broken down, was a large one near the mansion of the late John Mc Clintock. The Newburyport Herald of Wednesday morning says:

The storm yesterday was so severe between Boston and New York, that no telegraphic despatches could be received. This would indicate a bad time for our Cattle Show, as the storms always commence in the south-west and move this way.

Nevertheless, the day was fine,—and we presume the Cattle Show was successful.—Franklin's old rule about storms on our coast, was: North Easterly storms always begin at the South West. And we believe it is commonly true, that rain or snow begin on the side towards which the wind blows, whether that side be north or south.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.—Samuel Flinn, an engineer, formerly on the Northern Railroad, fell from a freight train in Manhester, N. H., Saturday night, and was injured so that he died in a few hours.

Mr. Whiting, a brakeman on the Bristol Railroad, was knocked off the freight train while passing under a bridge on Saturday evening, and was severely injured.

A young man, named William Evans, was killed Thursday afternoon, near the Western Railroad station in Lee, by falling from the platform of the passenger car attached to a freight train.

☞ The Wyandotte (Ky.) Pioneer says that Dr. Mussen, a strong Democrat of that town, went only a few months ago to Kansas to settle. While there he was robbed and abused by the border ruffians. He has returned home, and now goes strong for Fremont and Dayton.

A VOICE FROM MAINE.—The Saco Democrat of the 30th says:

Since the federal abolition party, under a new name, succeeded at the late election, we think a reaction has been going on—matters have assumed a more natural couse, and sham republicanism is fast smiting to its ordinary level!

A Providence military company, consisting almost exclusively of Democrats, was invited to go to Concord, N. H., to honor the reception of the President—all expenses paid—but only ten voted to go.—Boston Chron.

Probably they could not afford the time. Nevertheless there will be a large gathering of the Democratic party.

FIRE AT HANOVER, N. H.—Our correspondent at Hanover, informs us that on Saturday night, Sept. 27, the Burke House, situated a few rods east of Dartmouth College, was totally destroyed by fire. It was owned by Rev. Mr. Lord, and occupied by Mr. Alanson Haskell as a boarding house. Building partially insured. Furniture saved. As there was a scarcity of water in Hanover, and but a weak organization to combat a fire, a lack of wind, only, saved the College buildings. Our correspondent suggests the necessity of erecting fire-proof buildings for the protection of the valuable libraries, cabinet and apparatus of the College.—Traveller, 30th.

A STANDARD MEDICINE.

Dyer's Healing Embrocation has a reputation unlike that of any other medicine. It takes precedence of any other used or recommended for the purposes, and whenever introduced into a family, no persuasion would induce them to be without it. Reader, if you have never used it, and have unfortunately become cut, wounded or bruised, or are suffering from pain, either external or internal, try Dyer's Healing Embrocation at once, and you will ever after keep it on hand.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OLD YE BALD HEADED.—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to "scud under bare poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Rockville Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago Doctor Burleigh Smart of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuThsS 6m.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it; if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin: now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "toed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

N. H. HISTORICAL SOCIETY. — Messrs. Editors:—Has an invitation been given to the N. H. Historical Society to attend the Celebration at Portsmouth? Or is it to be regarded as a matter of course that the Society join in the Celebration on account of the action taken by the Society, at the annual meeting last June? Yours, D.

The Committee of Invitations have invited the Historical Society, forwarding their letter to Rev. Dr. Bouton of Concord—and they authorise us to invite the members, as there is no time for a meeting of the Society.

☞ We are glad to learn that Rev. Charles Spear, who delivered the third Address before the Printers in Massachusetts, will be present at the Centennial celebration of Printers in this city;—and that he will speak next Sabbath afternoon, in the Universalist Church, on his favorite theme, the Moral conditions of Prisons.

☞ We have just received a copy of the New Hampshire Gazette, No. 1,—dated Oct. 7, 1756—looking very much like the old paper, of which it is a very fair reprint.

☞ On Wednesday, at Rye Beach, there was a Fremont Mass Meeting, addressed by able speakers, well attended, and high in hope.

☞ This day is the time for President Pierce's arrival in Concord, where he is to be publicly received and honored by the Democratic party.

☞ A whisper was going round on Wednesday, that President Pierce is expected here at the Printers' Centennial Celebration. On enquiry of the Chairman and of the Committee of Invitations, it appears that they have no knowledge of any such intention on his part, or of any invitation extended to him, beyond the general invitation in the newspapers, extended to all citizens.

☞ The new ship, recently launched by the Portsmouth Shipbuilding Company, was disposed of on Wednesday, to Daniel Marcy and others, for about $48,000.

THE CELEBRATION.—Col. Beals, the celebrated Decorator who added so much to the interest of the great Franklin Celebration in Boston, commenced his decorations in this city yesterday, by ornamenting the Rockingham House in fine style: by the 6th he will have old Portsmouth in full gala-dress.

THE FIREMEN.—The members of the Fire Department held a meeting at the vestry under the Temple on Wednesday evening, to consider the subject of joining in the procession on Monday next. It was decided by a strong vote to appear on that occasion, and also to offer prizes to be played for by the several companies. The Assistant Foreman of each company were appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

Another meeting of the whole department will be held at the same place on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The several companies will hold meetings at their respective engine-houses.

NEW FIRM.—Henry W. Dutton, publisher of the Boston Transcript, has associated with him his son Wm. H. Dutton,—the firm is Henry W. Dutton & Son.—Mr. Haskell continues as editor of the excellent and reliable Transcript.

A NEW MARTYR.—The horrible details of the recent murder of Mr. David C. Buffum by the border ruffians of Kansas, as published in the Salem Register, have excited the most painful interest in Essex County, where the deceased was known and esteemed. The following extract from a letter to his father, Mr. Edward Buffum, of Salem, contains the material facts in the case. When shall we be able to report the arrest and punishment of a person in Kansas, for outrages committed against the Free State settlers? Up to this date, the known robbers and murderers of Northern men have not been arrested by the officers of the General Government.

LAWRENCE, Sept. 17, 1856.

TO MR. EDWARD BUFFUM: Sir,—It becomes my painful duty to inform you of the death of your son David, which took place this morning at 7 o'clock. The circumstances are, that, yesterday morning, at 7 o'clock, a party of border ruffians were passing his house, when some eight or ten of them broke from the ranks, pursued him in his corn field, and shot him, the ball taking effect in the lower part of his bowels. After being shot he made out to get out in sight of my house and beckon to my son, who, with one of my neighbors, went to him, and found him mortally wounded. He was taken to my house, and medical aid was sent for; but all to no purpose. He departed this life this morning, 24 hours after receiving his wound. He requested me, half an hour before his decease, to write to you, and say to you he felt willing to go for the cause of freedom in Kansas. He retained his senses to the last moment.

The Salem Gazette of Monday morning has the following notice of this murder:

We knew Mr. Buffum as a man of good character, and as an intelligent citizen, strongly marked by the quiet demeanor which usually characterizes those who were brought up, as he was, in the discipline of the Society of Friends. The great crime for which he has been ruthlessly shot down, is that of opposition to the introduction of slavery within the limits of the territory where he had taken his abode. While his loss will be more sadly felt in the immediate circle of his friends, it will be remembered that this is but one of many brutalities for which—under the present rule of villany—there is no redress whatever. Let us hope for a brighter day.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—An affray occurred in a boarding house, in South street, to-day, growing out of a quarrel about an umbrella, between two young men, named David Kears and Edward Spencer. Kears was stabbed in the heart, dying in five minutes.

EXTRAORDINARY DROUTH.—While large portions of our country, North and South, have been deluged with rain, some parts, central and Western, have been parched with unprecedented drouth. The whole Atlantic coast has been flooded, and of late there have been copious rains along the Mississippi, and for some distance west of it. But there has been remarkable drouth in Utah, Kentucky, and in Western New York. The Frederica Censor in Chateaque Co. says there has not been a season there since the settlement of the country in which so little rain has fallen. Springs and wells that never failed before are now dry. For several days last week the air was filled with the smoke of fires that were raging in the woods and in the dry grass of the meadows. The destruction of property in the village of Van Buren harbor through fires, is estimated at $17,000, including fences, hay, grain, barns, saw-mills, and one house. The fires were still burning in the woods, though partially checked by recent showers.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth, white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," run the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.
DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of those complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should scorn pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MISS., Feb. 7, 1856.
BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.
HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, IA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.
SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., ALBION, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856
DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily wasting, until Dr. Strong, of this city, whose we have often sought advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.
Yours with gratitude and regard,
ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best practical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues. — Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:—

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they would reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with something other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
No. 70 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents superior to those offered inventors by others, his mape arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY.
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in advising inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

TREMONT MILLS.

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Cocoons, Spices, &c.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.
(Sign of the Chinaman grinding coffee.)
141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give consumers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1 00
5 lb Oolong "	1.75	5 lb Java "	90
5 lb Y. Hyson "	2.25	3 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Special Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1¼ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well-known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

A married lady undertook to elope from Troy, N. Y., a day or two since, with a genteel dry goods clerk.—Her husband followed them and found them promenading arm in arm, in Albany. The lady fainted and fell into her husband's arms, thus affording "Yard Stick" an opportunity to escape. When she came to she promised to explain matters to her husband's satisfaction.

NEWSPAPERS ON THE CONTINENT.—The number of newspapers published in the little kingdom of Saxony is 220; in Austr; 271; in Bavaria 179; in Wurtemburg 99; and in Hanover 89. Italy possesses 311 journals and reviews, and Switzerland more than 563.

DEATH OF AN AGED CLERGYMAN.—The Manchester American reports the death of the Rev. John Whiton, D. D., of Antrim, N. H., at the age of 73 years. He was born in Winchendon, Mass., graduated at Yale College in 1804, and was settled in Antrim in 1808, where he continued as a settled pastor for 45 years. He was the author of a History of New Hampshire for schools, a history of the town of Antrim, and at the time of his death was engaged upon a history of Presbyterianism in New Hampshire. He has left a wife and six children, the eldest of whom is James M. Whiton, Esq., the Superintendent of the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad.

AN INCIDENT.—While Judge Brown, of Maryland, was speaking in East Birmingham, Pennsylvania, the other evening, some one asked him how many slaves he had. The Judge replied, "Not half as as many as you have in one of your factories here." The insult to the working men of his audience in calling them slaves was hardly polite, it must be admitted, but it betrayed the real temper of the pro-slavery politicians towards the free mechanics and laboring men of the North.

NEW CENT.—The new cent piece recently finished at the United States Mint, Philadelphia, is the size of the old half cent, and is composed of fifty-seven parts of copper, seven of nickel, and one of zinc. It has a light appearance, with a faint red tint, and is in beautiful contrast with the American silver and gold pieces, and will not, as the old cent did, tarnish them by contact. The weight of the new is only seventy-two grains—that of the present copper cent is one hundred and sixty eight,

We recommended a new small cent, three or four years ago.

At Chicago, last week, a man named Haak procured the imprisonment of a man named Deiderick, on a false charge of stealing a watch, and then sold his cow and ran away with his horses and wife. Deiderick was tried and acquitted, and Haak was pursued and brought back to take his place in prison.

PENNSYLVANIA.—The Newburyport Herald, Oct. 1, says, of the approaching election:

As the time of the Pennsylvannia election approaches—it is two weeks from today—the Fremonters appear to have more courage, and the Buchanan men the more to despond. If the victory is decisive for the one side or the other, it will settle the contest in favor of that side. The attempt to unite parties in New York after that date, can avail nothing. There was never a time probably, when there was so much underground operation about New York, Philadelphia and Washington, as now; and a new leaf may be turned over, or a new trap sprung any day.

AN APPROPRIATE WEAPON.—In a drunken row in Portland, Monday afternoon, a man was severely injured by having his head beaten with a beer bottle.

The famous California ballot-box has just been sold by the Vigilance Committee for the enormous sum of $3500. $500 in cash was paid down on delivery, the balance by note. The parties purchasing have gone into the mountains, to exhibit the box throughout the State, prior to the fall elections.

At Auburn, N. Y., Monday morning, a man named Jas. B. Beadle, stereotyper, in the employ of Messrs. Miller, Orton & Mulligan of that city, was found murdered. He was killed by blows on the head from a stone by some persons unknown, and then robbed of $32.

THE WINE CROP OF MISSOURI.—The wine grapes have been gathered; the crop is a small one, but the quality excellent, the grapes haveing attained a ripeness hitherto unequalled. In the neighborhood of Cincinnati there are more than two thousand acres in grapes. The profits per acre average, taking one year with another, about $300 per acre. The cost of planting ranges from $100 to $300 per acre. The expense with ordinary land need not exceed $150 per acre.

Morning Chronicle.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1856.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT.—The visit of President Pierce to Concord on Thursday, was an event long to be remembered. He is the first President New Hampshire has furnished to the Union—and probably the only one we shall furnish for some time to come. He visits, in the last year of his administration, the place of his residence—and is received there, not by the whole people of the city—for a large portion voted against the reception. But he is received by large delegations of his party, from every part of the State, and some from beyond it. The day was fine, the attendance large, and the music, procession, and other demonstrations, on a grand scale. We understand about eighty persons went from this city, including the Buchanan Guards, who numbered forty.

THREAT TO ASSASSINATE FREMONT.—The following suggestion is from the correspondent of the Charleston Standard:

The experience of Col. Brooks has shown that the popular heart is ready to respond to any act in vindication of the South; it has already shown that the occasion for such an act will certainly occur, if men are prompt to meet them—in Congress if not upon our own soil—and even in the present condition of public feeling, I am perfectly assured that while no Southern State, perhaps, may be ready to withdraw from the Union upon the election of Mr. Fremont, there is not one regiment in the Southern States that would not spring to defend the one that would strike the miscreant down about the pillars of the Capitol.

It is not long since the State of South Carolina presented a sword to Col. Fremont. What has made him a "miscreant" since then? And is there any doubt that the Brooks and Bludgeon league are ardent friends of freedom and equal rights?

BIBLE UNION.—The American Bible Union (Baptist) met in New York, on Wednesday. The Committee appointed to investigate the charge made by Dr. Judd against the manner in which the translation of the Bible is being conducted, made a report sustaining the officers of the Union, and the Revising Committee. The report was adopted. Dr. Judd was defeated in every movement he made. The annual report was so amended that the minority of the Revising Committee may not publish their objections against the decisions of the majority, without the consent of the Board.

BALLOONING.—The Newburyport Herald tells this story. Since the arrival of Mr. Wise in that city, the boys have been very anxious to see the man that goes up.—Yesterday there was a well dressed, spectacled gentleman at the City Hall, a stranger, from Boston, whom they took to be him; and immediately one and another asked him, "when are you going up?"—"when are you going up?" The stranger appeared to be exceedingly vexed, not knowing that he was mistaken for the aeronaut, and finally turned to a gentleman in his company, and asked—"How is it possible that these impertinent young rascals should know who I am? I have not spoken about Millerism for three years, and I don't know one of them; but they have found me out and are determined to insult me!" The gentleman explained as best he could, and attempted to smooth the matter over, but the spectacled man could not recover his self-possession during the day.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.—A most dreadful and fatal accident occured at New Hampton Sept. 29th. Carlos Bean, about 15 years of age, son of Mr. J. M. Bean of Lowell, was at New Hampton attending school. He was engaged in doors, with his room mate, a lad named Jones, in representing or rehearsing some piece in which a gun was necessary to be used. The gun was loaded with powder and ball, and the ramrod was not drawn. Jones discharged the piece at Bean, the ball striking him in the mouth, and passing out at the back of his neck; while the ramrod passed through his breast, pinning him to the wall. Bean was able to exclaim, "you have killed me," and he lived but about five minutes. Jones was not aware that the gun was loaded.

TEMPERANCE MEETINGS AT KEENE.—The Sons of Temperance, New Hampshire Division, will hold their annual meeting in Keene on Wednesday next,—and a State Temperance Convention, called by the State Committee, will be held on Thursday. One of the editors of the Chronicle & Phenix intends to be present—and will receive such subscription, payments, and communications, as may be offered.

For the Chronicle and Phenix.

JACKSON VS. PALMER.

[REV. MR. JACKSON'S LETTER.]

Messrs. Editors:—I very much regret to be under the necessity of troubling you with a matter which may seem to be personal. It is known to your readers, as well as generally in the State, that at the recent term of the Supreme Court in Concord, the case Lancaster vs. Jackson was tried; and it is also known that Lancaster was not the real plaintiff, but a partizan combination represented by John H. George & Co. It is also known that this Rumand Pro-Slavery despotism rested their case on the testimony of three young men by the name of Palmer. Had I known these witnesses at the time of the trial as well as I now do, an entirely different course would have been pursued.

The following letter was addressed to the Hon. Judge Wick, P. M., of Indianapolis, Indiana, by J. B. Palmer, the principal witness used by George.

Judge Wick made the following endorsement on it:

"I will be obliged and will fork over the postage stamps if you will answer this letter." WICK.

Mr. W. then passed it to Wm. Honnamon, Esq., one of the State Temperance Committee, who is acquainted with the character of my labors in that State, better than any other man. When George & Co. get the reply, perhaps the N. H. Patriot will publish it. If any one should doubt in relation to the real character of the Palmers, after reading the following, I would respectfully refer them to some of their neighbors who have known them long, and among others I will suggest the names of Hon. E. H. Rollins, Speaker of House of Representatives, G. G. Fogg, Esq., Editor of the Independent Democrat; Nathaniel White of the firm of Cheney & Co.; Brown & Young, furniture dealers; Messrs. Shaw & Lincoln, Thos. B. Jones, John P. Johnson, Julius Cone, E. E. Sturtevant, Horace Merrill, and J. S. McFarland; and I feel quite sure the character of the publisher of the Democratic Standard will be understood fully.

Yours very truly, E. W. JACKSON.
September 30, 1857.

[JOHN B. PALMER'S LETTER.]

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 9, 1856.

Post Master, Indianapolis:

DEAR SIR—You will do me a favor if you will inform me whether you have any recollections of a gentleman by the name of E. W. Jackson, who I understand resided in your State some years since, once acted as "State Temperance Agent." He has resided in this State the past year, and has been known here as "Rev. E. W. Jackson from Indiana. Facts have come to light recently, which show he is far from being entitled to Reverend. There is a report here that he was obliged to leave your State. Please write me and if you can give me some account of him while in your State, it will be read with much interest by the writer. Yours,

JOHN B. PALMER.

Thus these parties go into the high court of public opinion, before Uncle Toby.

Palmer's "facts" which come to light, and which he argues against Mr. Jackson, are brought to light by the Palmers' own testimony—on which the jury did not find a verdict—and on which Squire George backed down, after consulting Mr. Lancaster's friends.

Palmer, in the letter, questions the right of Mr. Jackson to wear the title Rev.—This, as most men know, is the prefix to the names of ordained ministers. Mr. Jackson bears this title as a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church:—and any person who knows anything at all about it, knows that the M. E. Church is one of the best organized, and with the most perfect statistics of any denomination in this country.

A minister of that Church, leaving Indiana, or staying in it, under any circumstances which deprived him of his regular standing and his ministerial title, would be reported on the Printed Minutes of the Annual Conference,—and on those of the General Conference—and he would be a marked man among the Methodists throughout the Union. Mr. Jackson has been in New Hampshire two years, employed in a responsible public position,—and mingling all the time with his clerical brethren, many of whom would be sure to detect any flaw or deficiency in his credentials.

The conspiracy of a Concord lawyer or two, to break him down for the sake of making political capital, or rum capital, does not seem to prosper any better in the Post Office than in the Courts.

If Mr. Palmer does not choose to publish the Indiana letter—we will, if he will send it to us.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1st.—Explosion of a Locomotive.—A locomotive exploded this mourning at the Balton depot, on the Northern Central Railroad, killing the fireman and throwing the engine 30 feet from the track.

NOTICES FROM THE PRESS.

From the BOSTON MIRROR, edited by THOMAS DAVIS, Esq.

It is with no ordinary pleasure that we call the attention of our readers to the advertisement, in another column, of Dr. W. R. Hayden's Improved Vegetable Pills, and we can assure our readers that this is not one of the vile humbugs with which the papers are daily crowded, but a truly valuable medicine. We speak from experience, having tested their virtues in our own family. Try them.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to "cud under bare poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need refaye nation.—Norwich Republican.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 1uTh&S 6m.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

"WHAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it; if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one box, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "toed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

LOCAL.

THE POST OFFICE BUILDING.—We believe the place has at last been hit upon for the new building, to accommodate the Post Office, Custom House, and U. S. Court. A business man suggests, that the site of the old Jefferson Market, with a little more land added, is the very place needed—and, on consideration, we are just of his opinion.

We presume the city would sell their old hulk of a building for a fair price—say enough to build a good City Hall, &c. somewhere else; and we are told that the other property needed, could probably be purchased at reasonable rates. To secure a front of 112 feet, would take in the store in Exchange Block now occupied by Mr. Carter; and by going a little into the gardens back,—to make 135 feet deep, the building can be set on a line with the Piscataqua Bank, and have a space of 25 or 30 feet on each side and in the rear.

This is decidedly the best location for a public building; and we should not be sorry to see such a blemish as the old brick market removed from our only public Square.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT TO PORTSMOUTH. By the following letter, which was received by the City Clerk, and read in the City Council on Thursday evening, it will be seen that the President has no appointment or intention to visit this city at the time of the Printing Celebration.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 24, 1856.

My Dear Sir:—I have just received your letter, enclosing the resolution of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the city of Portsmouth.

Enclosed herewith, you will find a copy of a letter from the Secretary of the New Hampshire State Agricultural Society, and my answer, which will explain the reasons of my contemplated visit, and indicate the little time I can command to pass at home. You will perceive that I was unable to fix the time when I could go, or even to say positively that I should be able to go at all.

It is now my purpose to reach Concord by the second of October, but as my visit has reference to my personal affairs, I cannot accept the hospitalities which your City government kindly tenders. I will, however, endeavor to visit "Old Strawberry Bank," before I leave the State. Should it be possible to do so, I will give you notice hereafter; but I must urgently request my friends to conform to my convenience and wishes, by dispensing with a formal reception, and meeting me on some evening which I will designate.

I beg you to present to the City authorities my most grateful acknowledgements.

Your friend and servant,
FRANKLIN PIERCE.

To John Bennett, Esq.,
City Clerk, Portsmouth.

For the Chronicle.

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

The coming Celebration should be an occasion of deep interest to all our citizens: and incite each one to do everything in his power towards commemorating in a worthy manner the hundredth anniversary of the introduction of the Press into New Hampshire; and honoring the memory of Daniel Fowle, who not only established it here, but by his efforts and protestations aided in securing that freedom of the Press of which the Stamp Act would have deprived it.

We do not generally realize what we owe to the Press: everything, indeed. It is the fountain of our Education—the supporter of our rights. It is the cradle which rocked the infant Genius of our Land in its earliest history—the parent which shelters it in these later days.

To the Press belongs that deathless torch which scatters the darkness of Ignorance, and which shall eventually bathe every spot on the face of the earth with the glow of enlightenment and civilization — the radiance of civil and religious liberty!

But we did not take our pen to eulogize that without which our Land might still be in a state of barbaric degradation; but to express a few hopes and opinions concerning the Celebration. Portsmouth has already won herself a name by the taste and enthusiasm displayed on that ever-to-be-remembered and truly "glorious Fourth," when her sons returned to her; and we hope she will not be obliged to doff her crown of success on this occasion; for not only we ourselves should suffer in her mortification, but those of our number who have risen up in neighboring cities, as stars in the cause we advocate, would be compelled to own, with a blush of shame, among those with whom they dwell, that Portsmouth failed in her efforts.

There will in all probability be many here from far and near; not only printers and editors, but also the votaries of the Press. Then let us strive to win another star for the crown of our mother's fame, by receiving them as it becomes us to do.—Nothing can add more to such an occasion than street-cleanliness and street-decorations; each of which, we trust, will be attended to by our citizens. ——.

☞ The Rockingham House has already been finely decorated by Col. Beals, in honor of the Celebration on Monday next;—Congress Block presents a handsome appearance,—thanks to Col. Beals, and Dr. Preston and other occupants of the Block; Dr. Fuller (who is ever active in matters appertaining to literature) and Mr. Barton have had the assistance of the Col. in decorating their building; the printing offices will be decorated—also Market street, as before stated. We also hear of several private residences to be decorated—and hope many more citizens will avail themselves of Mr. Beals's services in this line—as he is very tasteful, and reasonable in his charges.

☞ THE TRUCKMEN AND TEAMSTERS of the city are requested to meet at the Common Council Room, (in State street, over R. K. Oxford's store) this (Friday) evening at 7 1-2 o'clock. Per order of the Captain.

☞ Engine Co. No. 2, "Laconia," on Thursday evening, unanimously voted to appear in the Procession on Monday next.

☞ The Fire department hold an adjourned meeting at the Temple Vestry at 7 1-2 o'clock this (Friday) evening.

☞ Tickets for the grand Centennial Ball on Monday evening Oct. 6th, may be had at the store of Wm. R. Preston.

ROCKINGHAM COURTS—OCTOBER.

Supreme Judicial,	at Portsmouth, 7th
U. S. Circuit,	at Exeter, 8th.
Probate,	at Exeter, 15th.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 1.—Two political meetings were called here last night—one by the Americans at the east hall, and the other by the Republicans at the west hall of the Court House. At the former the Hon. Thomas L. Jones was to speak, at the latter Hon. Cassius M. Clay.

At the West Hall Mr. Clay commenced his speech by drawing a comparison between the States of Kentucky and Ohio, as affected by slavery, when cries were made of "Move him!" "move him!" "hurrah for Fillmore!" entirely drowning his voice. Mr. Clay said he was not aware that a Fillmore meeting had been called on the same night. (Voices—"That makes no difference.")

Mr. Clay several times attempted to proceed, but was often prevented, when a free fight took place between the opposing parties.

The City Marshal vainly tried to appease the crowd. At length Mr. Clay said—"I will go to East Hall and hear Col. Jones, and when he has closed, make my remarks.

Mr. Jones finished his speech, and then asked the few remaining to listen to Mr. Clay, who then spoke for nearly an hour, being frequently interrupted.

The Journal (American) says the Democrats made the disturbance, and hurrahed for Fillmore.

The Democrat and Times (Democrat) say that the Democrats took no part in the disturbance whatever. The Democrat also says that the disturbance was principally confined to boys.

The Courier (Whig) says they were worthy of pandemonium, and that the large gang of thoughtless boys and indiscreet men who attempted to abridge the liberty of speech deserve the severest reprehension.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1st.—B. B. Botts, son of Hon. J. M. Botts, publishes a card in the Richmond Whig denouncing Mr. Pryor, editor of the Enquirer, in severe terms. Mr. Botts says nothing but his physical incapacity, occasioned by severe rheumatic attacks, has prevented him from inflicting personal chastisement on Mr. Pryor. He complains that Mr. Pryor's conduct towards his (Botts') father to have been brutal, ruffianly and cowardly in the last degree, and invites him to a duel. He declares Pryor to be a bully, a blackguard, a posted coward and a poltroon, and uses language that must cause a meeting

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 29th.—Large Fire.—Three large warehouses in Bullitt street were destroyed by fire this morning.—Messrs. H. D. Newcourt & Bros. occupied one, and their loss is estimated at $100,000, of which $75,000 was insured in Eastern offices. J. S. Morehead's warehouse was filled with merchandise, in transit for east, which was also consumed; loss very large, and the amount of insurance is not yet ascertained. W. A. Richardson & Bro., who occupied the third warehouse, had their stock greatly damaged by water.—The other losses are comparatively small.

Two girls named Philomene Webster and Josephine Brown, dressed in full sailor rig, were arrested on the morning of the 26th in Broadway, N. Y. They were taken to the office of the Chief of Police, and stated that they had, until within a few days past, lived at a house of ill-fame, but becoming tired of their mode of life, had procured sailors' attire, for the purpose of going to sea.

The Eastern Argus (Buchanan) says, its candidates and its organization have the greatest difficulty in meeting the "wicked assumption" that they are in favor of securing, continuing and extending slavery."

The New Orleans Delta, which thinks that Gen. Quitman, instead of Mr. Breckinridge, should have been nominated for the Vice Presidency, says, "Kentucky is a highly suspicious State, with a press and pulpit inclining to Free Soil."

PRINTING CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

Printers, Editors and Publishers throughout the United States, and particularly the Sons of Portsmouth or of New Hampshire, engaged in any of the various branches pertaining to the Printing Art; and all others interested; are cordially invited to attend the Centennial Celebration of the Introduction of the Art of Printing in New Hampshire, which will be held at Portsmouth, N. H. on Monday Oct. 6, 1856.

Our billingsgate neighbor of the press, accuses us of quackery, because we publish DR. AYER's advertisements.—Now this same editor knows the Pharmacopia itself is not more free from the suspicions of quackery than his medicines. He knows they are endorsed by the medical Journals of this country, they are prescribed by our best physicians, and have the commendation of professors and eminent men of character too exalted for his comprehension, and he knows too that they have done and are doing in this community an amount of good which the utmost stretch of his ability, can never hope to equal.—Berks Co. Press, Reading, Pa.

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and delicate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MISS., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in this South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.
HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTREY, IA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., ALBION, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid "we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.
Yours with gratitude and regard,
ORLANDO SHELBY, or SHELBYVILLE.

Consumption, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bear witness the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:—

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,
No. 76 State st. oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof by him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY.
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in a suring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

Flowers.—J. C. Bradley, Danville, 1st pre. Mrs. L. S. Currier, E. Kingston, 2d pre. Mrs. J. B. Haley, Portsmouth 3d pre. J. T. Smith, Brentwood, presented a variety of fine Dahlias, and other beautiful flowers. Flowers were also presented by Mrs. Hurdy and Solomon Holmes.

There were 14 competitors for the premiums.—The whole work was done so well that it it rendred it exceedingly difficult for the committee to decide to whom to award the premiums.

Honey.—We noticed a box of Honey from J. C. Bradley, of Danville, and a glass jar of the same from Mr. Williams, of Hampton. They were both in the condition in which the bees left them, and as fine specimens of the labors of the "busy bee" as we ever saw. Would it not be well to offer premiums for the best honey in the comb?

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1856.

THE SQUATTER SOVEREIGN.

Some well meaning persons in New England, are so deceived by the papers on which they rely, as to suppose that there has been but little difficulty in Kansas. Others profess to believe that all the difficulty, or nearly all, has been made by free-state-men; and others still, that the faults on both sides between the combatants there, are about equal.

All these suppositions are great errors. Douglas, Atchison & Co. contrived the Kansas Nebraska bill on purpose to extend slavery over that territory, though the bill itself did say, "It is not the intention to legislate slavery into any territory, or in any way to exclude it therefrom."

The actions since, of Atchinson, Stringfellow, Buford, Jones, and others in Kansas, and of their aids in Congress, goes plainly to show their true intention, and gives the lie to this clause of the bill.

And now, while in New England, for party purposes, it is repeatedly denied that there is a disposition on the part of the Slave party in Kansas to commit outrages upon the Free State Settlers of that territory, we give a few extracts from the organ of Atchison, & Co., to show what is the spirit manifested there.—The Squatter Sovereign of Sept. 9, bearing the democratic flag, with the names of Buchanan and Breckinridge, has the following:

We must "fight the devil with fire"—scourge the country of abolitionism, free-soilism, and every other damnable ism that exists. Destroy their property, crops and every article that would conduce to the support of any or every person who is known or suspected of acting, co-operating or sympathising with abolitionism. This must be done, or the territory will be one continual scene of strife for months to come. Do this and peace will be restored, and quiet prevail. If it is not too late, the work should be carried on vigorously.

There you have it: "Scourge the country of Freesoilism"—"Destroy their crops and every article that will conduce to thier support." This is the order of the notorious Stringfellow, Atchison's right hand man.

Here is another item which shows that the pro-slavery forces are organised for destruction:

"We learn that forces to the amount of a thousand strong are encamped at Westport, and will soon move up to Lawrence. The volunteers that returned to this place have gone again to the scene of action, better equipped, and more thoroughly organized than ever."

If any one doubts whether they carry on destruction, let him read the letter in our columns signed F. H. B.—Also those we have before published, from him and other correspondents.

The first and only election ever held in Kansas for members of her territorial legislature, was held on the 30th of March, 1855. In the January and February previous, a census was taken which showed that there were in the territory at that time 8601 inhabitants, including females and minors, and 2905 legal voters. But when the returns of the election were canvassed, it was found that the whole number of votes cast was 6307!! All this is shown by official documents.

Of the 2905 legal voters in the territory, it was ascertained that 2286 were free State men; and of these only 791 got a chance to vote. Armed bands of ruffians from Missouri took possession of the polls at voting places, who excluded from them most of the free State voters, and filled the ballot boxes with such votes as had been furnished by Atchison, Stringfellow & Co. The result was that the "territorial legislature" elected consisted of such border ruffians as Atchison and Stringfellow chose to have elected. This "legislature" met and put forth that infamous "code of laws" which the people of Kansas have so rightfully ignored and denounced. And this is the "code of laws" which the President and his officials seek to enforce in that territory. The Congressional Investigating Committee, before which all these things were proved, has the following in its report on this subject:

FORCED CONTRIBUTIONS FOR THE CAMPAIGN IN PENNSYLVANIA.—Washington, Oct. 1—(Correspondence of the New York Tribune.) The Clerks in the Treasury Department, under Peter G. Washington, were notified on receiving their monthly pay, that they were assessed in the sum of about ten per cent on their salaries, to be used for electioneering purposes in the State of Pennsylvania. All who refused to pay were required to state the fact under their own signature.

We do not believe the statement. Some part of it may be true—but the latter part is incredible, and throws doubt over the rest.

PRESIDENT PIERCE AT CONCORD.

The reception to President Franklin Pierce, in Concord, his place of residence, was imposing.

The train reached Concord at about 11 o'clock, at which time thousands of people were in attendance, the people having come from all quarters. The President was informally received by the Committee of Arrangements. He then mounted on horseback amid the reiterated cheers of the assemblage.

The President was dressed in black.—Though he stated, in answer to many friendly inquiries, that his health was good, he looked pale, but seemed highly gratified by the reception he received, and the numerous expressions of anxiety by his friends. Bowing right and left to the thousands who crowded the streets, and to the ladies who occupied every window along the course, the President proceeded until he came in front of his old law office, and immediately under the triumphal arch. Here a delay of 15 minutes took place, during which a series of congratulations took place between him and his friends who crowded around him in a dense body. A circumstance took place at this time which was rather singular. The monster flag which was suspended between the two liberty poles, a little further up the street, which had been split up in the centre several feet by a breeze of wind some half an hour before, which had brought it in rough contact with the foot poles on one of the masts, split from bottom to top, and got torn in several places. This fearful crack gained the whole attention of all the crowd, and seemed also to have been noticed by the President.

The Reception ceremonies took place in the State House yard. The welcome speech was made by Col. George. He paid a glowing compliment to his administration, and to his devotion to the Constitution.

The President replied in a speech of some length, thanking his friends and neighbors for the cordial reception given him, and briefly referred to his administration, and denied that he had given countenance to sectionalism at any time or extent. He avowed his renewed devotion to the Union, and expressing a growing tendency to conservatism.

Speech-making in the State House yard, by several orators, filled up the afternoon until dark.

The levee took place in Depot Hall, at 8 o'clock. It was uncomfortably crowded. The Boston Brigade Band saluted and serenaded the President before he left the Eagle Hotel for the levee.

The fireworks were splendid, accompanied by music, speeches, &c.

TWO CORNERS.—Some one (who does not sign his name) finds fault, in the Congregational Journal, with the State Temperance Convention's being held at Keene next week, and says:

A State Temperance Convention has been called through the columns of a single paper in one corner of the State, while the Convention is to be held in another corner thereof, and where that paper has little or no circulation.

The Chronicle & Phenix, which gave the notice, has a general circulation in all parts of the State—and the notice of the meeting was published also in the Keene Sentinel, which has a large circulation in that part where the meeting is called.

The writer adds:

The Convention is called to be held at Keene, on the day when the people of the State are summoned to be at the Capital to attend a State Fair.

True—but the Sons of Temperance hold their Annual Meeting at Keene on the previous day, being also one of the days of the Fair. The Temperance People are "summoned" to Keene. We hope there may be found persons enough to fill up both the Meetings. Certainly the Sons are not to blame for having their meeting when and where it was appointed,—even though the Agricultural Fair happened at Concord.

We hope to see a good meeting at Keene—and in Concord too, when the time comes.

☞ The Dover Fnquirer states, that at a legal meeting, one of the largest ever held, of the First Parish in Dover—D. M. Christie, Esq., moderator,—it was unanimously voted to extend a call to Rev. D. H. Richardson, of Goffstown, to settle over this Parish as Minister. It was also voted to give him $1200 per annum.—This is the largest salary ever given to any minister by this Parish.

SCHOOL REPORT.—We have received from the Secretary of the State Board of Education, a copy of the "Tenth Annal Report upon the Common Schools of New Hampshire; the same being the Sixth Annual Report of the Board of Education."—It is a thick pamphlet, containing a great deal of valuable information. It will well repay a careful reading.

Chauncey and Winn, two Americans, convicted of offences against the laws of Cuba, escaped from their place of imprisonment, on the Island of Pines, and after wandering from concealment to concealment for forty-three days, through swamps and woods, without finding any means for embarkation upon the sea, they were compelled to give up to the authorities.

LETTER FROM KANSAS.

Sept. 16, 1856.

Dear Friend—I left Leavenworth last Tuesday. On the morning of that day, the new Governor, who had been so long expected, made a speech from the steamboat Keystone, as she lay at the levee. He afterwards passed up to the Fort. Gov. Geary is a fine looking man, apparently not over forty years of age. He informed us that he came to execute the laws, and had the whole U. S. Army to back him, if neccessary. We hope he may prove a good Governor. It is thought he is the best we could get under the circumstances.

Before I left Leavenworth, nearly all the "Border Ruffians" had left. It is said that Atchison marched fifteen hundred men within sight of Lawrence, and Gen. Lane went out to meet him; when Atchison concluded that his men were not drilled well enough, and therefore counter-marched to Westport and disbanded his men. There was to be a regathering of the "forces."

We had our sup of horrors in and about Leavenworth, week before last. On Monday morning a company of men commenced searching the houses of Free State men for arms; they went to the house of Wm. Phillips, who you may recollect was tarred and feathered last autumn. Mr. Phillips was sitting on the steps, in company with his brother and one or two other persons, when the "forces" rode up. Some of the company dismounted and started to go up the steps, when Phillips ordered them to desist, drew his revolver and declared that he would shoot the first man who entered his dwelling. He stepped back to the door, when a rush was made: He fired his revolver three times.—They fired a volley into the entry, wounding the younger Phillips, it is thought mortally. Wm. Phillips then sprang up stairs, siezed a Sharpe's Rifle, leaped out into the portico over the front door, and fired, killing one man. About forty shots were then fired at him. He fell, living but a short time. The next day, Tuesday, a boat was stoped at the levee, and remained there half a day. The Free State men were then ordered on board the boat, some of them at an hour's notice, and when the boat left it was crowded:—the people leaving their property at the mercy of the Pro Slavery party. On Wednesday about fifteen thousand dollars' worth of property belonging to parties at Lawrence, was taken from out of the warehouses and distributed among the "warriors."

Two young men who boarded at the same house with me at Leavenworth, started to join Gen. Lane's company at Lawrence. They were taken prisoners, afterwards turned over to another party, and a guard stationed over them. They were soon after shot dead in cold blood. But enough of such atrocities. F. H. B.

NOTICES FROM THE PRESS.

From the BOSTON MIRROR, edited by THOMAS DAVIS, Esq.

It is with no ordinary pleasure that we call the attention of our readers to the advertisement, in another column, of Dr. W. R. Hayden's Improved Vegetable Pills, and we can assure our readers that this is not one of the vile humbugs with which the papers are daily crowded, but a truly valuable medicine. We speak from experience, having tested their virtues in our own family. Try them.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OH! YE BALD HEADED—We invite the attention of those who are bald headed, and those becoming so, to Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We are not in the habit of puffing every quack nostrum that is advertised in our paper, but we feel it our duty, when we come across an article that is good, to let the people know it. We have no fears of having soon to "cud under bare poles," and therefore have not used the Restorative, but think, if the certificates of honest men can be relied upon, that it must be a first rate article. Try it, ye whose natural wigs need rejuvenation.—Lowell Republican.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronised than any other ever established in this country. THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart, of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuThâS 6m.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—Six pages to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it: if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "hoed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

LOCAL.

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF PRINTING,

ON MONDAY NEXT,

Promises to be an event of no small interest. Responses from abroad have been received which show that the attendance will be good. The patriarch of the New-Hampshire Press, Hon. John Prentiss of Keene, who established the Sentinel in that place before the commencement of the present century, and has now passed his fourscore years; and Father Boylston, of Amherst, who is but a few years short of the same age, will be present, and tell us of olden times. It is hoped that every press in the State, as well as the States adjoining will be represented, and that all those who have any direct connection with the art, will be partakers in the celebration.

Already the interest of our citizens is being manifest, in the outward decoration of their residences. Market street is being elegantly dressed with flags, and from present appearances there will be such a display of this character as has never before been witnessed in our city.

THE PROCESSION.—Appearances indicate that the procession on the 6th will be a very respectable one in point of numbers. Nearly every organized society of men in Portsmouth has voted to take part, and organizations from Exeter, Great Falls, &c. have signified their wish to unite with us. The Manchester Battalion, consisting of four distinct companies, and known as the "Veterans," will positively be present, arrangements for their accommodation having already been made at the various hotels. Besides the Manchester Brass Band, which accompanies the "Veterans," Gilmore's Salem Brass Band will appear, and one or two other Bands.

The contemplated route of the procession, is furnished us by Maj. Henry F. Wendell, Chief Marshal:

Forming on Market Square, the procession will march through Congress, Middle, Summer, Austin, Cabot, Islington, Congress, Vaughan, Deer, Market, Daniel, Chapel, State and Chesnut streets to the Temple.

At the close of the Oration and other services in the Temple, the procession will re-form and march through Chesnut, State, Middle, Court, Pleasant, Water and State streets, to Market Square.

THE DINNER, with speeches, &c., will take place in Jefferson Hall, at 2 1-2 o'clock.—A few tickets may be had at the store of Wm. R. Preston—$1.50 each.

The President of the day is, of course, His Honor Mayor Jenness, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements. Vice Presidents at Table, Messrs. Ichabod Goodwin, Samuel Sheafe, Abner Greenleaf, John Laighton, C. S. Toppan, H. D. Walker.

The Committee on Toasts consists of Messrs. Chas. W. Brewster, Samuel Gray, and Frank Fuller—the latter of whom will perform the duties of Toast Master at the Dinner.

ROWING REGATTA

ON THE

PISCATAQUA.

A Rowing Regatta will take place on the Piscataqua River, at 4½ P. M. of Monday, Oct. 6th.

Three prizes will be offered, as follows:

First prize,	$25.
Second prize,	15.
Third prize,	10.

Boats of all sizes will be allowed to enter and an allowance of 20 seconds per oar will be made on the smaller boats.

Boats will not be allowed to cross each others' bows. Boats so crossing, will forfeit their chance forthe prizes.

Two or more boats rounding the outer station at the same moment, the outside boat must keep off and give the inside boat sufficient room to round without hitting the stake; any outside boat so crowding, will lose its chance for the prize.

The starting point will be from the judges' boat, near Noble's Island, and the race ground will be from thence around the Stone Beacon and return. All boats must round the beacon to the starboard.

Entrance fee $1 to be paid the clerk at the judges' boat previous to commencing the race. All competing boats must enter previous to 4 P. M. of the 6th.

Messrs. William Petigrew, Nathan Godfrey and Richard Tripe are appointed judges.

F. G. BEAL, Clerk.

ROCKINGHAM COURTS—OCTOBER.

Supreme Judicial, at Portsmouth, 7th
U. S. Circuit, at Exeter, 8th.
Probate, at Exeter, 15th.

MUNICIPAL.—In the Board of Aldermen, on Thursday evening, a communication was received from the Committee on the Celebration of the Printing Centennial, inviting the City Council to unite in the Celebration.—Accepted on the part of the Board.

A petition from John Dame and others, asking for a stand of 64 muskets for the Fremont Phalanx, agreeably to the statute, was referred to a special committee, consisting of Ald. Rowell, Rundlett and Wendell.

Permission was granted to the Mercantile Library Association to erect an arch in front of their Rooms—and the like privilege was given to any others who wish, under the direction of the Street Commissioner.

A reply from the President of the United States to an invitation by the City Council to visit Portsmouth, was read—declining any formal reception by the City.

A special police, consisting of Messrs. A. Hayes, C. Littlefield, S. Walden, Wm. Emerson, G. E. Marden, B. Downing and S. H. Mills, was appointed for Monday next.

The ordinance respecting an appropriation by the city for the 6th, was taken up, and its consideration postponed to 12 o'clock on Friday.

Friday noon.—An ordinance passed, granting $500 towards the expenses of the Centennial Celebration on Monday next, Oct. 6th, provided a like sum is raised by subscription.

Messrs. Rundlett, Tucker, and Wendell were appointed on the part of the Aldermen, to co-operate with the citizens and printers' Committee of Arrangements.

At a Special Meeting of the Common Council on Friday evening,—it was voted to concur with the Board of Aldermen in accepting the invitation to join in the Centennial Celebration on Monday. Messrs. Janvrin, Brooks, and Adams, were appointed a Committee on the part of the Common Council.

The following gentlemen were appointed a Committee to receive the President on his visit to this city, viz. Messrs. Wendell, Trefethen, Carr, Lowd, and Hatch.

PAY UP.—It will be seen by the report of the doings of the City Council, that the Board of Aldermen have "done the right thing" for the Celebration, in concurring in appropriating the $500 asked for by the citizens.

But this appropriation is conditional—and the Committee will "circulate" today, to collect all old and receive new subscriptions; to increase the amount already put down to the sum required ($500) to be raised before the city's appropriation can be touched. Considerable yet remains to be subscribed.

☞ The members of the Continentals will meet at the Court House Yard on Monday morning next, at 9 o'clock, for the purpose of joining in the Procession.

GEORGE JOY, Capt.

All boys having Continental uniforms, who are not to use them in the Procession, are requested to loan them for others, and leave them at the Chronicle office this morning.

☞ We are requested by a Buchanan Guard, to state that that company numbered sixty-five muskets when they started from Portsmouth for Concord, on Thursday; and seventy-eight, rank and file, in Concord—instead of the smaller number we stated through misinformation.

☞ A Concord dispatch to the Boston Journal of Friday evening, states that Pres. Pierce will be at Portsmouth on Monday next, to attend the printing celebration.—But we suppose it to be a bogus report, without foundation.

NAVAL.—The war steamer Wabash, Com. Paulding, on a trial trip from New York, arrived in our lower harbor on Friday forenoon, and came up in the afternoon. It is said that she will probably take the President direct to Washington from Portsmouth next week.

☞ The political friends of President Pierce have sent him an invitation to visit Portsmouth on Tuesday next.

NAVY YARD, PORTSMOUTH.—We understand workmen are busily engaged in preparing the foundations for the new Ordnance Building, and Shell House for loaded shells, both which were authorized by the last Congress. The removal of ledge in the deep Basin, and the foundation for launching the Franklin, are nearly completed.

☞ The Hon. Mr. Greenleaf, who was one of the conspicuous persons in the President's reception at Concord, was Hon. Abner Greenleaf of this city—not Solomon Greenleaf, as many of the papers have it.

☞ A public meeting of citizens, to consider the matter of locating our new Post Office building, is called at the Court House, this (Saturday) evening at half-past 7 o'clock. The subject is worthy a full attendance. Market Square seems to be the best and most popular place—the site of the old Brick Market—but let us hear what the people will say, pro and con.

☞ Mr. and Mrs. Spear of Boston, will lecture on the subject of Prison Reform, at the Temple on Sunday evening. Doors open at 7 o'clock, lecture to commence at half-past.

FROM KANSAS.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—A letter to the Republican dated Lecompton, 25th ult., gives the following:

The armed bands that have been ranging through the territory are dispersed, and citizens are returning to their claims.

Business is reviving, confidence is restored, and peace reigns throughout the territory.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Jones, Stringfellow, and other pro-slavery agitators.

Gov. Geary has appointed Col. Titus to form a volunteer battalion, to preserve the peace in the neighborhood of Lecompton, and he has awarded the same duty to Capt. Walker, in the vicinity of Lawrence.

Gov. Price has appointed Thursday, November 20th, as a day of Thanksgiving in Missouri.

Messrs. Wimberly, Preston, and Creves, Kansas sufferers, having applied to the Committee appointed some time since to raise money for the destitute of Kansas, and been refused relief, publish a card in the Democrat this morning, calling for information respecting the disposition of the funds collected by the Committee. These gentlemen are all Free State men.

Ten to one the Card is bogus,—got up to influence the Pennsylvanian election.

Col. Titus is a bird of ill omen.

The total exports of treasure from San Francisco, for the last seven months, was thirty millions.

They raise six hundred bushels of sweet potatoes to the acre on the Gaudaloupe river in Texas.

J. W. MOSES would call the attention of his friends, customers, and the Public in general to the fact, that he has in his store, at No. 8 Market street, a good assortment of Broadcloths, Pilot and Beaver Cloths, plain and fancy Doeskins and Cassimeres, Black and fancy Velvets, plain and figured Satins and Grenadin Vestings, &c., which he will make to order or sell either with or without cutting or making, at fair prices.

He has a large assortment of furnishing Goods, consisting of Shirts, Collars, Cravats, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs, Under-Shirts and Drawers, &c., &c.

All Garments made by him warranted to be as good as can be had in this city. The above are new Goods, having been selected with care from large Stocks in Boston, and just received. September 26. is3w

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

SPEAKING AND PRINTING.—Compare the orator, one of the noblest vehicles of the diffusion of thought,—with the newspaper, and we may gain a faint glimpse of the ubiquitious power of the latter. The orator speaks to a few hundred; the newspaper addresses millions. The words of the orator may die in the air; the language of the newspaper is stamped upon tablets imperishable. The arguments of an orator may follow each other so rapidly that a majority of the audience may struggle in a net of ratiocination; the reasonings of the newspaper may be scanned at leisure, without the danger of perplexity. The passion of an orator inflames an assembly; the feelings of a newspaper electrifies a continent.

The orator is for an edifice; the newspaper for a world; the one shines for an hour, the other for all time. The orator may be compared to the lightning which flashes over the valley for a moment, but leaves it again in darkness; the newspaper to a sun, blazing steadily over the whole earth; and 'fixed on the basis of its own eternity.

Printing has happily been defined the art preservative of all arts.' Printing makes the orator more than an orator. It catches up his dying words and breathes into them the breath of life. It is the speaking gallery through which the orator thunders in the ears of ages. He leans from the tomb over the cradle of the rising generations.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with U.S. Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents, superior to those offered by inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby my applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof by him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGEOUSNESS, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents for this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office, and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in advising inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give consumers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1.00
5 lb. Oolong "	1.75	5 lb Java "	90
5 lb. Y. Hyson "	2.25	8 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

THE CONVENTION OF THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—The Triennial Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church convened at St. Luke's Church, Philadelphia, on Wednesday morning. Bishop Doane of New Jersey preached the sermon, to a large audience.

The great subject which will engage the deliberations of this religious body, is the Prayer of the Memorialists, being the petition of a large and respectable number of the clergy of the House of Bishops, suggesting very important changes in the Ritual and Canons, with the view to dispense more widely among non Episcopal denominations, and to the masses, the divine and sacred endowments of the church.

The Memorial has been prepared by the Rev. Dr. Muhlenberg, of New York, a clergyman of high repute, whose time and attention for many years past have been devoted to the consideration of the objects contemplaed in the Memorial.

A "Counter Memorial" has been issued, asking for the restoration of the Athanasian Creed, a distinct recognition of the doctrine of Baptismal Regeneration; the reservation of the Eucharist for the sick and impotent; and after suggesting other additions and novelties, the petitioners ask "for the immediate remission of the sentence of indefinite suspension, passed upon the Right Rev. Henry Ustick Onderdonk, late Bishop of Pennsylvania."

Should the subjects contained in these "Memorials" be gravely considered by the chief council of the church, much time will be occupied in their discussion, and information of great importance and interest will be developed respecting the rites and ceremonies of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The House of Bishops will sit with closed doors. The proceedings of the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies will be public. The Venerable Dr. Brownell, Bishop of Connecticut, is the presiding Bishop. It is expected that all the Bishops will be present except the Right Rev. Dr. Kip, of California.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTES.—The Boston Chronicle says:

A vote for President was taken upon the train of cars from New York on Wednesday morning—on which President Pierce and his party were passengers—when between New York and Springfield. It resulted: Fremont, 125, Fillmore 54, Buchanan 46, undecided 19; Fremont's majority over all 6. The President declined voting, as "he was not a resident of that State."—On the train of cars which conveyed Senator Douglas to Galena, a vote, as usual now-a-days, was taken. The canvassers did not know Douglas, and when they came to him, in passing through the cars, the following conversation took place:

Canvasser—Who do you vote for, sir, Buchanan or Fremont?

Douglas—(angrily looking up from the perusal of the Chicago Times,) Vote for the devil!

The result of the canvass was as follows:

Fremont	117
Buchanan	15
Fillmore	17
The Devil	1

THE EFFECT OF SLAVE EMANCIPATION.—The Moniteur de la Italie says:—

"It appears from an official document, that in the island of la Reunion (Bourbon), the quantity of land cultivated has almost doubled since the emancipation of the slaves and the introduction of free laborers; also, that whilst in 1847, before the emancipation, the produce of the cultivators was 12,517,551 francs, it is now 22,756,678 francs.

TWO MORE MURDERS.—Mr. E. B. Whitman arrived in Boston Thursday from Kansas. He took an unfrequented route from Lawrence, avoiding Westport and Kansas city. Two other free state men, one from Nashua, N. H., who left Lawrence about the same time, thinking they would be safe to go in the stage through Westport, were taken out of it between Westport and Kansas city, by McGee and a gang of his men, taken to a piece of woods and shot dead. Mr. W. reports the territory comparatively quiet, and the free state settlers in need of provisions. The names of the murdered men were Hyatt and Harris.

Mr. W. reports the free state men as complaining bitterly of the conduct of Gov. Geary, who was causing the arrest of a large number of free state men, but none of pro-slavery men. He had arrested over 200 free state men, who had actively defended themselves and neighbors against the Border Ruffians, and, instead of punishing the latter, he enrolled them among the Territorial militia, and draws rations from General Government for the support of the scoundrel invaders. This is the way Geary fulfils his high-sounding proclamations.—Boston Telegraph.

☞ The Congressional Investigating Committee, before which all these things were proved, has the following in its report on the subject of the Border Ruffian interference with the Kansas election last year:

"This invasion is the first and only one in the history of our government, by which an organized force from one State has elected a legislature for another State or Territory; and as such it should have been resisted by the whole executive power of the national government. Your Committee are of the opinion, that the Constitution and the laws of the United States have invested the President and the Governor of the Territory with ample power for this purpose. They could only act after receiving authentic information of the facts; but when received, whether before or after the certificates were granted, this power should have been exercised to its fullest extent.—It is not to be tolerated that a legislative body thus selected should assume to exercise any legislative functions; and their enactments should be regarded as null and void."—Report, p. 35.

On this the Boston Telegraph remarks:

The duty of the President and others connected with the executive power of the government is plain enough. If the invaders had been Free State men from Iowa, and the victims slaveholders, the executive power of the government would have been used as the Committee suggest. There would have been no hesitation, no scruple, no doubt in the mind of the President, or among his advisers. There would have been very summary proceedings against the outrage, and the remedy would have been sudden and complete. But the victims being peaceable settlers, who prefer to have Kansas made a free State, and the invaders being slaveholders and their creatures, redress is out of the question. The President spurns those who petition for it, and tells them they must submit. He will do nothing against the slave power; he will not call in question what has been done by Atchison and Stringfellow; he recognizes that border ruffian "legislature" as rightful and legitimate; and he insists on complete submission to the ruffian "code of laws," which "laws," he says, shall be enforced. Any attempt to set aside this code and secure a State government in disregard of its atrocious and bloody provisions, he will treat as "high treason."

Correspondence of the Chronicle.

LETTER FROM MINNESOTA.

HENDERSON, Aug. 1.

Dear Chronicle:—The Minnesota River, crooked, full of snags, rapids and sandbars, in no place exceeding 70 yards in width, is certainly not a very beautiful stream.—The propriety of its name cannot be questioned on a rainy day; then, between its muddy waters and the dark hue of the heavens there is a decided similarity; and it must have been upon some such occasion that the Red man, looking up to the dark cloudy skies above, then down upon the swift running current at his feet, bestowed upon it the name of "sky tinted river."—But if Nature has neglected the river, she has amply atoned for it by giving to the valley through which it flows a beauty unsurpassed, perhaps unequalled elsewhere on earth. Holding sway for centuries, undisturbed by the hand of man, she has arranged forests, lakes, hills, meadows, all the details that go to make up charming landscapes, with such skill, exquisite and faultless, that the looker on, forgetful of all things else, is convinced that he has been transported by some inexplicable enchantment, to those happy hunting grounds beyond the grave, where the Red man imagines his future life will be one eternal hunting expedition.

During the present century this region has been visited by many illustrious men, such as Nicollet, Fremont, Cass, Schoolcraft, Long, Pike,—Scholars, Statesmen, and Soldiers, whose names will live long in American history.

By these men was this country explored, and its resources made known to the world. Since the Survey of Nicollet, restless American energy has made wonderful changes in Minnesota, but changes greater and more marvellous are yet to be made. This young giant of the North West is outstripping all her western sisters in the march to greatness and power. Already she has a population of 150,000. Should her application for admission be delayed for two years, she will come into the Union with over 300,000 inhabitants. With immense water power, great facilities for receiving cotton from the Southern States; with the South, the West, the whole great Mississippi valley for a market, she will become a great manufacturing as well as agricultural State, a second New England. New Lowells and Manchesters will arise west of the Mississippi, which in time will equal their Eastern namesakes in wealth and prosperity.

The passage of the Railroad Bill would be a glorious thing for the territory. The neigh of the Iron Horse has never yet been heard; but soon all this will be changed: from St. Paul to Dubuque will be one link in the chain of railroads to New Orleans. Over the Northern route of Gov. Stevens the locomotive will stride from Ocean to Ocean. When these roads are constructed, as they certainly must be, St. Paul will be in direct railroad communication with the Atlantic, Pacific, and Gulf of Mexico.—What Western city will then be able to keep pace with her? Her past and present show that no bounds can be set to her future greatness. Going up the Minnesota river, the first place of importance arrived at is Shakopee; it contains 2000 inhabitants; stores and houses of brick; is growing very fast, and will maintain its position in the front rank of the river towns.

Between this place and Henderson are dozens of paper cities, where, according to the proprietors, fortunes can be made in a very short time. Some of these may become cities of importance, but the majority will never be anything more than one horse towns. Henderson, 100 miles by the river from St. Paul, is finely situated in a beautiful oak grove; its site was entered about two years ago; it now contains 800 inhabitants, two saw-mills, several large warehouses, and a smart democratic paper. Immense quantities of freight were landed here last spring, destined for the Indian Agency and some of the new interior towns. It has a fine back country to support it, and its future looks promising.

Farther on up the river, are St. Peters and Traverse des Sioux, a mile from each other. Traverse is a smart place, and her citizens expect that she will go ahead of her valley rivals.

But that place among the river towns which is destined to take the right of the line, is Mankato, situated in the Blue earth County, on the great southern bend of the Minnesota, in the heart of that picturesque Undine region which Nicollet has described so well: it was long since designated by that eminent engineer as a point which must inevitably be touched by a railroad running from the Mississippi.

Winona intends to put through its road to this place as soon as possible. A glance at the map shows that one from St. Paul must also be constructed. The wants of a rapidly increasing population cannot be supplied by wagons and stern wheel boats. Railroads they demand, and railroads they will have.

A difficulty in procuring a good title to land has greatly retarded the progress of Mankato, but this difficulty will soon be settled, and thus every obstacle to steady and rapid growth removed.

The county, now forming part of the Indian reservation, contains the best land in the territory; the tribes will probably be removed in about two years, and the land then opened to settlers. Good timber, prairie, and water, can all be obtained on the same quarter section, and farmers who wish to emigrate will find in Bluearth, farms which cannot fail to satisfy them.

PONTIAC.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2.—A Railroad Convention assembled here to-day. There was a full representation of the Eastern and Western lines. A report was adopted, extending the running time 15 per cent.—The proceedings were harmonious.

A Terrible Explosion and Loss of Life.—A portable steam engine exploded this afternoon, in the Delaware County (Ohio) Fair, killing fourteen persons, and wounding several others.

The following are the names of the people instantly killed:—Mrs A. Walker, Thomas Williams, Wm. Finch, Henry Stommell, Lewis Powers, Mrs. Shaw, Frank Smith, Hiram Nafus, Mr. Tone, and a man and woman unknown. There were also 24 badly hurt, many of whom are doing well.

McGrath, the man who killed Mr. Taber, the editor of the Charlestown Mercury, at the third fire, is a brother of the Judge of the United States District Court. Judge McGrath and Mr. Taber were both up for Congress, and both were disunionists. Taber was a secessionist who went for seceding any how. Judge McGrath goes for dissolution when other slave States can be found to co-operate with South Carolina.

An old bachelor geologist was boasting that every rock was as familiar to him as the alphabet. A lady who was present declared that she knew of a rock of which he was totally ignorant. "Name it madame," cried Cœlels in a rage. It is rock the cradle, sir," replied the lady.

A creditor of the city of Philadelphia despairing of being able to get his pay of the Treasurer, has attached the furniture of the Council Chamber. The Council treat the matter with contempt; but the sheriff threatens to sell if they do not fork over the tin.

HINDOO REFORM.—The Boston Advertiser says, a letter from Calcutta speaking of the law which has lately received the assent of the Governor-General, for authorizing Hindoo widows to re-marry, says that so far as he can learn the law is popular. Three Brahmin families within his knowledge were about to give their widowed daughters in marriage. The writer of the letter asked an old priest what he thought of the law. The priest, looking round to see that nobody was listening said, "If I speak from my soul, it is a good law; if I speak with my mouth, it is an infamous piece of tyranny."

The same letter says that the legislative Council is beset with petitions praying for the abolition of polygamy.

☞ A Grand Mass Meeting of the friends of Fremont & Dayton will be held in Dover on Friday, October 17th. Hon. Anson Burlingame, Hon. Lot M. Morrill, Hon. F. O. J. Smith, Hon. J. C. Park and Moses Kimball, Esq., have engaged to be present. Hon. H. Hamlin, Hon. N. P. Banks and Hon. Henry Wilson have been invited and are expected to attend. It is intended to be the Mass Meeting for this Congressional District, and a great time is looked for. Arrangements will be made with the railroads for extra trains.

☞ The New York Academy of Music has resolved to erect a magnificent College in that city, at the cost of between $80,000 and $90,000.

☞ That old favorite in the chimney corner, The Old Farmer's Almanac, by Robert B. Thomas, has just come to us for 1857, from the publishers, Hickling, Swan & Brown, Boston.

☞ Rev. Daniel March has accepted a call to Woburn, Mass., instead of Nashua, to which he was also called.

Rev. Jacob Cummings having removed from Hillsboro' Bridge to Exeter, requests all mail matter designed for him to be directed to the latter place.

A RELIC OF THE BURNS CASE.—Before the Supreme Court on Wednesday, in Boston, a trial of much interest was commenced, in which the case dated as far back as the famous "Burns Trial." The suit was brought by Wm. White, Esq., a member of the bar, against James Reed, for damages for an assault alleged to have been committed by the defendant upon the plaintiff, by forcibly ejecting Mr. White from the Court House, in May, 1854, Mr. Reed then acting under the authority of the U. S. Marshal.

The plaintiff contended that his rights as a member of the bar had been outraged, and the defendant fell back upon the orders of the U. S. Marshal. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $300.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—To-day noon the students of the Union Theological Seminary, called in a body on Col. Fremont. An address was made by one of their number, to which Col. F. briefly responded. The students were then successively introduced.

At a meeting, to-day, of the American Bible Union, Rev. Chas. Armitage was unanimously elected President of the Association.

Gov. Floyd, of Virginia., spoke this afternoon, from the steps of the Merchant's Exchange, to an immense concourse of citizens. His remarks were continued for two hours, in a fervent strain, and were listened to with marked attention. One of the most prominent points of his speech was an argument to prove that the black Republicans were clearly responsible for the wrongs perpetrated in Kansas, by their refusing to pass the Senate bill of Mr. Toombs. There was no attempt at disturbance in the immediate vicinity of the speaker, though further up the street there was a large collection of men and boys shouting for Fillmore, and making riotous demonstrations. One or two arrests were made.

RICHMOND, Oct. 1.—Fire and Loss of Life.—On Friday morning, 25th ult. about one o'clock, the dwelling house of Mr. Jackson Dawson, at West Union, Doddridge county, Virginia, was entirely destroyed by fire, and in it all of his children, five in number; also Miss Lavinia Myers, a girl that lived with him. Mr. D. himself, in attempting to save his children, was so badly burned that his recovery is thought doubtful.

MANCHESTER, N. H., 4th.—At the Fillmore Convention held in this city yesterday, the following electors were chosen:—1st District, Wm. Choate, 2d, Rufus Stevens; 3d, Isaac Riddle; 4th, Daniel W. Farrar; 5th, Chas. B. Haddock. A large Fillmore meeting was held in the evening at the City Hall, and was addressed by Hon. Erastus Brooks, of New York.

APPLES FOR EXPORT.—Owing to the failure of the apple crop in Europe, there is a large demand here for exportation and at least 10,000 barrels of Newtown pippins, embracing the best of the crop, will be sent out this fall. One firm here has contracts for England to the amount of 6000 barrels. This variety of apple has preference over all others, though Baldwins and Russets are expected to some extent.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

NOTICES FROM THE PRESS.

From the BOSTON MIRROR, edited by THOMAS DAVIS, ESQ.

It is with no ordinary pleasure that we call the attention of our readers to the advertisement, in another column, of Dr. W. R. Hayden's Improved Vegetable Pills, and we can assure our readers that this is not one of the vile humbugs with which the papers are daily crowded, but a truly valuable medicine. We speak from experience, having tested their virtues in our own family. Try them.

WOOD'S HAIR DYE.—This admirable article is rapidly improving the hair. No article of a similar kind, now before the public, enjoys a better reputation as a restorative and invigorating hair tonic. Its peculiar chemical qualities have a beneficial effect upon the growth and character of the hair, giving a silky and glossy texture to that which was formerly of a coarse and dry nature. It has, also, we understand, a tendency to preserve the youthful color of the hair, and destroying or counteracting the effects of age. With such recommendations in its favor, we hardly perceive how any lady or gentleman should be without so valuable an adjunct to their toilet. The article may be had of the Druggists throughout the country.—[Missouri Democrat.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronized than any other ever established in this country. THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart, of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. They state as a fact that it will not cure, unless the patient is given all medicine and before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. sa27 TuThs 8 6m.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"

It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way to

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it; if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from

Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,

Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.

It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "toed the mark straight."

They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

Hon. Henry Wood, formerly a clergyman in New Hampshire, has been appointed a chaplain in the United States Navy, in place of Rev. T. R. Lambert, resigned.—Cong. Jour.

Hon. Henry Wood was the editor of the Congregational Journal, when General Pierce was a candidate for the presidency. As editor of that paper, he gave a certificate of Gen. Pierce's religion and temperance—which certificate came near being the destruction of the paper, of which he was the editor but not the proprietor.—For these certificates Mr. Wood was rewarded by being made Consul at Beyroot,—and now has a second reward in the chaplaincy.

DIABOLICAL ATTEMPT.—On Thusday evening of last week, when an extra train of cars went to Warren, from this city, to attend the Fremont meeting, after the train had gone down, and before its return, the draw of the railroad bridge was raised, and but for its accidental discovery, the whole train, with over three hnndred people from Providence, would have been precipitated into the water.—Providence Journal.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIDGFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M.D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MISS., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chief diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, IA., writes, 30 Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., ALBION, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily falling, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:—

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thrown in him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey so Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability.

R. H. EDDY.
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in a suring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.

(Sign of the Chinaman grinding coffee,)

141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar, Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give consumers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1.00
5 lb Oolong "	1.75	5 lb Java "	90
5 lb Y. Hyson "	2.25	8 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark; and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warrented to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well-known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

LOCAL.

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF PRINTING IN NEW-HAMPSHIRE,

THIS DAY,

Will be, if the weather is favorable, a beautiful and imposing show and parade—and in its literary and historic features, an occasion of great interest.

The various Societies and organized bodies will meet in their respective halls, as notified, at 9 o'clock.

The procession will be formed at half past 9 o'clock.

Gilmore's Salem Brass Band will perform for the City Guards, escort; the Manchester Brass Band will come with the Veterans; the Great Falls Brass Band with the Mercantile Library Association; and perhaps one or two other Bands.

The Procession forms on Market Square, pass through Congress, Middle, Summer, Austin, Cabot, Islington, Congress, Vaughan, Deer, Market, Daniel, Chapel, State, and Chestnut streets to the Temple.

The exercises at the Temple are to be:

1. Voluntary by the Band.
2. Prayer by Rev. Dr. Lamson.
3. Original Ode, written by T. B. Aldrich; sung by a select choir.
4. Oration, by Rev. Dr. Peabody.
5. Voluntary, by the Band.
6. Poem, by B. P. Shillaber.
7. Original Ode, written by Albert Laighton; sung by the Choir.
8. Benediction.

At the close of the services at the Temple, the procession will again form and march through Chesnut, State, Middle, Court, Pleasant, Water and State streets, to Market Square.

The Dinner, with speeches, &c., will take place in Jefferson Hall, at 2 1-2 o'clock.—A few tickets may be had at the store of Wm. R. Preston—$1.50 each.

The President of the day is, of course, His Honor Mayor Jenness, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements. Vice Presidents at the Table, Ichabod Goodwin, Samuel Sheafe, Abner Greenleaf, John Laighton, C. S. Toppan, H. D. Walker.

The Committee on Toasts consists of Messrs. Charles W. Brewster, Samuel Gray, and Frank Fuller—the latter of whom will perform the duties of Toast Master at the Dinner.

The Committee of Arrangements are:

Richard Jenness, Mayor; Edward N. Fuller, Charles W. Brewster, Frank W. Miller, Ichabod Goodwin, Robert Morrison, Samuel Gray.

Aldermen Rundlett, Tucker and Wendell.

Common Councilmen Janvrin, Brooks and Adams.

A Rowing Regatta will take place on the Piscataqua River, at 4 1-2 P. M.

In the evening, there is to be a Grand Ball at Congress Hall—dancing to commence at 9 o'clock.

☞ As we shall all be engaged to-day in celebrating the wind-up of the first century during which the Art of Printing has been enjoyed in this State,—and shall need a little rest before commencing the second hundred years' experience in this line—we shall print no Chronicle on Tuesday. We shall give on Wednesday as full a report of to-day's proceedings as possible.

Visitors living at a distance can receive copies of our Daily or Weekly paper by leaving their orders at this office. The Weekly Chronicle, at only $1 per year, furnishes a large amount of matter of interest to all natives of Portsmouth, as well as the general reader. Single copies mailed at 3 cts. each.

☞ Editors and reporters visiting the city this day and evening, are invited to make their headquarters at the Rockingham House, where facilities will be provided them for making such reports as they may desire. By reporting themselves to C. W. Brewster, E. N. Fuller, Frank W. Miller, or Samuel Gray, (Committee of Arrangements on the part of the press,) they will be furnished with any information desired.

THE RECORD. — All editors, reporters, publishers, printers, and others connected with the Press in any way, visiting the city to-day, are requested to inscribe their names, place of residence, particular occupation, and the title of the paper with which they have connection, in a book at the store of Wm. R. Preston.

☞ The members of the Continentallers will meet at the Court House Yard this morning at 9 o'clock, for the purpose of joining in the Procession.

GEORGE JOY, Capt.

☞ Members of the Mechanics' Association are requested to meet at the Court House, at 9 o'clock this morning, to join in the Procession. Per order.

ROCKINGHAM COURTS—OCTOBER.

Supreme Judicial, at Portsmouth, 7th.
U. S. Circuit, at Exeter, 8th.
Probate, at Exeter, 15th.

THE FIRST PRINTING OFFICE.—An aged lady, upwards of ninety years of age, living at the south part of the city, has frequently stated that the first printing press in New Hampshire, was set up in the house now standing on Pleasant street, corner of Howard and Washington streets. This building will be appropriately decorated, if it is possible for Col. Beals to do it this morning.

☞ The reports, in the Boston papers and elsewhere, that the President is to visit Portsmouth to-day, we think is without foundation. At any rate, the Committee of Arrangements for the Printing Celebration have issued no invitation to him, and have had no intimation or expectation that he is to be here.

We are informed, however, that he is expected to visit Portsmouth to-morrow,—and the fact that an officer of the steamer Wabash, now lying in our harbor, went to Concord on Saturday, may indicate that the President is to return to Washington forthwith, in that vessel, from this port.

☞ As a very large crowd will doubtless be in our city to-day—much larger than our hotels can accommodate—we have no doubt the usual hospitality of our citizens will be exhibited in the "open house" and "outside latch-string."

☞ Mr. Larrabee has fitted up his harness manufactory, in Daniel street, opposite the Post Office, as an eating-house, for to-day; and persons can there find a nice substantial bite, with hot coffee, &c.

THE CELEBRATION. — The Great Falls Advertiser says:—

If we are blessed with fair weather, 0 can prevent our Centennial Celebration at Portsmouth from being an xln# 1. The s(quad) of types present cannot fail to "cut" a—. Disciples of Faust, come to a "stand," decide 2 b there; your presence and cooperation are only necessary to make the gathering unl]ed among printers. We think it a hard "case" if we must always "stick" close to business. You can't go, can ye? My , what an! Look †† at the individual who tries to hinder you; put your ☞ in the vilink's "phool face," make an "impression" thereon, if need be, in "proof" that ours is a free country. Some say it is a ◊al affair. It needn't be. We don't care a 5-8 for such a grat2llous in-u-end-oo. But we have no "space," there-4 we pause.

MERCANTILE LECTURES.—We understand the Mercantile Library Association of this city, are making arrangements for a Course of Scientific Lectures, the present season, to commence immediately after the Presidential election. None but the most celebrated Professors have been applied to—and we have no doubt this departure from the beaten track of Lyceum committees, in procuring a scientific course, will be a good card for this already popular Association. Tickets will be offered in a few days.

☞ We advise all persons who can, to visit the New High School, at the time of the passage of the procession, when the young ladies under the care of Mr. Nichols will form a pyramid of living precious stones, polished after the manner of a palace.

Not least in the attractions of to-day, is the reprint fac-simile, of the first newspaper printed in New Hampshire, copies of which may be obtained of carriers in the street, at five cents each.

☞ The U. S. Ship Vandalia, arrived at this port, left St. Helena on the 9th of August. The following American vessels arrived there: Aug. 9, Concordia, McCorkhill, from Delagoa Bay; 13 Dove, Bose, whaling; 14, Vandalia, Porter, China; 16, Peruvian, Hussey, Celebes, for Nantucket; Miles Standish, Green, from Calcutta for Boston; Howadji, Balch, from do. for London; 17, Navigator, Habig, from Ahyab for Antwerp.

ROWING REGATTA
ON THE PISCATAQUA.

A Rowing Regatta will take place on the Piscataqua River, at 4½ P. M. of Monday, Oct. 6th.

Three prizes will be offered, as follows:

First prize,	$25.
Second prize,	15.
Third prize,	10.

Boats of all sizes will be allowed to enter and an allowance of 20 seconds per oar will be made on the smaller boats.

Boats will not be allowed to cross each others' bows. Boats so crossing, will forfeit their chance for the prizes.

Two or more boats rounding the outer station at the same moment, the outside boat must keep off and give the inside boat sufficient room to round without hitting the stake; any outside boat so crowding, will lose its chance for the prize.

The starting point will be from the judges' boat, near Noble's Island, and the race ground will be from thence around the Stone Beacon and return. All boats must round the beacon to the starboard.

Entrance fee $1, to be paid the clerk at the judges' boat, previous to commencing the race. All competing boats must enter previous to 4 P. M. of the 6th.

Messrs. William Petigrew, Nathan Godfrey and Richard Tripe are appointed judges.

F. G. BEAL, Clerk.

The Wabash is a splendid specimen of naval architecture; and the perfect trim in which everything is kept, bespeaks the efficiency of her courteous officers. She is about three hundred feet in length, and has on board about seven hundred men.

It is rumored that the President is to return to Washington in the Wabash, and that his visit to this city will be delayed until the close of his stay North. One of the officers of the ship went to Concord on Saturday, to make arrangements with the President, it is thought, for his departure.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning.

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

WAR IN WALL STREET.—It has been said life is a lottery; it is at least a constant struggle; and one universal means by which individuals seek to conquer fate, is that of speculations. We speculate not only in stocks and lands, but in love and matrimony. In fact, the present age is that of speculation; and in the present order of society competition is little else, and speculation becomes the soul of business, a general necessity and almost the only means by which men escape poverty, gain and lose fortunes, and keep the wheels of progress in motion. It is by making risks that men generally get riches, as it is by the same means that men sometimes lose them. But one thing is certain; where the amount of capital is always more than the amount of liabilities, and a systematic course is pursued by which there is probability of gaining much in return for a little and dividing the losses among a great number, when losses occur, while the profits come undivided to him who is entitled to them, he who strives for success must ultimately win it. It is difficult to find any absolute wrong in such a course; and yet the fairly conducted lottery presents the most simple and direct opportunity for doing precisely this; and it is only on account of the various frauds practised by irresponsible parties that the mere name of lottery—by which so many charitable designs have been carried out—has been brought into disrepute. And to this day, many of the lotteries of the South are conducted upon the most safe and honorable plan. Such is the case of the Southern Military Academy Lottery, and the Fort Gaines Academy Lottery, by which these Academies are supported. In both States the lotteries are under the control and managed by honest and responsible parties of great business experience. The drawings of these lotteries take place on the 10th and 20th of each month respectively. In the scheme of the Military Academy Lottery for Oct. there are prizes ranging from $60 to $50,000, and amounting to $200,000. In the Fort Gaines Academy Lottery there are 3,280 prizes ranging from $70 to $40,000, and amounting to $204,000. We see by the Manager's circular, that whole tickets are $10, and halves and quarters in the same proportion. All orders for tickets or information, if forwarded to S. Swan, Montgomery, Alabama, or Swan & Co., Atlanta, Georgia, will be promptly attended to.

NEWBURYPORT BALLOON ASCENSION.—The Balloon Young America, freighted with the intrepid æronaut, Mr. Charles Wise, left the stage on Frog pond, Friday at 3 o'clock, and rose majestically at about the rate of 25 feet per second, passing slowly towards the east, at an altitude of one-half or three-quarters of a mile. The æronaut threw out his line and opened his valve, the balloon gradually coming down on the principle of the parachute, its under surface being deeply concave. At about a quarter past 3 o'clock Mr. Wise landed safely on Plum Island Point, but was unable to hold his balloon; which being relieved of his weight and that of the ballast, rapidly ascended above the plane of the clouds; and at about twenty minutes before 4 o'clock was hid behind a cloud, when at the height of about three miles from the earth.

The balloon was inflated with the inflammable gas used for illumination, which is about half as heavy as common air,—the capacity of the balloon being 10,000 feet, it took nearly three hours to inflate it. It arose or was buoyed up with a force equal to the difference between the weight of air and gas.

Mr. Wise had the skin on his fingers somewhat lacerated in attempting to hold his balloon; his wounds, however, are trivial, and he and his friends feel thankful for his safety.

The Herald says, "The ascension was one of the finest possible or imaginable. It was magnificent; it was glorious; it was beyond all description—the grandest finale of the grandest exhibition that Essex county ever saw. Full forty thousand persons were spectators. The æronaut, young as he is, not yet twenty-one years old, moved not a muscle in fear, but was most anxious to go up. First the father, who has made 190 ascensions, intended to have gone; but the balloon not rising so easily as he wished, he gave place to the son, who has made but half a dozen such voyages before. The people were immensely interested—too deeply impressed to make a noise. They stood motionless, gazing up to heaven, almost holding their breath as they followed its track with their eyes—astonished at the feat and admiring the performance.

When Mr. Wise returned to the city, the Merrimac House where he is now stopping was surrounded by more than a thousand persons anxious to see the æronaut. He responded to their call, and appearing upon the balcony, in a very neat and appropriate speech, thanked them for their interest, and promised immediately to give a description of his voyage, through the Herald. The balloon lost—the adventurous "Young America"—bearing the motto, "no pent up Utica contracts our powers," was valued at $250."

Capt. Wheeling, of schooner Eurotas, from Grand Banks, arrived in Provincetown, Sunday, reports on Saturday, 25 miles northeast of Cape Cod, picked up the balloon "Young America." The balloon, when first seen, was afloat, with the basket under water. It was slightly damaged in taking it on board.

THE NEW GOVERNOR OF KANSAS.—The Providence Journal, in commenting on the recent affairs in Kansas, says;—

The thing that we most distrust in Governor Geary's inaugural is his declaration that the bogus laws of the Missouri Territorial Legislature shall be inforced. These laws are framed with the direct intention of forcing slavery into the Territory, however unwilling the great majority may be to accept it. These laws were not enacted by competent authority; they were never agreed to by the people; they violate the first principles of all free government, and are directly opposed to the Constitution of the United States. If an attempt is made to inforce them and to impose slavery upon Kansas by virtue of them, there will be more trouble.

ARCTIC VOYAGERS.—Capt. Penny, commander of the ship Lady Franklin, has returned with her to Aberdeen, from the Arctic regions, and reports that when he was in Hogarth's Sound, he was told by the Esquimeaux, that some of their companions had seen, a long way off, in a northwesterly direction, a circular white tent, erected on the ice. The Esquimeaux had taken from it on their first visit some bright metal, and on their second visit some spoons. Afterwards they had seen two white men in the tent. It was reported among the natives that these and other white men had perished from hunger. So far as Capt. Penny can judge, he thinks this may refer to some party from whom Dr. Kane obtained the silver spoons, &c., which identified the white men with Sir John Franklin and his party.

PROVIDENTIAL ESCAPE.—Captain Nichols of the whaleship Alfred Gibbs of New Bedford, writes home that he put in at the Bay of Islands, New Zealand, to land John Prior, a seaman, who fell from aloft to the deck, fracturing his jaw and injuring him internally. His fall was broken by a dog which was lying upon deck, and no doubt his life was thus saved, as the dog was flattened like a board. Mr. Prior was doing well at last accounts.

FATAL FIRE.—A dwelling house in Milford, belonging to Otis Parkhurst, and occupied by two families, was destroyed by fire Wednesday, and a daughter of Mr. Parkhurst, 26 years of age, perished in the flames. The families were absent at the time, and the fire was set in a barrel of shavings in the basement, by a little boy four years old. The loss is estimated at about $2500.

A SAD CASE.—A woman named Ann Kelley, said to belong to New Haven, was picked up on India wharf, Boston, Thursday noon, in a state of gross intoxication. She had a child with her about a year old. The latter was taken to the City Crier's, and the woman to Station 2. They will be sent back to New Haven.

AN EYE TO EXPENSE.—The acting Mayor of Worcester recently vetoed an ordinance authorizing the Mayor to appoint a clerk at a salary of $600 per annum, and increasing the salary of the Sergeant at Arms to $800 per annum. The ordinance was subsequently passed over the veto, by a vote of 12 to 5.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—James Dowse, one of the San Francisco Vigilance Committee, was arrested here to-day, on a complaint of Chas. P. Duane, an exiled Californian, who charges the defendant with being instrumental in driving him from his home. Dowse was held to bail in $15,000.

Centennial Celebration

OF THE

INTRODUCTION OF PRINTING INTO NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Portsmouth, Monday, Oct. 6, '56.

The One Hundredth Anniversary of the Introduction of Printing into New Hampshire, was Celebrated in a manner becoming the importance of that interesting event, at Portsmouth, on the 6th of October. The first Press in New Hampshire was set up in Portsmouth, sometime in August, 1756—it is believed in the building which now forms the southern portion of the dwelling-house on Pleasant street, corner of Howard and Washington streets. The first Newspaper issued was the New Hampshire Gazette, on the 7th of October, 1756—the day celebrated being thus exactly the centennial anniversary of the publication of newspapers in the State.

THE STREET SHOW.

The day was beautiful, and the city thronged with strangers from far and near. The number of visitors in the city was estimated at from 5,000 to 10,000. Extra trains on the railroads brought large numbers, and the neighboring towns were all fully represented.

The entire celebration was all that could be desired. The Procession was large and imposing; the street decorations showy, beautiful and appropriate; and the streets crowded with lookers on. Nothing occurred to mar the interest and satisfaction of the occasion.

The Amoskeag (Manchester) Veterans, Col. C. E. Potter, came over the P. & C. railroad; and were escorted to the Temple Vestry by the City Guards, Col. Beck.—Here they were received by the Committee of Arrangements, in a brief address of welcome by Mayor Jenness, Chairman of the Committee—who spoke as follows:

Col. Potter and Gentlemen of the Veteran corps;
I could have been called to no duty more agreeable to my feelings, than that of welcoming you to the festivities of this day. We are happy to meet you, gentlemen, as the representatives of a sister city, one of the string of jewels which adorn our State. Your prosperity has been rapid, and, in the history of New Hampshire, unexampled. Some of us can recall the time, not far distant, when the Indian chces your Falls as the choicest fishing ground; and but little later, the renowned Stark, with his far-seeing views, made his almost solitary home upon the very spot where now your busy city stands.

How great, how sudden the change! Now your populous streets, your public buildings and your manufactories, almost rival those of Massachusetts. We are proud of your progress, we rejoice in your prosperity; and we are sure that we have your sympathies on this eventful day, while we celebrate, as we may say, the dawn of liberty, as well as the advent of the art of printing upon our shores; for we feel that our mutual success has depended upon the equal diffusion of knowledge, and our patriotism engendered and sustained by an enlightened press. Our interests on this occasion are the same, as we trust they always are in the labors of philanthropy, patriotism and industry; and as kinsmen, one in heart with us, we invite you to share with us all the honors and pleasures of the day.

To this Col. Potter briefly replied, referring to Stark and his wife Molly, and the brave deeds of Stark's followers, when Manchester was the home of the Indian; to the rapid growth of Manchester; and the importance and interest of the event the Veterans had come to help celebrate—and to the evidence the soldierly appearance of the company gave, that in case of need they would be found worthy successors of Stark. The Colonel spoke of the influence of the Portsmouth press upon the northwestern portions of the State, in "the time that tried men's souls."

Having partaken of a collation at the Temple, the Veterans took their place at the head of the column, and the Procession moved.

The Procession was delayed an hour or two, on account of the late arrival of the Veterans; and the column first moved about half-past 11 o'clock. The joyous ringing of all the church bells, as the procession started, was a capital idea, and made all the merrier.

Maj. H. F. Wendell was Chief Marshal; and to his efficiency and active interest in the matter is due much of its success.—His Aids were Messrs. Robert Morrison, A. Q. Wendell, C. C. Jackson, Lewis W. Brewster, B. B. Swasey, Chas. W. Martin, John O. Varrell, James M. Locke.

The Veterans numbered about one hundred, all large men, most of them past middle age; and their splendid and soldierly appearance was the admiration of all beholders. They were accompanied by the Manchester Cornet Band, which compares creditably with any band with which we are acquainted.

Next came the Portsmouth City Guards, under command of Col. A. J. Beck. This was a company of about fifty enterprising and public spirited young men of our city, who volunteered escort on the occasion, and handsomely fulfilled their part. Their appearance, considering the fact that they had been organized but a few weeks, and had but one street drill, was remarkably fine. The Officers were Col. A. J. Beck, Captain; 1st Lieut., A. J. Hill; 2d Lieut., Chas. Norton; 3d Lieut., Wm. Higgins; Orderly Sergeant, Havillah Downing;—Clerk, Robert Henderson.

Next came the Fire Department—Engineers, and five of our six Engine Companies, with their Tubs—No. 5 not concluding to appear. To Messrs A. K. P. Deering, of No. 1; Wm. B. Grogan and Jos. H. Gardner, of No. 2; S. Seymour, of No. 4; and Gardner J. Greenleaf, of No. 6, is probably due the credit of bringing out the Engine Companies on this occasion. Others doubtless did much—but the Committee of Arrangements had the cordial and active assistance of these gentleman named, in bringing out this attractive feature in the show.

The Niagara, Piscataqua, and Atlantic engines were elegantly trimmed with evergreen, flowers, bunting, &c. The Atlantic had arranged along its brakes, streamers, stars, and over the top a beautiful canopy of flags and streamers, intermingled with flowers, wreaths and evergreen. Under this were two lithographic engravings, illustrating the services of firemen, the whole being surmounted by an American eagle, shield, and the French and American colors.

The Young Men's Christian Association came next, in good numbers, making a creditable appearance. They bore a new and handsome white silk banner, with the inscription, in gold: "Portsmouth Young Men's Christian Association—Organized May 10, 1852." Also, a printed banner, (a present from Mr. Robert F. Foster, printer now of, Boston, a son of Mr. Robert Foster, who formerly printed the paper spoken of,) bearing the statement:—"The Christian Herald, the World's first religious newspaper, was first published at Portsmouth, N H."

Then came the Mercantile Library Association, very fully represented, and bearing a splendid new white satin banner, with the inscription, "Portsmouth Mercantile Library Association—Incorporated June, 1855.," and the following extract from Cicero, on its folds:

"He so much mingled diverse natures by Commerce, that what was produced in any one spot seemed native in every place."

Accompanying "the Mercantile," was the Great Falls Cornet Band, which came into town in good style, in a large wagon drawn by four horses—and proved themselves good players and a capital set of fellows. After enlivening the scene at the Regatta, in the afternoon, the Band left for home.

The Mercantile Association have done themselves much credit in this connexion. As the leading literary society in our city, it was certainly their place to honor the event celebrated, as much as possible—and handsomely did they do it. Their street decorations were very extensive and beautiful; and their procuring a banner and band, at great expense, proves them to have appreciated their position and the merit of the occasion. Their enterprise and energy in this matter, will not be without its effect on the public. Much of their success in the matter is due to Messrs. Wm. O. Head and Wm. H. Sise, Marshals, in completing the general arrangements; to Mr. J. P. Payson, who was very active in procuring the Banner; and C. T. Emery and N. K. Raynes, who were instrumental in furnishing the Band; and Wm. S. Chase, for aid in erecting the Arch.

Strawberry Bank Encampment, and Piscataqua Lodge, of Odd Fellows, in larger numbers than they usually muster, and with members of other Lodges, followed next—making a handsome display.

After these, came the Portsmouth Mechanics' Association, with their fine silk banner, with the representations of the Mechanic Arts, and a picture of Archimedes moving the world with a lever, together with the following mottoes: "Be just, and fear not," "Mind your own business."

Gilmore's admirable and popular Salem Brass Band came in here, and throughout the day, and at the Ball in the evening, poured out the rich strains which are the delight of all to hear.

Then came in carriages, the Orator of the Day, Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody, Editor of the North American Review; the Chaplain, Rev. Dr. Lamson; the Poet, B. P. Shillaber, of the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette; the Toast Master, Dr. Frank Fuller; and the Committee of Arrangements, viz.:

Richard Jenness, Mayor; Edward N. Fuller, Charles W. Brewster, Frank W. Miller, Ichabod Goodwin, Robert Morrison, Samuel Gray. Aldermen Rundlett, Tucker, Wendell. Common Councilmen Janvrin, Brooks, Adams.

Also, the City Government, and venerable members of the editorial fraternity, including Gideon Beck of this city, Father Boylston, of the Amherst Cabinet; Hon. John Prentiss, of the Keene Sentinel; and Mr. Geo. W. Bazin, of the Boston Trumpet.

Then came the old wood and stone Printing Press, which had been owned and worked by Franklin, J. Draper of Boston, and John Melcher of this city. This was fitted up in a hay-rack, in the most outre style, and was operated by Charles W. Gardner and James Shaw, and attracted much attention, as it passed along, with the old ink-balls, and all. A case of types in this portable office was rather pied up. This car was drawn by four oxen.

Following this venerable implement of civilization, was a large number of editors and printers, from all parts of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Maine, &c. Among them were Messrs. Basson, of the Boston Herald; Andrews of the Times; Ayer of the Traveller; Coffin of the Atlas; Haines, of the Journal; Bailey, of the Transcript; Frye, of the Courier; Field, of the Post; Hobbs, of the Bee; Taylor, of the New York Journal of Commerce; Potter, of the Manchester Union; Abbott, of the Manchester American; W. H. Brewster, late of the Newburyport Herald; Palfray, of the Salem Register; John T. Gibbs, of the Dover Gazette; Geo. H. Twombly, Great Falli Advertiser; and many others, from abroad,—and most of our city printers.

United States, State, and Civil Officers, and citizens, generally who chose to join in, followed.

The Independent Guards, a company of boys from 12 to 16 years of age, dressed in white pants, blue jackets with red belts, and white sashes, commanded by Capt. Mercer Goodrich.

The Continentalers, a company of boys dressed in blue swallow-tail coats, buff pants, ruffled shirts, and cocked hats, under command of Capt. Geo. Joy.

A cavalcade of mounted Truckmen, in white frocks with blue rosettes, and glazed caps, brought up the rear.

The whole formed a long and handsome procession,—the largest we have had for many years, with the exception of that of the "Sons," in 1853.

The Procession formed on Market Square, and passed through Congress, Middle, Summer, Austin, Cabot, Islington, Congress, Vaughan, Deer, Market, Daniel, Chapel, State, and Chestnut streets, to the Temple.

The Escort and Procession formed a line, and the Committee of Arrangements, Mayor, Orator, Chaplain, Poet; Editors, Publishers, Printers; and the several other bodies, were conducted by Marshal Wendell into the Temple.

The Temple was filled with a very attentive and appreciative audience,—and the Exercises were such as it has rarely been our lot to enjoy. First came an appropriate and delicious Voluntary by Gilmore's Salem Band. Then a fervent and impressive Prayer, by Rev. Dr. Lamson.

The following Original Ode, written by T. B. Aldrich, of the Home Journal, was admirably read, by Dr. Fuller, Toast Master; and well sung, by a select, Choir (consisting of Misses Susan and Mary Miller, Alice Laighton and Clara Knowlton; and Messrs Wingate N. Ilsley and Wm. F. B. Jackson,) under direction of Mr A. Pearson, who presided at the Piano.

A PÆAN TO THE PRINTER'S ART.

BY T. B. ALDRICH, OF THE N. Y. HOME JOURNAL.

I.

The Southern Cross, the Northern Bear,
The trembling sister Pleiades,
The many tangled stars above,—
The ebb and flow of purple seas,—
The pulse of flowers that throbs through Earth,
The lovely Seasons, changing place,
And all that God from Chaos wrought,
Are but the tools of Time and Space!

II.

The Mind a wider orbit has
Than Sun, or Moon, or Earth, or Mars!
A Thought can grasp immensity,
And wring the secrets from the stars!
The Elements are slaves to Man:
He links the hills, he spans the Sea,
And he has made the Lightning-fiend
A tame and servile Mercury!

III.

His hand has taken the shapeless ore,
And, with a subtle skill, designed
A little "font of type" to bear
The impress of the deathless Mind!
Go forth a pure evangel, Thought!
Let War's red gonfalons be furled!
Go forth, and with thy teachings break
The manacles that bind the world!

IV.

Go forth with holy lips of Peace!
Speak golden words of God and Death,
And, like the Good Samaritan,
Pour oil upon the wounds of faith!
A Pæan for the Printer's Art!
The toiling Brain! the ready Pen!
The hand that holds the peerless cup
Of Knowledge to the lips of men!

The Oration of Dr. Peabody, occupied an hour in delivery, and was one of his finest efforts. We shall publish it entire in a day or two, probably tomorrow.

After another Voluntary by the Band, B. P. Shillaber, the inimitable printer-poet, read the following Poem. Nothing could be more appropriate, or received with greater satisfaction. As Ben rose and came forward to the audience, the hearty and universal applause which greeted him, evinced the high and dear esteem in which he is held by his friends at home and abroad.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

BY B. P. SHILLABER, OF THE BOSTON EVENING GAZETTE.

Vain is my hope! Presumptuous muse, to make the mad essay
To add unto the joyousness that chasters round to-day!
I have no words of eloquence like his who spoke before,
Put just a reel of rambling rhymes to read you—nothing more—
In which I'll try to tell you, if you'll indulge me so,
Much that they did and didn't do a hundred years ago.

I've had a spirit message come, rapped out in sturdy raps,
From those who years have vanished, but who still are on their laps,
And it gives a pleasant history of things long passed away,
Brought by my great communicate once more to light of day,
Who's'e anxious mind, although removed, to let the people know
Just how they managed things down here a hundred years ago.

Then there were warlike scenes and times—militia men were drawn
To march with Pepperell, the knight, and Col. Wm. Vaughan;
And tales of their brave deeds were long by firesides in vogue,
Where bold Sir William, he and Vaughan, went down to Chapmanugar,
And let the French and Indian hears that Yankees were not slow
In fighting for the crown* and crown a hundred years ago.

Then there was Colonel Atkinson and Col. Nat. Meserve,
Two fire-eating sons of guns, of most unbridled nerve,
Who led the brave New-Hampshiremen by forest and by sea,
To drive forth from their fastnesses the savage enemy—
For the "heathen round about" were strong, and meant the people wo,—
But Christian prayers and swords prevailed, a hundred years ago.

But in the midst of war's alarms a peaceful note bobt;
It was the note from yonder clock that first struck yonder bell!
Squire Daniel Fisrce, the donor, determined by its chime
To hint to folks, on Life's dull march, the need of marking time;
The town received the timely gift, which struck its primal blow
The 20th of March, about one hundred years ago.

Then Mr. Peter Levins, by granting of the town,
Pastured up the creek called Islington and laid the drawbridge down
Connecting worldly Strawberry Bank with peaceful Christian Store,
And building mills that we recall in forty days of yore;
Also the broad tide gates that swung to check the waters flow;
A marvel of philosophy a hundred years ago.

Then elemental warfare div in heaven and earth awaked,
The fires descended from above, the ground with terror quaked;
The people all were much appalled, their hearts with fear did fail,—
And then they bought a fire engine—then they built a jail!—
The relevancy do not ask—it matters not to know—
But things were mixed up terribly a hundred years ago.

Then lotteries were recognized, and none rebuked the scheme
To buy a library of books by what we wicked deem;
The town a hundred tickets took, the proceeds to inure
To help erect a tenement in which to keep the poor;
But if they blanks or prizes drew, the record does not show,—
Perhaps the fathers were in luck a hundred years ago.

Then the gallows were resorted to in settling mortal ill,
And Dow, of Hampton Falls, was hanged, who Peter Clough did kill,
Ah, sadly did he expiate that grevious public wound—
For every grain of that he did they hanged him by the pound!
(Of course I mean the cattle pound—up here a mile or so,
Where the stray "critters" all were put, a hundred years ago.

Our sires were loyal to the king and caps were wildly swung
When, British arms triumphant, twas told glad crowds among,
And when Quebec was captured, the guns and bells proclaimed
The joy, and fires on Windmill Hill in cheerful brightness flamed;
Processions moved about the streets and punch in streams did flow:—
Ah! those were rum old times indeed a hundred years ago.

Then Portsmouth girls were just as fair as those that greet us now—
A Strawberry Bank pre-eminence, that all did o'er allow;
Coquetry then was rarely known and found but seldom dupes,
And dress was rather limited in magnitude of hoops,
But graces unadorned combined to win them many a beau,
(As now desired by them all,) a hundred years ago.

And then the earnest thinking men began to fell their night
They had no sunshine of their own but moved by borrowed light;
They wished intelligence to spread New-Hampshire wilds to bless,
And heaven to cheer their darkness lest their need a printing press;
The old Gazette, time honored name, broke the spell, we know,
A sturdy chicken, hatched by Fowle, a hundred years ago.

And how the people wondered when first the sheet appeared!
It was the greatest miracle that ever their vision cheered.
They thought its words of wisdom than Solomon's more wise,
And Daniel Fowle no vulgar fowl, but a Bird of Paradise;
And deemed the ancient processes, Prince, (a negro black as sloe,)
More than a common colored man a hundred years ago.

(Twas no broad acre that of news, for mails were scarcely known;
They subject were to obstacles, as well as to the crown;
The post came through but once a week, and scarcely brought a word
That might the pulse of man or mouse in our day have stirred;
Though this perhaps was fast enough when everything was slow,
As we may well suppose it was a hundred years ago.

And when in Boston there prevailed a fatal pestilence,
And careful Portsmouth selectmen conceived a safety fence
Across Great Swamp, to bend the plague and keep it from the town,
And smoked the mails (and females too) before they'd let them down;
We've wondered how the editor contrived to make a show,
For local news was very scarce a hundred years ago.

But patrons were more patient then and did not make to-do;
Excuses they admitted and regarded them as true.
They read the little he obtained, each word upon the page—
Till bold John Stavers, two to hand, appeared upon the stage;
And then the mails more steady grew, as he drove to and fro
The first stage in America a hundred years ago.

There came no quick electric spark along a path of wire,
To give the people news from far, of good news or of dire;
Elections then were never known, except that Calvin taught,
And, save the South and old North Church, the South and North were naught;
Kansas was not created yet, so far as they could know
Who printed off the old Gazette a hundred years ago.

Then poetry ne'er blazed in verse, and sentiment was rare,
The editor in language terse, spoke of his subject square;
No drops o'er fell upon the page from eyes with sorrow wet;
No laughter sprang from printed fun in rich harmonius jet;
The people were averse to verse, and more for use than show—
They had no music in their souls a hundred years ago.

No fashion plates bewitched the maids, in homespun glories clad,
No flaming advertisements told where luxuries could be had,
No selling out at less than cost, no bankrupt stocks of goods,
No damaged articles late wet in some fictitious floods,
No lure held out to hide the trap that lay concealed below,
For humbug wasn't understood a hundred years ago.

Then careful ships three times a year brought tidings from beyond
The dark and stormy waters of the mighty "herring pond,"
Giving the news of other climes, their markets and their fights,
Telling of continental scenes, their wrongs and eke their rights,
Telling of London and the King and Parliament also,—
Our sires rejoiced in things like these a hundred years ago.

People contented were and still and plodded on their way
Scarce ever looking from the town until their dying day,
And when they shuffled off the coil, they didn't leave their ground,
But even now, as we have shown, they yet are knocking round.
As was their light they faithful walked and did their work below,
And "slow and sure", their motto was a hundred years ago.

The raps here ceased; I asked for more, but only this could hear:
"Compare your present with the past and see how you appear;
See if your light has been bestowed the public mind to guide,
Or if a Jack o'lantern, mere, to dump men in the tide;—
And if you would be prudent by what we hereby show,
Try to be honest as they were a hundred years ago."

The following Ode, written for the occasion by Albert Laighton, of this city, was then beautifully read by Dr. Fuller, and finely sung by the choir—the audience rising, and by request joining in singing the last verse to the tune of Old Hundred.

"THE PRESS."

WRITTEN BY ALBERT LAIGHTON.

I.

We twine no Victor's wreath to-day,
We hail with shouts no new-crowned king;
The song of triumph that we sing
Inspires a nobler zeal than they!

II.

The Press! whose banner wears no stain
Of blood told conquest from the field;
Lo! Peace is blazoned on its shield,
And in its conflicts none are slain.

III.

Its power can stamp the Patriot's worth;
Its mandate seal the Coward's doom:
Its bolts divide Oppression's gloom
And shake the proudest throne on Earth.

IV.

When Justice sleeps, or Duty swerves,
Or Traitors act their lying part,
A Voice bursts from its mighty heart
And thrills along its iron nerves:—

V.

Till distant Nations pause to hear;
Till vale and glen and mountain height
Repeat the cry for Truth and Right,
And Guilt and Wrong shrink back with fear.

VI.

The Press! whose vantage-ground is Mind;
Language its sceptre of control;
Its chariot wheels are thoughts that roll
And leave a track of light behind.

VII.

Long may it live to bless the world,
A priceless heritage to man;
A champion ever in the van,
With Freedom's banner wide unfurled.

A Benediction by Dr. Lamson closed the exercises in the Temple.

The Procession was again formed and marched through Chesnut, State, Middle, Court, Pleasant, Water and State streets, to Market Square, when the Procession was dismissed, and the several Associations escorted to their halls.

Immediately after the procession was dismissed, and at the ringing of the Temple bell, all those who had tickets to the Dinner assembled at the Temple, and were escorted by the Manchester Veterans to Jefferson Hall, to dine.

The City Guards dined with the company, by invitation of the Chief Marshal and Committee. Upwards of three hundred plates were laid by the Messrs. Hadley; and every seat was occupied.

The President of the day was, of course, His Honor Mayor Jenness, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements. Vice Presidents at the Table, Ichabod Goodwin, Samuel Sheafe, Abner Greenleaf, John Laighton, C. S. Toppan, H. D. Walker.

The Committee on Toasts consisted of Messrs. Charles W. Brewster, Samuel Gray, and Frank Fuller—the latter of whom ably performed the duties of Toast Master at the Dinner. And to Dr. Fuller, in no small degree, is due the complete success of the literary feast throughout. He labored indefatigably in the cause, as he is ever ready to in all such; and he must have found ample reward in the countenance of such men as the record shows were "with" him.

Owing to the loss of time in the morning, Dinner was served about four o'clock; and many gentlemen who had made arrangements to take the cars for Boston at five, were obliged to leave the table before the exercises were completed.

We shall give reports of the toasts, after-dinner speeches, &c., to-morrow. Also of the street decorations, &c.

"If you are Coming, Why don't you Come along?"

THAT is the "mot" now-a-days. Every locomotive on every Railroad shrieks it. It is daily rapped out on every Telegraphic Line in the country. The echoing blows of our Ship Carpenters hourly exemplify it. The smith at his anvil hammers it out. The clanking Press with breathless haste, sends the cry home to every family—"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"
It is uttered in an hundred tongues in a hundred lands. It has sounded like a slogan through the political world, and the "Old Fogies" are creeping along among the baggage wagons and the wounded. Thought, that moved at a funeral pace, now rushes on a tremendous charge; and all the old remedies for Liver Complaint have given way for

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along."—Six paces to the front, is the word to everybody and everything that wants to be listened to or looked at. If you have anything to do, do it: if you wish any person to see anything, show it; if you have anything to be cured, CURE IT WITH

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS.

"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you have a Bottle of Holman's Bitters in your house, you need not suffer from
Biliousness, Weakness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Heartburn, Lowness of Spirits,
Nor any of the diseases incident to the season.
It used to take six men to make a pin; now one boy, a pull, a clip, and two strokes, and that's the way the pins are made. Once it took a Physician, lots of precious time, and quantities of nauseous drugs to cure some simple disease of the Blood.—Now, a quarter expended in

HOLMAN'S SPRING BITTERS

Brings Life and Health, flowing spirits and rosy cheeks.
"If you are coming, why don't you come along?"—If you are sick and weak, why don't you cure yourself? Here we offer you the article that will do it—there is no mistake about it. Every body knows about HOLMAN'S BITTERS; they have been tried and have "toed the mark straight."
They are a good medicine; they are better than anything else for all Spring Complaints; they are just the best Bitters that can be bought—and that's the best thing we can say about them. "If you are coming, why don't you come along," before they are all gone?

☞ Miss Philbrick, a lady residing in Piscataquis County, Maine, having been annoyed by bears, set a trap for them. The morning after the trap was set it had disappeared, and a trail was observed showing which way it had gone. Miss. P. procured her rifle and started in pursuit, and was not long in overtaking Bruin with all his paraphernalia. A shot from the rifle soon terminated his existence, and Miss Philbrick had the satisfaction of receiving a good price for his "pelt," in addition to the bounty allowed by the State.

AYER'S Cathartic Pills,

(SUGAR COATED,)

ARE MADE TO

CLEANSE THE BLOOD AND CURE THE SICK

Invalids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and judge of their Virtues.

FOR THE CURE OF

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

PITTSBURG, PA., May 1, 1856.

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once. If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PREBLE,
Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, D. C., 7 Feb., 1856.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an invaluable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them.

Fraternally yours, ALONZO BALL, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Relax, and Worms.

POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 16, 1855.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Went off to be doctored at great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here.

GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.

Indigestion and Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1855.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Erysipelas, Scrofula, King's Evil, Tetter, Tumors, and Salt Rheum.

From a Forwarding Merchant of S. Louis, Feb. 4, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her. ASA MORGRIDGE

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church,

PULASKI HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 6, 1856.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until, by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, BATON ROUGE, LA., 5 Dec., 1855.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured by your Pills of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

For Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an excellent remedy.

For Costiveness or Constipation, and as a Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual.

Fits, Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Deafness, and Partial Blindness, have been cured by the alterative action of these Pills.

Most of the pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, INFLUENZA, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, IN CIPIENT CONSUMPTION,

and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtle and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should have it in store against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the CHERRY PECTORAL saves more lives by the consumptions it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the inexorable canker that, fastened on the vitals, eats your life away. All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and now they know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them it is still made the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st. oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof by him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in his and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in advising inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

TREMONT MILLS.

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Cocoas, Spices, &c.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.

(Sign of the Chinaman grinding coffee,)

141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give consumers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1 00
5 lb Oolong "	1.75	5 lb. Java "	90
5 lb Y. Hyson "	2.25	8 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warrented to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well-known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

THE REGATTA.

The Regatta, or Boat Race, for Row Boats, took place on the Piscataqua River, between Noble's Island and the Stone Beacon near Peirce's Island, at precisely the time appointed, 4½ o'clock. The Chairman of the Committee of Judges, Wm. Petigrew, Esq., is noted for launching his craft at the tick of the watch. The Judges were Messrs. Pettigrew, Richard Tripe, and Ira Haselton. Freeman G. Beal, Clerk.

An immense crowd gathered on the wharves, buildings, bridges, and boats of every description, to witness the race; and great was the fun. A most interesting and exciting scene was presented.

The distance rowed was about two and a quatter miles—from off Noble's Island, down round the Stone Beacon, and return.

Four boats were entered, viz.: H. Danielson entered boat "A," 2 oars.

A. J. Stimpson, entered boat "B," 4 oars.

Frank L. Fernald entered boat "C," 4 oars.

Matthew Darton entered boat "D," 4 oars.

Frank Fernald's boat ("C") won the first purse of $25—time 15 minutes, 47 seconds.

H. Danielson's boat ("A") won the second purse of $15—time 18 minutes, 28 seconds—an allowance of 40 minutes (20 seconds to an oar) being made her, in consideration of her having but two oars.

A. J. Stimpson's boat ("B,") won the third purse, $10—time 17 minutes 50 seconds.

The Regatta proved one of the most attractive features of the day, and we hope will open the way for a more extensive trial of our boatmen's skill.

Mr. Frederick Bulger of Boston, expressed to the Committee a desire to enter a dozen boats of the Boston boat-club association; but the arrangements were not completed in season.

ROBBERIES.—While our citizens were enjoying the Celebration on Monday forenoon, several houses at the north part of the city, were entered and robbed. The house of Mr. Daniel Littlefield, in Russel street, was searched thoroughly, and nearly $400, with other valuables, stolen; all the locks in the house broken, and drawers and closets ransacked. It will be seen that he offers a handsome reward for the detection of the thief, &c.

The house of Mr. Joseph Walton, in the same street, was also entered, and similarly searched. About $25, with silver spoons, &c. were carried off.

The dwelling of Mr. Nathaniel Patten, also in Russel street, was entered;—about $50, and articles of value taken.

The house of Mr. S. M. Dockum, in Hanover street, was visited by the theives; and silver ware, &c. taken.

The boarding-house of Mrs. Perkins, in Fleet street, was robbed of $50, and valuables.

We believe that, with the exception of breaking into the back-door of Mr. Walton's house, no entrance was forced—admittance being gained by false keys or through some window.

NEW STAGE ROUTE TO DOVER.—Mr. S. Thompson runs regularly a daily Stage from Dover to Portsmouth, leaving Dover every morning at 8 o'clock, and Portsmouth at 3 1-2 o'clock, P. M. The fare is the same as in the cars, 62 1-2 cts. The Steam Ferry across the Piscataqua is now in running order, and passengers or carriages can cross at any hour of the day.

BOWDOIN.—We have received from Wm. G. Nowell, of this city, a copy of the Catalogue of Bowdoin College, at Brunswick, Me. The number of students is 244; of whom four are from Portsmouth,—viz., Joshua J. Laighton and Edward A. Rand, of the senior class; Wm. G. Nowell, sophomore; and Jacob H. Thompson, freshman.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

TRIAL TERM.

Portsmouth, Oct. 7th, 1855.

Judge Sawyer presiding.—The term was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Holman. Judge Sawyer charged the Jurors and the Grand Jury. The docket was called, and no case Charles Robinson vs. Robert Gray was put on trial.

ROCKINGHAM COURTS—OCTOBER.

U. S. Circuit, at Exeter, 8th.
Probate, at Exeter, 15th.

NEW CUSTOM HOUSE, &c.—At a meeting of citizens held on Saturday evening, for the purpose of considering sites for the new Post Office and Custom House, the following gentlemen were named a committee to ascertain, if possible, the general wish on the subject, viz.:

Wm. Laighton, W. H. Y. Hackett, C. Robinson, Josiah G. Hadley, Samuel Adams, Augustus Jenkins, Wm. P. Jones, Ichabod Goodwin, Lyman D. Spaulding, E. N. Fuller.

This committee have inserted a notice in our columns to-day, and posted up subscription papers, whereon each citizen may express his preference. There are fourteen lots named, from which to select.—We presume that the old Brick Market site will be found the moit popular—as it is the best by far that can be had..

THE COMMITTEE chosen at a Meeting of the Citizens of Portsmouth, Oct. 6, 1856, held at the Court House, to obtain the wishes of the voters in regard to the location of the new Custom House and Post Office, give notice that they have Posted up Bills of the Lots under consideration—for the signatures of the people, arranged so that the name of each signer may be placed under the lot which he prefers.

The Bills may be found at the Eastern Depot, Post Office, Athenæum, City Rooms, and Custom-House.

The Voters of the city of Portsmouth are requested to place their names upon the bill to-day or to-morrow

4 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

RIVER DU LOUPE, Oct. 6, A. M.

The propeller Anglo-Saxton, from Liverpool 24th ult., passed this point this afternoon, en route for Quebec.

The news from Great Britain is entirely devoid of interest, and political intelligence from France is equally so.

In the French market the prices of cereals are again somewhat firmer, but the rise is not considered likely to last.

☞ The New Orleans "Louisiana Courier" of Sept. 21st, says:

The magnificent new ship James Buchanan, owned by our well known citizen Peter Marcy, arrived here a few days ago, in the remarkably short time of sixteen days from Boston, the best yet made this season, and beating handsomely every other vessel's time.

All this we will agree to. But when the Courier takes this as "a good omen," and states that

In November the great man after whom she has been named will perform a similar feat in the Presidential race,

We will just advise him to wait a little, and not be too sure till after election.

GRAND EXHIBITION OF HORSES.—A grand exhibition of horses, open to competition to all the states of the Union and the British provinces, will be held by the Boston Agricultural Association at the grounds occupied last year by the United States Agricultural Society, on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Oct. 21st to 25th; at which premiums amounting to eight thousand dollars, in sums from $25 to $1,000, will be offered for the different classes of horses, and which will, from their liberal amount, bring into competition such horses as "Flora Temple," "Ethan Allen," Hiram Drew," Lancet," Pocahantas," and others of well known reputation. Some of these have already been entered by their owners to contend for premiums offered for speed. Programmes of the exhibition, with the list of premiums offered, can be had by calling at the office of the Society, No. 109 State street (up stairs.).

IN A DANGEROUS POSITION AND CONDITION.—The two o'clock train coming into Newburyport from Boston, on the Eastern road, Saturday, was broke up in short notice just as it was entering the tunnel, upon the alarm of that single, short whistle, that is anything but agreeable to passengers who value safety or life. Upon looking out to see what was to pay, the fireman was discovered removing a woman from just under the nose of the engine, so drunk that she could hardly sit up when he had placed her against the bank. He was very accomodating, removed her from the road and drove on. The Herald don't know that a woman who is beast enough to get drunk, deserves so much attention.

J. W. MOSES would call the attention of his friends, customers, and the Public in general to the fact, that he has in his store, at No. 8 Market street, a good assortment of Broadcloths, Pilot and Beaver Cloths, plain and fancy Doeskins and Cassimeres, Black and fancy Velvets, plain and figured Satins and Grenadin Vestings, &c., which he will make to order or sell either with or without cutting or making, at fair prices.

He has a large assortment of furnishing Goods, consisting of Shirts, Collars, Cravats, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs, Under-Shirts and Drawers, &c., &c.

All Garments made by him warranted to be as good as can be had in this city. The above are new Goods, having been selected with care from large Stocks in Boston, and just received. September 26. ia3w

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," run the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

HAYDEN'S IMPROVED VEGETABLE PURGATIVE PILLS.

NOTICES FROM THE PRESS.

From the BOSTON MIRROR, edited by THOMAS DAVIS, ESQ.

It is with no ordinary pleasure that we call the attention of our readers to the advertisement, in another column, of Dr. W. R. Hayden's Improved Vegetable Pills, and we can assure our readers that this is not one of the vile humbugs with which the papers are daily crowded, but a truly valuable medicine. We speak from experience, having tested their virtues in our own family. Try them.

WOOD'S HAIR DYE.—This admirable article is rapidly improving the hair. No article of a similar kind, now before the public, enjoys a better reputation as a restorative and invigorating hair tonic. Its peculiar chemical qualities have a beneficial effect upon the growth and character of the hair, giving a silky and glossy texture to that which was formerly of a coarse and dry nature. It has, also, we understand, a tendency to preserve the youthful color of the hair, and destroying or counteracting the effects of age. With such recommendations in its favor, we hardly perceive how any lady or gentleman should be without so valuable an adjunct to their toilet. The article may be had of the Druggists throughout the country.—[Missouri Democrat.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronized than any other ever established in this country. It is the same Richardson's Bitters which has recovered so many invalids to health throughout New England during the past thirty years.

N. B.—Beware of imitations called Sherry Wine Bitters. The genuine have a fac simile of my signature upon the outer envelope. For sale by Druggists everywhere, and at my office, No. 51 Hanover St., Boston. au2*6m

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

BY THE Boston Agricultural Association.

The First Exhibition of the Boston Agricultural Association

will be held at BOSTON, on TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY,
October 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25

PREMIUMS from Twenty five to One Thousand Dollars, amounting, in the aggregate, to Eight Thousand Dollars, have been offered, open for competition to horses from all parts of the Union, as well as the Canadas.

A Committee composed of citizens of Boston and vicinity, has been appointed, to co-operate with the officers of the Society in perfecting the arrangements for the Exhibition. A large fund has been guaranteed, to meet expenses. This material aid, taken in connexion with the excellence of the location, (being the same grounds occupied last year by the U. S. Agricultural Society,) and the large amount of premiums offered, induces the expectation that this Exhibition will be of a superior character.

Seats for six thousand persons have been prepared, also a saloon, with female attendants, for the accommodation of Ladies.

Stalls for the accommodation of four hundred horses have been prepared upon the grounds.

Favorable arrangements with the various railroads, for the transportation of stock, are in progress, the terms of which will be given on application at the Offices.

The following horses will be upon the ground, and have signified their intention to enter and contend for premiums offered for speed, viz: Hiram Drew, Ethan Allen, Flora Temple, Lancet, Tacony, Grey Eddy, Pocahontas, and others of well known reputation.

The Premium List, with the Regulations and Programme of the Exhibition, will be furnished on application to the Secretary at Boston.

Centennial Celebration

OF THE

INTRODUCTION OF PRINTING

INTO NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Portsmouth, Monday, Oct. 6, '56.

STREET DECORATIONS, &c.

Never, save on one occasion, has old Portsmouth been so finely adorned with flags and ornaments of all descriptions, as at this time. Many public and private buildings along the route of the procession were finely ornamented by the well known decorator, Col. Beals of Boston, and by the tasteful hands of our own citizens. We give a description of the decorations, with the mottoes, as far as we were able to note, or can recollect them.

State Street.

On the front of the Rockingham House were shields and festoons; and reaching from the roof to a flag-staff on the top, a glory of flags of all nations. Over the door, under a canopy of stars, was the motto, "Honor to Franklin." Over the gateway, surrounded by festoons of bunting, a statuette of the philosopher.

City Hall and the store of J. H. Thacher, below it, were ornamented with a full length portrait of Washington, surmounted by a shield, and festooned. The whole front of the building was also festooned with tri-colored bunting.

Crossing the street at this point, and meeting over the centre, were lines of yellow, red, pink, white and blue bunting, forming a canopy.

Congress Street.

Congress Block was beautifully decorated with festoons, with an eagle and a glory of flags over the principal entrance.

The front of the Franklin House, with its many colored bunting, shields and festoons, made a fine appearance.

Just above this, the block occupied by Dr. Fuller was handsomely ornamented with starred bunting, shields, and the following mottoes, over a statuette of Franklin:

"This day, like a beautiful flower, shall be Pressed in the pages of memory."

"Turn back the tide of ages to its head,
And hoard the wisdom of the honored dead."

"Franklin we all unite to honor;"

"Franklin — The champion of a Free Press."

J. Barton's picture rooms, in the same building, were also neatly decorated.

Islington Street.

The residence of Mrs. Halliburton was neatly trimmed, and a portrait exhibited of one who was no idler in the times that tried whether men had souls or not.

The Academy of Mr. Israel Kimball bore the inscription

Cultores suos scientia coronat.
(Science crowns her votaries.)

Daniel Street.

In front of the Gazette office was erected a fine arch, surmounted by an eagle and flags. The pillars of the arch were ornamented with 13 stars, and on the Keystone appeared, "Daniel Fowle, 1756." Immediately under, and elevated on a platform, was a colossal bust of Franklin. On the front of the office were the following mottoes:

"To him whose memory our art endears,
We yield the honors of a hundred years."

"All honor to the Memory of our Fathers, who provided the surest safeguard of Liberty, in establishing the supremacy of law and the impartial administration of justice."

It is not with us as with men whom small things can discourage"

The residence of Col. Dimick, at the head of the street, was prettily decorated, having a flower-trimmed arch, and the name of "Daniel Fowle."

Pleasant Street.

Crossing Pleasant street, in front of the Mercantile Library Building were three arches, the centre and principal one surmounted by a large eagle, holding in his beak the national motto, and in his claws two American flags. On either side waved an American ensign. On the principal arch was the name of the Portsmouth Mercantile Library Association. On the side arches appeared "Union" and "Liberty," and the thirty-one stars. On the front of the Mercantile Library building was a picture of Franklin's Birth-place. The whole made a very handsome display.

The Chronicle office was finely decorated. On the front of the building was a triumphal arch, with "Independence" on the keystone, a star between each letter.—On the columns were inscribed "Union" and "Liberty," with flowers and scrolls.—Under the arch was a canopy of streamers. From the centre of the building a platform projected, bearing a printing press. The building was also gracefully festooned.

The Piscataqua House, the Granite House and the store of Samuel W. Moses, (a former publisher of the Gazette,) were also decorated in a tasteful manner.

At the Young Ladies' High School: under charge of Mr. Nichols, one of the most delightful features of the day was presented to those in the ranks. In front of the School House seats were arranged pyramidally, and on them were seated a large number of young ladies, dressed in white; who, as the Procession passed, cheered and waved their handkerchiefs, to which those in the Procession gallantly responded. The "tower of beauty" was much admired,—and we must be allowed to say that we admire it even after it is demolished. On the front of the School House was the motto,—"Free schools; our nation's strength."

At the corner of Howard and Washington streets stands the old building where 100 years ago the first printing press in New Hampshire was established. The building was neatly decorated, and bore a large painting of a press, behind which was seen the rising sun, and over all the words "Let there be Light!" A beautiful design—attracting much attention.—Underneath was the significant inscription, "Success to the Craft which puts down Kingcraft and Priestcraft!" Flags were swung across the street at this point—and the Bands as the Procession passed, saluted the place where "There was light" first.

The residence of Capt. Daniel Marcy was beautifully decorated with flags and streamers, and a pair of splendid flags drooped over the heads of the Procession.

Market Street

Presented a very beautiful appearance, a trellice arch of vari-colored bunting running through the principal business portion: Over the arch waved numerous American flags, with historical dates. At the entrance of the street from Market Square was a beautiful arch of flags, suspended by ropes, surmounted by a natural eagle holding in his beak the motto—"Freedom of the Press," and a wreath of flowers: a new and ingenious design, creditable to the decorator. The fronts of many of the stores were gracefully festooned.

On the dry goods store of Albert Laighton, the poet, was the following motto:

The Press in whose fair form we see
Proofs of our Nation's liberty.

Piscataqua Bank Building was handsomely trimmed.

Middle Street.

The residence of Wm. R. Preston, Esq., was finely ornamented with festoons; and over the gateway was erected a fine arch covered with fresh dahlias of different colors, and presenting an exceedingly beautiful appearance. Under the arch appeared a shield with the following expressive and appropriate mottoes:

The Free Press—The great Lever of the Nation. Franklin—His name shall stand as long as the Granite Hills.

Gattenberg—Thy discovery has given to Genius an everlasting life, which would have perished without thee.

With the Press for the Lever, and Truth for the Fulcrum, we can move the World.

The Daily and Weekly Newspaper always Welcome.
It greets us with the rising sun,
It cheers us through the day;
And when at night our toil is done,
It drives dull care away.

Elm Street.

The residence of Hon. H. D. Walker was tastefully ornamented with festooned flags, flowers, &c.,—surmounted by a shield, with the inscription, "Long life to the Press."

We have mentioned all decoration of which our notes and memory furnish us any information. Perhaps we have omitted others of equal merit. We noticed many beautiful boqnets displayed in windows, to the passing crowd, and slight adornments of spruce, &c. in several shops.

Before leaving this part of our report, we wish to claim a meed of praise for the painters—who always have to do a deal of thankless labor on occasions like these, as well as other people—at least labor, the only reward for which is derived from the satisfaction of contributing to the public pleasure. To Mr. Rowell are we indebted for the old Printing Press,—so natural, so much like old Fowle's,—and to Mr. John Smith, (at the same establishment of Messrs. Swasey & Rowell,) for some capital lettering done at the last moment.

In the evening, the Chronicle office was illuminated. Also the Engine House of Atlantic No. 6, which presented a brilliant appearance.

The Ball, at Congress Hall, was the most brilliant we have had in Portsmouth for a long time; and passed off to the satisfaction of all. The company was large and sociable, the music excellent, (Gilmore's Salem Quadrille Band,) and the attendance of the Veterans as invited guests, added much to the interest of the occasion. Portsmouth's fair daughters—and none are fairer—never appeared to better advantage than during this day and evening.

We shall give to-morrow, a full report of the literary after-dinner feast.

Rev. Mr. Hurd.—Died, at South Reading, Mass., on the 4th inst., Rev. Isaac Hurd, aged 70, senior pastor of the Second Church in Exeter, N. H.—Mr. Hurd was a graduate of Harvard College, and preached his first sermon in London. He was settled early in life as Pastor of the First Parish in Lynn, Mass., being then a Unitarian. He removed to Exeter, and became the pastor of the 2d Church there, in 1817; declaring his belief in the Trinitarian Doctrines just before his installation.

Mr. Hurd was a good student, a chaste, correct writer, and to the extent of his vocal powers, a good speaker. He was affable in his manners, given to hospitality, exemplary in his christian walk, and magnified the office of the christian minister.

☞ The balloon Young America has been abandoned by Mr. Wise to the parties that picked it up off Cape Cod. He thinks it doubtful if for the purpose of a balloon, it would be worth the sum of $62. 50, which they demanded. The Newburyport Herald states that he goes back to Pennsylvania to make a new and larger balloon, and has promised to return and make an ascension there next year, when several citizens of Newburyport will probably go up with him.—The people came forward, and very generously contributed $150, to help make up his loss.

Dr. Kane's Arctic Explorations in search of Sir John Franklin, during the years 1853, '54, '55: being a personal narrative, and containing an account of his important discoveries, the perilous adventures of his party, and the thrilling incidents connected therewith; fully and elaborately illustrated by several hundred wood cuts and steel engravings, including portraits of Dr. Kane and Mr. Grinnell.—The drawings and paintings by the distinguished artist, James Hamilton, Esq., from sketches by Dr. Kane. Two volumes, octavo,—price $5,00. Published by Childs & Peterson, 124 Arch street, Philadelphia, and Phillips, Sampson & Co., 13 Winter st., Boston.

Mr. George W. Chase, of Newburyport, is canvassing Portsmouth and vicinity for subscribers to this work of Dr. Kane's, now in the hands of the publishers. This work is one of intense interest and of great value. It is a work of great typographical beauty. The drawings and peintings are by the best artists the country affords, and no expense has been spared to make it every way worthy of patronage. Mr. Chase is a very worthy young man, and those who purchase the work of him will secure a copy earlier than by any other method, and at a price as low as the book will bé sold. The book is one which every man should possess.

☞ A Fremont Club was formed at Hampton, on Monday evening, 6th inst., John D. Neal, President.

HAYDEN'S IMPROVED VEGETABLE PURGATIVE PILLS.

NOTICES FROM THE PRESS.

From the Boston Mirror, edited by Thomas Davis, Esq.

It is with no ordinary pleasure that we call the attention of our readers to the advertisement, in another column, of Dr. W. R. Hayden's Improved Vegetable Pills, and we can assure our readers that this is not one of the vile humbugs with which the papers are daily crowded, but a truly valuable medicine. We speak from experience, having tested their virtues in our own family. Try them.

WM. R PRESTON, Druggist, wholesale and retail agent, Portsmouth. 6id&w

WOOD'S HAIR DYE.—This admirable article is rapidly improving the hair. No article of a similar kind, now before the public, enjoys a better reputation as a restorative and invigorating hair tonic. Its peculiar chemical qualities have a beneficial effect upon the growth and character of the hair, giving a silky and glossy texture to that which was formerly of a coarse and dry nature. It has, also, we understand, a tendency to preserve the youthful color of the hair, and destroying or counteracting the effects of age. With such recommendations in its favor, we hardly perceive how any lady or gentleman should be without so valuable an adjunct to their toilet. The article may be had of the Druggists throughout the country.—[Missouri Democrat.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ Dr. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronized than any other ever established in this country. It is the same Richardson's Bitters which has restored so many invalids to health throughout New England during the past thirty years.

N. B.—Beware of imitations called Sherry Wine Bitters. The genuine have a fac simile of my signature upon the outer envelope. For sale by Druggists everywhere, and at my office, No. 51 Hanover St., Boston. an8e6m

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart, of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuTh&S 6m.

Dismissed.—A dispatch to the Traveller states that the Rev. Mr. Conway was, on Sunday last, dismissed from the pastorate of the Unitarian Church in the city of Washington, by a vote of the Church. The objection to Mr. Conway was his preaching against slavery.

☞ The Cocheco Mills, at Dover, N. H., are manufacturing Fremont and Dayton Calico, a very pretty print with alternate stripes, formed of an ingenious combination of the names Fremont—Dayton, endlessly repeated. The letters are plainly distinguishable upon examination; but would not be noticed except by close inspection. The calico is a curiosty and numerous "lovely young Jessies" are arrayed in robes made from this political cloth.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT.

The Mayor of the city received a telegraphic despatch on Tuesday, informing him that the President of the United States would visit Portsmouth on Wednesday. The City Council having previously extended to the President the hospitalities of the City. His Honor immediately deputed Ald Rundlett, and Messrs. Wendell and Lowd, of the Common Council, to proceed to Concord, and accompany the President here. On Wednesday morning, the Mayor received a despatch from the committee of the City Government, stating that the President would arrive here by the Concord Railroad at about 1 o'clock P. M. Mr. Emery, the Superintendent, kindly volunteered to run an extra passenger, in place of the freight train, which reaches this city about 3 o'clock.

The President arrived at the station in this city about one o'clock, accompanied by his suite, Gen Anderson, of Tennessee, Marshal Hoover, of the District of Columbia, Sidney Webster, Esq., his private Secretary, and several gentlemen from Concord. He was escorted to a stand erected near the depot, by the Mayor, Hon. Richard Jenness. A very large number of our citizens, ladies as well as gentlemen had collected to greet the President, notwithstanding the fact that hardly any public notice had been given of the time of his visit. Hearty and enthusiastic cheers were volunteered, when the President made his appearance upon the stand, and a salute of 21 guns pealed out a welcome to the distinguished visitor. The Buchanan Guards, under Capt. Marden, had offered their services to the city as an escort to the President, and were drawn up in front of the platform, in full ranks, and presented arms.

After the cheering had subsided, the Mayor proceeded to welcome the President in the following terms:

Mr. President:

It affords me very great pleasure as the organ of the authorities of this city to welcome you here to-day.

At any time it would give us pleasure to greet the President of this vast Republic with a cordial reception. But as a citizen of New Hampshire, and, as one who has been largely identified with her interests and prosperity from early manhood, and whose heart has always beat responsive to whatever promised to add to the happiness and renown of our beloved State, we greet you with emotions of friendship and personal regard, as well as with sentiments of profound respect and veneration for the exalted station the free, unbought suffrages of the people so lately called you to fill.

It is now nearly four years since the people of thirty-one sovereign and independent states called you from retirement and comparative repose to duties and responsibilities that must appall the bravest heart. —Since then, many and important events have transpired. A prosperity unparalleled in the history of nations has been continued to us as a people.

Whatever differences of opinion there may have been in regard to some of the measures of your administration, none will deny that it has been distinguished for industry, economy, and a marked and successful foreign policy, as well as fidelity to the great fundamental principle that lies at the base of this government, the right of the people to govern themselves. Strike from the fair fabric of the Union this foundation principle, and the beauty and symmetry of the whole structure is gone forever.

For upholding this principle and vindicating measures that were intended practically to give force and vitality to it, your administration has been vilified and abused. The realm of falsehood and deception has been ransacked to cast odium upon it, but your fortune in this respect is not singular. The administration of the hero President whose name and fame is now cherished by the American people with almost an undivided affection and adoration, received unparalled attention in this respect, and now it stands almost peerless among the administrations of this government for its purity and uprightness; and Sir, it must be pleasing to reflect that when the unwarranted persecution, with the passion of the present hour, have passed away, and reason and truth shall resume their sway, that justice will be done to the fidelity, patriotism and ability that has distinguished your administration.

We welcome you as the chief of this great nation. We welcome you as the fearless vindicator of the right of the people to govern themselves. We welcome you as our friend and fellow citizen.

The President's reply was brief, but exceedingly happy. He expressed the great pleasure he felt in receiving the unanimous invitation of the City Council to visit Portsmouth, a place which was already warmly endeared to him by happy recollections of the past and the warmest friendships of the present. He felt that he must come to Portsmouth if he visited no other place. It was here that he had spent some of the most agreeable years of his life, with that great and good man, of statesmanlike ability and national reputation, LEVI WOODBURY, the favorite son of New Hampshire, whose memory is revered and cherished at home and abroad

The President alluded in feeling terms to Portsmouth as the home of Langdon, Col. Gardner, Capts. Manning and Elijah Hall, true patriots and noble men. He spoke of his early acquaintance with Col Gardner, whose lessons of wisdom and patriotism he could never forget. The old gentleman was a devoted friend of the Union, and when he spoke of it, his black eye always sparkled with animation. He often had heard him predict for our future that remarkable prosperity and progress which we have thus far realized, and which will continue if the spirit of these patriots is revived and kept alive in our hearts. The Union can only be preserved in its purity by a constant exercise of vigilance on the part of the people, and by a recognition of the rights of every portion of the confederacy by every other.

When he promised the Mayor to visit this beautiful city, he made a private contract that he should be received quietly, and not in a public manner He wished to take his old friends by the hand, and thank them for their continued confidence and support. He had no expectation of meeting so many of his fellow citizens upon his entrance to the city, and was highly gratified at the sight and sound which greeted him. It seemed like the cordial, hearty welcome of the people to an old friend, and he should long remember and cherish it as such.

The President, in conclusion, expressed his gratification at this meeting. He was glad to see so many of his friends and fellow citizens around him. He would like to address them at greater length, if his health and strength permitted it. But he wished them all to remember that whether in office or out of office, at home or abroad, he never should forget his dear old native State, and the Union of which she is an honored member.

The President and suite, with the Mayor and City Council in carriages, were then escorted by the Buchanan Guards to the Rockingham House.

After dinner, which was attended by the City Council, the President held a levee, and in the evening attended a ball given by Com. Newton, at the Navy Yard, which was a very brilliant affair, and was graced by the presence of many officers of the Navy, and ladies and gentlemen of this city. The President returned to his quarters at the Rockingham House about 12 o'clock last night, and will probably visit the Yard to-day, officially, and receive the usual salute.

It is expected that he will take passage in the U. S. steam frigate Wabash to-morrow, and return directly to the seat of government. The Wabash will probably sail to-morrow afternoon. This is, we believe, the first ocean voyage made by a President of the United States during his term of office.

THE VETERANS' VISIT.

☞ On Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, the Veterans left this city for home, designing to dine at Salem, Mass., on their return route. Previous to their departure, His Honor Mayor Jenness thanked the corps in a brief and well-timed speech for their visit, regretted their early departure, and wished them a safe return to their homes. Hon. Ichabod Goodwin also spoke briefly and pertinently—and Col. Potter responded, feelingly and appropriately.—The company then gave nine tremendous cheers for the Mayor, Mr. Goodwin, and the ladies of Portsmouth, and took their departure—delighted, one and all, with their visit (as are our citizens with them) and promising to return on some future occasion.

OMISSIONS.—In our report of the Procession of Monday, mention should have been made, with the other firemen, of Mr. Charles Manent, jr., of No. 6 — who is always ready to do more than his part for any public enterprise; and who on this occasion rendered the most efficient service.

The Foreman of Piscataqua, No. 4, also, is ever ready for a Fireman's duty.

We should also have mentioned that the Laconia tub, No. 2, was profusely and tastefully decked with the most brilliant flowers, &c., and was much admired.

A third uniform company, the Washington Light Guard, composed of school boys, should have been noticed. They made a very neat appearance, and deserve praise for doing "what they could" for the cause.

U. S. STEAMER WABASH.—This splendid craft, now lying in our Lower Harbor, many citizens are desirous of having nearer the wharves. It having been reported, as the Pilot's statement, that this immense craft could not be brought up; Capt. Preble, who piloted her in, has deemed it advisable to procure a voucher for the facts in the case, from the officers of the ship.

FLAG SHIP WABASH, PORTSMOUTH HARBOR.

Mr. Rufus A. Preble having stated that reports injurious to him are in circulation, in regard to his having brought this ship to at her present anchorage; we certify with great pleasure that in our estimation no better place can be found in the Harbor.—and that Mr. Preble, as Pilot, did his duty well and faithfully. The great length of the ship, as well as the strong current, renders a nearer approach to the city incommodious and undesirable.

For the Chronicle.

Messrs. Editors:. In locating the Post Office and Custom House, it is hoped that the convenience of the hundreds of citizens and strangers who are daily looking for letters will be considered. The Post office is far the most important now, and the changing business character of our city makes it more so daily. Our city is also rapidly extending westward. To meet these wants and changes, the best location is at the corner of Congress and Chesnut streets, now occupied by the Melcher House. L

FROM KANSAS.—The following extract from a private letter dated Lawrence, Sept. 20, furnishes unpleasant evidence that Governor Geary favors the pro-slavery party in Kansas. The letter is from a well-informed and reliable source, and some of its statements are corroborated by other letters from Kansas:

"On Friday about eighty men came up from the camp of Missourians at Cedar Creek, and approached as far as Blue Jackets. Mr. Adams, the friend of Governor Geary, came here that evening, and wrote back to the Governor the facts. Gov. Geary started in the night with some of the troops, and came in early in the morning. He said the force between here and Westport was the regular militia, and he should see that they were disbanded. He told us we had better not all disband till there was no force in the Territory. However, most of our people believing there was no longer any occasion to remain, went to their homes.

On Saturday word came that a force of one or two hundred men were approaching us from the North, and had already destoyed one town and were committing depradations generally upon settlers. Help was wanted from this place. Mr Adams, the Governor's friend, then in town, advised that a body of men be sent out to meet them and drive them back. Another force of about three hundred was marching from the South, and one of from one thousand to twenty-eight hundred from Westport. Mr. Adams said the Governor could not send the troops to the smaller parties, but would be ready to meet the main body when it should arrive. Accordingly Col. Harvey, with about one hundred and fifty men, including the "Stubs," (a company of Free State sharp-shooters,) went over North while Capt. Shores kept at bay the party south. An engagement took place between Col Harvey and a company of Missourians from St. Joseph, which lasted an hour or two, when a settlement was effected. But while returning a detatchment of U. S. troops took our men prisoners and carried them to Lecompton, where they have remained till this time.

In the meantime the Westport force marched upon us, and arrived at Franklin on Sunday afternoon. About one hundred and fifty horsemen attempted to ride into Lawrence, but we met them on the prairie, and after exchanging shots a few times they retreated to their camp. We had but about three hundred men in town and but a few rounds of ammunition, or we should have pursued them. The troops came down in the night and Gov. Geary in the morning, and the Missourians agreed to go home. It was all a farce. The Governor and the Missourians professed to do great things, so they pretended they were going to overwhelm us, and the Governor pretended to come just in the nick of time to save us from an awful fight. The Missourians think now they have got rid of some of the disgrace of their defeat, and the Governor thinks he has placed the Free State party under everlasting obligations to him.

The Missourians burned five buildings near and in Franklin, and drove back with two hundred head of horses and cattle, and this right before the Governor's eyes. The Franklin mill was burned. A part of the force, with Titus, Jones and others, went up to Lecompton on Tuesday, and on their way killed David Buffum and stole several horses. The Governor has a militia force under Titus, and is arresting all Free State men in the country for being engaged in the late war, while the other party as usual go at large.. He promised the people that the past should be overlooked so far as the war is concerned, but I fear he is to turn out a worse man than Shannon knew how to be. He takes from the Free State men all the horses that the pro-slavery men will say are theirs, and the consequence is not a Free State man will have a horse in a short time, although they have owned them for months.

MONDAY NIGHT.—I have been to Lecompton to-day to see the prisoners. One hundred are still held, and but half fed, and no beds but blankets."

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE FAIR.

CONCORD, Wednesday, Oct. 8th.

The train from Portsmouth came into Concord crowded with every passenger gathered on the road. Half the women had band-boxes, showing they were bound, among other things, to go a shopping;—and showing also, that cattle shows and other shows, in any place of trade, tend to increase its trade.

The preparations here, for the Fair, are ample,—and not in vain. All the trains have come in full of people,—and the highways teem with cattle, horses, vehicles and passengers, all tending toward the Fair ground.

The day is fine,—and the gathering here very large. The Fair continues through Thursday and Friday. T. H. M.

FROM EUROPE.

Steamer Arago, from Havre, 24 ult., arrived at New York, the 8th. She brings London dates of 24th, and 270 passengers, including the late American Minister at Brussels; J. P. Sullivan, Consul at Bayonne; Jerome Bonaparte, Gabriel Rewell, and Chas. Bontesquien, Manager of the French Opera at New Orleans, with several distinguished operatic artists.

A serious conflict had taken place at Trebizond, where some Turkish sailors tore down a Russian flag from a merchant ship, and threw the Russian sailors into the sea. The Russian Consul demands the dismissal of the Captain of the port.

Madrid journals state that a severe conflict occurred on the 9th, between the garrison of Melilla, on the Morocco coast, and the Moors. The Spaniards had 90 killed and 70 wounded. The loss of the Moors was still more severe.

Advices from St. Vincent state a greater portion of the inhabitants had either abandoned the island or died of cholera. At Madrid cholera still existed, but less fatally.

CONNECTICUT ELECTIONS. — HARTFORD, Oct. 7.—85 towns heard from. Fremont carries 50, Buchanan 35. Fremont gain over last fall 21, Buchanan 13. The gain on the popular vote is largely in favor of Fremont.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 7.—Town elections were held to-day in about half the state.—83 towns have been heard from, of which the Democrates have carried 47 and the Republicans 36, being a Democratic gain of nine.

FREMONT IN CONGERSS.—The detractors of Fremont have asked contemptuously, what were his services while in the United States Senate? The California Chronicle, of Sept. 5., says that during the very short period for which he held his seat he introduced and advocated 'seventeen post routes and eighteen other bills for the benefit of California, a bill 'for a Pacific wagon road,' &c. He also opposed the proposition to tax mining claims, and advocated free labor; and if 'he had continued at his post, California would this day be further advanced in all the essentials of State prosperity than twenty years of Gwin and Wellerism, with all their political machinery, could bring to it.'

J. W. MOSES would call the attention of his friends, customers, and the Public in general to the fact, that he has in his store, at No. 8 Market street, a good assortment of Broadcloths, Pilot and Beaver Cloths, plain and fancy Doeskins and Cassimeres, Black and fancy Velvets, plain and figured Satins and Grenadin Vestings, &c., which he will make to order or sell either with or without cutting or making, at fair prices.

He has a large assortment of furnishing Goods, consisting of Shirts, Collars, Cravats, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs, Under-Shirts and Drawers, &c., &c.

All Garments made by him warranted to be as good as can be had in this city. The above are new Goods, having been selected with care from large Stocks in Boston, and just received. September 26. is3w

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning.

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

Great American and Foreign Office
For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,
No. 78 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Assistant Examiner of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that nearly is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in advising inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

Aug. 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. THOMAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

E. E. DYER & CO.
(Sign of the Chinaman grinding coffee.)
141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates,
Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Spices, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Tarracouts, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give consumers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1.00
5 lb Oolong "	1.75	5 lb Java "	.90
5 lb Y. Hyson "	2.25	8 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1¼ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the genuine article. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children, and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system, and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

Centennial Celebration

OF THE

INTRODUCTION OF PRINTING

INTO NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Portsmouth, Monday, Oct. 6, '56.

THE DINNER

AT JEFFERSON HALL.

Immediately after the procession was dismissed, and at the ringing of the Temple bell, all those who had tickets to the Dinner assembled at the Temple, and were escorted by the Manchester Veterans to Jefferson Hall, to dine.

The City Guards dined with the company, by invitation of the Chief Marshal and Committee. Upwards of three hundred plates were laid by the Messrs. Hadley; and every seat was occupied.

The President of the day was, of course, His Honor Mayor Jenness, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements. Vice Presidents at the Table, Ichabod Goodwin, Samuel Sheafe, Abner Greenleaf, John Laighton, C. S. Toppan, H. D. Walker.

The Committee on Toasts consisted of Messrs. Charles W. Brewster, Samuel Gray, and Frank Fuller—the latter of whom ably performed the duties of Toast Master at the Dinner. And to Dr. Fuller, in no small degree, is due the complete success of the literary feast throughout. He labored indefatigably in the cause, as he is ever ready to in all such; and he must have found ample reward in the countenance of such men as the record shows were "with" him.

After the Benediction, by the Rev. Dr. Lamson; Hon. Richard Jenness, President of the Day, made the following Address of welcome to the guests:

We welcome you, gentlemen, to our hospitalities, with feelings of the deepest gratification. Certainly no event could be more worthy of our honor than that which calls us together to-day. We read of festivities in the old world on the birth-day of Kings, but how little worthy are they, in comparison with those which celebrate the birth-day of Printing upon our shores. We wish for no monopoly of printing, but our city may well be proud of the distinction of being foremost in her patronage of the noble art. And so also has our State ever been as ready as her sisters in defending the liberty whose cause she early espoused, with the pen as well as the sword. None have ever doubted the patriotism of her soldiers or her printers; although she, more fortunate than others, can boast, we believe, that the enemy never set foot upon her shores.

The origin of Printing, its importance and its glory, have been ably set forth in the well-considered oration of to-day. I leave you, therefore, to the interchange of sentiments and civilities, which the occasion will prompt; and only add the encouraging assurance, that the career of printing, already so glorious, is yet scarcely begun, and that in the march of ages she will always appear the hand-maid of liberty—blooming as liberty herself, in immortal youth.

The guests were then requested to attend to the requirements of the inner man; after which the President introduced the Toast-Master, Dr. Frank Fuller, who proceeded to read the first regular toast:

1.—The Day we Celebrate

The blooming of the "Century Plant"—
The beauteous flower, around whose heart,
A hundred years perfected hopes,
With bright successes, crown our art.

A. R. Hatch, Esq., responded as follows:

Mr. President:—A fitting response to a sentiment so suggestive as this should be the subject of an oration,—or should fill volumes, the careful labor of studious years. It is hard to compress within the narrow compass of an after dinner speech, the ideas which come thronging on such a day as this, in such an assembly, at the call of such a sentiment.

A hundred years! But three generations of men have passed away since the waning of the year we now celebrate; and our oldest men may have seen and remember men who lived and acted in that early day of our infant state. But how wonderful the change! A feeble colony has become a great people; a subject province has taken its position in the world as a well established, well governed state, a member of a confederacy more brilliant, more active, more rich, more powerful, in proportion to numbers, more widely extended, and more free than any other nation of the world. A rugged wilderness has become the fruitful habitation of a hardy and industrious community. Cities dot the land, then scarcely redeemed from the occupation of the hunter; and numerous manufactories with their busy roar replace the echoes of the woodman's axe, and rival the rude spinning wheel and the clumsy forge. Across the swamps and among the mountains which a hundred years ago were with difficulty traversed by the adventurous horseman or crossed by the painful corduroy bridge, rail roads with the attendant telegraph now penetrate every part of the state and bring its most distant portions within the compass of a day's journey, almost within the reach of instant speech. And from a few small traders to the West Indian ports, our ships go out to every clime, gathering and transporting the wealth of the world, and gaining for our industry and skill a fame and a praise which the builders of the useless pyramids might envy. And above all and more than all, the land is dotted with school houses, and the advantages of a good education in books, in morals and in religion are extended to all and enjoyed by all.

I am not insensible that many causes have contributed to produce the astonishing growth and improvement of the last hundred years; but I believe, sir, that the use and perfection of the art of printing has been one of the most efficacious of these causes. Man alone of all the universal creation transmits from generation to generation the learning of the past. Without letters the attainments of any generation cannot exceed those of the generation immediately preceding, added to their own. The past is known only by dim and imperfect tradition, and words of wisdom, the creations of the poet and the inventions of the artizan are soon lost, for the want of the means of permanent record. With the aid of writing only, knowledge can be but imperfectly diffused. But when printing comes to our aid, all the wisdom of the past, all the learning of the present is brought within the reach of every reader, and is laid up in imperishable form for the use of succeeding generations. And by the aid of the newspaper press all the world speaks together, and the actions, the thoughts, the feelings and wants of every part of the earth are known and published in every hamlet in the land.

I need not say how much the introduction and perfection of printing has contributed to the establishment and improvement of our common schools, to the promotion of scholarship, to the dissemination of the Holy Scriptures. Nor need I suggest the advantages, praise the virtues, or condemn the license of the newspaper press. Some of these are common necessities of our civilization and religion, and every child knows their demands upon the art of the printer.

But in my estimation, we owe our free institutions, and must base our hopes of their permanence in no small degree on the labors of the printer. As men are ignorant so are they likely to be enslaved, that is well known; but perhaps we do not so readily estimate the influence of books and newspapers in dispelling local and sectional jealousies, to creating that uniformity of thought, feeling, and habit, which, being essential to union, and to a ready submission to the determination of the majority, lies at the foundation of all republican institutions. The multiplication of books and newspapers, and the reduction of price till they are within the reach of all, now daily brings each household in the nation in communication with all the rest. The views and principles of every section are understood, discussed and reduced to a common standard. Ignorance, uncouth manners, imperfect civilization can lurk in no valley so obscure, or intrench themselves in no mountain fastness so inaccessible, that the press does not find them out and banish them by the severity of its satire or the light of its truth. Every part of the nation is now thoroughly known and understood by every other, and men travel alone and unarmed in every section of the state, and I may say the Union, with the same confidence as they do in the vicinity of their own homes. Yet little more than one hundred years have passed since in Europe and to a great extent in our own country the practice of carrying arms was a universal necessity. And the reason is apparent. The habitual caution of mankind has in all days led them to regard a stranger as an enemy, and there existed in every country, while printing was yet in its infancy, hamlets and districts which still retained the ignorance and the habits of barbarism.

But now by the aid of the press, men are no longer strangers, however distant they may live, and barbarism has been driven from its stronghold, until one light and one civilization pervades the land. Hence that mutual confidence which renders arms unnecessary, and makes obedience to the laws a common necessity and a common virtue. You will pardon me if I illustrate this confidence and common obedience to law, by allusion to an incident witnessed by many of you and familiar enough to all. Last week we saw the President of the United States travelling hundreds of miles through the country, by the public conveyances, and attended only by two or three friends, until he was publicly received at our capital by thousands of men who awaited his arrival. I speak not of him in any personal sense, for he is my friend; nor politically, for as to his merits in this respect we differ greatly, but I refer to him as the holder of an office in rank and dignity in no wise inferior to any emperor, king or potentate in the world.—Yet he travelled, as I have said, almost unattended, he passed alone from the cars through the crowd to his home, and rode through the town in the midst of the people, in no wise distinguishable in dress or attendance from the multitude that surrounded him. A company or two of citizen soldiers headed the procession, indeed; but the President was attended by no armed guard, no cloud of cavalry, no parade of artillery, nor by any of the barbaric pomp and glitter which accompany the movements of the smallest of the European monarchs. Not even a single servant attended him, and he was everywhere accessible to the crowd who approached him and spoke to him as they pleased. Such things are and have been so common in this country, that they excite no remark; but the scene was to me full of instruction. I thought of the armies which precede, surround and follow the modern French despot in every progress he makes through the streets of his own capital, to protect him from the hand of the assassin, and I compared the fettered press which must speak in the most guarded terms of the Emperor when it does not praise him, with the thousand sheets which weekly speak of our Chief Magistrate with such peculiar freedom. It is to this freedom of the press, licentious and blamable though it may be in many instances, that I attribute our own freedom and his safety. And I entertained new hopes of the permanency and extension of our institutions when I reflected that modern despots feel that they can continue to hold their oppressive sceptres only in the guarded silence of a muzzled press.

But, sir, our material interests owe not less to the art of the printer, than do our educational and political institutions. I allude to but one. The merchant no longer sends his ships or his merchandise to distant seas to try the fortune of uncertain ventures.—No cargoes of warring forces are now sent to the West Indies. The newspaper and its hand-maid the telegraph, give to the merchant daily a statement of the markets of the whole ? 3rd. His goods are no longer exposed in public bazaars to invite the attention of the chance traveller, but by the newspaper he makes known to all the world what his stores contain. His business becomes thus a matter of intelligence and calculation, how he may be most useful to the world, and in the act may most enrich himself. The successful merchant now achieves greatness, it is not born with him or thrust upon him.

Sir, your "century plant" not only bears a "beauteous flower," but produces most abundant and valuable fruit.

I give you,

The Merchants of New Hampshire. They will acknowledge their obligations to the printer, to whose support they so largely contribute.

Hon. Ichabod Goodwin was called upon to respond to this toast—and in a brief but neat speech, gave the general public history of the prominent merchants of Portsmouth, who were also eminent military men—and lauded high the character of the old traders who lived on the banks of the Piscataqua. We hope to be favored with a sketch of his remarks for publication.

2.—The Press.

A Fort whose rampart is the MIND;
Whose garrison is Truth and Right;
And thought the tireless Sentinel
Upon its watch-tower's lofty height!

Hon. John Prentiss of Keene, responded as follows:

Mr. President:—To the sentiment so well expressed in the toast just read, I feel entirely incompetent to respond fittingly. 'It would be trite to speak of the great power of the Press for good or evil. What consideration has "truth and light," for instance, in the mind of the tyrant or the usurper? His first act, whether on a throne, or at the head of the infuriated mob, is to suppress it genteelly by the veill, which is law, or to make pi of the types and throw the press into the flames, or the river. Yet it is the sentinel of freedom where freedom is allowed to exist. Long may its watch-towers, armed with just "thoughts" and purity of "mind," preserve and protect our constitutional rights, ever remembering the motto of Isaiah Thomas, "The Liberty of the Press is essential to the security of Freedom." Its power for evil is also tremendous. But when in bad hands, without evidence of moral responsibility, our only remedy is for the good to frown down the bad, and cherish and encourage the competent, the just, and the true. We believe that the Press which follows mind and thought—thought, which, in the language of the beautiful Ode for this occasion, can "wring the secrets from the stars" will yet "break the manacles that bind the world."

The first newspaper published in New-Hampshire was "The New-Hampshire Gazette," at Portsmouth, October, 1756. A crow and the fox for a vignette—long primer type—half sheet of large foolscap folded into a quarto, afterward on a whole sheet of crown, at one dollar per annum, printed by Daniel Fowle. The cut of the crow and fox belonged to an edition of fables. There were no engravers, and "something ornamental" was desirable. This cut got broke accidentally, and one was substituted of Jupiter and the Peacock—emblems at the advanced stage of the Gazette of power and beauty!

The second paper was the "The Portsmouth Mercury, Jan. 21, 1765, by Thos. Furber," who soon took Ezekiel Russel as a partner. The Mercury opposed the Stamp Act. The Gazette was undecided, but finally came out in mourning on the day before the act was to go into operation, refused to use the stamp, "and made spirited observations against it." The Mercury did not survive the third year.

The third paper was published in 1775, at Exeter, by Robert Fowle. It had a changeable title—at one time "The N. H. [State] Gazette, or Exeter Circulating Morning Chronicle."

Isaiah Thomas gives a list of thirty-seven newspapers published in the Colonies at the commencement of the Revolutionary War.—Massachusetts had 7, New-Hampshire 1 (the Gazette,) Pennsylvania 9, and Virginia 2. All south of Virginia 6. Also a full list in 1810. New Hampshire then had 12, Massachusetts 32, Rhode Island 17, Connecticut 11, Vermont 14, New-York 66, New-Jersey 8, Pennsylvania 71, Delaware 2, Maryland 21, District of Columbia 6, Virginia 23, North Carolina 10, South Carolina 10, Georgia 13, Kentucky 17, Tennessee 6, Ohio 14, Indiana Ter. 1, Mississippi Ter. 4, Ter. of New-Orleans 10, Louisiana 1. Total 359. Forty-six years must have added thousands for hundreds. The next census should enumerate them, with the number of copies printed and circulated.

Think for a moment of a weekly quarto by folding a half sheet of foolscap paper, in long primer type, 100 hundred years ago, with "news from all nations,—and then of some of our city dailies, with 10 or 12 columns to the page, in brevier and nonpareil. I have a volume of the "Massachusetts Spy," by Isaiah Thomas, in Boston, printed on Mondays and Thursdays, No. 1, July 1770, to No. 65, Feb. 7, 1771. This is a quarto of "four pages," the page letter-press about 11 by 9 inches, in long primer type, advertisements and all. The advertisements rarely average four (old and new) to a number, and these very small. The Spy was after this enlarged.

As a specimen of the style and spirit of the times six years before the Declaration of Independence, I find in the Spy a dialogue between a London lawyer and the publisher of Junius Letters, in which the astonished printer is given to understand that a libel is a reflection upon persons in authority, whether true or false, and ought to be punished. The printer stoutly remonstrated. During this period, Oct. 1770, the celebrated Rev. George Whitefield died in Newburyport.

"Great Whitefield's gone, and shot his shining way
To the bright realms of everlasting day."

The Hon. Benning Wentworth, "the late worthy Governor of New-Hampshire," died in Oct. 1770, and in Nov. the trial and acquittal of the soldiers for the Boston massacre of the previous March 5th took place. There are occasional notices of events in this good and quiet town of Portsmouth. In an editorial, Mr. Thomas mentions an act of our Assembly, "for again confining the hogs of Portsmouth," as if they had been suffered to run at large—and another "for preventing tumult and disorders on Christmas days!" Up to "the middle of the 19th Century" this hog nuisance had not been abated in the great emporium of commerce.

I had but a slight acquaintance with Mr. Melcher, who so long published the old Gazette, but an intimate one with Mr. Charles Pierce, who established the Portsmouth Oracle—now the Journal, and spent a very pleasant evening with him at his residence in Philadelphia, a short time before his death. He was very successful as a bookseller. My old friend, the late Major Larkin used to amuse himself by reciting some of his friend's quaint advertisements. I well remember Mr. Bragg, publisher of the Dover Sun, and of the second edition of Belknap's History of New-Hampshire. Father Hough, I believe, was considered the patriarch of the Concord printers. An excellent man, but too moderate and precise to keep up with his more enterprising neighbors. In his day, and even during mine of business life, there was no boasting, as now, of newspaper circulations of 173 000 weekly, and 100,000 of a monthly magazine. Mr. Hill of Concord was a man of persevering industry and enterprise, and very successful until he entered public life.—For many years a very large proportion of the composition at the case for his paper was his own, and when not engaged there with his fingers, these indispensables were grasping the quill to record the musings, wise or unwise, but always with effect, of his prolific brain.—The late Mr. Cushing of Baltimore was, I believe, the immediate predecessor of the living "Father Boylston," as we old fellows are often designated. Mr. C. as a bookseller, accumulated a handsome estate, and was honored with public confidence in the city of his residence. I will speak of one more veteran printer, Mr. Carlisle, of the firm of Thomas & Carlisle, publishers of the Farmer's Museum at Walpole. Under the editorial care of that chaste and accomplished writer, Joseph Dennie, afterwards editor of the Portfolio, that paper obtained a very large circulation.

I knew well, and had acquaintance with, many years before their deaths, two of the veteran printers and editors in Massachusetts, Isaiah Thomas (who printed the first editions, folio, octavo and 12mo of the Bible in the U. States,) and Benjamin Russell, (whose first paper in Boston was a quarto;) and I well remember the venerable Benjamin Edes, who continued to publish the Boston Gazette until about the year 1793. He and Isaiah Thomas were great spokes in the revolutionary wheel,—also Richard Draper, of extensive firms which had long ceased to flourish. He was a journeyman in the old Chronicle office, where I was an apprentice in 1792, then an old man. The boys used to quiz him, but could never make what was called a sell. He was too old for them.—At that time the paper did not get to press until 12 or 1 o'clock; for Honestus, (Hon. Benj. Austin,) or Dr. Jarvis, (one of the best orators then in Boston,) would bring in capital paragraphs at 10 and 11 o'clock, with a "must go in." Draper, scarcely five feet high, but very dignified in the street with his large cocked hat, knee and shoe buckles, had to beat or pull off the edition at the Ramage press, two pulls to the sheet. His daughter always came with his coffee and toast about daylight, and I shall never forget how good a cup, which he often shared me, relished—for my duty, as the youngest, was to take off the sheets and fold them.—Russell's "Columbian Centinel," which he most ably conducted over forty years, was a strong advocate of the Constitution; and I well remember, in 1788, his file of pillars, each having the name of one of the States, partly erect, as each State had adopted the Constitution; others partially lifted, as the prospect brightened; and others, again, flat, with little hope. Finally even Rhode Island and North Carolina stood up and completed the phalanx of States.

Nearly all the improvements in Printing are the work of the present century. Previously, our types were from the foundries of Fry and Carlon in London, and the only question seemed to be, which was to be preferred. We had a small job press in the old Chronicle office, with a stone platen, which by twice turning the rounce, enabled us to give an impression of the whole sheet at one pull. Then came the iron-framed, lever presses—a great improvement; then Treadwell's power press, something very wonderful, and for a long time a secret operation—wonderful that other than elbow power could ever be applied. In large establishments every thing has now given way to steam; and the multiplication of copies at the rate of 250 to 300 per hour, 50 years ago, has now reached, through the most modern but expensive machines, 15,000 an hour, with 8 cylinders.—Messrs. Hoe & Co. have now orders from the London Times, and two or three other offices in that city, (says the account) for presses with 10 cylinders, which will probably increase the copies to 18,000 per hour. The best press of English contrivance, used by the Times, gave but 11,000 per hour, with 27 men to tend it, while Hoe's, with but 6 cylenders, gives 15,000, with but 7 or 8 men to tend it. So much for Yankee enterprise in this department alone. But little or no improvement had been made since Franklin was an apprentice, for seventy years, and until the present century.

It may not be amiss to speak of the Press in Cheshire County, then embracing also Sullivan. The first paper was the N. H. Recorder, by James W. Griffith, about 1790; next the Columbian Informer, by Henry Blake, and afterwards by Wm. Ward Blake; then the Rising Sun, by Cornelius Sturtevant. In 1799, then just 21 years of age, I commenced the N. H. Sentinel, with only 70 actual subscribers! I purchased on short credit the old miserable press and old types, a few reams of paper, and with a five dollar bill of the Union Bank, only, for cash capital, launched my little bark. The lawyer of the man of whom I purchased brought his client to acquiesce in this arrangement. I could give no security—(the amount about $250.) The lawyer prepared, and it was so executed—three notes were given, payable at different periods, with this endorsement, "this note note not to be sued unless there is evident danger of losing it!" I took an apprentice, and in a few weeks discharged a journeyman, and carried on the paper with vastly greater economy than even our railroads are conducted or Uncle Sam's affairs at Washington at the present day. In two years, by counting a new coat on the side of stock and accounts due, my debtor side was about balanced. The third year I got credit of C & S. Larkin, (the junior was that excellent man, so well-known, Maj. Larkin of Portsmouth,) for a Havana sugar-box full of books, on commission, with some paper, quills, &c., fixed up a dozen short shelves in one corner of the office, and the next week advertised for sale at the "Keene Bookstore," "A General Assortment of Books and Stationery!" I made the first payment before it became due, and established a credit which was afterwards very advantageous. I began to be quite enterprising. The fourth year I doubled the value of my estate by publishing a flat 12mo. edition of Watts' Psalms and Hymns. Excellent bartering stock it proved to be, for I have a memorial in a then old eight-day family clock that keeps passing good time even now.

For 48 years, for good or for evil, I dictated the contents of my weekly sheet, and the volumes from 1799 to 1851 are safely packed away in the garret receptacle of the obsolete, but sometimes useful to establish dates, and as a record of events. During the whole period of 48 years, unless when on journeys, I made up the matter from the galleys, never having been detained by indisposition scarcely a week during the whole period.

Let me give as a sentiment—

"Father Boylston"—as he is familiarly called—industrious and exemplary. He has his just reward, and is a living exemplification of a gospel truth, that "Whomsoever hath to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance."

Mr. Boylston said:

Mr. President,—I really had no intimation or expectation, when I came to celebrate the Centennial of the first introduction of the Art of Printing into the town of Portsmouth and into this State, of being "set up" and "making up" a speech! Why, sir, printers seldom or ever make speeches; they having a better way of making themselves heard—by letting off from the sharp point of their pen, "thoughts that breathe and words that burn." Why, Mr. President, when thus called upon, I feel like the man who would not speak because he had left his speech at home. But I am in a worse condition, for I had no speech to bring, or thoughts digested, to breathe out the true feelings of my soul on this happy and auspicious occasion. I feel more, sir, like unto an old battered and worn out type, accidentally "thrown into" a case of shining new type, as expecting rather to be set aside for the pi box. But, Mr. President, when I heard you and my brother Prentiss, as also others, call me father B., as from my age a father of the craft, why, sir, I could not but desire to say a few words to the likely boys here this evening, giving the clearest intimations that they are worthy of a paternity of a higher standing in the busy scenes of this eventful life. Such a progeny any man may be proud of. Why, sir, if "Knowledge is power," where will you find more useful and extended information than is contained in the knowledge-boxes which stand here congregated on the shoulders of the sturdy printers present in this hall. "Intelligence is the life of liberty"—and where can you find a company of men of any profession who give more evidence of an enlightened intelligence, and who are more in favor of liberty, and more capable and ready to advocate its full enjoyment to all classes of humanity—who will ever pledge all their power, influence and sacred honor to maintain and defend the liberty of free speech, a free press, free men and free women.

The importance and wonderful progress of improvement in the Press, its paramount influence upon the minds of men, and the light it affords in elucidating and promoting all the other arts, has been fully and happily set forth by those who have preceded me.

How important to the world, then, is the Art of Printing, and how great is the responsibility of those who conduct its operation.—They are said to exert an influence upon the minds of men beyond that of any other profession. Let us, then, brethren of the craft, feel what manner of persons we ought to be, when so much responsibility rests upon us. And let us be actuated by right principles in the discharge of our duties. Let the younger members of our profession be sure that they are right, in adopting the views of others.—Let them follow the examples of Franklin and other worthies of the craft; act well their part, and they may always hope for success, prosperity and good repute in their profession.

4.—The Literary Emporium of New England.

Though Boston claims a Common wide and fair,
With eager hand she grasps New Hampshire's
FIELDS,
With her New Hampshire's Sons are proud to share,
The fruits the genial soil so freely yields.

Jas. T. Fields, Esq., had intended to be present and respond to this; but was unavoidably kept away. We hope to receive his rhymes for publication with the other matter.

3.—The Memory of Washington.

A brilliant Star it rose, above the ashes of the noble dead,
And lights the path where duty's feet in stainless beauty tread.

W. H. Y. Hackett, Esq., said:

It is easier to respond in feeling than in language to the sentiment now announced. The character of Washington is as much above the reach of praise, as of censure.—Just in proportion as a character answers our ideal of what it should be, is the difficulty of describing it increased. It, in the same proportion, is wanting in those abrupt features which mark and mar so many prominent men of the world. The steps which "in stainless beauty tread," have no jagged foot prints.

The great feature of character in which Washington differed from other great men, and, in differing, excelled them, was in unswerving confidence in the power and protection of rightly discharged duty. He believed, not as a speculative opinion merely, but as a guiding principle, that out of the path of duty there was no safety, in it no danger. It was this conviction, shaping his daily conduct, which sustained him in the trials of war and in the temptations of power. He became illustrious by simply doing his duty.

Such a celebration as this, naturally calls up the name of Washington and his associates. The establishment of a free press here and elsewhere performed and presaged the triumph of popular rights; was the herald and the cause of the revolution.

In speaking of the Revolution and of Washington, I am reminded that this occasion is honored by the presence of Veterans, who wear his uniform, and who come to us from the home and grave of STARK, one of his compatriots. Such a citizen soldiery can exist only as component part of a free people.

Mr. Hackett concluded by offering the following sentiment:

Health and Happiness to the Manchester Veterans, who not only wear the uniform, but uphold the principles of Washington.

Col. C. E. Potter responded, for the Veterans—and made a very interesting, appropriate and patriotic speech—a copy of which we trust to receive.

5.—Benjamin Franklin.

His name the Lightning writes upon its scroll!
The years repeat it as they onward roll.
A nation's heart it animates and thrills,
'Tis everlasting as our Granite Hills!

Rev. Mr. Whiting, of this city, responded:

Mr. President:—It has struck me as a noticeable peculiarity of our, as yet, unhistoric country, that the germs of its distinction among the nations, should be so vitally connected with a few famed names.

Its civil and military fame unites in Washington; its political, in such names as Jefferson, Adams and Hamilton, and its crowning national honor,—the popular diffusion of knowledge through the Press,—in Benjamin Franklin.

The sentiment before us, sir: directs attention mainly to two features of this great Printer's character—his crowning scientific achievments;—the electrical guidance;—the other—the nationality of his fame. By the first, the fruit of that thoughtful observation, and use of his own eyes,—so characteristic of him through life,—a beneficent invention was given to the world. The bit once in the mouth of the fiery bolt,—all men felt safer,—human life rose in value,—the terror of the summer sky was practically dispelled, for a shield was interposed between man and the fiery chambers over his head.

"His name the lightning writes,"—says the sentiment. May I add,—partly in borrowed thought,—his name is proclaimed in the ears of men, by every thunder peal; for he discovered how to make harmless to the abodes of men—from palace to hut—the fiery flash that heralds the peal.

Of the other point,—the nation-wide fame he gained,—let me say; the growth of it, had a striking singularity,—in that it was in such distinct stages. He came into positions, which, when reached, seemed final, but which proved to be only preparations to higher places in the same spheres. As very few men have done, he rose by steps. In boyhood an editor, and so early a planting in business promised to make it life-long; then without violent cause he quits the constrained position in Boston, and on a wider field begins in Philadelphia, a new career,—carrying the Northern grit to the then Southern metropolis, for a finish New England could not then afford.

By a foul fraud he is sent off to London, and in the humble life of a printer's journeyman, learned how from the lowest classes, the highest ranks appeared. He is home again. Troubles develope his powers there more fully, and soon send him commissioner for the Colony of Pennsylvania back again to London. He is now put to the school of diplomacy on a small scale. His mission succeeds. He returns to prove by a little more home service the justness of the praise bestowed upon his foreign. Other troubles send him again to England as agent or co in missioner, and instead of one state's affairs, four colonies; and remarkable is it, Georgia and his native Massachusetts, the extreme colonies of the country, now unite in this choice of him, to serve them there.

After eleven years service there the vastly higher, and to his nation, more vital trust, of winning France to an alliance with us against Great Britain, is given into his care. How well he accomplished this, the world knows. His philosophic works and signal wisdom in common things gave him such a private fame, that it is said, before he had been two years there, he could scarce make a request for his nation the admiring French Court would refuse. The utmost skill was needed to carry on this business, for Lord Stormoret, British Ambassador, shaking his fist, threatened to demand his passports if the negotiations proceeded,—and if my memory serves, he did, not long after, angrily withdraw from all intercourse with a government that was treating with rebels against his own.

About thirty millions of francs was by Franklin obtained for our government, and the other aids also which determined our national independence.

Thus step by step, from smaller spheres to larger, his life and fame progressed until he was doubtless the most widely known and honored American then living. He came home, worn out and crowned with honors as with years, and sits down to frame his last will and testament,—and thus significantly it opened—

"I Benjamin Franklin, Printer,"—this the name of his dear old trade, his boyhood's craft, and old man's pastime, he sets first, as the topmost honor he can have. PRINTER, and then "late Minister Plenipotentiary, &c."

Mr. President: It was my fortune to reach the city of Berlin, Germany, a few days after the inauguration of the Equestrian Statue of Frederick II. which with its elevation, is one of the largest and most elaborate bronze castings in Europe.

Above its base, the then effulgent pile rose in three sections or stories, the two lower ones of four entablatures each; the lowest with mounted heroes on either corner, and the panels covered with generals and warmen in various relief. The other section was likewise filled with the famed heroes of Germanic warfare, and the whole surmounted by the great Emperor in armor; all the adornments were insignia of war,—and its entire suggestion, as it glittered in the sun, in the center of their grand Unter Linden,—was, that the paths to fame in this nation are through the battle field—the glory we enshrine in statues, is the glory won in shedding human blood.

Sir, a few days ago, was unveiled in the center of yon peaceful city, New England's metropolis, another statue, not of a man of war, but of a once humble Printer; and it proclaims to resident and visitor the paths to fame in this land, may begin in the art that gathers and disperses the wisdom of men, and the knowledge which blesses mankind.

With an eye fixed upon that statue of the world-famed "Benjamin Franklin, Printer," permit me, Sir, to sit down, after leaving before the noble figure the words of an antique poet addressed to one of sacred fame—

"Himself a MOVER OF MIND, whose shadow creeps
Serenely down, through times remotest deeps."

6.—The City of Manchester.

'Mid the whirl of the spindle, the hum of the loom,
By mountain and valley, in hovel and hall,
May the "still small voice" of the Press be heard,
And nerve every heart like a clarion-call.

Dr. Hubbard, of Manchester, was called up, and responded in a humorous and happy manner—expressing his attachment to New Hampshire's busiest city, and his satisfaction that she was able to send so respectable a delegation to join in the festivities of the present notable occasion.

7.—Daniel Fowle.

He wore no victor's crown—he won no world-wide fame,
Yet on a hundred years has stamped a worthy name.

Rev. T. H. Miller, of the Chronicle, responded as follows:

The memory of Daniel Fowle—I remember him very well—not that I ever saw him; but that many of his works are visible; and that I have known some who knew him well; and from these sources suppose I have a good knowledge of his character, which may be thus summed up in few words:

Daniel Fowle was a correct compositor and accurate proof-reader, an excellent pressman, an honest man and kind master, and above all, a lover of liberty, earnestly defending his own rights and those of others.

It was my privilege to work for a few years in an office owned by an apprentice of his, viz.: John Melcher, to whom, by will, or otherwise, his business and property were conveyed, as Fowle left no children, and as his wife died before him. This property was encumbered only with the support of Old Prime, the negro pressman, who was to be maintained as long as he lived. He lived long, viz., to 90 years; and the stipulation for his maintainance was, as I believe, faithfully performed. Prime, as we have heard, never knew his letters,—yet he was a prime pressman, not only in name, but in good workmanship.

Mr. Melcher has often said, Young man, I should be ashamed of such presswork as this: a negur, who did not know a letter in a book, has done better.

I remember old Prime as well as his master Fowle, and in the same way, because I have known many who knew him. My mother,—(who went to school in Market street to Dearborn the printer, who was jack at all trades and good at all)—has often seen Prime sunning himself on the door steps, when the boys would offer him a copper to stand upright,—a thing quite impossible as he was bowed down with his face to the earth. His grimaces and efforts, however, (to the credit of the boys be it said,) were usually rewarded by the copper. If I were to close my remarks by offering a toast (as I shall not)—I should give the memory of old Prime. But I design to speak of the other assistant, John Melcher.

He was shrewd, systematic, economical, exact even in the smallest matters—yet as a clue to his true character let me say that when he used to send me on an errand, if he took me from a stint, he would always take my stick, and set up as much matter as I should have set, and a little more, always without an error, and always marking the copy where he left off. I infer that he who would not defraud a boy of a single line or a single moment, would be no less faithful to a large trust—as he that is faithful in little will also be faithful in much.

John Melcher was, like Fowle, a good workman at press and case, and as a proof reader, careful and accurate. He was also, like him, a good writer, though he was not fond of writing much: but when he wished to record a passing event, no man could do it more clearly, in fewer or simpler words: and when he wished to discharge a political equib, five or ten lines were commonly his limits.

Perhaps from his example rather than any precept, I learned to write short paragraphs; and I have also learned elsewhere, to make short speeches.

8.—The Poets of Portsmouth.

Like rivers of peace that brighten and bless,
Their music shall pulse through the heart of the Press,
'Mid rural haunts and city spires;
And whether they sing at home or abroad,
May their strains go up to the ear of God,
And win a blessing on their lyres.

Chas. W. Brewster, Esq., responded with the following Poem, which at his request were read by the Toast-Master.

THE POETS OF PORTSMOUTH.

To the 8th Regular Toast at the Printing Celebration in Portsmouth, "The Poets of Portsmouth," the following response was made

BY CHARLES W. BREWSTER.

To such a toast responds no gifted bard;
Rest ring, modest—'tis a task too hard
For true poetic fire to stand before ye
And say—"I'm one you've covered o'er with glory!"
Therefore one rises never yet suspected
With the poetic fever deep infected.

We're in a region born where Minstrels rove
Beside the noble river, through the grove
Where varying landscapes lure from earth away,
Leading the thoughts mid scenes of brighter day—
Where fancy free her airy chariot guides,
Or on Pegasus with loose bridle rides.

With early wanderers in etherial flight
See SAWALL stands, the truthful and upright!
His fame immortal from the simple line
That with its Washington shall last all time:
"His Epitaph—What can in praise be said?
"His name alone strikes every title dead."

Or in that verse which greets our nation's ears,
And more in force increases with our years—
"No pent-up Utica contracts our powers,
"But the whole boundless continent is ours."
Such gave our fathers patriotic fire—
And its bright blaze their children still inspire.

A TAPPAN too here inspiration caught
Which after years its pile of tomes has wrought;
And here a BARTLETT, with his comic gaze
Has in "the Pilot" defined his fellows' ways:
Here too a RICHARDS sought the kindling flame
And gave to poetry an honored name.

LAMSON BECK, whose early genius brought
From fancy's realms the purest gems of thought;
And SWAYNE, beaming with the love of truth,
Too strong confiding on mortal worth;
And KENNARD, whose bright poetic fire
More vig'rous burned as anguish touched the lyre.

Of modern poets might far more be said,
Were they, like Sewall, resting with the dead.
Our HAYENS could be shown, whose waters clear
As crystal, beam with treasures anchored there.
Also our FIELDS, where plants in rich supply
Take root on earth, and rest upon the sky.

Garnered in BARNES our sheaves of richest wheat,
While "Creeping Grass" the eyes of ROBERTS meet.
In flowing numbers which the art combines
None more more true than WHEELWRIGHT in his lines.
And MOSES from his bulrush ark comes forth—
Counts nature rich, the soul of greater worth.

The muse's inspiration unconfined
Reaches the desk, and moves the exalted mind:
In stirring numbers BURNHAMS tunes the lyre,
Touched by a coal from off the sacred fire.
Hear ADAMS sweet harmonious strains prolong
When native scenes inspire the noble song.

In modest garb, unknown to public gaze
Retiring SIMES has claims for chastest lays;—
A WHITON holds a pen which fancies turn
In words which sweetly breathe and brightly burn:
And KNIGHTS of a new order here arise
Who tilt the lance in conquest for the skies.

See DROWN, like Milton in a lingering night,
In body, not in mind, deprived of light,
With active pen send on their winged way
The gems of thought bright as the solar ray:
And SHILLABER, whose rhymes in rapture wrought,
Within this locale found the birth of thought.

The peak of "Southwain's Hill" will never fail
To point the MOSSELL which adorns a tale;
From the bright anvil of a silver lyre
The SMITH sends forth the scintillating fire.
Her early days MCCLINTOCK'S verse has graced,
While in the crystals SALTER lines are traced.

Long at "the beautiful" celestial "gate,"
Patient may the angelic KIMBALL wait—
The chords of love weave in a not-work strong,
And be our pride, as our delight, her song.
Long in our sight may the fair "Elsie" lie,
And ever "Brightly beam the Summer sky."

While humbly breathes "the Pauper's Prayer" so meek,
Feel you that "Heart Throb," and the warm pulse beat
As LAVERTON'S genius "Northern Lights" do show,
While on to fame he leads immortal "Joe!"
A "Midnight voice" its cheering accents spread,
And his poetic springs from his "Found Dead."

Here too a glowing star see ALDRICH rise—
With lightning flash he spreads to Southern skies—
A "Daisy's Necklace" round his neck he bears,
As "Chimes of Bells" ring in his riper years.
But we must stop, though FULLER verse demand
A meed of higher praise than we command.

9.—The Author and the Printer.

Though the golden coinage droppeth from the mint of mind and heart,
Yet the currency is valueless without the Printer's art;
He plucks the radient flowers of thought, he binds the scattered sheaves,
And twines about the brow of man the wreath that genius weaves.

Rev. Dr. Bouton, of Concord, President of the New Hampshire Historical Society, was expected to have been present to respond to this toast—but was unable to attend.

10.—Our Public Schools.

The "Mammoth Cave" of knowledge, deep and grand,
Reveals its wealth alike to rich and poor;
The Press hath placed a torch in every hand,
To light the glorious mysteries they explore;
And faithful guides conduct each traveller-band
Unfaltering across its thought-tracked floor.

T. G. Senter, Esq., responded as follows:

Mr. President:—While fully appreciating the high compliment in being called upon for a response to the sentiment just read, I feel myself inadequate to do justice to the subject.

That the school system established by our Puritan fathers has been of incalculable moment in elevating New England to her high position among the sister states of our confederacy, and in moulding the popular sentiment of the day, I presume none will deny. With the torch of intelligence, which a free and judicious press has placed in the hands of devoted guides to unfold the budding flowers, New England has not only seen the flowers; but in the brilliant galaxy of illustrious names enrolled on the pages of our nation's history, in letters; in science and art; in politics and religion; she has enjoyed the full fruition of the hopes of the prophetic eyed founders of our colonies.

With free schools and a free press, there must of necessity be a free people.

Our people happily realize this truth, and hence no subject calls more attention and larger expenditures than that of properly educating the rising generation; and while this shall be the popular sentiment, with a free press in the hands of true patriots; and free schools in the hands of judicious teachers, our country free from the fetters of superstition, and armed against the wiles of demagogues, must continue to advance in moral, intellectual and political grandeur.

11.—Our Orator.

Long may his tireless pen in language robe,
Thoughts which the Press shall scatter o'er the globe.

Rev. Dr. Peabody was prevented, by an engagement made long previous, from being present to reply.

12.—Our Poet.

In his heart-uttered rhymings most happily blend,
The jests of the wit with the truth of the friend;
And many and many a year may it be,
Ere he makes his last "essex" with good Mistress P.

B. P. Shillaber, Esq. of Boston, responded:

Mr. President: I am forced into a very delicate corner, in thus being compelled to admit, by responding, the charge of being a poet, brought against me by the sentiment. It does not leave me the usual privilege of a criminal, who is held to be innocent until he is proved guilty. In the absence of any thing better, I will read to you what may be the original of the "Beggar's Petition," which you may remember was written about one hundred years ago:

THE BEGGAR'S PETITION.

In response to the toast, "The Poet of the Day," the following was read by

BY B. P. SHILLABER.

Pity the folly of a dull old type,
Whose fate has brought him to your festive door;
Whose wit is dwindled to the thinnest stripe:
Oh let him down and save yourselves a bore.

These prosy rhymes my poverty bespeak;
Three rapid nothings show my lengthened ears,
And standing here requires all the cheek
That I have gained in all my many years.

You house erected on the rising ground,*
I should have looked in sooner for than here;
For there, by right, a nook I could have found,
And not been left thus stupid to appear.

Hard is the fate of the infernal poor!
There as I looked, and craved a bit to wait,
The cars swept on, and, vanished Christian Shore,
Brought me a trembling stranger to your gate.

A little fun my humble lot did crown,
And some at times have smiled at what I've writ;
But ah! reflection forces me to own
I can't see what they laughed at no'er a bit.

My brass, supporter of my early age,
Has quite deserted me in this my home;
A wrong font letter in this perfect page,
My thought in scanty poverty must roam.

My tender Muse! both wings in crippled state,
No buoyancy to my endeavor yields;
And hobbling on I bow to sovereign Fate,
Who's transferred Fancy's wealth to other FIELDS.

Heaven sends misfortunes, why should we repine?
The Doctor calls upon me here you see,
And your affliction's greater for thine mine,
While listening to my rhymed misery.

Pity the folly of the poor old type,
And save him from his whirl of anxious fears;
Let him retire, in peace to smoke his pipe,
And he'll come back another hundred years.

*Portsmouth Alms-House.

Before closing, allow me to give as a sentiment—

The Memory of Prime Fowle. The black press man who aided in disseminating light—literally light from darkness—without knowing the value of the work he did—may he, in a fairer world, be blessed with the light denied him in this.

13.—Our Country.

She stands a Queen among the nations of the Earth,
She stretches out her hand to aid and bless;
Upon her soil dear freedom had its birth,
The parent of our rights—the guardian of the Press!

Rev. Dr. Burroughs, of this city, it was hoped would be in attendance to respond to this—but a letter received by the Committee a day or two previous, stated his regret that engagements abroad would prevent.

At the conclusion of the regular toasts and responses, His Honor the Mayor spoke as follows:

"Old Strawberry Bank" receives your compliments and civilities, gentlemen, with the greatest satisfaction. Like an old beauty, she is not a whit the less vain that she is of a rather "uncertain age." She may be a little boastful of her natural and acquired graces, and you will all allow that she has reason to be proud of her relations, when she sees her sister cities all thriving and well settled, and, if the truth must be told, as vain as herself; some upon the branches of streams, which, like perpetual gossip, are always telling the story of their wealth and importance. There is Concord, our capital, pointing to her State House and her Merrimac; Manchester to her Falls, her Mills and her "Veterans"; Dover to her Cocheco and her Prints; Exeter to her Institution of Learning—these and many more lovely and busy towns are as ready as their elder sister, "Strawberry Bank," to display their excellencies. Some may be richer than she; some more endowed by nature; some with similar historical recollections; but, after all, they all belong to the same family, and all have reason to be proud of each other as well as of themselves. Each and all may join in the celebration of this day, for Printing is the universal Art, which is best rewarded when the whole people comprehend its value. As for Portsmouth, like a "Strawberry Bank," she considers her honors free pickings for all, and she is truly glad if there are any who can get a basket full.

The Mayor concluded with the following sentiment:

Franklin and the Art of Printing—As the way-worn traveller rejoices when he come to the mile-post, and pleased with the ground he has gained, scarcely remembers the weary paces he has trodden, so in the march of ages we hail such men as Franklin, who stand as everlasting memorials of the progress we have made in our advance toward the possession of knowledge.

Mr. Fuller of the Gazette, in responding to a toast to the New Hampshire Gazette, expressed his regret that some of the older publishers had not been called upon, and alluded in complimentary terms to Gideon Beck, and the senior publishers, Greenleaf, Moses, Laighton, Hill and Rundlett. Allusion was also made to Fathers Boylston and Prentiss, veterans of the art in New Hampshire. Mr. Fuller concluded with the following sentiment:

The Rev. Dr. Burroughs of Portsmouth—A patron of literature and art, an extensive and valued contributor to the press, whose universal learning and antiquarian researches would have greatly enriched this anniversary; we deeply regret his absence, and hope he may be long be spared, a monument and a blessing to society.

Mr. Greenleaf was then called on by the President.

Mr. G. observed that he had not contemplated making any remarks at all; but, by way of response to an allusion to himself as a former editor of the N. H. Gazette, by his friend the present editor and publisher of that paper, Mr Fuller, he must put in his disclaimer to the rank of an editor. It was true that he had written much for the Gazette; and for a period of nearly twenty years, with an intermission of two years, he had been a pretty constant and gratuitous contributor of editorials. He never was a sharer in any of the emoluments of the press, but was merely a sort of amateur, never having owned, as a sailor would say, "a timber-head" in any printing establishment. His connection with the press, therefore, was in some sense the result of accident, and his productions merely fugitive pieces, got up on the spur of the moment, and of course like himself rough hewn, leaving entirely to abler and more learned heads the refinements of periodical literature. His early education was limited to a common school, and terminated before he was twelve years of age. He was not even a printer, being "trained" not to the composing stick, but "to the hammer." But education was the business of a whole life—never "finished," whatever young and flippant "graduates" may think to the contrary, until life terminates. Whether any of the productions of his pen had ever been or would be of any advantage to mankind, was a problem he could not solve. They had served to employ his time after the arduous labors of the day were over, and often extended into midnight hours, that perhaps might otherwise have been worse employed. He had said he was no printer, but asked leave to offer a sentiment in allusion to an eminent member of the profession whose memory was cherished by every American.

Benjamin Franklin.—The Printers boy, the working mechanic, the self disciplined student, the profound Philosopher, the exalted Statesman, the first resident minister of the United States to the Court of St. Cloud pending our Revolution. In all these positions he eminently excelled. His theological tenets have been variously represented, but whatever they were, no one can doubt the purity of the heart that entertained them, who has read "the parable of Abraham and the Stranger." "And God said, have I borne with him these hundred ninety and eight years, and clothed him, notwithstanding his rebellion against me; and couldst not thou, that art thyself a sinner, bear with him one night."

Mr G. then offered and read, by request, the following "Song written by Dr. Franklin in honor of his wife," which he had found in a volume of old newspapers published some half century ago.

A Song written by the celebrated Dr. Franklin in honor of his wife.

Of your Chloes and Phillisses poets may prate;
I sing of my plain country Joan,
Now twelve years my wife, still the joy of my life,—
Blessed the day that I made her my own!

Not a word of her shape, her face or her eyes,
Of a flames or of darts shall you hear;
Though I beauty admire, 'tis virtue I prize,
For it fades not in seventy years.

With peace and good humor my household she guides,
Right careful to save what I gain,
Yet cheerful attends, and smiles on my friends
Whom with pleasure I oft entertain.

In health a companion delightful and dear,
Still easy, engaging and free,
In sickness no less than the tenderest nurse,
She's tender as tender can be.

She defends my good name, e'en when I'm to blame,
Friend firmer to man ne'er was given;
Her compassionate breast feels for all the distress'd,
Which draws down new blessings from Heaven.

Some faults we have all—and so may my Joan,
But then they're exceedingly small;
And now I'm used to them, they're so like my own,
I can scarcely discern them at all.

Was the fairest young princess, with millions in purse,
To be had in exchange for my Joan,
She could not be a better, she might be a worse,
So I'd e'en be content with my own.

Dr. Frank Fuller was loudly and repeatedly called for—but declined making a speech, on account of the lateness of the hour. We hope to have a sketch of his remarks for publication.

Owing to the loss of time in the morning, Dinner was served about four o'clock; and many gentlemen who had made arrangements to take the cars for Boston at five, were obliged to leave the table before the literary exercises were completed—which circumstances interrupted and somewhat curtailed "the feast of reason."

We shall in a day or two publish the remarks of other speakers, with letters, toasts, &c.,—to make the report complete.

The following letters, toasts, resolutions, &c. were received by the Committee of Invitation.

FROM HON. EDWARD EVERETT.

BOSTON, Sept 29 1856.

Dear Sir—Your favor the 26th reached me on Saturday. I am much indebted to the committee for their kind invitation to attend the Celebration of the 6th of October. It would afford me the greatest pleasure to unite with you in the celebration of so memorable an event as the introduction of Printing into New Hampshire. Not to mention the other attractions of the day, I should delight to listen to Dr Peabody on the topics suggested by such an anniversary. I much regret that an engagement of earlier standing in Boston compels me to forego the gratification.

Should a convenient opportunity present itself, I venture to request you to offer the subjoined toast to the company on my behalf

I remain, Dear Sir, with much respect, very truly yours, EDWARD EVERETT.

The Press.—All powerful in its influence—may it be ever guided by Truth, raised above the sphere of party and sect, animated by enlightened patriotism, warmed by pure benevolence, and consecrated to the cause of civil and religious Freedom throughout the World.

FROM HON. R. C. WINTHROP.

BOSTON, Oct. 4. 1856.

Gentlemen:—Absence from home for ten days past, has prevented me from acknowledging your obliging invitation to the Jubilee of the New Hampshire Printers. I am greatly honored in being remembered on the occasion, and regret extremely that it is not in my power to be present. I regret, also, that, at this late moment, I can have no hope of my answer reaching you seasonably, except by confining it to the briefest and simplest expression of my gratitude for the invitation, and of my deep sense of the interesting character of the occasion.

I am, gentlemen, very respectfully,
Your obliged and obedient servant,
R. C. WINTHROP.

FROM HON. LEWIS CASS.

DETROIT, Sept. 29, 1856.

Gentlemen—I thank you for the invitation to attend the Centennial Celebration of the introduction of Printing into New Hampshire on the 6th October. I should be happy to be with you upon that interesting occasion, but it is out of my power, for I cannot leave the State at present.

I am Gentlemen, respectfully yours,
L. CASS

FROM DR. O. W. HOLMES.

BOSTON Sept 30, 1856.

My Dear Sir:—I could not help borrowing Mistress Ford's language on receiving the fat knight's epistle, when I got your printed invitation—

"I warrant he hath a thousand of these letters, writ with blank space for different names—for he cares not what he puts into the press."—

But when I read the appeal addressed to myself as an individual, and embellished with your own authentic autograph, I felt the urgency of the invitation, and as I could not conveniently come in person I would not be satisfied without sending you my best wishes in behalf of your Celebration, taking my hint from the words of your programme.

May the only faults found, be that the procession is too long and the oration is too short; may the dinner be hot and the ball-room cool; and may the other festivities unite the temperance of Maine to the hospitality of New Hampshire!

Yours very truly,
O. W. HOLMES.

FROM REV. JOHN G. ADAMS.

WORCESTER, Oct. 3, 1856.

To the Committee of Arrangements for the Centennial Celebration of the Introduction of the Art of Printing into New Hampshire:

Gentlemen:—Accept my most hearty thanks for your cordial and earnest invitation for me to be with you at the time of your celebration on the 6th inst. In consequence of professional engagements at home on the Sabbath, it will be impracticable for me to reach you in season to join in your festivities on Monday. Allow me, then, to send a letter—and my heart with it.

I have an interest in this occasion because of the place in which it is observed. Portsmouth is my first home, ever sacred in my memories of the past, and doubly precious to me in what I have learned since I left it as a home, of the honor conferred upon it by many of its sons and daughters who were its youth when I was one of them.

I have interest in the day, too, because it commemorates the first issue of the first paper which my youthful eyes beheld—the old New Hampshire Gazette. With what a sacredness, to me, is that sheet invested! How, on each Tuesday morning did I greet it, with the well known name of its publisher, Gideon Beck, in the corner outside, and through all the years that I knew it, another well known name and advertisement in the inside corner, "S. Larkin, Auctioneer!" Its poetry, its political news, its deaths, marriages, and marine lists, its incidents and accidents—how have they interested me!—Through all its subsequent changes of publishers and editors, I have ever wished the old Gazette well. May it be "a burning and a shining light" of freedom while the world stands!

Then—my inclination to "write for the papers" was first awakened by the Portsmouth newspaper press. That gave the electric charge, I believe, and the pen has continued to run since. My first "composition" in print appeared in a Portsmouth paper. It was induced by the advice of older ones than myself, and so happened to speak of some real or supposed misdemeanors in public, as to cause certain severe censure to fall upon another who was suspected of the authorship, while I, in mercy to my youth, was shielded from harm, though not exempted from such fears as gave greater caution afterwards to my adventurous pen.

I have an interest in this occasion because of the tribute intended by it, to the press—the press of New Hampshire—the American press—the Free Press all over the world. The lords of the press are the printers. Fond as I am of good company, I have been fortunate, I have often thought, in being able—just able—to class myself with this fraternity. I had six months initiatory service in the printing office of Mr. Gibbs, afterwards so long the respectable proprietor of the Dover Gazette. It seems but a few days ago that I was bearing his Weekly Magazine about the streets of my native town, and practising type setting and ball-beating, (for the last of the ball days were then at hand), and such press-work as I could do;—all of which duty served to invest the printing office with a sacredness such as they of the craft only, I believe, can appreciate.

Permit me, then, to join with the friends in Portsmouth to-day, in this centennial tribute to the Press in New Hampshire, and to a Free Press every where out of it! The newspaper we may justly hail as one of the chief agencies in the onward march of civilization. It has followed the track of the discoverer, of the merchantman, of the missionary of the cross. It has made the morning break on shores where rested the night of barbarism and death. It has aided in opening a new world, and in giving new being to multitudes before in ignorance of themselves, and of the earthly inheritance even, to which they were born. Says Mr. Hallam, in his Constitutional History, "For almost all that keeps up in us permanently and effectually, the spirit of regard to liberty, and the public good, we must look to the unshackled and independent energies of the press;"—and our own Jefferson, "I had rather have newspapers without a government, than a government without newspapers." There should be no place in our land inaccessible to them, and to their free speech—no place where they should not be welcomed. There will be none, one day, or these watch fires of freedom, such as that set up at old "Strawberry Bank" a century ago, have been lighted in vain.

I offer you as a sentiment—

The Press of New Hampshire—May it ever be the true exponent and defender of enlightened and honest thought, Christian freedom, and the "inalienable rights" of mankind.

I am, gentlemen, your obed't serv't,
J. G. ADAMS.

FROM C. F. LIVINGSTON, ESQ.

MANCHESTER, Oct. 6 1856.

Gentlemen:—I acknowledge the receipt of your invitation to unite with the Printers of Portsmouth in the Centennial Celebration to-day, and "up to the moment of going to press," have hoped that I should be able to be with you, and added my mite to the general stock. But—I am stuck with a job that "must be got out;" so I seize the pen at the eleventh hour, to write what I had intended to speak. I wish to suggest the propriety and the fitness of having a true and perfect list, so far as it can be made true and perfect, of all the printers in the State;—I do not mean the editors and the proprietors alone, but a list of the bone and muscle, as well as pocket and brain—from foreman to devil—and have this list deposited with the Historical Society, at whose suggestion the celebration of to day has been got up. Our great-great grandfather (the "Gazette") has quite a little progeny scattered over the State, running off into the fourth, (and I am not sure but into the tenth,) generation; and I think it is due to the old gentleman, that he should be made officially and statistically acquainted with the extent, standing and condition of his family at this particular date. It is easy enough to get at the editors and the proprietors—but the editor may have an ambitious axe to grind—the proprietor may have an ambitious desire to change types into gold,—and neither of the twain have any practical knowledge of printing, or right to the title of PRINTER. A list, to be a list, should embody all connected with the art in any capacity.

I close with a sentiment to my right-hand friend and supporter—

The Devil—the little imp of blackness, redolent with ink and wit—the scape-goat for others pi, and the but for all practical jokes,—let him but grasp his own tail and he moves the world with a greater than Archimedean lever. All hail his august majesty.

Yours, with the 'click of the type in the stick,'
C. F. LIVINGSTON.

FROM ALBIN BEARD, ESQ.

Office N. H. Telegraph,
NASHUA, Oct. 2, 1856.

To the Committee of Invitation for the Printers' Centennial Celebration at Portsmouth:

Gentlemen—I have received your kind note, and its enclosure, inviting me to attend your celebration on the 6th inst. I have "set my heart," somewhat, upon attending that celebration. Since the first suggestion in relation to it, I had heartily approved of it, and had determined to attend. And it is with sincere regret, that I learn on enquiry, that it is not possible for me to arrive at Portsmouth in season to enjoy your festivities, on Monday, without being absent from home on Sunday—which my present engagements forbid. I had hoped to have enjoyed the thousand incidents and reminiscences which the occasion would be very sure to bring up, if I might not myself at all contribute to them. Having for almost a third of a century devoted my energies to the "art preservative of all arts," I confess to a deep interest in whatever relates to its past history or future prospects. It hardly seems possible that nearly one third of the time since printing was introduced into our State, has elapsed since I, who am fain to believe, am yet a very young man, I have been myself engaged in it. And in that third of the whole period the art has made more progress—ten times more—than in all the century beside. It is within my own experience, that the old "Ramage Presses," as we call them all now—in its operation just like the one which will figure in your procession—were the presses in almost universal use.—After the invention of iron presses with a single "pull," the progress was pretty rapid, but since I attained to the dignity of a journeyman printer, there was not a newspaper in Boston, which was not worked on a hand-press. I remember very well when the old wooden frame Adams Power Press—and Hibernian power at that—was introduced into the office of the Old Columbian Centinel.—Only one or two newspaper offices had then introduced them. Since then, power-presses have been ascending the scale with most astonishing rapidity, till we have presses computed to work with a velocity which I must confess, taxes my credulity somewhat. What could our publishers of to-day do with only the facilities of a quarter of the century ago? The question is suggestive, and opens into the field of the influence of the press, which I have no design to enter. I only intended to thank you for your kind invitation, and to say how sincerely I regret that railroads cannot, for this once, be made to yield to my necessity—or at least to my wishes—and have wandered away into the past, from a love I have for the things of the olden time.

If occasion serves, or if anything in the way of a sentiment may be acceptable from me, let it be this:

The Influence of the Press.—May we who wield it, whether in a large or a limited sphere, never forget the responsibilities which attach to our position, nor leave behind, "one word, which dying we shall wish to blot."

Very sincerely yours, ALBIN BEARD.

FROM REV. T. STARR KING.

BOSTON, Sept 29, 1856.

My Dear Sir—I have just time to thank you for your kind invitation, and to say that I am engaged in Vermont all next week, and so must lose the pleasure of taking a new impression of the dear old Portsmouth, on the Festival. Yours cordially,
T. S. KING.

FROM J. T. BUCKINGHAM, ESQ.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 4, 1856.

Dear Sir—I have postponed to this late date a reply to your kind letter, inviting me to attend the Celebration on Monday next, of the introduction of Printing into New Hampshire,—indulging a hope that I might be able to accept the invitation, and make a suitable acknowledgment, in person, for the courteous terms in which it was expressed. I am sorry to say that such a hope can no longer be indulged. Physical infirmities deprive me of almost every pleasure that can be derived from social intercourse, and prevent my uniting in the proposed festivities. I pray you to communicate to your colleagues on the committee my grateful acknowledgements of their kindness in remembering me in my retirement, and my sincere regret that I cannot join them in honoring the occasion with my presence.

Hoping that all your anticipations of enjoyment may become realities, I am, with sentiments of true regard, your friend, &c.
JOS. T. BUCKINGHAM.

FROM S. D. BELL, ESQ.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 23, 1856.

Gentlemen:—Your favor inviting me to be present at the Centennial Celebration of the introduction of Printing into New Hampshire, is gratefully received.

Every measure, which is calculated to revive and preserve the memory of events in our early history, has my hearty approval. The introduction of the noblest of the arts, though small in its beginning, I regard as one of the great events in our history.

I hope your celebration will furnish the occasion for a History of Printing in the State, comprising extended notices of the men, many of them among our most distinguished citizens, who have here exercised this honorable profession, and of those, who having sprung up among us, or having here received their professional education, have gone elsewhere to follow it. Those who have had connexion with this great art, as authors, editors, and publishers, might well be noticed, and as full an account as can now be obtained of all the periodical and other publications of the state might complete the work. Such a book would preserve the memory of many men and things, which ought not to be forgotten. Should such a work be undertaken, I shall be glad to be regarded as a subscriber for ten copies.

Should my health and official engagements allow of it, it would afford me great pleasure to be present at an occasion, which I earnestly hope and believe, will be one of great interest to all who attend.

Very respectfully, yours, &c.,
SAMUEL D. BELL.

FROM HIS EXCELLENCY RALPH METCALF.

NEWPORT, Sept. 29, 1856.

My Dear Sirs:—I have received your polite invitation to attend the "Centennial Celebration of the Introduction of the art of Printing into New Hampshire," to be holden at Portsmouth on the 6th of October next.

It would afford me much pleasure to visit Portsmouth on any occasion, and most particularly one important and pleasant as the one now contemplated; but my private business at the present time is requiring all my attention, and I shall not therefore be able to be present on so agreeable an occasion.

With sentiments of the highest respect, I have the pleasure to be your friend and servant,
RALPH METCALF.

FROM THE PRINTERS OF MANCHESTER.

The following resolutions were received from the Printers of Manchester:

Whereas, At a meeting of the printers of Manchester, held on the 4th inst, it was deemed expedient to give an expression of approval to our fellow craftsmen of Portsmouth for their efforts in making necessary preparations for a proper recognition of the one hundredth anniversary of the introduction of printing into New Hampshire, therefore,

Resolved, That while we highly appreciate the courteous invitation which has been extended to us to participate in the Centennial Celebration on the 6th day of October, we sincerely regret that circumstances beyond our control will prevent our attendance in a body; but as individuals we have at heart a strong desire to co-operate with other printers of the State, in doing all in our power in forwarding such measures as will reflect credit upon the disciples of Faust and do honor to the men who first introduced into the old Granite State, the "art preservative of all arts."

Resolved, That we recommend to all the members of the "craft" in this city, whose duties will admit of absence on the occasion, that they avail themselves of this opportunity to show a just appreciation of "the press—the mighty lever that moves the world."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, at Portsmouth.

S. W. MASON,

THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR.

President Pierce spent Sunday in Andover, with his brother-in-law, Hon. John Aiken. In the morning he attended divine service in the chapel of the Theological Seminary, and heard a sermon from Rev. Professor Park. Immediately after the service he was greeted by the professors in the Institution, Professor Stowe taking the lead in the salutations.

The President arrived at Concord on Monday morning, from Andover, and took lodgings at the Eagle Hotel. He rode out afterwards, with Gen. Anderson of Tennessee; visiting some old friends, and the cemetery where his two sons were buried.—That evening he held a levee at the hotel which was attended by a large number of ladies and gentleman, and the meeting of the President with his old neighbors and friends was a hearty one. The Concord Brass Band voluntarily turned out and serenaded him.

On Tuesday morning, Matthew Hale Smith, Esq., of New York, with the Committee, bearing an invitation to the President to visit that city, were introduced to him. The President gratefully replied to their pressing invitation, that a pressure of public business would prevent a visit to that city. During Tuesday he visited the farm of Mr. Jacob Hoyt, which lies on the eastern side of the river Merrimac, and about three miles to the north of Concord. The land embraces 250 acres, and is beautifully situated, and physically capable, with the least possible labor and expense, to make a model farm. Rumor has it that a purchase has been decided on.

On Wednesday he visited Portsmouth—of which we have already given an account; and in our local column will be found an account of his embarking on board the U. S. Steamer Wabash, on Thursday, and his departure for Washington.

SENATOR SUMNER.—The state of Mr. Sumner's health will not admit of his making any public speeches during the present political campaign. On his return to Boston in a few weeks, he will be honored by a grand reception at the Music Hall, and that it will be of the most cordial kind there can be no doubt. His friends will not permit him to make any address on the occasion, his presence being all they desire. The precise character of the ovation and the plan of proceedings have not yet been determined on, but the arrangements are in charge of a committee who intend that the affair shall be the grandest of the kind ever attempted in Boston.

☞ The Salem Register of Thursday occupies a column or two in narrating the events of the Manchester Veterans' visit to that city, on Wednesday, on their way home from Portsmouth. They were received in a speech by the Mayor; and enjoyed a very rich dinner, and no less sumptuous literary feast, at the Essex House. Speeches were made by Mayor Messervy, Hon. Ashael Huntington, Edward Landor, Esq., Col. C. E. Potter, and others. The Veterans returned home on Wednesday afternoon.

☞ Mr. Wm. H. Allen, of Machias, Me., was instantly killed on Wednesday last, by the accidental discharge of a gun. He was returning from a hunting excursion, and in changing his gun from one shoulder to the other, the hammer caught, and the rifle was discharged, the ball passing through his head.

Why are washerwomen, busily engaged, like Adam and Eve in Paradise? Because they are so-apy.

UNITED STATES SHIP VANDALIA.

The U. S. Ship Vandalia, the rear-guard of the Japan squadron, recently arrived, and now lying at this Naval Station, was absent from the United States three years and seven months, during which she sailed 54,000 miles and visited the following places, viz.:—

Rio de Janeiro; Miew bay and Angier, island of Java; Singapore, twice; Whampoa, three times; Hong Kong, seven times; Shanghai, Fuchau, and Amoy; Napa, island of Lew Chew; Kanagawa, Yokohama, Uraga, Simoda twice, and Hakodadi, in Japan; the island of Suam, one of the Ladrone group in the Pacific; Manila; and Jamestown, island of St. Helena.

She has been emphatically the working ship of the squadron. Nine months was the longest consecutive period she remained at any one port, and that was at Shanghai. She was present at the bombardment, assault, and capture of that celebrated city, and, during the whole of her stay there, maintained on shore a guard of seamen and marines, to preserve the neutrality of the foreign settlement, and protect the persons and property of American residents from being injured in the struggle then waging between the Chinese imperialists and insurgents.

In the bay of Jeddo, she was actively employed in the survey of that noble sheet of water, and was selected to convey the commissioners to Uraga, where the preliminaries of negotiation were arranged.

This ship also assisted to exterminate the hordes of pirates that infest the Chinese waters. Upon one occasion, while lying at anchor, becalmed, in the delta of Pearl river, near Hong Kong, some of these miscreants were seen boarding and plundering trading junks, almost within range of her broadside. Three boats were instantly lowered, and manned by a party of seamen and marines, under the command of Lieut. John Walcutt who went in pursuit. The pirates, laden with booty, took to an island about two miles distant, where they ensconced themselves behind some precipitous rocks, and kept up a continuous fire upon the advancing boats. The Vandalias dashed on through a shower of grape and musket balls, landed, scaled the rocks, routed out the nest of rascals, and killed and wounded an unknown number, whereupon the rest escaped to the jungle. The work of destruction was then completed by burning their junks and houses in the vicinity. Two prisoners were taken, who were afterwards delivered to the Chinese authorities. In this gallant affair, Lieut. Walcut, had only one man killed and one wounded.

The Vandalia had also the honor of transporting His Excellency, Peter Parker, United States minister, from Hong Kong to Macao, and from Macao to Whampoa, from which place, accompanied by a suite of officers, and by the seamen and marines in the boats of the ships, he was escorted to Canton. In consequence of being detained so long upon the East India station, she had a great deal of sickness. Three of her officers were invalided and sent home, and others have been detached and exchanged, so that very few of the original number remain. Nineteen of the crew have died, including six by casualites, in a complement of two hundred; a small number, considering their exposure, the great length of the cruise, and the unhealthiness of the climate. Annexed is a list of her officers:—

Commander, T. R. Rootes.
Lieutenants, A. Barbot, G. V. Denniston, E. F. Gray.
1st Lieut. of Marines, J. Read.
Purser, J. K. Harwood.
Acting Surgeon, B. Vreeland.
Captain's Clerk, N. B. Adams.
Master's Mates, G. A. Ashbury, G. L. Wheeler, C. Sloan.
Boatswain, E. B. Bell.
Gunner, T. R. Wilson.
Carpenter, T. V. Butt.
Sail-maker, W. S. L. Brayton.

☞ Those who read the account of the the heroic efforts of Mrs. Chalmers to save her eight children, at the time of the burning of the steamer Niagara, will rejoice to learn that four of them were saved.

☞ The Newburyport Herald says that a fine black looking fellow, of good size, who was worth full five dollars a pound, drifted away from his master at Mobile a short time since, and was landed in that county, whence he took a near departure northward on Saturday morning. He is in Canada before this.

CASE OF CONSCIENCE.—A gentleman in Salem, Mass., from whom, more than a year ago, several articles of wearing apparel were taken, while hanging out to dry; found them all restored at his city mansion, one night last week, apparently in the same condition as when they were conveyed away. "Better late than never," says the Register.

LOCAL.

THE PRESIDENT'S DEPARTURE.

The President and suite, accompanied by the Mayor and several of the President's personal friends, were waited upon by Com. Paulding of the steam frigate Wabash, and left the landing at the foot of Daniel st. at about half past 10 o'clock, Thursday morning. The Commodore's boat conveyed the President to the frigate. While the President was passing the Navy Yard, a salute was fired, and on arriving near the Wabash, the yards and rigging were fully manned, and salutes were exchanged between Fort Constitution and the frigate. When the President stepped on board, nine cheers were given by the men on the yards. The reception was very brilliant and imposing.

A collation was then served up by the Commodore to the distinguished party, after which the President carefully inspected the ship, and expressed himself much pleased with her appearance. The Mayor and the gentlemen who accompanied the President on board, then paid their respects to his Excellency, and returned to the city, highly gratified with their visit.

The Wabash weighed anchor and set sail about 5 o'clock P. M. She was heartily cheered by a large number of people who had collected on and about Fort Constitution to witness her departure. The cheers were responded to by the sailors from the rigging of the frigate, and salutes were exchanged between the Fort and the frigate. The President expressed much gratitude at his reception here, which indeed has been a cordial one, and doubtless agreeable to all parties.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.

PORTSMOUTH, Thursday, Oct. 8.

In the case United States vs. Charles W. Cutter et als., Judge Curtis delivered an opinion against the defendants.

Central Bridge vs. Norcross was on trial Thursday afternoon.

☞ The Great Falls Cornet Band furnished the music for the Buchanan Guards in their escort of the President on Wednesday. In the evening the Band serenaded the family of Mr. Pettigrew, Esq.; and were invited to the bountiful hospitalities of that gentleman's house.

☞ In addition to the robberies in this city, on Monday, which we mentioned, we are informed that the house of Meshach B. Trundy, on Deer street, was also entered about the same time with the others, and silver spoons and other articles stolen.

The men-of-war here, and the crowd at the Celebration, attracted a large lot of scoundrels from abroad, and our citizens would do well to excercise a little caution.

☞ The store of Messrs. Raynes & Neil, in Market street, should have been named in our list of Decorations for the Centennial Celebration. The building was profusely and very handsomely dressed, with gay flags, streamers, bunting, &c., evincing good taste as well as commendable public spirit.

☞ The Weekly Chronicle & Phenix for Saturday, Oct. 11th, contains, among other good things, a full report of the Printing Centennial Celebration. Copies may be obtained at our office this morning. $1 per year—single copies 3 cents.

☞ The crew of the Vandalia have not been paid off, as yet; but many of them, we believe, have taken lodgings ashore.—The jolly jack-tors are constantly seen in our streets—and one of them appeared on in blue satin pants on Thursday afternoon.

☞ A vote in the cars from Portsmouth for Concord, on Thursday, resulted as follows: Fremont 189, Buchanan 90, Fillmore 3, undecided 7.

☞ R. B. Marsh has opened a new Periodical and Newspaper Depot in the City Sales Rooms of Geo. W. Towle, No. 3 Congress Block. His advertisement, with others, we are unable to give to-day.

☞ The Newburyport Five Cent Savings Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent. Its deposits now amount to $70,000. Why can't we have one here?

☞ Rev. J. Eaton, late pastor of the Free street Baptist church in Portland Me., died in that city, Sept. 27th. He was born in Weare, N. H., in June, 1810 and in early life was apprenticed to the business of printing.

☞ John Hawkins, one of the original Washingtonians, lectured in Exeter last week.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE NIAGARA.

Steamer Niagara, from Liverpool Sept 27th, arrived at Halifax Oct. 8th.

Steamer Ericsson, from New York, had arrived at Liverpool.

The United States frigate Merrimac arrived at Southampton on the 25th, where she was the object of much admiration.

It is stated that the Spanish Constitution had been promulgated: that an Anglo-French fleet is really destined for the Bay of Naples; that Russia remains firm in her intention to retain the Isle of Serpents; and that the British fleet remained in the Black Sea—all of which created anxiety and depressed the funds.

Italian affairs have continued to excite attention, but beyond the intention to send a fleet to Naples, nothing definite had transpired—the Anglo-French ultimatum being retained a few days in Paris, to allow opportunity for the Neapolitan government to make the required concessions.—The contemplated expedition is of formidable character. Eight steamers are provisioning at Spithead; British auxiliary steamers are ready to sail. The expedition is said to be very unpopular in France.—Sardinia takes part in the expedition, and will send ships for the protection of the Sardinians in Naples.

A Vienna letter states that the English and French ministers had notified Austria of the intended expedition against Naples, to which the Vienna cabinet opposes no obstacles. This, however, is doubtful.

Britain.—Lord Hardinge, late Commander-in-Chief, is dead—aged 71.

Mr. Dallas, as the guest of E. Bulwer Lytton, dined with the Heates Agricultural Society, and made a speech in response to the sentiment—"Lasting concord between America and England."

By the treaty between Great Britain and Siam, British subjects may trade freely with all ports of Siam, but may reside only at Bangkok.

France.—The Emperor and family are making the most of rural enjoyments at Biarritz, including bull-fights.

The Bank of France has raised the rate of interest to 6 per cent.

The Paris correspondent of the London Times alludes to the report of its being the intention of the United States to form an alliance with those European powers who may be disposed to adopt as an article, the immunity of merchant vessels and merchandize from capture, even by men-of-war.

Spain.—The Espano announces that the Council of Ministers, on the entreaty of the Queen, had stopped the sale of Church property; consequently the Ministerial crisis had ceased.

Portugal.—By order of the Lisbon Board of Health, three Brazillian ships were sunk at quarrantine, because infected by yellow fever. The cholera at Lisbon is declining.

Italy.—The United States ships Congress, Constitution and Susquehanna, were at Palermo 18th, and would leave in a fortnight for Genoa.

Switzerland.—Berlin letters state that Napoleon has entered into communication with the Swiss Federal government respecting affairs at Neufchatel. Napoleon leans towards the Russian side of the qestion.

Prussia.—The Bank of Prussia has raised its rate of discount to 6 per cent, the maximum allowed by law.

A special meeting of the Cabinet was held to consider the question of the Danish Sound Dues. The decision is said to be in favor of the capitalization, but the price asked by Denmark is to high.

NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL FAIR.—Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—It is estimated that 50,000 persons visited the National Agricultural Fair to-day. $7000 was taken for single tickets. Among the visitors were Henry Wilson of Massachusetts and G. W. P. Custis of Virginia. The latter made an excellent address at the dinner. The great scene of attraction was the race course, where 8000 persons filled the stands. The trot was for horses that had never run for money. Nine were entered for the race, and the beet time made was 242. The winner was given a premium of $250.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Bark Panchita was seized this afternoon off Sandy Hook by Capt. Faunce, of the revenue cutter Washington, on suspicion of being a slaver. As the Washington neared the Panchita, the supercargo of the latter threw her papers overboard, but they were recovered and disclosed full evidence of the illegality of her voyage. She was brought to this city and anchored off the Navy Yard.

PORTLAND, Oct. 7.—The large building corner of Union Wharf and Fore street, owned by Capt. Thos. McLellan, and occupied by I. Grafham as a steam grist mill, and J. Grant as a manufactory of spices, was burned at 5 o'clock this morning. Insured for about $10,000.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with U.S. Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,
No. 76 State st. oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof by him within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that more is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procural of patents in this and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.—Patents secured in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability. R. H. EDDY.
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in advising inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and worthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1856.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

TREMONT MILLS.

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Cocoans, Spices, &c.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.
(Sign of the Chinaman grinding coffee,)
141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar, Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give consumers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1.00
5 lb. Oolong "	1.75	5 lb. Java "	1.00
5 lb. Y. Hyson "	2.25	3 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 25 cents per pound, and it is warrented to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. While being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

MUSICAL ISTRUMENTS AT THE MECHANICS' FAIR, BOSTON.—To a person whose soul is intuned to a love of the "divine art," the late Fair gave great opportunity for the enjoyment of its feelings in the manifold performances by our resident dilletanti and professional artists from abroad upon the various instruments exhibited. The pianofortes show—being of itself an independent, though really an auxiliary exhibition—was, as a matter of course, a point to which musically-inclined parties bent their steps with pleasing anticipations. The many pianos on exhibition and the many ready hands to play upon them, afforded good opportunity for judgment in relation to merits both of instruments and performers. Perhaps no better exemplification of the extreme beauty of a piano performance occurred during the Fair than that of which we were a pleased listener on Wednesday evening.

Amid the din surrounding us, we were attracted to one corner of the room, and making our way through the crowd, found the performer none other than the justly celebrated Satter, under whose magic touch those delightful strains are always produced which enraptured the listening crowd. Mr. Satter, we learn, still continues a resident of our city, and intends giving first class instruction to advanced pupils. They will be indeed fortunate in such a preceptor. But the piano was an object of curiosity, quite as much so to connoiseurs as the performance was to amateurs. It was a new improvement upon the Grand Piano recently made by Messrs. Hallett, Davis & Co. It is singular that an improvement of such great value to the production of tone had not been discovered earlier. This improvement consists of several round steel bars, gradually swelling from the ends to the centre, placed over the wires, and united at the ends to a bell metal plate. The plate gives a sweet, bell-like sound to the tone, which is again increased in volume and vibration by the bars or stretchers.

To cap the whole, a pliable and ready action, which combines all the qualities of the best action in the world, is added. We had noticed the instrument in connection with a great many others, without discovering its quality, as there was no extraneous ornament to attract the attention of the passers by, all being plain, grand and tangible; the sound and substance existing, ornamentation is a simple matter, only guided by taste and easily applied.

As an observer, the exhibition and inspection of this truly great instrument, gave one of the greatest delights of the whole Fair, and it is but an act of jtstice to merit to record it for the benefit of the world.—Boston Transcript.

INDEPENDENCE.—A correspondent having written a letter to that sturdy independent, Rev. Thos. Whittemore of the Boston Trumpet, blowing him up for his earnest political action and writings, he replies:

We were never more excited in regard to the condition of our country than we are at the present day; but we keep saying, "soul, keep cool, keep cool;" and the soul answers, "I shall burst if I do not speak." If any party brawler comes to us, and threatens, because we will not go for his candidate, to stop the paper, let him stop it. If he seeks to take vengeance, we will pitch all our cases of type at him, one after another, and then the press itself, after which we think he will be content, not to meddle with the press any more. While we will resist any attempt to muzzle us, we still will not forget the true character of the Trumpet, and the purpose for which it was established. Let the pulpit and the press be free. The editor must not resign his independence.

CRIME FOR THREE MONTHS.—The Chief of Police for Boston reports that during the quarter the whole number of arrests was 5053, of which number 2628 were committed; 4011 were males and 1042 females; 4215 were foreigners, 838 Americans; 1039 non-residence, and 852 minors. The amount of property reported as stolen, is $22,477,77, and that as lost $4908; amount of do. recovered by the police, $15,838 03; amount of fines and costs imposed by the courts, $6594 02. Aggregate term of imprisonment imposed by the courts, 337 years, four months.

McNALLY AT LIBERTY.—James McNally, who was arrested last fall in Toronto, C. W., charged with the murder of Mr. Charles S. Smith, in Haymarket square, Boston, on the 16th of May, 1851, and tried a few months since in the Supreme Judicial Court for that crime, (the jury not being able to agree upon a verdict,) was admitted to bail on Saturday last, and is now at liberty.

The Fillmore men of Pennsylvania, have recently proposed to coalesce with the Republicans, if they could have five of the electors. It is understood that the Republicans will decline, feeling strong enough to carry a State that the Democaats claim by from ten to forty thousand majority, without any such extraneous aid.—Newburyport Herald.

The Cincinnati Fire Department has under consideration, and will shortly submit to a public trial, a newly invented hose, manufactured in France. It consists of hemp so tightly woven as to be impervious to water, and is recommended as being sufficiently strong and much tighter than the hose made of rivetted leather.

FIRST RAILROAD RIDE.—A venerable gentleman, over eighty-one years of age, Capt. David Cottle, went off in the steamboat on Friday, and for the first time in his life saw a railroad, and rode in the cars for a short distance.—Nantucket Inquirer.

In a case of sudden death, recently, in Warren county, Mississippi, a coroner,s inquest was held, and the verdict was that, "the deceased died by the will of God, or some other disease unknown to the Jury."

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1856.

The reception of Mr. George Peabody the great London banker, at Danvers, Thursday, was a brilliant affair. Speeches were made by Messrs, Everett, Davis, Abbott, Peabody, and Daniels. Letters from Messrs. Choate and Winthrop bear handsome tribute to Mr. Peabody. Over 1600 guests were seated at the dinner table. The procession was over two miles in length and contained over 5000 persons.

FIRES IN DEERFIELD, &c.—INCENDIARIES ABROAD.—On Wednesday 1st inst., a barn containing a quantity of hay, &c., belonging to Timothy Hildreth, Esq., Deerfield, was burned to ashes. Immediately after, another barn of Mr. Hildreth, 1-8 of a mile from the first, containing the entire production of a large farm, was also burned, with large sheds and wood-houses on the west. Mr. H. was badly scorched in his endeavors to save a valuable horse he had a moment before put into his barn.

A young man has been arrested on suspicion of firing them.

Rumor is current that the large two story dwelling-house of Joseph Bean, in Candia, situated in the easterly part, and known as the Island, has also been destroyed in the same way. There is much excitement in the vicinity.

The barn of Mr. James Freeland, in Hopkinton, was set on fire and burned about midnight, on Sunday night, with four cows, a yoke of oxen, and a horse, together with all the hay, &c. of the farm. The fire is supposed to have been set by an Irishman, formerly employed by Mr. Freeland.

☞ Mrs. Eliza Littlefield, aged 18 years, was burnt to death at Rockport, last week. She had prepared some shavings for kindling a fire, and after pouring some fluid on them, retaining the can in one hand while she lit a match with the other, to set fire to the shavings. The fire at once communicated to the can, bursting it and throwing its contents upon her and setting fire to her clothes. She immediately ran into the street, but before her clothes could be pulled from her she was so badly burned that she died the same night.

TREMENDOUS FLOOD.—The freshet on the Ausable river, in Essex County, N. Y., on the 30th ult., was of a most disastrous nature. The river reached a greater height than ever before known. Bridges, dams, saw-mills, and buildings and work-shops of all kinds on the banks of the river, have either been swept away or seriously injured. The bodies of nine persons who perished in the flood had been recovered, and it was believed that others would be found.

☞ A large Whig Ratification Meeting was held at Faneuil Hall, Boston, Wednesday night. J. Thomas Stevenson, Esq., presided, and made the opening address. He was followed by Hon. George Lunt, Hon. Otis P. Lord of Salem, and Hon. George S. Hillard of Boston.

Dr. J. T. Folsom of Gloucester on the same day was severely burned about the forehead and face by the explosion of an alcohol lamp. He was engaged at the time in soldering a set of teeth.

☞ In Watertown, Mass., Thursday, Mr. William Wason, a retired Californian, and a hired man were riding through Waltham, the horse took fright; and in their endeavors to restrain his speed, the dasher broke, precipitating Mr. W. forcibly to the ground, and causing his death.

☞ Peter C. Brooks, Jr. Esq., is about rearing an elegant and costly mansion in West Medford, the house and out buildings, and grounds, to cost $200,000.

☞ The great trotting match between Flora Temple and Lancet came off on the 8th, over the Fashion Course, L. I. Flora was the winner. Time—2.30¼—2.34—2.31.

☞ The Atlantic Bank, Boston, is endeavoring to recover $2800 from the Merchants' Bank, which Thomas W. Hooper—whose tragical death created great excitement in Boston—when in the employ of the Merchants' Bank, obtained from the Atlantic Bank, by which his cash account was made good.

☞ Yankee Addams's Dramatic Company is drawing full houses at Lancaster Hall, Portland.

A BRAVE MAN.—One who isn't afraid to wear old clothes until he is able to pay for new.

A CAT WITH A DOG'S HEAD.—A few days ago a man who had been a laborer on the Petersburgh and Norfolk railroad, brought to town in a basket a half grown cat with a perfect dog's head on it. He said he bought it of a negro down the line for a dollar and an old coat, and intended selling it at the show in Philadelphia. He modestly asked us $50 for the brute.

The cat part of it was brown and grey, tail long, and claws perfect; the dog part was a head resembling closely that of a small Blenheim spaniel with fine round brown eyes and long glossy hanging ears deeply fringed. The owner said it barked just like a dog, and had very little of the cat nature in it, except its timidity. A gentleman offered the owner $12 for it, but the other smiled, winked and went off with his bow—wow—wow.—Petersburgh (Va.) Democrat.

HIGH POSTED BEDSTEAD.—In Charlestown, on Sunday night, a watchman on a wharf heard a man snoring very loud, and after a lengthy search, found a drunken Irishman, named Patrick O'Brien, of East Boston, lying upon his back, on the top of the gate to the wharf, with his legs crossed very comfortably. The gate is about fifteen feet high and eight inches broad at the top. How to get him down seemed to puzzle the worthy guardian of the night; but finally a ladder was procured, and as he was ascending, the Irishman rolled over and fell to the ground. When taken up he was thought to be dead, and was conveyed to the lock-up, where a friend of his appeared, and after considerable difficulty he was brought to his senses, and, suddenly jumping up, wanted to fight all present. He was allowed to depart in charge of his friend.—Adv.

A SEVERE PUNISHMENT.—As Mr. W. Henry Palmer, the eminent pianist, was quietly returning from his business late last evening, crossing F and Tenth streets, two cowardly scoundrels set a large fierce dog at him. As the beast flew at him, Mr. Palmer, with great dexterity and presence of mind, caught the dog by the mouth, one hand in the upper and the other in the lower jaw, and, in a moment, literally tore the lower jaw out of its socket. Then turning upon the scoundrels, who were preparing to attack him, Mr. Palmer struck the nearest a left handed blow in the face, and a valuable diamond ring catching in the flesh, cut the fellow's cheek open from his eye to his chin. The other ruffian had seen enough and bolted, but Mr. P. was the swifest runner, and in less time than it takes to write it, he was caught, and received as sound a thrashing as he could well get. We are glad to learn that Mr. Palmer was not injured.—Washington Star.

IMPORTANT TO GENTLEMEN.—Relief is at hand for the "fellers." The Buffalo Advertiser says:

"Young gentlemen given to promenading with young ladies, now wear a light strip of steel stitched in the outer seam of their pantaloons, from the knee down. This prevents entirely the excoriation of the skin from the friction of ladies' hoops. Without such protection, a walk of a mile or so, arm in arm, is sufficient to "establish a raw on the masculine leg." One of our boys proposes as a remedy that the male carry around with him, on his arm, a large hoop, and when it is necessary to become linked to the woman, to do so by having her take hold of the opposite side of the hoop. This will allow the couple to come within speaking distance of one another, and save the cavalier from an excoriation."

Among a crowd of seventy-eight propshakers, arrested the other night, the names of John C. Fremont, William L. Dayton, and Thomas Jefferson, were given to the police. Our friend Old Roger remarked to the Brahmin that he was astonished none gave the name of Julius Cæsar, as he was supposed to have been one of the earliest shakers. "How so?" asked the Brahmin, with his note book in his hand. "Because we read," said he, "in Shakespeare, 'that this god did shake.'" The Brahmin laughed, but those who had heard the same joke several times before, only smiled faintly.—Boston Gazette.

"I should have thought," said old Beeswax, at our elbow, as he read the above from the Gazette, "that the keeper of the house would have passed himself off as the Merchant of Venice." "Why so?" said we. "Because," said the old heathen, "Old Shylock says, 'you take my house when you do take the prop that doth sustain my house.'" Beeswax then went out to church, but chuckled all service time over his supposed joke.—Boston Chron.

A NEW TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.—Some ten or a dozen men, employed about Jefferson Market, who have been more or less addicted to bibulous habits, took it into their heads a few days ago to "knock off." To this end they went before Justice Davison, who allowed them to make oath that they would abstain from using intoxicating beverages during the next six months. Thus far they have religiously kept their pledges, and are known as Judge Davison's Temperance Society. Every day, about 10 o'clock, they march in single file into an adjoining bar-room and call for "lemon sods all round," much to the amusement of the less sober customers.—New York Post.

The General Assembly of Vermont convened at Montpelier Thursday. The vote for Speaker stood Republican 203, Democrat 16.

F. P. Blair, Jr., representative elect from the St Louis (Mo.) district, is announced to speak at a Republican meeting in Illinois.

IT MUST COME TO PROHIBITION!

[The following is one of the songs which were sung at the great Maine Law Fete at Elvaston Castle, England, on the 5th of August last. Thousands of men and women in every State and Province on this side of the Atlantic join our British brethren in the chorus:—]

Hark! the world is hoarse with wailing,
Lamentation, unavailing;
For to-day is heaped with sorrow,
And there's more to come to-morrow.

CHORUS.

Prohibition! prohibition!
Oh! 'tis worth all repetition;
Nought will cure our sad condition,
Short of Maine-Law prohibition.

Oh! thou Earth, and thou great Heaven,
Is no means of rescue given?
Yes, there is on one condition—
Yes, there is with prohibition.
Prohibition, &c.

Have we efforts left untried,
Schemes devised and not applied?
Regulation and restriction?—
Everything but interdiction.
Prohibition, &c.

Talk no more of mere restriction,
Do not trifle with conviction;
We may fence with our position,
It must come to prohibition.
Prohibition, &c.

STILL THEY COME.—Mr. Ticknor, solicitor for Sullivan county, and a prominent officer in the Claremont Fremont Club, has come out for Buchanan.

Hon. Benj. M. Farley, of Hollis, the oldest and most distinguished lawyer of the Hillsboro' bar, for many years one of the very wheel-horses of the Whig party in Hillsboro' county, has come out in an able letter in favor of Buchanan.—Concord (N. H.) Standard.

A Presbyterian in the N. Y. Evangelist impugns the orthodoxy of Andover Mass., and says with evident disgust that the students there seem to think that 'inherent personal righteousness is the only ground of acceptance with God,' 'imputed righteousness' not being 'in good odor.'

FREMONT,
THE MUSTANG CANDIDATE.

If Col. Fremont had as many friends as the Mustang Liniment, the opposition could not draw a corporal's guard. Mr. Fremont remarked in his dispatches to President Fillmore, while transporting horses and cattle over the plains of Mexico, "That if the Government would send him on a liberal supply of Mustang Liniment, it would save 25 per cent. of his losses." This is very important for all Farmers and Liverymen to know. The Mustang Liniment is a wonderful article for man or beast. It should always be used for Sores, Swellings, Stiff Joints, Burns, Bruises, Rheumatic Pains, &c., and for Galls, Sprains, Spavins, Ringbone, &c., upon horses.—BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. The Mustang is sold by all respectable dealers everywhere.

WOOD'S HAIR DYE.—This admirable article is rapidly improving the hair. No article of a similar kind, now before the public, enjoys a better reputation as a restorative and invigorating hair tonic. Its peculiar chemical qualities have a beneficial effect upon the growth and character of the hair, giving a silky and glossy texture to that which was formerly of a coarse and dry nature. It has, also, we understand, a tendency to preserve the youthful color of the hair, and destroying or counteracting the effects of age. With such recommendations in its favor, we hardly perceive how any lady or gentleman should be without so valuable an adjunct to their toilet. The article may be had of the Druggists throughout the country.—[Missouri Democrat.

HAYDEN'S IMPROVED VEGETABLE PURGATIVE PILLS.
NOTICES FROM THE PRESS.

From the Boston Times, Aug. 31, 1848.

Dr. Hayden's Improved Vegetable Purgative Pills are creating a most extraordinay excitement in the community. We have heard of some remarkable cures performed simply by the use of these pills alone. They are worthy of a trial.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

☞ DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS is the best Medicine ever used, for Summer Complaints. It has been more liberally patronized than any other ever established in this country. It is the same Richardson's Bitters which has rescued so many invalids to health throughout New England during the past thirty years.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

Many years ago, Doctor Burleigh Smart, of Kennebunk, Me., discovered that a simple article never before used as a medicine, was a never failing cure for coughs of every description, and an excellent blood purifier. By its use in his private practice, he acquired the reputation of being the best physician in New England, for all diseases of the lungs. After his death, Messrs. Shaw & Clark of Biddeford, Me., obtained a Copy Right from Government, for its exclusive manufacture, and now have it carefully prepared strictly according to the original recipe. There is no cough that it will not cure, unless the patient is past all human aid before commencing its use! It is called "Doctor Burleigh Smart's Cough Medicine," and is for sale by all apothecaries. au27 TuThs&S 6m.

PREMIUMS from twenty five to One Thousand Dollars, amounting, in the aggregate, to Eight Thousand Dollars, have been offered, open for competition to horses from all parts of the Union, as well as the Canadas

A Committee composed of citizens of Boston and vicinity, has been appointed, to co-operate with the officers of the Society in perfecting the arrangements for the Exhibition. A large fund has been guarranteed, to meet expenses. This material aid, taken in connexion with the excellence of the location, (being the same grounds occupied last year by the U. S. Agricultural Society,) and the large amount of premiums offered induces the expectation that this Exhibition will be of a superior character.

Seats for six thousand persons have been prepared, also a saloon, with female attendants, for the accommodation of ladies

Ample provision for the accommodation of four hundred horses has been prepared upon the grounds.

Favorable arrangements with the various railroads, for the transportation of stock, are in progress, the terms of which will be given on application at the Office.

The following horses will be upon the ground, and have signified their intention to enter and contend for premiums offered for speed, viz: Abram Drew, Khan Allen Flora Temple, Lancet, Tacony, Grey Eddy, Pocahontas, and others of well known reputation

The Premium List, with the Regulations and Programme of the Exhibition will be furnished on application to the Secretary at Boston.

NEW ROUTE FROM PORTSMOUTH TO DOVER. The new route to Portsmouth, or rather the old route over Dover Neck and Knight's Ferry, was re-opened on Monday last, on which occasion a large number of Dover citizens availed themselves of it to visit the Celebration at Portsmouth. The road over the Neck, passing by the well cultivated farms which have been occupied by the early settlers and their descendants for more than two hundred years, is one of the easiest and best of any in this part of the State, and with the large and commodious steam ferry boat which has been put upon the river, brings Dover and Portsmouth within little more than one hour's drive of each other. We hope it will be improved by the citizens of both places to renew that business intercourse and acquaintance which has been almost entirely broken off of late years, in consequence of the difficulty of communication.—Enquirer.

☞ It will be seen, at the Mechanics' Lyceum the popular Reading of Mrs. Barrow is to constitute the first evening's entertainment, on the 21st inst.; and on the succeeding Tuesday evening, (28th) Prof. Huntington is to give that highly interesting lecture he delivered before the Boston Mechanics' Association on the 24th ult.—To many persons these two entertainments will be worth the price of a ticket for the Course.

☞ We see it stated that W. Gilmore Simms, the distinguished novelist, is coming North this fall, and during the winter will deliver a series of lectures in many of our principal cities. We understand that the Portsmouth Mercantile Library Association have applied to secure his early services for their course, and we heartily wish they may succeed. Mr. Simms is unquestionably one of the most talented and successful of living American novelists—one who not unworthily wears the mantle of Cooper, and whose historical tales have thrown much new light upon the revolutionary history of the South. There are hundreds in this quarter who have perused his works who will be glad to hear him in the lecture room.

RIDES AS ARE RIDES.—A young gallant informs us that as a ricketty old "family carriage" containing a quartet of charming young ladies, was turning into Cabot street, a day or two since, the old vehicle rolled over—piling the riders down on one side of the top in a heap. The old horse was glad enough of an excuse for stopping, and our hero equally glad of a chance to assist the ladies out. No serious damage was done,—no bones being broken, unless, perchance, an unfortunate whalebone or two.

Another party of three ladies with a gentleman, on their return from visiting the Navy Yary, the other day; were brought to a halt, by the removal of the planking of Noble's Island Bridge, during their absence. The stabling of their horse in a barn on the Island, and the tottering of the ladies across on the stringers of the bridge, made as much fun for outsiders as for the parties concerned.

A STRAW WHICH CHOKES.—A large number of passengers were in the up train from Portsmouth for Concord, on Thursday. Among them were Hon. G. W. Kittredge of Newmarket, and an ex-Mayor of this city, who relishes a good joke at anybody's expense. Addressing the Democratic ex-Member of Congress, the latter proposed to take a vote of the passengers for President—to which Mr. K. agreed, saying that unlike the votes as commonly taken among travellers, who were nearly all black Republicans, while the Democrats were at work—this would be about the fair thing, as all parties were going to the Fair. The vote resulted: Fremont 185, Buchanan 90, Fillmore 3, undecided 7.

A well informed friend in the centre of the State, assured us the other day that New Hampshire would give ten thousand majority for Fremont! After this car vote, our informant may be considered a sane man.

☞ Among the distinguished literary men present at the Printing Centennial Celebration, on Monday, we accidently omitted to mention Matthew Hale Smith, Esq., formerly connected with the Boston Chronicle, as editor. He was on his way to Concord, to tender to President Pierce the invitation of the authorities of New York, for him to visit that city. He entered the Temple and took a seat, just before Dr. Peabody made an allusion, by no means complimentary, to his father, Elder Elias Smith, late of this city.

The editor of the Salem Register, who was present, relates the story as follows.

An amusing incident excited a smile from those who could see the application of one passage in Dr. Peabody's address. Said the orator, with no little emphasis:

"This town can claim the distinction of having issued the first religious newspaper in the country, and I am inclined to think, in the world. The editor was none other than that Divine of Protean reputation, whom at least as many sects could claim as there were cities that contended for the honor of Homer's birth—ELIAS SMITH. The paper has not proved as fickle as its founder, but, with its name but slightly modified and its theological position unchanged, it is now printed in Newburyport, as the organ of the Christian denomination."

The co incidence that excited the smile was the fact, (of which probably the orator and the larger portion of the audience was not aware,) that Rev. Matthew Hale Smith, Esq., the son of Elias Smith, and of scarcely less "Protean reputation" than his father, was seated directly in front of the speaker, and but a few feet from him. Matthew's own risibles were not proof against the ludicrous infection, especially as the corps of reporters were careful to indicate by significant glances that they appreciated the point of the joke.

LAUNCH.—A magnificent medium clipper ship of 1100 tons, called the 'Eagle Speed,' will be launched from the ship yard of John Yeaton, at Badger's Island, on Tuesday next, at 12 o'clock. She is owned by Messrs. William Jones & Son and Richard Jenness, and is a noble specimen of naval architecture.

J. W. MOSES would call the attention of his friends, customers, and the Public in general to the fact, that he has in his store, at No. 8 Market street, a good assortment of Broadcloths, Pilot and Beaver Cloths, plain and fancy Doeskins and Cassimeres, Black and fancy Velvets, plain and figured Satins and Grenadin Vestings, &c., which he will make to order or sell either with or without cutting or making, at fair prices.

He has a large assortment of furnishing Goods, consisting of Shirts, Collars, Cravats, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs, Under-Shirts and Drawers, &c., &c.

All Garments made by him warranted to be as good as can be had in this city. The above are new Goods, having been selected with care from large Stocks in Boston, and just received. September 26. is3w

From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate, their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousan Flowers." It will remove tan, pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and yoseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," run the beard well and it will make a beautiful soft lather, much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only 50 cents.

H. R. COBURN'S
OIL WORKS,
Established, 1842.
H. R. COBURN'S TALLOW OIL.
This Oil has qualities peculiar to itself alone; its great body and substance giving it a lasting and wearing power, that with a single exception, (sperm oil,) is unequalled. Its high lubricating power, being so rich in unctuous matter, that compared with most oils, it is like cream to the skim milk. Entire absence of gummy matter, keeping machinery cool under any rate of speed, and the different parts thoroughly and effectually oiled.
This Oil is a great favorite with engineers, who say it is the only oil that will answer in steam cylinders. For Lighthouses, Signal Lights, Locomotive Head Lights, and the like, it will give a reliable and brilliant light, and do all that sperm oil will. The Winter Tallow Oil will stand thirty degrees Fahrenheit. When quality and price are considered, this Oil will be found at the head of the list, by those who combine effective service with strict economy. This Oil has been in constant use from one to two years, in some of the first establishments in the country, to which reference will be given.
H. R. C. manufactures Winter Lard Oil, equal to any in the market. It is made with ice, and will stand cold weather.
H. R. COBURN'S EXTRA OIL.
is made with care, from the best selected Lard only. Every additional year since its introduction, has added to its good reputation and standing, and for years it has been known as a uniform standard Oil for machinery and burning. It will stand the cold, and the attention of grocers is particularly invited to it.

Great American and Foreign Office

For Securing Patents for Inventions.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st. oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents superior to those offered inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereof within thirty days after the rejection.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that some MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE from the subscriber, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers and Drawings necessary to the procuring of patents in his and foreign countries prepared and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, or infringement of patents. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished for one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.—Patents secured in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries, through Agents of the highest respectability.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of securing their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 12, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the publishers may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give consumers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1.50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1.00
5 lb Oolong "	1.75	5 lb. Java "	.90
5 lb Y. Hyson "	2.25	5 lb. good "	1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1¼ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and are held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Coffees have our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding coffee."

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.
